illsboro a Pile of Debris.

ry Building in the Town Is Razed by a Cyclone from Northwest.

mage Wrought Is Estimated at One Hundred Thousand Dollars.

ll by a Miracle Inhabitants Escape Death, but Number Are Injured.

DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ANVILLE (Ill.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A cyclone of rific velocity struck the town llsboro, Ind., about twelve miles m Danville, at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and all but wiped it from map. The property damage will nt to nearly $100,000, according to advices received here by long ance telephone.

That hundreds were not killed a miracle as the streets of the n were crowded with Saturday pers at the time the cyclone ck.

TWO MILES WIDE.

he cyclone came from the northwest and cut a path about two miles e through the surrounding country. It leveled or damaged every ness house and residence in Hillsboro. There is not a shade tree, telephone or telegraph pole standing and g Four Railroad was placed ly out of commission. A call sent to clear away the debris was sent to Danville and a special train with a hundred men aboard was sent to the scene.

As far as can be learned, only about half a dozen persons were injured, all of them seriously.

A boy named Johnson, was blown, together with a horse he was riding, a half mile and pretty badly hurt.

HUDDLED TOGETHER.

Four children of a family named Rush, living four miles from town, were huddled in the kitchen when the storm struck. A wagon was hurled against the house, which so frightened the children that they rushed out. As they did so, the house collapsed. They escaped injury.

A man, whose name was not learned, was standing in front of his place of business in Hillsboro when an awning was driven through a plate glass window and he was badly hurt by falling glass.

There are numerous reports tonight to the effect that several persons were killed, but the last courier who came from Hillsboro at 9 o'clock said as far as he could learn, no persons had been killed.

STARVING MEN ON BOARD.

Schooner From Nome Puts In at Seattle With Twenty-five Victims of Hunger.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, Oct. 14.—The power schooner Bender Brothers from Nome, and the Kuskokwill River, passed in today at Cape Flattery disabled and with more than twenty-five people on board starving. Her gasoline exploded nine days ago when the schooner was 180 miles off the cape, severely burning her chief engineer. Capt. Louis Knaftich, owner and master of the boat, is seriously ill.

BEGUILED BY REWARD.

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 14.—Examined by detectives today, Harry Howard, one of the youthful tramps who yesterday, with his partner, James Hawkins, told the local authorities a complete and almost convincing story which implicated A. R. Holmburg, also a tramp, in the murder of the four members of the Hill family in this city on the night of June 8, made such admissions that the detectives now believe false the story of the two boys. Young Howard practically admitted they deliberately conspired to swear away the life of the Swedish sailor in order that they might obtain the $5000 reward offered for the arrest and conviction of the assassin.

CROWN CALLS ON VETERAN CHIEF TO QUELL REVOLT.

Yuan Shi Kai, Recently Banished in Disgrace, Is Again in Favor.

Imperial Edict Restores Honors to the Former Commander-in-Chief of China's Army and Navy, Appoints Him Viceroy of Hupeh and Hunan Provinces and Orders Him to Put Down the Revolution.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PEKING, Oct. 14.—The recall of Yuan Shi Kai, formerly Grand Councillor and commander-in-chief of the army and navy, who was banished from the capital some three years ago, and his appointment as Viceroy of Hu-Peh and Hunan provinces, indicates the plight of the Manchu administration. Administratively speaking, Yuan Eki Kai is their last and best card. He is known as a strong man and it was he who first organized the northern modern army. It is believed that he is the only man arond wuhom the troops will rally, but it is nucertain whether he will accept the appointment.

RUNS ON BANK.

Runs on the government and other Chinese banks have resulted in heavy transfers to foreign banks. The Chinese government is endeavoring to make emergency loans for military purposes and to pay the indemnities. Proposals for heavy loans were submitted today to banking groups of four nations, but it is not likely that these will be accepted.

The construction of the Hu Kwang railway, as well as the conclusion of the currency reform programme, will be retarded indefinitely.

The diplomatic corps had a long conference today regarding a possible attack at Wu Chang. It was decided, however, that it would be unfair to interfere and therefore, Sir John N. Jordan visited the Chinese foreign board and suggested only an avoidance of shelling the foreign concessions.

Lieut.-Col. William D. Beach of Ft. Santiago, Manila, who arrived here tonight from Hankow, reports that several troop trains were passed proceeding on their way south, but there is a growing belief here that the government will not venture an engagement with the rebels for weeks, in the hope of conciliating the masses or bribing the leaders.

RISK NO BATTLE.

It is more likely that the government will permit the revolt to destroy itself by paralyzing trade and creating increased disorders in provinces which already are sorely distressed.

The military attaches here are of the opinion that the Wu Chang forts now held by the rebels are able easily to sink the gunboats.

Lieut.-Col. Beach was to have been present at the maneuvers, which are now canceled. On his way here he traversed the Yangtse Kiang district and encountered many signs of the revolution. The missionaries, he declared, did not desire to leave Wu Chang. The American Consul at Hankow, Roger S. Greene, insisted upon their leaving.

LINE IS OPEN.

The rebels apparently have not taken over the Hankow Railway. According to Col Beach the entire line is open and the service normal except for delays owing to the crowded trains of refugees proceeding north and the troop trains proceeding south.

It is believed at the legations that the indemnity payments are bound to lapse, as the government is not receiving the customary contributions from several of the provinces. Whether the powers will foreclose on the securities, which they hold and take over the financial administration, will depend upon the prompt successes of the Manchus, an dthese are not considered likely.

The government evidently is censoring the Szechuen messages, as few details are being recivd from that quarter.

GIVE THEIR CASH TO FOSTER REPUBLIC.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Twenty thousand dollars was sent by the agents of the Young China Society in this city tonight to their brethren in the celestial empire to aid the newly proclaimed republic.

The donors, representing all classes of Chinese in this country, made their contributions anonymously, fearing that their relatives and business connections in China would feel the wrath of the Manchu dynasty should their identity become known.

Dr. Sun Yan Sen, leader of the Young China Society, who fostered the revolutionary coup from America, sent a telegram to the local leaders of the society tonight, directing them to hold a parade and a mass meeting here. His orders will be carried out tomorrow evening.

IMPERIAL WARSHIP TAKEN BY REBELS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—Cable advices from Shanghai to the local Chinese daily paper, Chung Sai Yat Po, state that the revolution has now spread through every province of China, that large numbers of troops of the imperial army are going over to the rebels and that many important cities have been captured by the revolutionary forces.

The rebels captured last night, it is stated, an imperial warship near Hankow.

The revolutionists, the informant says, occupied this morning the city of King Chow, province of Hu Peh; I-Chang, province of Sze Chuen, and Yo Chow, province of Huhan.

The provinces of Hunan, Honan and Hu Peh are said to be fully controlled by the rebels.

Wire communication with these provinces is now interrupted.

CHINESE IN HONOLULU CELEBRATE UPRISING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HONOLULU, Oct. 14.—Amid scenes of wild enthusiasm the flag of the Chinese revolutionists was raised here today in the Chinese quarter, following the publication of reports of the progress of the revolt.

A cable from China, received today by the Chinese paper here, stated that Tong Fah Lung had been elected revolutionary Governor of Hu-Peh Province.

PILES OF CORPSES SEEN IN WU CHANG.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HANKOW, Oct. 14.—Gen. Li Yuan Heng today sent a note to the foreign Consuls, stationed here, demanding the recognition of the rebel authorities as administrators of Hankow, Wu Chang and Han Yank.

A visit to Wu Chang by the Associated Press representative today disclosed corpses piled everywhere.

JAPANESE DECIDE TO KEEP HANDS OFF.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOKIO, Oct. 14.—There is reason to believe that the Tokio government will not make any move to interfere in the Chinese revolution so far as the revolutionists adequately protect Japanese citizens in the disturbed territory.

DOUBT ABOUT ROYALTY CLAIM.

TRACER OF JOHN D.'S ANCESTRY CALLED A "ROTTER."

Registrar of College of Heralds, Britain's Genealogical Institution, Brands as Doubtful Report of Alleged American Expert that Oil Magnate Is Descendant of King.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Leading genealogists here regard with amused skepticism the cabled reports from America of the carrying back to John D. Rockefeller's line to George, Duke of Clarence, and brother of Edward IV.

"There are a number of 'rotters' in America who pose as experts," says Farnham Burke, registrar of the College of Heralds. "They make genealogies by the wholesale which are unreliable. Only one authority on such questions exists—the College of Heralds, whose records have been systematically kept since 1484 and which has, besides, earlier records."

The lawyer of Davies, recognized as a leading expert on genealogy and an authority on heralds, said:

"When we get the full Rockefeller tree we can check its accuracy. The argument that Lady Susan Clinton must have married when she was 10, if the line is to be traced unbroken, proves nothing. There are records which show that some ladies married at five. Present day experience shows that it is possible for a girl of 11 to become a mother, though usually the child dies."

In the line traced for Rockefeller, Lady Susan Clinton, who is shown by the records to have married "one Humphreys of the county of Kent," is assumed to have married Col. John Humphrey of the Boston colony. It has been pointed out that to have done this Lady Susan must have been wedded when she was 10, and to have had a son when she was 11 years old.

REMANDED FROM THE STAND.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—[By A. P. Day Wire.] In the Lorimer Senatorial investigation today former Representative William C. Blair was removed from the witness stand by Senator Gamble, charged with being intoxicated. He was ordered into the custody of a sergeant-at-arms pending further orders of the committee.

DAWN OF GOLD EXPOSITION.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 14.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Today a movement was initiated looking toward the holding of a "dawn of gold" exposition in Sacramento in 1915, coincident with the San Francisco and San Diego expositions.

Responsibilities.

FIFTH SUPREME JUSTICE TO BE NAMED BY TAFT.

Demise of Harlan Causes to Arise a Situation that No President Has Been Called on to Confront Since the Days of Washington—Geography and Personal Fitness Will Determine the Choice of a Successor.

BY SUMNER CURTIS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In appointing a successor to Justice Harlan, President Taft will have named five members of the Supreme Court—a majority of the court—in addition to having appointed a Chief Justice. No other President since Washington has been confronted with such a duty and the responsibility of practically reconstructing the highest tribunal under the government in this time of tremendously important litigation affecting the industrial system of the country weighs heavily.

Not alone personal fitness, but the geography of the situation will figure in the selection of Justice Harlan's successor. Despite partisan criticism of his selections that has been made since the decision in the celebrated trust cases last spring, President Taft is more jealous of having the best judicial material for the Federal bench that of anything else, probably, within his power as executive. In appointing members of the Supreme Court he never has been moved in the slightest by political considerations. It is well known that he was set to the hardest sort of task in picking men he regarded as available and up to his standard when the last two appointments were made. It follows that there will be long deliberation before the vacancy just created is filled.

THE PRESIDENT'S DUTY.

The President's duty is peculiarly embarrassing, moreover, because Justice Harlan was the dissenting judge in the trust cases whose opinions have been most widely praised by the severer critics of the executive.

Among men in the public eye, who are regarded as available to fill the vacancy are three members of the Taft Cabinet—Atty.-Gen. Wickersham, Secretary of the Interior Fisher and Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel. Atty.-Gen. Wickersham, in the belief of many, looks favorably upon a judicial career although desirous first of completing or advancing the policies inaugurated in his present position. It is said that had he desired he could have gone on the bench at the time Justice Hughes was appointed. He now is reckoned again a strong possibility, but would be stronger if the New York circuit was unrepresented on the Supreme bench.

Secretary Walter L. Fisher is liable to come in for serious consideration for several reasons. In the first place the President has the highest regard for his legal ability and for what may be termed his progressive mindedness. He was mentioned in connection with the vacancies that existed following the death of Chief Justice Fuller and it is known to his intimate friends that before entering the Cabinet Mr. Fisher seriously considered the question of taking up a judicial career if the opportunity that has been suggested in his behalf was presented.

IN FISHER'S FAVOR.

Geographically, there would be strong reasons in Mr. Fisher's favor, the seventh judicial circuit, of which Illinois is a part, being unrepresented on the Supreme bench since the death of Chief Justice Fuller. It is not known at this writing whether Mr. Fisher would care to leave political for judicial life at present in view of the important new policies pertaining to Alaska in particular that, it has been hoped, would be carried forward under his direction. Still, as previously stated, a life career on the bench is known to appeal to Mr. Fisher in many ways, and it probably would require much deliberation on his part if it be put up to him to decide between such a career and the activities of politics of the higher sort upon which he recently has entered.

In the event that a second appointment goes to the present eighth circuit, which is the largest territorially, and the most important by far in amount of litigation furnished, the selection, it is believed now, would lie between Secretary Nagel and Solicitor-General Frederick W. Lehmann, both of whom are from Missouri. Mr. Lehmann is nominally a Democrat. He was seriously considered for appointment to the bench a year ago and at one time it was understood he actually had been picked to fill one of the vacancies. Secretary Nagel is as highly esteemed by the President as any member of the Cabinet and his friends have understood he would like, if opportunity offered, to round out his career on the Supreme bench of the United States.

Secretary of State Knox, who has frequently been mentioned for a place on the Supreme bench, would not, it is understood, think of accepting anything except the Chief Justiceship.

Justice Harlan's death still leaves a representative of the circuit from which he came on the Supreme bench—Justice Day of Ohio.

The President Shocked.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] President Taft was at breakfast at his hotel here this morning when informed by the Associated Press of Justice Harlan's death. The President was greatly shocked by the news and expressed much sorrow. President Taft had known Justice Harlan for many years and held him in the highest regard both as man and jurist.

More Than Hundred Thousand People Witness Exposition Ceremony.

Mr. Taft Tells California What Canal Will Mean to the State.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—Under conditions that were almost ideal, ground was broken here today for the Panama-Pacific Exposition of 1915, that is to commemorate the opening of the Panama Canal.

President Taft lifted the first spadeful of black earth from the ground on which a few years from now the exposition buildings will rise, Mme. Lillian Nordica sang her greeting, and more than 100,000 persons filled the great stadium in Golden Gate Park to witness the first ceremony in memory of what Mr. Taft and other speakers called "the greatest engineering feat the world has ever seen—the Panama Canal."

The President spoke from a platform erected just in front of the grand stand in the stadium, facing the south, standing on the edge of a giant green cup that was filled almost to the brim with interested crowds. Overhead the sky was a flawless blue, with never a cloud to mar its perfection. Far off to the south and east rose hills, green for most part, each pine distinct in the clear air, with here and there a golden patch of cultivated land. Nearer at hand just across the stadium the hills that fringed the road over which the party traveled stood out in bolder relief dotted with people.

Around the course of the stadium were packed thousands of spectators and on the track itself thousands of soldiers from the Presidio and hundreds of jackies and militiamen stood at rest, their guns flashing in the sunlight. Every few feet around the course were flagpoles, from the tops of which floated the Star Spangled Banner and the blue and gold flag of California.

MANY WOMEN PRESENT.

In the cup beneath the President were more than fifty thousand persons. Most of them were women. From the platform it looked like a moving sea of bodies that was crested with purple and blue and red breakers where the hats stood out. Only a hundred feet away was a long rough wooden stand thirty feet high, on which a dozen members of the camera battery clicked their time away, and at either corner of this photographic platform were moving picture machines that whirred and snapped as the President and Mme. Nordica played their parts.

Over the top of the race track, not more than a mile distant, was the Pacific. The murmur of its breakers came only indistinctly to the crowd above, but its blue matched the sky and the white of the waves as they touched the shore agreed with the white of the flag that whipped in the wind above the stand.

There was hardly an unpleasant incident. Thousands of persons had come to the stadium before the President and under the warm sun a dozen women fainted before he left, but most of them were treated successfully by the emergency hospital corps on the ground. Mme. Nordica was unfortunate both times she sang, for when she opened the programme with an aria a band attached to one of the regiments was just entering the opposite side of the enclosure, and when she stood out on the green hillside to sing the "Star Spangled Banner," the thousands of firecrackers that the Ceremony Committee had ordered fired, exploded in salvos that drowned her voice to those not far away.

The exercises marking the ground breaking lasted two hours. Charles C. Moore, president of the exposition, Mayor McCarthy of San Francisco and the Governor, spoke before President Taft, and Mme. Nordica sang an aria.

WHAT CANAL WILL MEAN.

Mr. Taft confined himself to an explanation of what the Panama Canal means to the United States; how it will double the value of the nation's navy and the volume of its coastwise commerce.

"I congratulate San Francisco and California," said the President, "on their patriotism, energy and generosity in seizing the opportunity to commemorate such a great event in the world's history and one that reflects so much credit on the spirit of our American republics."

The Governor, who yesterday welcomed Mr. Taft, to the State, in brief fashion, was warmer in his introduction of the Chief Executive today.

"On this occasion, fraught with so much opportunity for San Francisco," said the Governor, "it is peculiarly appropriate that the representative of the State of California should say a few words of greeting to

MEXICAN POLICE DISCOVER A PLOT

Secret Service Men Are on Trail of Anarchists.

Hear Governors of American States Marked.

Authorities of Two Nations Hold a Conference.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A plot for the wholesale execution of rulers of Mexican and American States and Territories by anarchists is on foot if the Mexican secret service is not mistaken.

Juarez police are exercising unusual activity because of a report that anarchists have gathered to assassinate Gov. Abram Gonzales of Chihuahua when he comes as the guest of El Paso next Friday. The Juarez police connect with this plot the arrest here Friday of a Polander with a knife and a gun, who attempted to shoot an El Paso detective.

The Governors of Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and Sonora will also be here and the Mexican officials say that while Gonzales is the special object of attack, according to their information, the other Governors are in danger, too. The Chief of Police of Juarez conferred tonight with Police Chief Jenkins of El Paso, and Col. Glenn, in command of Ft. Bliss, relative to the plot.

OPENS PRISON DOORS.

Chihuahua Legislature Takes the Lead to Set Free Political Prisoners Incarcerated by Diaz.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The State Legislature of Chihuahua today passed an act empowering Gov. Gonzales to pardon any prisoner in jail or in the penitentiary in the State on or before the triumph of the Mexican Revolution. This will enable the Governor to pardon any political refugees who may have been imprisoned during the Diaz regime.

It is the plan for other State Legislatures to follow this example and it is said that some political offenders who have been behind the bars in Mexico for twenty years and upwards, at the instance of Porfirio Diaz, will get their liberty.

Man with Money and Diamonds Is Detailed by Denver Police—Enroute to California.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLORADO SPRINGS (Colo.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Where is Blaine Elkins, son of the late United States Senator from West Virginia? This question the police here are trying to answer and in their effort to do so are keeping the telegraph wires hot.

A man describing himself as Blaine Elkins, a half-brother of Katherine Elkins, came to town yesterday with a lot of money and diamonds in a handbag and a big supply of liquor under his belt. He has been placed in the hold-over to sober up. Part of the time he says he is Blaine Elkins, and then he calls himself Dr. W. S. Walker of Fort Worth, Tex. He is enroute to California.

When searched at police headquarters he had $9590 in currency, and diamonds valued at $9000.

ISHI ON DISPLAY.

Aborigine Account the Last of His Tribe, Will Receive Visitors in San Francisco Today.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—Ishi, the "uncontaminable" aborigine, discovered near Oroville will play host to the general public tomorrow afternoon, according to an anouncement made by Curator A. L. Kroeber of the Museum of Anthropology, at the associated colleges. Mr. Koeber said practically every visitor to the museum had requested to see Ishi.

The aborigine will entertain his visitors by engaging in his native occupation such as weaving fish nets and shaping arrow points. Sam Batcwi, the Yani interpreter, will be on hand to enable visitors to converse with the Indian.

MRS. DORR PRESIDENT.

STOCKTON, Oct. 14.—Officers of the State W.C.T.U. were elected this morning as follows: President, Mrs. Sara J. Dorr of San Jose; vicepresident at large, Mrs. Addie A. Estes, Stockton; corresponding secretary Miss Anna Chase, San Francisco; recording secretary, Mrs. Emilie Skoe, Petaluma; treasurer, Mrs. Iowa Holstein, San Jose; auditor, Mrs. Ina A. Orvis, San Jose.

The first and second vice-presidents, the secretary of the childrens' work and of the young people's society and the board of directors, will be elected Monday.

MEASURE WATER POWER.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 14.—The immediate compilation of data to determine how much water power the State possesses was ordered yesterday by the State Conservation Commission and State Board of Control of water power. Secretary Glavis says that by the use of water flow data and profit measurements which the commission and the United States Geological Survey are jointly taking in the mountains he will shortly be able to know the extent of the water power in California.

DISPLAY OF FLAGS TO HONOR PRESIDENT

Chairman F. W. Blanchard of the decorating committee for Taft Day issued a request to all citizens, last night, to display flags tomorrow during the President's visit, especially in the business sections and along the route to be traveled by the parade and Presidential party.

QUESTION PACT TO CHOOSE KING BY GENERAL ELECTION

European Statesmen Doubt that Portuguese Will Let Manuel and Miguel Settle Kingship by Vote of People in Case They Consent to Restoration of Monarchy. Arrangement May Make American Queen of Portugal.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The secret compact between ex-King Manuel of Portugal and Dom Miguel of Braganza, pretender to the throne, which became known yesterday, is proving of especial interest to European statesmen. Considerable doubt is expressed as to the acceptance by the people of Portugal, even in case of the restoration of the monarchy, of choosing their king by the elective plan. According to the reports from Lisbon, the unthroned king and his royal cousin have agreed that if the monarchists are victorious, general elections will be held to decide whether Manuel or Dom Miguel shall be King. If Manuel is chosen, the decree banishing Dom Miguel's family will be revoked and his entire family will return to Portugal as royal princes and receive an aggregate of $100,000 annually.

Moreover, in case of the death of Manuel, it has been agreed that owing to his uncle, the Duke of Oporto, being childless, the eldest son of Dom Miguel, Prince Miguel of Braganza, who married Anita Stewart of New York, shall succeed to the throne. A further provision is that if Dom Miguel is elected King, a heavy indemnity shall be paid Manuel.

The Lisbon newspaper Novidades says a document has been discovered which shows that the monarchists distributed $80,000 among the artillerymen with the proviso that they should not be fired upon. This statement has caused a sensation and the government has started an inquiry.

It has been ascertained that Capt. Couceire, leader of the royalists, has made another appeal to the Brazilian monarchists for $2,500,000 for the purpose of additional arms, ammunition and provisions. The newspapers print the following copy of a letter said to have been written by Capt. Couceire:

"I have received from the monarchist committee in Brazil 500,000 pounds sterling ($2,500,000) which I shall repay on re-establishing a monarchy in Portugal, or with my life."

RICH OWENS VALLEY WILL HOLD HARVEST FESTIVAL.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

BISHOP, Oct. 13.—Plans for the harvest festival to be held here November 3 and 4 are progressing in a most satisfactory manner. As arranged the festivities will open with a union praise service on the morning of November 3. This is to be held in the operahouse and will be followed at noon by a free barbecue.

In the afternoon there will be an enormous parade to be participated in by residents of the entire Owens Valley. This parade will be both beautiful and unique. It will be symbolic, showing the growth and development of the valley since the early days. In the lead will come the High School band followed by the Queen of the Harvest in a gorgeous float representing the productiveness of this section. The first division will consist of the early settlers with their emigrant wagons, etc. Following will come prospectors and miners in one of the most elaborate mineral exhibits ever shown on the coast in such an affair. This is to be in charge of Jim Butler, the famous founder of Tonopah. Pack trains, burros and camping outfits will be features of this division. Next will come the cowboys, mounted and dressed in picturesque fashion. The ranchers will have charge of the next division which will probably be the most important part of the parade, showing as it will the vast resources of this beautiful valley in an agricultural way.

The beautiful horses and cattle raised in the Owens Valley will have many splendid representatives in the stock division. The mercantile division will follow, composed of floats entered by the different business houses here and then will come the school children in floral floats. The last division will be the automobiles. In the evening there will be an old-fashioned harvest dance at the operahouse. On the following day the High School boys will participate in a field day and there will be a horse race between two of the finest trotting horses in the valley for a purse of $200.

The queen for the festival will be chosen by popular ballot.

There will also be held at this time a chicken show and a mammoth exhibit of fruits and produce of this valley, including hundreds of apples and tons of honey. It is planned to run special excursion trains from Los Angeles to Bishop for this festival.

HONEY CROP.

The honey crop of Inyo county, which has just been harvested and marketed, brought $35,000. The total shipments were 15,000, which were sent to the following points: One car to Calgary, Can.; three cars to Seattle; one car to Cincinnati; one car to Portland; one car to Pittsburgh; one car to Wichita, Kan.; one car to Cleveland; and one to Joplin, Mo. The proceeds will be distributed among about 100 bee men of the valley, of which Independence has the largest indvidual producers.

EX-BANKER JOHN R. WALSH IS OUT OF LEAVENWORTH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LEAVENWORTH (Kan.) Oct. 14.—An order from Washington paroling John R. Walsh, the former Chicago banker and railway president, was received at the Federal penitentiary here this morning. The prisoner immediately began preparations for the start for home.

Mr. Walsh up to the time of his parole had served one year, eight months and twenty-six days of his five years' sentence.

When told he was to be released the aged prisoner plainly showed his pleasure.

Mr. Walsh went before the parole board here on September 26 last and presented his petition for release. The board also heard the petitions of a dozen other ex-bankers, besides those of a number of prisoners serving sentences for various crimes.

President Ladow and the other members of the board made their secret conclusions in the cases a few days later. On September 30 Mr. Ladow went East to submit his report to Mr. Wickersham. He would divulge none of the board's proceedings, except to say that the treatment given Walsh was exactly the same as that accorded the other petitioners.

Walsh went back to work at his desk in the newspaper clipping bureau. It was stated that Walsh had improved in spirit from the time he knew definitely that he was to have an opportunity to present his petition. This spirit he maintained until his release today. Despite his age, he performed his prison duties to the last in a cheerful mood.

The order to parole was received by telegraph from Atty.-Gen. Wickersham. Walsh was immediately summoned into Warden McLaughrey's office and told of the finding. He was overjoyed and, although he said little the smile that wreathed his face told plainly of his great happiness.

Shortly after noon Walsh, accompanied by his son Richard, left in an automobile for Kansas City, where he will board a train for Chicago.

PROGRAMME OF THE REVOLUTION

Aims of Citizen Army Outlined by Dr. Sen.

Any Manchu Loan After This Date Repudiated.

Concessions Already Granted Will Be Respected.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The policy which is being followed by the revolutionary party in China is outlined in a manifesto which was prepared in advance in this country several weeks ago by Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the revolutionary leader. The manifesto, just made public, follows:

"To all friendly nations, greeting:

"We, the citizens of all China, now waging war against the Manchu government for the purpose of shaking off the yoke of the Tartar conqueror by overthrowing the present corrupt state of autocracy and establishing a republic in its place, and at the same time intending to enter upon a more close relation with all friendly nations, for the sake of maintaining the peace of the world and of promoting the happiness of mankind, in order to make our action clearly understood, hereby declare:

"First—All treaties concluded between the Manchu government and any nation before this date will be continually effective up to the time of their termination.

"Second—Any foreign loan or indemnity incurred by the Manchu government before this date will be acknowledged without any alteration of terms and will be paid by the maritime customs as before.

"Third—All concessions granted by the Manchu government before this date will be respected.

"Fourth—All persons and property of any foreign nations in the territory occupied by the citizen army will be protected.

"Fifth—All treaties, concessions, loans and indemnities concluded between the Manchu government and any foreign nations after this date will be repudiated.

"Sixth—All persons of any nationality who take the part of the Manchu government to act against the citizen army of China will be treated as enemies.

"Seventh—All kinds of war materials supplied by any foreign nations to the Manchu government will be confiscated when captured."

MOURNED AS DEAD.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—Each thinking the other to have long been dead, Mrs. Clara Cooney and her brother, Joseph A. Chabotte, met here yesterday for the first time in twenty years. Their meeting was the result of a search by the San Francisco police for the heirs of their aunt, Miss Elmira Jarvis of Boston, who informed the authorities here that she wished to leave her fortune of $150,000 to the children of her sister, Mrs. Julia Chabotte. The latter, mother of Mrs. Cooney, has been dead for several years. Another brother is unaccounted for, but is believed to be dead.

FOR THEIR PAY.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 14.—Striking shopmen who walked out of the local Southern Pacific shops two weeks ago called at the entrance of the shops today and received their pay checks, this being the regular pay day of the company. The men had been told their pay was ready for them a day after they walked out, but the majority refused to call for it until today. Company officials announced today that there were more than 1800 men on the pay roll. When the strike was called there were 2400 men on the rolls. There were no additions to the strike ranks, today.

MORE GOOD ROADS.

The Hardin County Construction Committee of the Lincoln-Jackson way has begun work on the reconstruction of the Louisville and Nashville pike. The funds to build the road were obtained from the following sources: Fiscal Court, $10,000; Louisville donation, $10,000; private subscriptions, $21,000; total, $41,000. In addition, a large amount of free labor and hauling have been subscribed, which will probably amount to over $10,000, making more than $50,000 available for the road.

QUINBY TO COACH YALE.

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Sept. 29.—Following the announcement that William L. Lush would not return as coach of the Yale baseball team next year, it was announced, last night that Frank L. Quinby, 1901 S., has been obtained as coach of the team next year. Quinby played third base on the 1899 team at Yale and second on the team in 1900. He was elected captain of the 1901 team, but he did not finish his course at Yale. He was captain of the South Orange Field Club team for the last three years, and his team has won the Herall cup each time he led it.

POLICE MAKE RAIDS.

Stocks of Liquors, Poker Chips and Cards Confiscated at Two Places Seizer by Officers.

In a raid on an alleged blind pig conducted by Cesare Vannucci at No. 681 San Fernando street, last night, enough liquor was confiscated to stock a good-sized bar.

In addition to the arrest on the charge of illegally selling alcoholic beverages, nine alleged gamblers were captured while playing in one of the inner rooms.

The raid was conducted by Plainclothes Officers Berry, Marshall and Shelton, who have been watching the place for nearly a week and they experienced little difficulty in locating the contraband stock.

About the same time officers working under the direction of Sergt. O'Brien called at the Hotel Royal, No. 416 South Main street, and captured four alleged poker players together with a quantity of cards and chips.

Suddenly.

JUSTICE HARLAN PASSES AWAY.

OLDEST MEMBER OF SUPREME COURT DEAD.

Expires Without Achieving the Main Hope of His Latter Years to Stay on the Bench Longer Than Any of His Contemporaries or Predecessors.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Associate Justice John M. Harlan, the oldest member of the Supreme Court of the United States, for years conspicuous in Kentucky politics, once candidate for the Republican nomination for Vice-President of the United States, a foremost Constitutional authority and prominent in the councils of the Presbyterian Church, died in his home in this city today. He was 78 years old last June.

Justice Harlao had been ill with acute bronchitis less than a week. He sat on the bench last Monday when the court heard arguments on the so-called Anthracite coal trust casts. The following morning Chief Justice White announced Justice Harlan was "slightly ill" and yesterday asked attorneys to consider that Justice Harlan was sitting in their cases, although not physically present.

Justice Harlan, however, was in much more serious condition than his colleagues in the court realized. Despite his advanced age he was robust and ordinarily enojyed the best of health. He was rarely absent from the bench, an attack of influenza a few years ago, being almost the only illness from which he had suffered for a long period.

MOURNED FOR COLLEAGUE.

The sudden death of Associate Justice Brewer of the Supreme Court, who was not only a colleague on the bench, but a very close personal friend, very much affected Justice Harlan.

Chief Justice Fuller's death in the summer of 1910 was also a great shock to the venerable jurist, but Justice Harlan continued to perform his share of the work of the court.

His great ambition was to serve until next June when he would have exceeded the service of any other man who sat on that bench. As it was, his service was longer than that of any other Justice except Chief Justice Marshall and Associate Justice Stephen J. Field. Field's was the longest service—thirty-four years, six months and ten days; Marshall's thirty-four years, five months and five days; Harlan's thirty-three years, twenty-five days.

It was while sitting on the bench Monday that Justice Harlan first felt the attack of bronchitis. He asked then for such simple remedies as were at hand in the office of the Marshal of the Court, but he remained at his post. By Tuesday considerable fever was manifest.

Yesterday he seemed a little better. His son, John M. Harlan, a Chicago lawyer, was summoned here, however, and another son, Dr. Richard C. Harlan, traveling in Europe, was notified. Last night he grew worse and death came at 8:13 o'clock this morning.

Resolution on Harlan.

At the meeting of the City Club yesterday the following resolution on the death of Justice Harlan was adopted:

"Whereas, the City Club of Los Angeles, in meeting assembled learns of the passing today of Hon. John M. Harlan, Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, now therefore be it

"Resolved, that in the death of Justice Harlan the nation loses a valuable servant and the people a constant friend. He has been an ornament to the judicial system of the United States and a bulwark of free government in the people, and his loss will be keenly felt by the entire citizenship, irrespective of party or creed.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to the clerk of the Supreme Court of the United States."

Fog Is Thick.

SIX PERSONS ARE INJURED IN WHITTIER CAR WRECK.

SIX passengers were slightly injured in a collision between an incoming Whittier electric car and a freight train at Laguna station last night as the result of a heavy fog which entirely enveloped the tracks and prevented the motorman from seeing more than a few feet ahead of his train.

All of the injured were more or less cut by flying glass and later were brought to the Pacific Electric station, where they received medical treatment at the company's hospital.

The following is a list of the injured:

Senipio Remiro, Whittier, cut about the head and face.

Turner Johnson, No. 145 Daly street, Los Angeles, hand cut.

Epimira Garcia, Watts, bruised hand.

E. S. Jewett, Downey, chin cut.

Charles Nelson, Whittier State School, face cut.

George Hoard, Whittier, face cut.

The passenger car left Whittier at 6:30 o'clock in charge of Conductor Rullison and Motorman Deitz and it was about fifteen minutes behind the schedule. The fog had become very heavy but as the car had the right of way it was thought that the track was clear.

A freight train with one car on the main line was about to enter a siding and a flagman with a lantern was stationed in the rear to warn the coming flyer, but owing to the fog and the fact that a line of poles obscured the light, Motorman Deitz did not see the signal until it was too late to stop.

The two cars came together with a crash, breaking the windows on the passenger car and hurling the broken fragments of glass in all directions. The front platform also was badly wrecked.

As soon as word of the accident was received at the dispatcher's office in this city a wreck train was sent to the scene, but it was nearly two hours before the line again was opened for traffic.

GROUND BROKEN.

President Taft. He has come to this city for this particular ceremony and with hearts overflowing with gratitude and joy, we acknowledge our obligation to him today. California expresses to him with all its great heart its appreciation and gratitude for what he has done for San Francisco and for the entire Coast."

When the President finished speaking he shouldered the silver spade and marched down the steps from the platform to the grass. He stuck the spade in the earth, gave it a powerful shove with his foot, and while the camera battery and the moving picture men clicked in chorus, brought up the first spadeful of dirt which Charles M. De Young of the ceremonies committee received in a mahogany and silver bound box.

"Is that enough?" asked the President of Mr. De Young.

"I think that'll do, Mr. President," Mr. De Young replied.

LAST GREAT SCENE.

Then the President unfurled the official flag of the exposition. The halyards were tangled and he made the committee disentangle them before he would hoist the flag.

"I don't want to make a fluke of this," he said smiling.

As the breeze caught the official emblem of the fair, guns at the Presidio, concealed behind the green curtain of trees far away across the stadium broke out in thunder; strings of Chinese firecrackers suspended from poles in the wall of the stadium were set off, and just over Mr. Taft's head three hundred pigeons—two hundred of them milk white, the rest black—were released to fly out over the cheering thousands. Mme. Nordica lifted her voice in the first bars of the "Star Spangled Banner," the moving picture men caught their last chance, and the ceremony was over.

Following the ground breaking the President paid a brief call upon the members of the Native Daughters of the Golden West at his hotel, and dropped in for a few moments at the Union League Club. To the Daughters, the President said that East may be East, and West may be West, but women in the United States were just about the same everywhere.

"Perhaps," said he, "the right to vote may make a difference, but I doubt it."

Tonight the President viewed the city from his hotel and spent a few minutes at the Bohemian Club. It was "carnival night" in San Francisco, and the illuminations were attractive enough to keep the President gazing for hours.

MANY MILES OF ROAD.

Long Turnpikes in New England Look Good to the Motor Men Who Spend Money.

Massachusetts has about 850 miles of State highway, but there are many other miles of good roads in the main routes. How the road cost has increased to keep pace with the increasing popularity of automobile travel may be seen from the statement of the Massachusetts Highway Commission, as follows:

"The Massachusetts Highway Commission formerly spent only $100,000 a year for the maintenance of its State highways, and this at a time when there were substantially 700 miles. Since 1908 it was found that very much more money would be needed. In 1909 the Legislature of Massachusetts more than doubled its appropriation for the maintenance of roads, and the automobile fees and fines were also made available for use on the roads.

The Legislature increased its appropriation from $100,000 to $250,000, and has been appropriating $200,000 a year since, or double what was appropriated four years ago."

HURLED FROM AUTOMOBILE.

Wife of Mayor-Elect of San Francisco Is Injured.

Son, Daughter, Sister and Chauffeur Also Hurt.

Rolph Called from Taft Parade by Accident.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hurled from an automobile wrecked in a collision, Mrs. James Rolph, Jr., wife of the Mayor-elect, her two children, James Rolph, III, and Annette, and her sister, Miss Jean Reid, narrowly escaped death at 11 o'clock this morning. The auto in which they were riding was demolished when it was struck by a runabout at the corner of Sixteenth and Church streets.

The injured are:

Mrs. Rolph, neck badly sprained, cut and bruised.

James Rolph, III, cut and bruised.

Annette Rolph, scratched, bruised and suffering from shock.

Miss Jean Reid, badly bruised and suffering from shock.

Edward Schuck, chauffeur, badly bruised.

Captain of Police White heard of the accident and notified Mayor-elect Rolph, who was riding in the parade on the way to the stadium for the ground-breaking ceremonies. Rolph left the parade at once and hurried to the scene of the accident in his auto. When he arrived he found Police Surgeon A. T. Meyer attending the victims.

It was found that the injuries were not serious and the victims were placed in Rolph's auto and taken to the Rolph home where they were given further medical attention.

The cause of the accident has not been determined by the police, who are investigating the case. That the Rolph family escaped death was due to the cover which was placed on the machine last night in fear that it would rain today. The auto was turned completely over and the Rolph family was pined beaneath. The top of the auto saved them from being crushed to death.

The machine which wrecked the Rolph auto was owned by Archbishop Riordan, but was unoccupied except by the chauffeur.

[illegible] Great Northern Trainmen Can't Keep Tab on Elections—Sale of Liquor Discontinued.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The sale of liquor has been abolished on all trains of the Great Northern Railroad, according to a notice received here today by F. Graham, western immigration and industrial agent of the road. Local option is the cause.

"Dry" counties are located all along the line and changes from "dry" to "wet" and vice versa by frequent elections have made it impossible for the managers to keep themselves well enough informed to be assured they are within the law.

"We found it impracticable to keep within the law," said Mr. Graham. "and our trainmens' lives were made miserable by spotters for the prohibitionists, so we concluded to dispense with all liquor selling."

Portland Judge Angry That Denver Officials Get Away With Prisoner Without Seeing Him.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Deputy Sheriff Rinker of Denver, aided by police detectives Mallett and Maloney of Portland, arrested Leo Martin, 26 years old, on a street here today and hustled him away in an automobile. It is thought they are out of the State. Martin is wanted in Denver on charges preferred by his divorced wife and had been brought before Circuit Judge Gatens, who continued the case until Monday. At the street door of the Courthouse, Martin and his attorney, F. P. Brookhart, were met by the three officers who seized Martin, threw him into an automobile and started away. Brookhart also jumped into the car, but was ejected after the party had crossed the Judge Gatens expressed indignation when informed what had occurred and ordered the arrest of all the officers concerned.

SAVE CAPTAIN AND HIS CREW.

Nottingham Is Wrecked Off Oregon Coast.

Warning Against a Menace to Other Craft.

Rescued Men Battle Five Days With Storm.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ASTORIA (Or.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusiv Dispatch.] After having gone five days without water, during which time their water-logged and dismasted vessel drifted before a heavy gale, Capt. A. W. Svenson, First Officer William Brown and nine members of the crew of the Schooner William Nottingham, reached port late this afternoon as passengers on the lumber schooner David Evans, Capt. Saunders, bound in ballast from Kobe, Japan, to Portland.

The schooner William Nottingham is a complete loss and is adrift northwest of the mouth of the Columbia, a derelict menacing all shipping. She sailed from Astoria on October 2, bound for Callao, Peru, with over 1,000,000 feet of lumber aboard, loaded at Portland and river points.

A FIERCE GALE.

Three days after leaving Astoria, the Nottingham ran into a fierce off-shore gale, before which she was carried for three days. On October 9, the severe winds and heavy running seas dismasted her. The foremast was left standing, but the heavy seas and the angle of the gear put the ship beyond control. The housing, galley and water casks were swept away and the officers and crew were left at the mercy of the gale. Their only rations were canned goods that had not been damaged and their only water supply was what could be caught in a small improvised canvas basin during slight rainfalls that followed the gale.

PITIFUL CONDITION.

The condition was pitiful until Friday when the David Evans hove in sight. All but one of the Nottingham's long boats had been destroyed by the seas and wreckage and with great difficulty the half-famished crew launched this to the leeward of the distressed shp. Three men were aboard. No sooner had the boat been launched than it was swamped and the men thrown into the raging waters. Only quick action on the part of their comrades saved them from drowning. After hours of work, the survivors righted and bailed out the long boat. Three times the long boat was swamped before the sailors were rescued. Finally the officers and crew managed to leave the ship and reach the David Evans a quarter of a mile distant.

DUKE OF PORTLAND COMING.

English Nobleman Will Visit Los Angeles and San Francisco Before Returning to London.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Duke of Portland, one of Great Britain's most noted peers, with a lineage running back for centuries and bearing a name that carries great wealth and power, was in Portland for a few hours yesterday. He is traveling incognito and every effort was made to keep his identity concealed. It was only after his departure for San Francisco and Los Angeles that it was learned he had been in the city.

The duke came from British Columbia, where he has been examining a tract of land that was recently purchased by him. He is now traveling back to England but will visit California enroute.

The Duke of Portland is a great sportsman, owning and racing more horses than any other man in England. He owns many castles and thousands of acres in the British Empire and his inherited family wealth is enormous.

In Charge.

FORMER CLERK RETURNS AS ESPEE'S PRESIDENT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] William Sproule the new president of the Southern Pacific company, arrived in San Francisco at noon today to assume control of the road. He will establish his offices in the Flood building and will remain here as the directing head of the company. The head of the Southern Pacific company has received the hearty indorsement of the shippers and of the public generally of the Pacific Coast.

Many changes are contemplated in the management of the Southern Pacific Company in California, according to the statement of President Sproule.

"Owing to the efficient corps of men now in San Francisco I am not coming out here to start any radical reorganization," he continued, "but of course, in these days of State and Federal regulation we have to proceed along a course which will arrange traffic conditions and at the same time look out for the interest of the stockholders."

In returning to San Francisco, Mr. Sproule comes to his old home. It was here that he had his first training in the railroad business. Associating himself with the Southern Pacific as a freight clerk in 1882, he comes back twenty-nine years later, the president of the corporation.

The new president was part of the pioneer regime of the Southern Pacific, which developed such well known figures as C. P. Huntington, long the executive of the company, and later J. C. Stubbs and Julius Kruttschnitt. Sproule was born in Ireland fifty-three years ago.

COUNTRY LIFE UPLIFT.

Rural Educational Conference in Berkeley Wants the Rustic School to be a Social Center.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERKELEY, Oct. 14.—The rural educational conference opened today at the State University farm at Davis, under the auspices of the university and the Country Life Commission. W. A. Beard, chairman of the Country Life Commission, presided. Dike J. Crosby, expert on agricultural education for the Department of Agriculture was the chief speaker. He dealt with progress in the East in offsetting through the schools the prevailing tendency of the country children to desert the country.

Among the business considered today was the report of the committee appointed to detail a plan for redirecting the rural school system in California in a most radical manner. The committee recommended the following changes:

Closer supervision of rural schools, the State Legislature to provide for at least one Supervisor of Agriculture in each county within five years.

Legislation or practice to make the school house the social center of each community, if no other good center is provided.

Inducement to teachers to live the whole time of each term in the school community and to enter into the social activities of the community.

The last official business of the conference today was the re-organization of the Country Life Commission.

VIEWING THE ROUTE.

FOR STATE HIGHWAY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Charles D. Blaney and N. D. Darlington, members of the State Highway Commission, accompanied by State Highway Engineer N. D. Fletcher, have started on an auto trip over the routes of the proposed system of State highways on which $18,000,000 voted by the people of the State is to be spent. They are now headed up the west side of the Sacramento Valley and will continue to the Oregon line, returning by the East side of the valley and reaching Sacramento the last of next week. From Sacramento the party went to Woodland with the intention of proceeding through Colusa, Maxwell, Willows, Orland, Tehama, Red Bluff, Redding, Dunsmuir and on to the Oregon line. Commissioner Burton Towne, chairman, may join the party en route.

Earthquake In Pacific Ocean.

SAN JOSE, Oct. 14.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] An earthquake, believed to have originated in the Pacific Ocean over 1000 miles out, was recorded at Santa Clara College today. The long waves began at 8:26 and the maximum waves at 9:04:24. The tremors continued until 9:14 o'clock.

LYMAN'S WIFE SEEKS TO DIVORCE ALLEGED SWINDLER

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Another chapter was added to the sensational story of Dr. John Grant Lyman's life today upon receipt of a dispatch from White Plains, N. Y., by United States Marshal Elliott to the effect that Mrs. Alice Lyman, wife of the fraudulent promoter, has begun a divorce action, the grounds of which are based on Lyman's escapades.

The recent notoriety attained by Dr. Lyman which followed his escape from Federal custody at the Providence Hospital in Oakland, revealed the get-rich-quick schemer's attentions to Miss Maud Lehman, daughter of a millionaire glove manufacturer of New York, who was his companion here just previous to Lyman's original arrest on September 8.

Mrs. Lyman was spending a vacation with her relatives at White Plains, when the press dispatches informed her of Lyman's arrest and his devotion to Miss Lehman. Certain at first that there was some mistake, Mrs. Lyman later was informed by the government authorities in this city of the proof that Miss Lehman was supplying the wily promoter with the ready funds with which he bribed his jailers to escape his Federal guards.

Still skeptical, Mrs. Lyman refrained from any court action until she received word of the arrest of J. M. Cohen in this city Monday. Knowing that Cohen was an old associate of Lyman, and learning that Cohen confessed to having received $2000 from Miss Lehman to aid Lyman during his incarceration, Mrs. Lyman immediately consulted a lawyer and brought suit for divorce.

Mrs. Lyman, before her marriage to the notorious promoter fifteen years ago, was Miss Alice Brown, member of a wealthy family of Pasadena. At the time of the wedding, Dr. Lyman was a social favorite in the South, being possessed of an unusually pleasing personality and a large income, which it is now believed he mulcted from thousands of victims in wild-cat promotion schemes.

According to the information received by Marshall Elliott today from the East, Mrs. Lyman is determined to have nothing further to do with her notorious husband. Miss Lehman, however, it is understood, is so enamored of the bland promoter that she will do everything in her power to assist him while his difficulty with the local Federal officials is pending.

Teeth

Would you like to have your teeth filled, be treated gently and know the work was being done right and would last? If so, I can please you.

I replace missing teeth without a plate, good as nature gives the most fortunate.

If all your teeth are gone you need a plate. Maybe you have one and can't wear it. If so you are the one I want to reach. I don't care how flat your mouth is or how hard to fit or what your experience has been trying to wear plates. By my method I positively can fit you and you can eat and enjoy any kind of food without loosening your plate. Get my estimate—it's free.

CATARRH OF THE KIDNEYS NOT ALWAYS RECOGNIZED.

A Cold Settled in Kidneys, Causing Serious Trouble. Pe-ru-na Restores Health.

CATARRH of the kidneys is a very much neglected disease.

It is not until the disease has a firm hold upon the kidneys that the patient begins to realize that there is some derangement of these organs.

The slight backaches, the feelings of lassitude, and other warning symptoms of kidney disease are overlooked.

They are not serious enough to detain the patient from his regular work.

Even when he discovers that the kidneys are affected, he does not recognize the difficulty as being caused by catarrh.

Catarrh is sometimes so very gradual in its approach and its earlier symptoms cause such slight discomfort that it is not noticed.

However, when it is once firmly seated in the kidneys it becomes a difficult disease to exterminate.

Indeed, catarrh of the kidneys is more serious than catarrh affecting some of the other organs of the body.

In the kidneys it is liable to terminate in Bright's Disease or diabetes, both of which are recognized as very serious ailments, if not fatal.

The thing to be done, when a cold or catarrh of the kidneys is discovered, is to take some internal, system ic catarrh remedy, one that relieves the catarrhal disturbances and thus removes the cause of the difficulty.

Pe-ru-na for Kidney Disease.

Such a remedy has been found in Peruna. It relieves catarrh, no matter where it may be located in the body—whether in the more exposed membranes of the nose and throat, or whether in the remotest part of the kidneys.

That Peruna is at once the safest and most reliable remedy for catarrh of the kidneys is proven by the many testimonials written by those who have experienced its benefits.

The testimonials given here are only specimens of the many testimonials on our records, pertaining to the relief afforded by Peruna in severe cases of kidney trouble.

Catarrh of Kidneys.

Judge C. J. Park, R.F.D. 4, Greensboro, Greene Co., Ga. writes: "For a long time I was troubled with catarrh of the kidneys, and after taking Peruna I feel like a new man. I think it the greatest catarrh medicine of the age, and believe it will cure any case of catarrh on record."

MR. JOHN N. WATKINS.

Mr. John N. Watkins, 3431A Crittenden St., St. Louis, Mo., writes:

"Among all the greatly advertised medicines for kidney and bladder trouble there is nothing which equals Peruna. I suffered for several years with this trouble, spent hundreds of dollars on doctors and medicine and all to no purpose, until I took Peruna.

"One bottle did me more good than all the others put together, as they only poisoned my system. Peruna cured me. I used it for four months before a complete cure was accomplished, but am truly grateful to you. The least I can do in return is to acknowledge the merits of Peruna."

Kidney Trouble, Weak Back.

Mr. M. Broderick, 706 East 46th St. Chicago, Ills., writes: "I have been suffering from a weak back and kidney trouble for some time and have been able to find relief only through the use of Peruna. During the winter season I usually keep a bottle of your medicine in the house, and by taking a dose at night I am feeling fine the next morning.

"Some of my friends assure me that Peruna is equally as good for their various ailments, but I do know that for kidney trouble and suffering from [illegible]"

BIGGEST FLEET OF HEMISPHERE.

Warships to Assemble in Los Angeles and New York.

Mobilization Will Begin on October Thirtieth.

Our Craft Displace More Water Than Kaiser's.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—The mobilization of the Atlantic and Pacific fleets at New York and Los Angeles October 30 to November 2 will mark the gathering of the greatest naval forces that ever floated in the waters of this hemisphere.

While the number of vessels to be assembled does not equal the ships reviewed by the German Emperor at Kiel last summer, the 126 American ships, with their tremendous displacement of 693,844 tons, are really more powerful than the German fleet.

The Atlantic fleet will comprise 102 vessels of all classes, with a total displacement of 577,599 tons, and the Pacific fleet, twenty-four vessels of 116,245 tons.

The combined fleets will include thirty-two armored ships, while the German fleet numbered twenty-nine. The American battleships will number twenty-five and the armored cruisers six, while the German fleet included twenty-three battleships and six armored cruisers.

France assembled twenty-five battleships and ten armored cruisers at the Toulon review last summer, but in other ships the fleet was much weaker than America's.

The total French display included only eighty-two ships. Of course, none of the three countries above named could compare with England, which assembled 173 ships at the coronation review at Spithead, including thirty-two battleships and twenty-five armored cruisers.

TWENTY-THREE BILLIONS. DATA ON BANKING.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—There was a big expansion of the banking business during the last year, according to reports to the Comptroller of the Currency fom pactically every incorporated bank in the United States, national and State, and a large percentage of private concerns. The report shows that on June 7, the total resources of banks the country over were more than $23,-631,500,000, an increase of $1,181,-200,000 as compared with 1910. There were 24,371 institutions heard from this yea, which was 1276 more than reported in 1910 and 1880 more than for 1909. An analysis of the loans and liabilities showed:

Loans, $13,047,300,000, an increase as compared with 1910 of $525,500,-000; investment in bonds, etc., $5,-052,000,000, increase, $328,500,000; cash on hand, $1,552,700,000, increase, $128,900,000; capital, $1,952,-400,000, increase, $113,000,000; and individual deposits, $15,907,000,000, increase $623,600,000.

CALIFORNIA CLEARINGS.

BRIDE EARNS HER WEDDING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ELGIN (Ill.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In order that her wedding might not be delayed, Mrs. Mattie Baker of Kentucky helped her fiance, Adolph Rossdeutcher, unload bricks in the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad yards this morning. They finished the job at 1 o'clock, caught the 2 o'clock car for the county seat, returned at 4 o'clock and were married at St. Joseph's Parish house by Rev. Father Joseph Rohde. The wedding plans were made today. Rossdeutcher had planned a day off. He is employed as a teamster and got word this morning that he must unload a car of bricks or lose his job.

GIRL IN DIVER'S SUIT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MARQUETTE (Mich.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Having donned a diver's suit and spent half an hour yesterday exploring the depths of Lake Superior Miss Gladys Jenny, daughter of R. H. Jenny, a lumberman of this city, is believed to be the first woman in the Lake Superior country to visit the fishes in their native habitat. Miss Jenny, as well as other Marquette society women, have watched with interest the divers who are laying a waterworks intake here. She surprised her friends by accepting a challenge to make a submarine excursion. After donning the diving suit she was weighted with 90 pounds of iron and under the supervision of the contractor was lowered sixty feet beneath the surface of the water.

MARE KIDNAPS CALF.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HANOVER (Kan.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A mare owned by William Schoop, a farmer near here, has kidnaped a calf from its mother and all efforts to part them have failed. The mare is four years old and never has had a colt. When the calf was born, a week ago the mare, which was in the same field of cattle, drove the cow away from its offspring and took possession. When the animals were brought into the feed yard the calf was restored to its mother, but it was only a few minutes until the mare took possesion. Now the calf has become attached to its foster mother and refuses to leave even at meal time, and the oddly assorted pair made so much trouble that the calf is now fed from a bucket.

JUDGE GRILLS LAWYERS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. Louis, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] I annulling the divorce granted here ten years ago to Charles A. Stevenson from Kate Claxton, once famous actress, Judge Milton M. Vandeventer in the East St. Louis City Court, condemned Stevenson as a trickster and perjurer. Stevenson's attorney's were also severely censured. He declared the lawyer who represented him when the divorce was secured was guilty, as also were the witnesses, of criminal conspiracy. Stevenson's attorneys announced they will appeal the case. At the close of the trial Kate Claxton denied the report that she contemplated returning to the stage.

JOHN D'S DOUBLE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DAVIS (Okla.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Capt. I. T. Davis of Davis, Okla., who is widely known as "Rockefeller's double," is cutting his third set of teeth at the age of 88 years. He is an ex-Texas ranger and was for some time on the staff of Sam Houston, president of the Texas republic. Capt. Davis commenced cutting his third set of teeth about six months ago and today has almost a full new set. He declares the new teeth are more valuable to him than his first permanent set. "I may resemble John D. Rockefeller in general apearance, he said, "but I am sure he has more dollars, although I have him bested on hair. As to my third set of teeth, there is no question. I am proud of them too."

AMERICAN WOMAN ARRESTED.

Accused by Paris Police of Breaking Hearts and Depleting Purses of Titled Europeans.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] French police have in custody a mysterious American woman, good looking, well dressed and attractive, who is accused of visiting various fashionable French summer resorts during the past summer and leaving behind a trail of broken hearts and also depleted pocketbooks of numerous titled members of society who sought the hand of a supposed American heiress.

It is believed a majority of the woman's victims have preferred to keep silence, but several laid before the police complaints which caused her arrest.

Mystery surrounds her real identity. She has been living in Orleans, where she was known as the wife of a Frenchman named Germot. They have three small children. She told the police her home was in Wilmington, in the United States, but the record does not show what Wilmington.

GRAFTERS LIABLE TO CAUSE TROUBLE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] As a result of an indignation meeting held at Hotel Breslin by baseball enthusiasts from Buffalo, Rochester and other cities up-State, a bill will be introduced at the next session of the Legislature by Assemblyman Cyrus W. Phillips of Monroe county to place professional baseball under the jurisdiction of the State Athletic Commission.

The legislation is intended to stop the grabbing of seats by speculators at baseball games. The movement was started because a delegation of nearly 1000 enthusiasts from the western part of the State, headed by George W. Smith, R. G. Gartus, William Driscoll and Hubert Larkin of Buffalo and Assemblyman Phillips and Former Assemblyman McInerny of Rochester, arrived here to find that the only purchasable seats for the world's championship series were in the hands of speculators.

Ban Johnson, president of the American League and a member of the National Commission, who is known as the "Czar of Baseball," came out today with a statement that he would favor any movement toward expelling the New York baseball club from the National League if proof could be produced that a New York club officer sold tickets for games to speculators knowingly.

LOS ANGELES PORT OF CALL.

American-Hawaiian Liners Will Stop Here After Canal Is Ready.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When the Panama Canal is opened the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company will make Los Angeles harbor a port of call. It is just announced that this company has placed contracts for four new 9000-ton ships of the latest and most improved type of freighters which will give it twenty-two ships plying betwen the Atlantic and the Pacific coasts of the United States. By abandoning the Tehauntepec route and thereby avoiding the necessity of breaking bulk, the trip from coast to coast can be made in 25 per cent. less time or twenty-one days, where it now takes twenty-eight.

STARTING HOME WITH A DOCTOR.

Physician Says Rockefeller Is Victim of Gout.

Denies He Has Cancer of Throat and Larynx.

Brother of Oil Magnate Can Scarcely Talk.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] William Rockefeller sailed on the Campania today, accompanied by Dr. Walter F. Chappell of New York. He is in a serious physical condition, suffering from what the physician called gout of the throat and larynx.

A reporter going to his special car saw Mr. Rockefeller through a window reclining in a large arm chair. Mrs. Rockefeller was with her husband. The correspondent presented his card to Mr. Rockefeller, who said: "I am not William Rockefeller," in a voice scarcely above a whisper and so weak that one had to bend over to catch his words. Inquiry was then made for Dr. Chappell, but Miss Chappell replied he was not in the car.

Going to the baggage car the correspondent saw the baggage bearing Dr. Chappell's name, while that belonging to Rockefeller was marked Rockeford with the Cunard Company's labels.

Turning back to where Mr. Rockefeller was sitting he saw him being assisted from a chair by Mrs. Rockefeller and Miss Chappell. He walked totteringly to the bed in the partitioned end, where he remained until after the train left.

He seemed greatly surprised at being discovered.

Dr. Chappell said: "I am sorry for it, but I admit I am Dr. Chappell and in attendance upon Mr. Rockefeller.

"He is not suffering from cancer. What is troubling him is gout of the throat and larynx. He has had it for eight years and it's getting worse. You saw him, heard him try to answer you. He can hardly articulate. I've given him orders not to speak. Otherwise he's all right. I deny he has got cancer or has been operated upon."

HOW TO CARE FOR TIRES.

Michelin Factory Man Tells Just How to Handle Small Cuts—Only One Crorect Way.

As the care of tires is one of the greatest problems to the average motorist of today, many of the troubles to which premature deterioration is due can easily be traced and if taken in time can be readily corrected, and as a result will mean the saving of money.

The small cuts in outer casings, which will cause the complete destruction of a tire, should be repaired immediately. Those who are inclined at first to discount the importance of giving small cuts their most prompt attention, will sooner or later see the mistake of his neglect.

"There is only one correct way," says the Michelin tire man, "to repair the little incisions in the outer surface of a tire that eventually causes so much trouble and expense. The depth of the cut should be first ascertained by instering the end of a thin pointed object, not too sharp, or the trouble may be aggravated. If nothing better is at hand, a blunt penknife will answer.

"Should the cut be less than a quarter of an inch deep, there is no immediate danger but if it is deeper the outer layer of canvas will have been damaged. In either case repair should have been made immediately.

"Very often sounding or probing will reveal in the cut the presence of small stones and dirt that have been picked up. These should be removed at once.

"That a small stone should have lodged in a cut may appear to be a matter of little significance. But when the wheel is moving the stone will begin to work its way slowly but surely further and further into the rubber. It will rub the canvas, pierce it and finally work its way right through the whole thickness of the envelope.

"To guard absolutely agaipt tire destruction from this cause, the envelope should be critically examined on the return from every trip. Every cut found must be probed and every particle of foreign matter removed."

An unidentified negro was run down and killed by car No. 517 of the Grand avenue line at Santa Barbara and Figueroa street at an early hour this morning. The body was taken to the Bresee Brothers undertaking establishment.

Many people are continually using lotions and creams on the face and wondering why they make so little permanent impression upon pimples, blotches and blackheads.

It's because pimples and eruptions come from the inside—from impure blood—and you can't cure them by rubbing stuff on the outside of the face. Purify the blood and the blemishes will disappear.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers will often clear the complexion in a few days' time. That's the wonderful part of it—they act right off—in a hurry. That's because they're made of just the ingredients needed to drive all poisons and impurities from the blood. That's why doctors prescribe them so constantly.

You will speedily enjoy a beautiful complexion if you use these wonderful little Wafers. Your face will become as clear and pure as a rose. Nobody likes to have pimply-faced people around. With Stuart's Calcium Wafers you don't have to wait for months before getting results. Even boils have been cured in a few days' time with these remarkably effective blood cleansers. Your whole system will feel better in a marvelously short time, and my, what a difference in your looks.

Write today for a free trial package of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 175 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich. Then, when you've proved to yourself how good they are, you can get a full-sized package at any drug store for 50 cents.

SEES NO GRASS IN THE STREETS

"Uncle Aleck Town" Is Pride of the Mayor.

Begins Campaign Whirlwind With Three Meetings.

Light and Water Questions to Go to a Vote/

A review of "Uncle Aleck town" by its creator was the achievement of Mayor Alexander last night when he addressed three Good Government meetings in three far apart portions of the city. The Mayor says he is satisfied with the "town"—so satisfied in fact that he believes there is a couple of years work for him to do to finish the "job." He was liberally applauded everywhere.

"Two years ago they predicted that grass would grow in the streets and that all the money would go to San Francisco and we would return to adobe houses," said the Mayor at [illegible]'s Hall, No. 5428 Moneta avenue last night. "They didn't want an 'Uncle Aleck town.' But I guess they'll admit we have gone right ahead and are still going."

The Mayor said his principal question in this campaign, the real issue, is the distribution of the Aqueduct light and power. "We have regulated light and power rates," he explained, "and the regulation is not satisfactory. If we are to handle this light and power question right we must handle it just like the water—the city must distribute it for the benefit of the people at cheap rates. But we are not going to succeed in this unless we are mighty sharp. The light and power corporations are not going to let us, if they can prevent.

"And right there is where I get my reason for offering my services to you again. Otherwise I wouldn't accept the office. I am 72 years old and I have had all the honors a man can get from the people of Los Angeles. I have reached the age when men ought to quit. I like the job. Why, it [illegible] good years in me yet, and I want to see this thing through. I don't want to quite, I like the job. Why, it makes a fellow feel young again to know that he can still be of service to his community."

"Uncle Aleck" paid particular attention to the women who now have the ballot and urged them all to accept the responsibility and duty of citizenship.

"Things were in bad shape when I became Mayor," said he to the women. "I had a pretty mess to clean up. But we now have a city that is morally clean, and it is our best asset. If I am re-elected I will keep it so, for it is my hobby. Now there is one man running for Mayor on a personal liberty platform. You know what that means. You remember with shame, the old Alameda street district. Los Angeles doesn't want that kind of business and the man who advocates it will never be elected. Why, if he was, and tried to bring it back, the women of the city would [illegible] him in sixty days."

"I am the target of 'em all. I am being vilified and lied about. But as long as my conscience is clear let 'em [illegible].

"There is another man running for Mayor who is telling that the administration is permitting high freight charges on the aqueduct supplies. He may be right in a way. But he is charging me with the responsibility. Now it happens that when the people [illegible] it was made before I was elected [illegible] necessary for the city to either build a railroad to transport its supplies over the desert or hire some one else to build one. The Harper administration made a bargain with the Southern Pacific. It was the best, probably, that could have been made, considering that the city had the railroad built for its purposes. The consideration for high rates, if they are very high, was the railroad itself. I am not saying it was a bad contract for the city, either. But I am saying that it was made before I was elected Mayor and I have no means of changing it if I wanted to. Yet they charge me with this. Men who will go on the stump and tell these miserable lies ought not have your confidence.

"And this same man says I am boss ridden. Who, for eight years, as a Supervisor, stood out against the 'solid five'? Whose orders have I followed since I have been Mayor? No one and no one ever will, for I will be my own boss. I went to the war [illegible] months after my marriage to the girl with whom I will soon celebrate our golden wedding. I stayed three years and did all of a soldier's duty, returning broken in health. I went to work for $40 a month and saved my money until I could get a piece of land and be my own boss. And I have been my own boss ever since. Don't worry about anybody bossing me. Ask those who tried it."

On the distribution of light and water the Mayor said: "They say I am to 'come through' for some real estate speculators in the San Fernando Valley. Come through with what? I'll tell you. Read article [illegible], sections 190 and 191 of the charter. You will find that the distribution of light and water must be approved by two-thirds of the voters. That is what I'll 'come through' with. I'll submit both questions to you and let you decide them for yourselves."

J. Frank Ware presided at the Moneta avenue meeting. About 125 were present. Other speeches were made by Lorin A. Handley, City Clerk, and Lewis R. Works, president of the Board of Public Utilities. Works discussed the crosstown car line question along the lines already made public.

Earlier in the evening the Mayor spoke along the same lines at a meeting at Stone's Hall, First and Chicago streets, Boyle Heights, where about 125 voters were assembled. Other speeches were made by P. A. [illegible]ulford, who presided; W. H. Smille and Charles E. Warner.

About 10 o'clock the Mayor reached [illegible]'s Hall, No. 2689 West Pico street, where about 100 were waiting for him. Haines W. Reed, candidate for the Council, presided, and speeches were made by J. P. Carter and Raymond D. Frisbie. The Mayor ended the meeting with his speech.

He did not reach the meeting at [illegible]'s Hall in Garvanza, where Frank G. Tyrrell, R. D. Wade and Councilman Whiffen, Dr. F. C. Langdon and Charles McKenzie, the latter two candidates for the Council, talked. There were about 100 present and among them some Socialists. Before the meeting was over one of the Socialists rose and asked Whiffen and McKenzie if they would promise to vote to repeal the anti-picketing ordinance if they are elected.

"I should vote just as I did before," said Whiffen, who voted for the measure.

"I will not be the special representative of either capital or labor, but will consider each question on its merits," said McKenzie.

Dr. Langdon had left the hall earlier.

BURDETTE AT THE BAT

C.

"Name a Few."

Speaking of ancient history, when I was a happy schoolboy——

"Was I so very happy, then?" Was I? Well, say! Once upon a time one of my Sunday-school boys, who was sorely dissatisfied with school and its duties and burdens, asked me:

"Pastor, honest and true, now, did you have a good time at school?"

And I had to say to him, as I repeat to you,

"My boy, no living man or boy on all this earth ever had any right to have such a good time at school as I had."

Good Times.

Good time at school. There was only one sorrowful season in all the school year. That was vacation. Vacation, when all the best boys on earth—there must have been a hundred of them, scattered to the ends of the earth, which at that time was coterminous with Peoria county, and it was hard to get a crowd of juvenile citizens numbering more than three or five, for any meritorious civic movement having to do with the communal segregation of melons, or the investigation of the best methods of removing superfluous fruit from adjacent orchards by digital adhesion.

Good time at school! What were schools instituted for, I'd like to know? They were not always assemblies of the happy and blest, I know. From certain remarks concerning the "paedagogus" by St. Paul in a letter "to the churches in Galatia," I infer that going to school in his day was not the pleasantest thing in the world. And Shakespeare's picture of "the whining schoolboy creeping like a snail unwillingly to school," does not indicate the sort of school in which I joyously learned the things I loved to study, which, it is true, did not include the entire curriculum. And "Dotheboys' Hall" was certainly a more dismal place than any jail I ever read about.

But boys are natural young radicals, and that is why the elementary and grammar schools and even the high schools have ever been more progressive than the colleges, and far more "upward and onward" than the universities. Wherefore, by the time "Hinman's" took charge of my early education, going to school had become a joy as radiant as the sun, with about as many spots of darkness as dot the shining face of that great luminary without dimming its brightness. Did I have a good time at school? Oh, man!

The Universe Is Little.

Away back in 1852 that school was an epitome of the world, which I was astonished to learn one day about that time is the planet we inhabit. Good boys, bad boys, indifferent boys, pretty girls, sweet girls, sarcastic girls, mean girls, two or three beautiful girls, fighting boys and studious boys; rich and poor, in all grades of poverty; clever and studious children; good clothes, patches and homespun; gamblers who "played keeps;" cheats, who "poked" and "fudged;" boys, as honest as the sun in the heaven; liars, and truthful boys; tricky boys and boys whose souls were synonyms for honor; girls whom a fellow would go around the block to avoid, and girls whose simple school lives were more beautiful character-builders than any moral precept in the copy book; how could any boy help having "a good time" in such a school?

For you fought and whipped, and you fought again and got beautifully trimmed. You learned to temper your elation and you learned glorious discipline in the "austere victories of defeat." Lessons that are more enduring and better than anything in the book. And that sort of thing went on through all my happy school days—grammar school and high school. Such democratic schools they were. Between the merchant's daughter and the banker's daughter in the class stood the bricklayer's son. The girls were not offended and the boy was not especially elated. In fact there were other girls beside whom he preferred to stand, and the banker's daughter much more enjoyed the recitation which brought her beside the shoemaker's son, whom she afterward married. That boy could sing notes as other boys read print. What a musician he came to be. And one of the little girls—the music-teacher's daughter—the girl with the sweet, bird-like little voice—but everybody knows the story of Emma Abbott. She was one of the girls at "Hinman's."

I've traveled over this big round world quite a "right smart" since then, and I've met a few hundred thousand men and women between east and west longitude, and south of the north pole. But very few of them were strangers to me. I'd met them all at Hinman's and in the public schools of old Peoria more than fifty years ago.

"Show Me."

But to get back to the topic of this paper. I didn't set out to be reminiscent. It reminisced itself. I remember that in the old-fashioned school books of that ancient time, among the questions printed at the bottom of the page there occurred with distressing frequency a cold instruction or command that frequently went like a knife into the heart of a glibly extemporized recitation—"Name a Few."

The ante-dated "Show me" by more than half a century. It meant the same thing. It was a cradle that washed out the dirt and left the color in the pan. A hurried glance down a page or two of the book on the way to recitation could give a fellow who could read like a proof reader a general idea what it was about, and he then had a vague text from which he could make a little erroneous preachment. But the demand for specific instances, for definite information, for authenticated cases, for corroborative facts—that remorseless "Name a Few" exposed the sham of his glittering generalities.

I remember that phrase of examination as vividly today as though I were listening again to the teacher's voice. And all the voices—Mr. Hinman's, Mr. Coy's, Mr. Conaty's, Miss Harrington's, Miss Matthews's, Mr. Fitches's, they were very different voices, but all and several they took on the same cold, incisive intonation when they said: "Name a Few." There was a question on the same page which I remember quite as well and which I am going to preach about some other day.

The Application.

High school, college, university, conscience and experience—none of the schools and none of the teachers have found a keener probe than that. When a man talks politics to me, and tells me of the degenerating influences of the principles advocated by the enemy and assures me that every man that advocates the platform of the other party is contaminated and tainted, I wait till he gets through and say, "Name a few." When the topic is religion and he tells me how certain doctrines of which his church disapproves have retarded progress, benumbered conscience and poisoned the soul, I ask him when he pauses for breath, to "Name a few." When gossip creeps in and he tells me that a certain neighbor is a liar upon whose cloven tongue the truth perishes, and whose lies are his daily speech, I wait till he pauses for my approval and insist "Name a few." When he tells me he is not as other men, but that quietly he listens and secretly he opens his hand to the cry of distress, I say "Name a few." When he tells me that he has always stood for the best and the truest and the highest in all contests for better government, I say "Name a few." I want to know some emphatic thing that he said and some particular thing that he did before election. The majority is so apt to be amazingly increased after election. A little Democrat wagon just big enough to hold a baby organ, a trombone and a piccolo is plenty big enough during an unpopular campaign for a struggling cause. But after the votes are counted and victory perches on the little print flag that was the best we could afford during the fight, then we have to have a band wagon gorgeous in gold and crimson and blue, longer than a twenty-mule borax train to hold the recruits who come swarming into it, talking faster and louder than all the veterans combined.

"A Universal Demand."

A little while ago, just after a little movement for some little local betterment had succeeded and the neighbors were talking of a permanent organization for securing the best results of the little precinct triumph, an excited man came to me to insist that a great little man who had been conspicuously, even vociferously silent during the days when the others had been enduring much pelting of mud, be placed at the head of the organization. Of course I wanted him to "Name a few" reasons.

"Because," the excited man said, "there is a universal demand for it—a universal demand."

But I said that public sentiment was so fickle, and asked him "And how recently have you been around the universe?"

Oh, my children, when men talk to you in terms of universal scope and boundless assertion, just slip the big belt off the pulley and stop the wheels long enough to say to him:

"Name a few."

FLANDERS WELL SHOD.

Nobby Tread Morgan and Wright Tires Make Their Marks in Vancouver.

The little Flanders, which has done such fine work in the run from Los Angeles to Vancouver, was equipped with Morgan and Wright tires. These tires gave elegant service and Harry Lord says he had only one puncture on the entire trip.

When runs of such length and strenuousness can be taken with so little tire trouble it emphasizes the advancement of the modern automobile tire. The tire has kept pace with the development of the motor car as shown by this wonderful record.

In his run to Vancouver, Lord encountered many bad roads and some steep mountain grades on which the car encountered miles and miles of rocky road. This was all a strain on the tires, but they stood up in fine shape.

WOMEN'S VOTES DOUBTFUL.

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 14.—County Clerk Pilch announced today that he will commence registering women as voters on Monday and that he is having the blanks necessary for that purpose printed. There has been the same controversy here among the legal lights and others over when the new measure providing for the women voting becomes effective, that is reported from other portions of the State.

Just what figure the vote of the women will cut in the coming election in this city is hard to forecast. One man who is prominent in the city affairs said today: "There is absolutely no such thing as making a poll of the votes to be cast by the women, hence we shall be compelled to hazard all kinds of guesses as to the results."

Building permits for the week just closed issued by the Riverside inspector aggregate $14,225, with a total of $30,600 for the two weeks of the present month, which is a good showing for this time of the year. In this amount is included twelve deals where the valuation is greater than $1500 and not to exceed $8000.

MITCHELL MAN HOME.

Head of the Big Factory Returns From Jaunt to Europe and Tells of Demand for Cars.

Capt. William Mitchell Lewis, president of the Mitchell-Lewis Motor Car Company of Racine, Wis., has recently returned from a short stay in Europe. The rapid development of the foreign trade in the Mitchell factory makes it imperative that these trips are made frequently for the purpose of keeping in touch with changes and developments in motor car construction. Capt. Lewis was accompanied by J. W. Bate, designer of the Mitchell car.

"So great has been the European demand for our product," says Capt. Lewis, "that we were recently obliged to open extensive quarters in London at 87 Great Portland street, which is being managed by Henry Plow. On account of Plow's familiarity with our factory organization, he is particularly well adapted to the position.

"Our Paris branch located at 20 Rue de Tilsitt, is managed by Rene M. Petard and we have other subagents scattered all over the European countries. Because of the road conditions of Russia being similar to our country highways we have created quite a business in that country, whose government awarded us a medal recently and the Mitchell car is becoming quite a familiar sight on continental roads.

"It has been the good fortune of the Mitchell interests to be pioneers in giving a maximum of efficiency and value for a low cost. There is no small amount of credit due our big organization, I think, for the two new additions just announced, the Mitchell five-passenger six-cylinder or light six, forty-eight-horse-power touring car, selling at $1750 and the Mitchell two-passenger smart gentleman's roadster, selling at $950.

"The benefit of the mechanical thought of two hemispheres is given in the product of our plant and with material first-class and Mitchell service holding the confidence of thousands of our old customers and getting that of a constantly increasing army of new ones, we feel that the future of the industry and our plant in particular is assured."

Smoke of Herbs Cures Catarrh

A Simple, Safe, Reliable Way and It Costs Nothing to Try.

This preparation of herbs, leaves, flowers and berries (containing no tobacco or habit-forming drugs) is either smoked in an ordinary clean pipe or smoking tube, and by drawing the medicated smoke into the mouth and inhaling into the lungs or sending it out through the nostrils in a perfectly natural way, the worst case of Catarrh can be eradicated.

It is not unpleasant to use, and at the same time it is entirely harmless, and can be used by man, woman or child.

Just as Catarrh is contracted by breathing cold or dust and germ-laden air, just so this balmy antiseptic smoking remedy goes to all the affected parts of the air passages of the head, nose, throat and lungs. It can readily be seen why the ordinary treatments, such as sprays, ointments, salves, liquid or tablet medicines fail—they do not and can not reach all the affected parts.

If you have catarrh of the nose, throat or lungs, choking, stopped-up feeling, colds, catarrhal headaches; if you are given to hawking and spitting, this simple yet scientific treatment should cure you.

An illustrated book which goes thoroughly into the whole question of the cause, cure and prevention of catarrh will, upon request, be sent you by Dr. J. W. Blosser, 526 Walton street, Atlanta, Ga.

He will, also, mail you five days' free treatment. You will at once see that it is a wonderful remedy, and as it only costs one dollar for the regular treatment, it is within the reach of everyone. It is not necessary to send any money—simply send your name and address and the booklet and free trial package will be mailed you immediately.

A Foreigner.

[Ideas:] A young man just returned from college was out cycling one day when suddenly he came to a steep gradient. While he was descending he lost control of his machine and was thrown.

Two men came and found him lying in that predicament. When asked how it happened, he replied: "Well, I came down that decline with the greatest velocity and lost my central gravity and was precipitated on the hard macadamized road."

"Away, lad, let him alone," replied one of the men. "He's a foreigner."

"By George, I never saw anything like the effects of that new treatment, Protone, for the building up of weight and lost nerve force. It acted moer like a miracle than a medicine," said a well known gentleman yesterday in speaking of the revolution that had taken place in his condition. "I began to think that there was nothing on earth that could make me fat. I tried tonics, digestives, heavy eating, diets, milk, beer, and almost everything else you could think of, but without result.

Any Man Or Woman Who Is Thin Can Recover Normal Weight By The Remarkable New Treatment, Protone.

"I had been thin for years, and began to think it was natural for me to be that way. Finally I read about the remarkable successes brought about by the use of Protone, so I decided to try it myself. Well, when I look at myself in the mirror now, I think it is somebody else. I have put on just 30 pounds during the last month and never felt stronger or more 'nervy' in my life."

Danderine

Grows hair and we can prove it

Hair Becomes Soft, Fluffy, Lustrous and Beautiful Immediately After a Danderine Hair Cleanse

Get a 25 Cent Bottle Now and Forever Stop Falling Hair, Itching Scalp and Dandruff

A little Danderine now will immediately double the beauty of your hair—No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Try as you will after an application of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few week's use when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it, if you will just try a little Danderine. Real surprise awaits you.

EYES OF EUROPE ON REICHSTAG.

Unwonted Interest Attaches to the Next Session.

Interpellation on Morocco Sure to Be Made.

High Cost of Food in the Fatherland an Issue.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Unwonted interest attaches to the forthcoming session of the Reichstag, which convenes Tuesday. Public curiosity as to how the proceedings will affect the international political situation is intense, as this is the last session of the present Reichstag. While a number of important bills are to be considered, the people realize that it will only be a preliminary skirmish before the general elections are fought out a few weeks hence.

Public attention is concentrated on two issues and the attitude of the government with reference to them. The Chancellor, Bethmann-Hollweg, will be called on early in the session to answer an interpellation regarding Germany's policy in Morocco. He will also be required to say what the government proposes to do regarding relieving the distress due to the enormous advance in the cost of living. Both questions are likely to prove extremely embarrassing.

Dissatisfaction with the way the Moroccan negotiations have been conducted by Herr Kiderlin-Waechter, the Foreign Secretary, has been spreading rapidly and on this point the Chancellor will find it equally difficult to placate either the extreme Conservatives or the Socialists.

A careful review of the opinions expressed by the chosen organs of the various big parties fails to disclose one word of unreserved approval. Commendation, where it is given, is lukewarm. Even among the staunchest Conservatives the feeling is reflected that Germany, in surrendering Morocco for compensations in the Congo, got the worst of the bargain. If the Chancellor avoids a direct and explicit answer he cannot prevent a debate in which his policies will be scathingly attacked.

On the question of dear food his position is equally difficult.

FLASHES

By Wire to The Times Yesterday

SANTA FE (N. M.) Territorial Treasurer Miguel A. Otero today handed his resignation to Gov. Mills. After serving as Governor for nine years, Otero was appointed Territorial Treasurer and served five years.

NEW YORK. The cost of living in the United States has been going down during the last six weeks, according to the figures compiled by the mercantile agencies here. In September the index number sank from $8.8191 to $8.8065. Declines were most noticeable in hogs and all the things which originate in pork, in mackerel, textile products and metals. Advances were scored by cheese, tea, and rice. Thirty-seven articles were dearer in September, 26 were cheaper and 42 showed no change.

Death Answered.

SIGNAL UNHEEDED; MAN IS KILLED.

SIERRA MADRE FLYER RUNS DOWN OCTOGENARIAN.

Man Supposed to Be Redlands Real Estate Broker Steps on Track to Halt Through Car and Loses His Life—Fatal Accident Occurs at Schutzen Park Station.

While standing on the track signalling an outbound Sierra Madre flyer, C. C. Newlin, about 80 years old, and thought to be a wealthy Redlands real estate man, was run down and fatally injured at Schutzen Park station shortly after six o'clock last night. He died two hours later at the Receiving Hospital.

Witnesses to the accident say that the man stepped upon the track in apparent ignorance of the fact that the car was not supposed to stop at the park station. Motorman C. E. Cowles assisted in placing the injured man aboard a car bound for the city.

An examination of the old man's effects at the Receiving Hospital resulted in the finding of several deeds and contracts.

Newlin sustained a basal fracture of the skull and several broken ribs in addition to a broken right arm. He never recovered consciousness.

The body was removed to Pierce Brothers undertaking establishment to await the Coroner's inquest.

Steps Off Car, Falls.

AGED SANTA BARBARAN'S INJURIES MAY BE FATAL.

WHILE alighting from a Pico street car at Harvard boulevard, last night, Abraham Onteverus, 52 years old, a wealthy land owner and member of the most prominent Spanish family in Santa Barbara county, was thrown backward on his head and received injuries which are likely to prove fatal.

Mr. Onteverus and his wife arrived in Los Angeles yesterday and were met at the depot by E. R. Plummer, the official interpreter of the Superior Court, a relative who was to act as host during the former's visit here. The party then boarded a Pico street car with the intention of going to the home of Mr. Plummer at No. 1202 Harvard boulevard and all were standing in the front of the car when the signal to stop was given to Motorman Capperlin:

According to the statements made to the police by witnesses of the accident, the motorman obeyed the signal and the car was said to be standing still when Mr. Onteverus started to alight. Before he reached the ground it is alleged that some one rang the starting bell and an instant later the car plunged ahead without other warning. The aged man was hurled on his head and when picked up was unconscious. He was hurried to the Receiving Hospital, where Dr. Wright announced that the skull had been fractured and that part of the brain tissue was emerging from the right ear.

It was decided to postpone an operation until the patient recovered sufficiently from the shock to withstand an anaesthetic.

Mr. Onteverus is married and has several children who live at the family home at Onteverus ranch near Santa Barbara. His brother, Dolores Onteverus, died about a year ago and left property valued at $250,000.

In addition to his large holdings in California, the injured man also is owner of one of the largest ranch properties in Mexico, where his father lived before coming to this country many years ago.

At a late hour last night Mr. Onteverus was removed to the Hospital of the Good Samaritan where subsequently it was announced that his chance of recovery was considered doubtful.

SAFE BLOWERS GET BOGUS COIN.

Chagrined They Fire at a San Francisco Cook.

Mexican Dollars Spurned by Fastidious Crooks.

Detectives Release Victim Bound With Cords.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Armed yeggmen entered the restaurant and saloon of Rerich & Micich, before midnight, and after binding and gagging Victor Valenzin, cook in the place, proceeded to blow open the safe with nitroglycerin. They were rewarded for their trouble by finding in the cash drawer two bogus $1 pieces and a bogus 25-cent piece. These coins were taken by the robbers, but they left behind them in the cash drawer of the wrecked safe three Mexican dollars and two Mexican 50-cent pieces. The men escaped, leaving their victim still bound. As they departed they fired five shots at the cook, who lay in a heap on the floor, but none of the shots took effect.

The robbers broke the combination off the safe door and poured nitroglycerin into the aperture. There was a terrific explossion a moment later. Disappointed at finding the money drawer empty, but for the worthless coins, the robbers fired five shots at Valenzin.

Policemen were attracted and sent a hurry call to headquarters. Detectives Maloney and Morris reached the scene and found their way into the saloon, where they discovered Valenzin on the floor.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

THE BOOK AND THE BELIEF.

Terse Comments Upon the Uniform Prayer-meeting Topic of the Young People's Societies—Christian Endeavor, Etc.—For October 15, "Why I Believe the Bible." Romans, 10:17; 15:4.

In these troubled, material times, when social ills are more clearly perceived than ever before, and the whole world is rocking with a strange unrest, it is well to get a firm grasp on a few definite, fundamental remedies. Many have been giving thought to a diagnosis of the ailments of our day; few have seen the cure. Resolved into its elements, the case calls primarily for the appreciation of the Book—right conduct upon the part of the individual, inspired by a clear preaching of the Word. No new-fangled medicine can heal the social ills of our time; but the way to health is plainly marked in that ever-newest of books, the Holy Scriptures. So the Christian should first of all make sure of his own relation to the Bible. Let us consider the topic, as suggested, in the first person.

I believe in the Bible because the Bible believes in man. It presents the most hopeful of all social programmes.

I believe in the Bible because I have put it to the test. That, in the long run, must be the final criterion. The book we trust is the one which has met the needs of our own personal experience.

"I believe the Bible is inspired," said Mr. Moody, "because it inspires me." What a thought-starting volume this is. Consider the mountains of books that owe their inspiration directly to its stimulus. Then think upon the thousands of sermons which are every week drawn from its pages, and the other thousands of Sunday-school lesson expositions. An exhaustless mine—a perennial spring—is this book which has triumphed over the centuries.

I believe in the Bible because it is attested by wiser men than I, men in whose scholarship, mental acumen and intellectual integrity I have confidence. The ablest minds of the Christian era have worked upon the subject of the authenticity and credibility of the Bible, and, with a very few exceptions, they have stood sponsor for it, and have accepted is as the rule of their lives. No one mind is equal to thorough research in all departments of Bible study, so wonderful is this book, and all of us are bound to defer to specialists; and upon their testimony we pin our faith.

"Last eve I stood before a blacksmith's door
  And heard the anvil ring its vesper chime:
Then looking in I saw upon the floor
  Old hammers worn with beating years of time.

"'How many anvils have you had,' said I,
  'To wear and batter all these hammers so?'
'Just one,' he answered, then with twinkling eye,
  'The anvil wears the hammer out, you know.'

"And so the Bible, anvil of God's word,
  For ages skeptic blows have beat upon;
And tho' the noise of Paine, Voltaire, was heard,
  The anvil is unworn—the hammers gone.

"Apprentice blows of ignorance, forsooth,
  May awe with sound and blinding sparks death-whirled;
The Master holds and turns the iron, His truth,
  And shapes it as He wills, to bless the world."

I believe the Bible because the more we know of the hidden history of contemporaneous events, the more definitely they testify to the essential correctness of even the incidental statements of this extraordinarily comprehensive book. Monuments, clay pottery, all bear witness to the truth of the inspired record.

I who write these lines have traveled over the Bible lands, and can testify to the correspondence between the story and its setting. Also I have seen Babylon's wastes and Assyria's ruins, and the chosen people persisting above them; and I have a new respect for the prophecies of the Old Testament, so awesomely fulfilled.

I believe the Bible because it alone among books mirrors my own heart and meets my own hidden needs.

I believe the Bible because of its own inherent evidence of a more than human origin. It testifies to itself by its correspondences, co-ordination and essential unity. No other book—or, to speak more accurately, library of books—so fits together, like trunk and branches of a tree.

I believe the Bible because I have seen it work. "The entrance of Thy word giveth light:" I have seen souls so lightened, and cultured and purified. I have seen it make bad men good, weak men strong, foolish men wise. The best books of Christian evidence are the redeemed lives all about us.

I believe in the Bible because of its sanity and its thorough correspondence with the facts of life. It is the best revealer of human nature. Other philosophies soar away from the realm of actual conditions; this one never loses sight of man as he was, is and—may become.

I believe in the Bible because through its pages walks the lovely figure of Jesus Christ, the Redeemer, who is more real and living and near than the next-door neighbor or the man at the adjoining desk. If we accept the Christ of the Bible we are bound to accept the Bible of Christ. "Search the Scriptures; for . . . they are they which testify of me."

I believe the Bible because I have studied it; the orthodoxy of a man who knows nothing about the Book he defends is of small account.

I believe the Bible because I have witnessed the work of the wondrous and mysterious Spirit of whom its pages tell, and who breathes through its words a life-giving power. One cannot carefully and reverently study history without seeing above and behind the movements of nations the intelligent purpose of an overruling being. The Spirit is understandable only to one who knows the Bible. History, life and human nature are inexplicable apart from the workings of this Spirit whose mind is revealed in the pages which He has inspired.

I believe in a Book which delivers men in temptation. "Wherewithal shall a young man cleanse his way? By taking heed thereto according to Thy Word."

I believe in the Bible as the book of life. It is the Gospel which redeems men. Given to nations, it has made them over; transformed heathendom is vindication of the Book of Good News. The difference between such a nation as Great Britain or America and, say, Russia or Japan, is at basis an open Bible.

My own experience is that the Bible is dull when I am dull.—Horace Bicknell.

No wonder people cannot speak in prayer-meeting when they daily read twenty columns of newspaper to one square inch of Bible.—H. L. Hastings.

SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS.

Opportunities do not come with their values stamped upon them; every one must be challenged.—Maltbie D. Babcock.

When my ill-schooled spirit is aflame
  Some nobler, ampler life to win,
  I'll stop and say,
  "The aids to noble life are all within."

—[Matthew Arnold.

A true life is at once interpreter and proof of the Gospel.—[Whittier.

No honor, no reward, however great, can be equal to the subtle satisfaction that a man feels when he can point to his work and say, "The task I promised to perform with all loyalty and honesty to the utmost of my ability is finished."—[Henry M. Stanley.

The wonderful thing about a man is his power to become.—[E. I. Bosworth.

The past and the future are shadows,
  The present is ours for aye,
To us it is given to build our heaven
  In the kingdom of today.

—[Anon.

The greatest man is he who chooses the right with invincible resolution, who resists the sorest temptations from within and from without, who bears the heaviest burdens cheerfully, and whose reliance on truth, on virtue, on God, is most unfaltering.—[W. E. Channing.

Stanford will be represented in the annual track and field meet of the P.A.A. to be held on the California oval, October 12. Six or seven men to be chosen next week are to be entered. California, and all the other colleges and athletic teams about the bay are to be represented. The Cardinals at first decided not to participate in the meet, but "Dad" Moulton and Track Captain Coleman were of the opinion that the meet afforded a good opportunity for some of the veterans to limber up.

When the Stomach Stops

Working Properly, Because There Is Wind in It, Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to Set It Going Again.

A Trial Package Free.

The doctors call it flatulency, but unprofessional folks know it as "wind on the stomach," and a most distressing state of things it is. It is a serious condition of this great motor organ. Always annoying and painful in the extreme, at times often leading to bad and fatal results. The stomach embarrassed and hampered with wind cannot take care of its food properly and indigestion follows, and this has a train too appalling to enumerate. The entire system is implicated—made an active or passive factor in this trouble and life soon becomes a questionable boon.

All this is explained in doctor books; how undigested food causes gases by fermentation and fomentation in which process some essential fluids are destroyed — burnt up—wasted by chemical action, followed by defective nutrition and the distribution through the alimentary tract of chemically wrong elements and as a consequence the stomach and entire system is starved. Plenty of food, you see, but spoilt in preparation and worse than worthless.

A deranged stomach is the epitome of evil; nothing too bad to emanate from it, but the gas it generates is probably its worst primary effect and the only way to do away with this is to remove the cause. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets go to the root of this trouble. They attack the gas-making foods and render them harmless. Flatulency or wind on the stomach simply cannot exist where these powerful and wonderworking little tablets are in evidence.

They were made for this very purpose to attack gas-making foods and convert them into proper nutriment. This is their province and office. A whole book could be written about them and then not all told that might be told with profit to sufferers from this painful disease, dyspepsia. It would mention the years of patient and expensive experiment in effort to arrive at this result—of failures innumerable and at last success. It would make mention of the different stomach correctives that enter into this tablet and make it faithfully represent all.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not alone intended for the sick, but well folks as well; for the person who craves hearty foods and wants to eat heartily and run no risk of bad effects, they act like a charm and make eating and digestion a delight and pleasure. They keep the stomach active and energetic and able and willing to do extra work without special labor or effort. Don't forget this. Well people are often neglected, but the Stuart Dyspepsia Tablets have them in mind.

A free trial package will be sent any one who wants to know just what they are, how they look and taste, before beginning treatment with them. After this go to the drug store for them; everywhere, here or at home, they are 50 cents a box and by getting them at home you will save time and postage. Your doctor will prescribe them; they say there are 40,000 doctors using them, but when you know what is the matter with yourself, why go to the expense of a prescription? For free trial package address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Michigan.

With the Democratic element the adoption at the special this law. At a recent meet Sacramento of prominent where J. D. Phelan, Senators Cartwright, Shanahan and Caminetti, J. A. Davis of Stockton and others were present a formal request was made on the Governor. Then the Direct Legislation League, which financed the last campaign for the I.-R.-R. amendments, put in its demand. So between his own friends and the Democrats the Governor has little means of escape including the subject in his call.

And if he does not, Taft will get the convention under the old system. If he does there is absolutely no hope of La Follette carrying the State in a primary, for he is too radical for even the radicals of California.

While there has been no organized effort to acquire a county charter for Los Angeles county it is expected that one will be made within a few weeks. Senator Hewitt, author of the new amendment, is to be the central figure in it as his construction will be followed, in all probability. Under the Constitution a county may now have a freeholder government with commission plan. It is inevitable that there will be an effort to adopt it without delay. This means another election and another campaign and another means of spending the taxpayer's money.

Being inevitable the Municipal League is looked to to take the initiative. As a preliminary is understood the organization of branches of the league in Pasadena, Santa Monica, Long Beach, Whittier and many other of the larger cities of the county will be provided. This plan has been discussed frequently but the opportunity afforded for union of all interests on a county basis has not been so good as it is now under the amended Constitution.

The coming of Lieut.-Gov. Nichols of Ohio, to the West as the advance guard of the Judson Harmon Presidential aspiration, indicates that California is regarded as something of a battle ground among the Bourbons. Los Angeles has been visited again by "Al" Murphy and Ed Rainey of San Francisco, Hearst agents, who are hoping to get a Hearst "native son" vote to give him the State delegation. It might be useful to Champ Clark later on, for there is no real belief that Hearst hopes to be nominated.

In the meantime the Woodrow Wilson organization has been extending itself to every county in the State and is looking to the Presidential preference primary as its means of cinching the delegation for the New Jersey Governor.

There is a notable silence on the part of Gavin McNab and T'dore Bell, the old time leaders. They are claimed by all factions, but it is probable each is lying low, waiting for developments.

Lieut.-Gov. Wallace of California is to reach Los Angeles tomorrow from a long trip abroad. Evidently he was not greatly interested in woman suffrage, for he dated his return after the election, although landed in New York nearly three weeks ago. From there he went to his old home in Canada and returned leisurely to meet the call of the Governor for a special session next month.

YANKEE RUNNERS HAD ADVENTURES.

MIKE RYAN AND JOHNNIE HAYES HAD BAD TICKETS.

Went to Italy to Find a Match With Dorando, but Racing Was Dead; the Time Had Expired on Their Transportation and They Had to Bluff Out of Jail.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Mike Ryan, the star distance runner of the Irish-American Athletic Club, is back from a five months' sojourn in Europe. He declares that he will do no training until next spring, when he will do hard work for the tryouts that will decide what two men will represent this country in the marathon race at the Olympic games.

"I certainly played in hard luck in the English marathon last May," said Mike today. "Everything went well with me up to the twenty-third mile, when I was taken severely sick. Up to that point I had been leading in easy manner, and would have made a new amateur record sure. It's a mystery to me even now, how I managed to keep going after passing that 'twenty-three' mark; but I struggled across the line in second place.

"When I started in that race I weighed 147 pounds. It was an extremely hot day. The heat and the sickness that attacked me reduced me just twelve pounds. In all the six years I have been running long distances, I have never before suffered so much in any race."

Ryan was accompanied by little Johnny Hayes, who won the last Olympic marathon, when Dorando, the Italian, was disqualified at London. With the exception of Mike's one race in England, neither one of them competed while traveling around Europe. They went down to Italy with the expectation that Hayes would be matched with his old rival, Dorando, but professional racing was dead there, and Johnny failed to get on the match.

"When we left Liverpool we bought tickets that were only good for eleven days," says Ryan, in telling of some of the interesting incidents of the trip. "Arriving at Rome, Johnny went looking for a race, and the days flew by more rapidly than we realized. The eleven days expired, and it began to look as though we wouldn't be able to use the remainder of the tickets, which would carry us to Naples.

"'We'll hop on the train and bluff it out,' said Hayes, when we learned that the fare to Naples would be $25 for the both of us. The first conductor wanted to put us off the train, but we both made out we didn't understand him. From then on the conductors held up the train at every station and attempted to coax us off the train, but we wouldn't budge.

"At Naples, accompanied by all the train hands, two gorgeously dressed army officials, and a couple of cops, we marched off to the jug.

"For a couple of hours we argued with the officials through an interpreter, but things began to look very black for us when the judge ordered us locked up.

"Hayes had an inspiration. 'Where's Dorando, the greatest runner in the world? I am the man they gave the Olympic marathon honors to when Signor Dorando unfortunately fell and failed to finish,' said Hayes.

"That settled it. Ah, the great Dorando! Ah, the splendid leetle Meester Hayes! Surely so fine an American he is entitled to his rights,' declared the judge. After we had given our full history from childhood up we were escorted in state to our hotel."

Ryan declares that the German athletes will be sure to make a great showing in the Olympics. He says that all the coaches of Europe are trying to find out just what Erne Hjertberg has in the way of athletic material, and that the impression prevails that Sweden will have a number of fine athletes for the big meet at Stockholm next year.

—Important Announcement to Piano Buyers, Music Lovers and Students!

50 Music Scholarships in the Well Known Von Stein Academy of Music

To Be Given FREE by the Barker Bros. Piano Dept., Beginning Tomorrow!

—Tomorrow morning, Barker Bros. will commence a distribution of music scholarships which we know will prove a feature of exceptional interest to all those who have at heart the attainment of a musical education, and who are about to invest in a piano.

Barker Bros
ESTABLISHED 1880

---Household Furnishings, Pianos, Office Equipment

October 10, 1911.

Von Stein Academy of Music,
Mr. Henrich Von Stein, City.

Dear Mr. Von Stein:

We have a desire to offer our patrons a scholarship in music that we may introduce the Baldwin line of pianos to a class of buyers who will appreciate their superior qualities.

We appreciate sincerely the patronage that you have given us in your purchase by the largest single order of pianos given by any school of music on the Pacific Coast. We have, therefore, decided to purchase of you 50 of your term scholarships at $24.00 each, the rate quoted in your prospectus, and present these scholarships to the first 50 purchasers of pianos, commencing Monday morning, October 16th. We wish to inquire if you will give us the usual dating of 30 days on this order, or what discount you will make if paid before.

Thanking you for your prompt answer, we remain,

Yours very truly,
BARKER BROS.

Messrs. Barker Bros.,
724 to 738 South Broadway, City.

Gentlemen:

Replying to your favor of the 10th inst., we beg to thank you for, as well as acknowledge, your order for fifty scholarships, each to cost $24.00, for a full term of three months, as per quotation contained in our prospectus.

While it is strictly against our rule, we have decided, in view of the large order placed by your firm—fifty scholarships of the total value of $1200.00—to extend to you the desired thirty days' dating, also the privilege of a 2 per cent. discount if paid before.

Needless to say, we will endeavor to give your patrons the very best service and attention, thus hoping to prove to you, that we sincerely appreciate your patronage as much as you appreciate our purchase of thirty Baldwin pianos, all of which, by the way, are a revelation to us in high-class piano construction.

Yours very truly,
VON STEIN ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Barker Bros. Piano Policy

—In the marketing of all the many and varied lines of household and office furnishings carried by Barker Bros., the Barker Bros.' policy demands in each and every case the very best products. The Barker Bros.' policy, in building their great and successful business, has been to conduct it without misrepresentation and by minimizing expenses and treating their patrons with liberality and utmost consideration—and it is this policy which has brought about our wonderful expansion and growth. This is the policy of our Piano Dept. also.

—Our Object in Offering These Scholarships

—In entering the piano-selling field of Los Angeles, Barker Bros. have done so with the determination not only to conduct their piano-selling along progressive, clean-cut, straightforward, legitimate lines, but also to place piano-selling methods upon a higher plane than they have heretofore occupied in Los Angeles, and to aid through a series of high-class musical events and other musical educational work, in developing an increased interest and higher standard in the musical circles of Southern California.

—The offering of these scholarships for which we have just arranged is one of the ways in which we have decided to carry on this musical development work. These scholarships—fifty of them—have been purchased from the Von Stein Academy of Music whose high efficiency and splendid faculty have brought to Los Angeles a foremost position in the West in the teaching of music. These scholarships will entitle their holders to one term of lessons, and will enable those who receive them to begin their musical education entirely without cost to themselves and under the most favorable conditions.

—These scholarships will be given, as long as they last, with each and every new piano sold, beginning tomorrow, including uprights, palyer-pianos, or grands, in any grade.

The Baldwin Piano

—The World's Foremost and Finest Make!

—In our selection of the Baldwin line of pianos, careful attention was given and a studious decision arrived at, that while the world had produced many well-made and artistic pianos, that the Baldwin Company had achieved in their acoustic construction, their long experience and unequaled facilities in manufacture, the most beautifully toned, and the most durable pianos upon the market today.

—The Baldwin Company's business has been conducted largely through their own stores, but a concession was made to Barker Bros. and the agency given for these pianos for Los Angeles, and we have every reason to feel proud of these makes which we represent and whose high standing and splendid qualities have thus far resulted in bringing to us a piano patronage that has far exceeded our most sanguine expectations. The high quality of these makes—Baldwin, Ellington, Hamilton, Howard and Monarch—together with our economized selling expenses, enables us to offer values to the piano-seeking public that we know cannot be duplicated in any other store in this city.

--A Complete and Splendid Piano Stock—All Styles, All Grades—Uprights, Grands, Player Pianos

—The Baldwin Company, in their several factories, build a full line of pianos ranging in price from $200 to $1500 and player-pianos ranging in price from $400 up to $1050. Upon our floors will be found a splendid representation of these Baldwin products in all grades and styles of uprights, grands and player-pianos.

Terms to Suit!

—In the matter of terms, we are prepared to arrange settlement to suit the convenience of each buyer, in the most liberal manner, and upon a basis that is fairest and most attractive.

—The Barker Bros.' guarantee applies to every piano sale, in the same manner and upon the same liberal basis that applies to any other transaction in our business. The Barker Bros.' guarantee means absolute, complete, and permanent satisfaction to the customer—nothing less. A piano purchase at Barker Bros. carries the utmost possible safety, and protection, as to intrinsic worth, musical excellence, and serviceability.

--Two Splendid FREE Recitals This Week---Come!

—In connection with the offer of free scholarships, which we announce today, we invite the public to a recital, to be given by the faculty of the Von Stein Academy of Music, on Friday morning, October 20, at 11 o'clock, in the large auditorium of our piano rooms, which will afford an opportunity, not only to enjoy a splendid musical treat, but to become familiar with the high quality and pre-eminence of the talent of the Von Stein Academy. This recital will be entirely complimentary—free to all—and we extend the most cordial invitation to our patrons, music lovers, prospective students and the public generally. The full program will be announced later in the week. It will be of a varied and most enjoyable character. It will be worthy of your attendance. Come!

—On Saturday afternoon, next, at 2:45 o'clock, we have arranged another musical treat—a student's recital of the Von Stein Academy of Music, which, not only from its enjoyable musical character, will afford an hour of genuine pleasure, but in its wide scope will enable the musical public to familiarize themselves with the splendid efficiency and the exceptional results attained in the musical teaching of the Von Stein Academy.

—In the recitals which will be given on Friday morning and Saturday afternoon, next, in the large auditorium of our piano rooms, we call particular attention to the Baldwin pianos, which will be used,—to their magnificent tone, in its purity and sweetness; also to the wonderful volume of tone and its remarkable sustaining qualities and its marvelous qualities of blending with voice, violin or other instruments.

Special Piano Offerings This Week

—We desire to make room for large shipments of holiday pianos which are now arriving, and on the road, and shall offer some extremely exceptional values this week in pianos that have been taken in exchange for Baldwin player-pianos and grands. These used pianos will be found exactly as advertised, will be delivered to purchasers in good condition, and sold under our liberal exchange privilege. A few of these are mentioned and described in the following list:

PATHETIC TALE OF DESERT.

Woman With Five Children and Body of Dead Husband Undergoes Many Hardships.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 14.—One of the most pathetic and tragic stories the desert country has ever produced was brought here today by Peter Blackburn of Panamint. While coming through Rose Canyon, Blackburn encountered a party of four desert teamsters on their way to Utah with the body of George L. McDermitt, and his widow and five children, the woman being at that time in a critical condition.

Seven weeks ago the McDermitts left Utah in a prairie schooner seeking a new location in this State. When a few weeks out, their cow took strangely ill and died. Next day the horses were stricken, and that night McDermitt fell ill.

For five days the brave little wife nursed her husband, cared for her children and doctored the horses, trying to get the horses in condition to resume their long journey. McDermitt died during a stormy night. Though on the verge of prostration the little woman would not give up, her five children, one an infant of eighteen months, being her constant care.

She had managed to drive the sick horses into Rose Canyon, and was on her way back to Utah with her dead when overtaken by the desert teamsters. The sturdy, kindhearted men quickly came to her aid. Abandoning their wagon and trailer, they turned her horses loose, and hitching their own team to the prairie schooner were driving the stricken family through Rose Canyon when Blackburn met them.

Mrs. McDermitt was at that time in a critical condition. It was expected to reach a mining camp fifteen miles further on, where medical aid could be obtained. When Blackburn met the party one of the teamsters was caring for the infant, washing its face and brushing its hair, his attentions being of the kindest.

LIGHT VOTE.

The official returns from Bear Valley voting precinct were received by County Clerk Post today. The returns show but two votes cast. Both voters voted on but one proposed amendment, No. 4, and both voted against it. The officers of the election, who according to popular report, were the only voters, were Dudly R. Glass and Mathew Lewis.

A Narrow Escape.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer:] "I near had a scrap this morning," confided a slender young lawyer, whom you wouldn't suspect of being belligerent.

"Who with?" we asked, with no regard for grammar.

"Jimmie Squiggs. I guess I spoke hastily to him. Anyhow, he got the idea that I wanted to lick him."

"Well, what did he do?"

"He took it on the run. Honest, he did three blocks in about twelve seconds, before I could say a word."

"That's going some for a big man like Squiggs."

"Ain't it? And it didn't do him a bit of good. I was half a block ahead of him every step of the way."

GIANTS WIN FIRST OF WORLD SERIES GAMES.

Mathewson and Bender in Superb Form Fight Splendid Pitching Duel—Athletics Score First, but McGraw's Men Tie in Fourth—Receipts of Game Total Nearly Seventy-eight Thousand Dollars.

THE National Commission announced that the paid attendance was 38,281 persons, with gross receipts $77,359. Of the gross receipts the National Commission received $7735.90; the players $41,773.86, and each club $13,924.67.

The attendance was divided as follows: 13,533 admissions at $1; 14,917 admissions at $2; 8500 admissions at $3; 1364 in boxes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—In the presence of what probably was the greatest throng of baseball enthusiasts ever gathered togethr, the National League pennant winners, the New York team, defeated the American League title holders, the Philadelphia aggregation, by a score of two to one in the first game of the series for the wordld's baseball championship of 1911 at the polo grounds. The battle was hard fought throughout, with final honors doubtful until near the end.

The National commission announced that 38,281 persons had paid admissions to witness the contest, and that the gross receips were $77,359.

From an artistic point of view the game was ordinary and there were scarcely any difficult chances or opportunities for sensational plays, such as frequently bring a crowd to its feet. It was a pitchers' battle from inning to inning, with the Indian, Bender, having the better of it during the early part of the contest. His superb breaking curves swept with blinding speed over the plate, and eleven New Yorkers, unable to fathom his service, struck out.

The Chippewa fanned Snodgrass, Merkle, Fletcher and Mathewson twice each, while Devore, Murray and Herzog swung at the ball once each. Doyle and Myers were his only opponents not retired on strikes.

Mathewson struck out Philadelphians five times. They were Lord, twice; Oldring, Baker and Barry once. Mathewson gave but one base on balls, while Bender passed four and hit one man.

Baker and Oldring, of the visitors, were the only men on either club to get more than one hit. Each got two and both of Oldring's smashes were for two bases. The only other extra base hits were made by Myers and Devore the latter's double sending the New York catcher home with the winning run in the seventh inning.

COLLINS FUMBLES.

Eddie Collins, the brilliant Philadelphia second-sacker, made a horrible bobble of an easy chance on Herzog's grounder in the fourth inning, which allowed the fast-flying Snodgrass to score from second. The run tied the score. The only other misplay was an excusable muff by Third Baseman Baker of Philadelphia, of a thrown ball by Thomas to catch Snodgrass, who was attempting to steal to third. The fleet New York runner came into the bag feet first, spiking Baker on the arm and causing him to drop the ball. The umpire had declared Snodgrass out, but changed his decision when he saw the ball roll away. The error did not affect the score, as Snodgrass was a moment later thrown out at the plate on an attempted double steal.

The Philadelphians only score was made in the second inning. Baker pushed a rattling single to right and went to second on Murphy's sacrifice. Here Mathewson sent to the batter a wide-breaking curve which fooled his own catcher, and on the passed ball, Baker took third. Capt. Harry Davis, substituting for the injured MsInnes, smashed a solid drive past short, which brought Baker across the plate.

New York, which led the National League in base stealing this year, did not run wild on the bases. Only one of three attempts at stealing was successful. That was Doyle's steal of second in the first inning.

Philadelphia tried to steal once, Baker attempting it in the sixth, but was turned back by Myer's perfect throw.

The crowd which saw the game was a wonder in itself. Solid masses of humanity banked the field bleachers, and an even greater mass faced the diamond in the monumental steel and concrete grand stand.

The day was perfect, the air being mild and the sun shining brightly.

The world's champions of 1910 were given a cordial reception, which was many times outdone, however, when the New York players appeared on the field wearing new black uniforms with white trimmings, such as they wore when they won the championship in 1905. Play was called at 2:08 o'clock, with Philadelphia at bat.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Following is the game as reported from the grounds inning by inning and play by play:

First inning, first half—Lord struck out; Mathewson's control perfect; Oldring fans; Collins flied out. Athletics, no runs.

Second half, first inning—Devore out, Bender to Davis; Doyle got a hit to right; Snodgrass struck out; Doyle stole second as Thomas's throw was low; Murray struck out. No runs.

Second inning—Baker singled to right. Murphy sacrificed, Mathewson to Merkle. On a passed ball Baker took third. Baker scored on Davis's single to left. Barry out, Mathewson to Merkle, Davis taking second. Thomas out, Herzog to Merkle. One run.

Second half—Merkle out, Collins to Davis; Herzog, who took Fletcher's place in batting order, went out when Barry threw him out at first; Fletcher struck out. New York, no runs.

Score: Athletics, 1; New York, 0.

Third inning—Baker out, Mathewson to Merkle; Lord flied out to Murray; Oldring doubled to left; Collins walked; Baker struck out. Total score, Athletics, 1; New York, 0.

Second half—It was Indian against Indians when Myers faced Bender. Myers flied out to Oldring; Mathewson fanned. The Indian's pitching was beautiful to see, his curves breaking over the edge of the plate. Devore walked; Doyle flied to Lord. New York, no runs.

Total score, Athletics, 1; New York, 0.

Fourth inning—Murphy fouled out to Myers. Davis went out, Fletcher to Merkle. Mathewson worked his famous fade-away and mixed it up with a big drop and high fast one. Barry popped to Fletcher. Athletics, no runs.

Second half—Snodgrass took his base after Bender had gotten two strikes on him. The fourth ball hit Snodgrass on the wrist. The crowd let loose and there was a pandemonium of sound. Murray out, Collins to Davis. Snodgrass took second on the play. It was an attempt at the hit and run play. Bender's blinding speed was too much for Merkle and he struck out. Collins made a mess of Herzog's grounder and Snodgrass scored. Collins tried to nail Snodgrass at the plate but the throw was a trifle wide on the play. Herzog took second. Fletcher struck out. One run. Total score, Athletics, 1; New York, 1.

Fifth inning—Thomas drove a long fly to left which Devore captured after a smart run. Bender singled solidly to center. Merkle took Lord's grounder and threw to Fletcher, forcing out the Indian. Oldring doubled to right. It was Oldring's second two-base hit. With Collins at bat the Philadelphia crowd in the stands went wild. Merkle took Collins's grounder and touched him out. It was a close play and saved a couple of runs from being scored. No runs.

Second half—Collins took Myers's grasscutter and shot it to first. Mathewson shot a single to center. It was the second hit made against Bender. Devore couldn't reach Bender's fast ones and fanned out. It was Bender's seventh strike-out. Thomas made a beautiful stop of what should have been a wild pitch by Bender. Doyle was out by the Collins-Davis route.

Sixth Inning, First Half—Baker caught a fade-away on the end of his bat and sent it to center for a single. It was the sixth hit made against Mathewson. Baker started to steal, but Murphy spoiled the play by fouling into the grand stand. Murphy sent a high fly to Snodgrass. Baker out stealing, Myers to Doyle. Herzog threw out Davis. No runs.

Second Half—Bender hit Snodgrass on the arm, the batter taking first. Murray sacrificed Snodgrass to second. Murray's bunt was taken care of by Baker who got it to Davis just ahead of the runner. Merkle struck out. Snodgrass stole third, Baker dropping Thomas's throw. Baker was spiked in the arm in the play. The game was delayed while Baker's hurts were fixed up. The official scorer gave Baker an error and did not credit Snodgrass with a stolen base, Thomas getting an assist. Herzog walked on four wide ones. On an attempted double steal Snodgrass was out at the plate. Thomas threw to Collins who snapped the ball back to Thomas who touched out Snodgrass as he slid into the plate. No runs. Total score, Athletics, 1; New York, 1.

Seventh inning, first half—Barry struck out. Thomas flied to Snodgrass. Bender went out, Fletcher to Merkle. No runs.

Second half—Fletcher grounded to Davis and was out. Myers doubled. Mathewson struck out. Myers scored on Devore's double to left. Doyle walked. Snodgrass fanned. One run. Score: Athletics, 1; New York, 2.

Eighth inning—Lord fanned. Oldring flied to Devore. Collins out, Mathewson to Merkle. No runs.

Second half—Murray flied to Lord. Merkle beat out a bunt. Herzog fanned. Fletcher flied to Murphy. No runs.

Ninth inning—Baker grounded out to Merkle. Murphy flied to Myers. Davis out; Fletcher to Merkle. No runs.

FINAL SCORE.

New York, 2; hits, 5; errors, 0.
Philadelphia, 1; hits, 6; errors, 2.

WHAT THE RIVALS SAID OF THE GAME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—"We captured one game, and we expect to get the others," remarked Manager John McGraw tonight.

There was no gloom in the Philadelphia team when the players reached their hotel after the game. Connie Mack said:

"One swallow doesn't make a summer, you know. While we lost the opening game, it doesn't mean that we will lose the series. My boys played fine ball, and a team that plays up to its season's standard is in it until the finish. Mathewson has no terrors for us like he had in 1905. The lucky breaks of the game were against us today, but wait until next week. McGraw has a fine ball team and so have we. If we had not, we would not be playing for a world's championship a second time in two years."

HOW QUAKERS FEEL OVER THE DEFEAT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 14.—"Wait until Monday," was the expression often heard in the big crowds gathered about the various bulletin boards this afternoon after learning that Philadelphia had been defeated in the opening game of the world's series.

The defeat of Philadelphia was taken good-naturedly by the crowds, but often the sentiment was expresed "Bender pitched too good a game today to lose."

NO COMPLAINTS ON OHIO STATE GAMES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CLEVELAND (O.) Oct. 14.—Cleveland and Cincinnati split even in a double-header here today. The first went eleven innings and the second was called at the end of the sixth because of darkness.

First game:

	R.	H.	E.
Cincinnati	7	14	0
Cleveland	5	9	2

Batteries — Gaspar, Fromme and McLean, Clarke; Krapp, Boskette and Easterly.

Second game:

	R.	H.	E.
Cincinnati	1	6	1
Cleveland	5	8	0

Batteries — Humphries, Boyd and Clarke; James and Easterly.

VERY EASY VICTORY FOR STANFORD MEN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PALO ALTO, Oct. 14.—Outweighed and outplayed, the University of Nevada Rugby team went down to defeat here today at the hands of the Stanford 'varsity fifteen. The final score was 41 to 0.

Brown, a full-back for Stanford, played a star game, converting all but two goals. Dole was the best of the forwards.

The Stanford freshmen and Santa Clara College team played a 0-0 game before the 'varsity contest. Below is the line-up in the Stanford-Nevada struggle:

Stanford—Corbett, A. Sanborn, W. L. Smith, Dole, Darsie, Schaupp, Gard, forwards; Cass, half-back; Harrigan, f. f.; Riesling, s. f.; Erb, c.; F. Sanborn, King, w.; Brown, fullback.

Nevada—Harriman, Settlemeyer, Anderson, Finney, Holmes, Perkins, Layman, Charles, forward; Menard, half-back; Bringham, f. f.; Knight, s. f.; Curtin, c.; McPhail, Wilson, w.; Sitz, fullback.

WHITE SOX IN FRONT.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] The Chicago-American League team won its second successive game from the local National League team in the series today, 8 to 7. A snappy double play by McConnell in the ninth inning with two out and two on bases saved the the champions.

game for the American leaguers. Eight pitchers were in the contest, each club using four pitchers.

U.S.C. LOSES TO U.C. AT FOOTBALL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERKELEY (Cal.) Oct. 14.—The University of California freshman Rugby team defeated the University of Southern California fifteen here today by a score of 15 to 0.

The State University players were outweighed, but their superior speed and effective team work offset this advantage, the Southerners having had only three weeks' experience at Rugby. Parrish, the freshman center of the Berkeley team, was the star performer.

The game was delayed ten minutes owing to a protest by the Southerners against alleged roughness on the part of the University of California players.

The University of California 'varsity team defeated the Barbarians 14 to 3. Allen made a sensational run of seventy-five yards.

STANFORD WALKS ALL OVER NEVADA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY (Cal.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Stanford, 41; Nevada, 0. The University of Nevada Rugby team was easy pickings for the Cardinal University this afternoon. Stanford registered nine tries, seven of which were converted by Brown, Cass holding the ball. The sagebrushers were outclassed despite the absence of Kern, Geissler and Partridge from the Cardinal line-up.

The Stanford team put up a good game, both in the scrum and backfield, its exhibition of Rugby being as good as has been seen here this season. Nevada never had a look-in. The visitors were kept busy stopping up passing rushes and trying to check the onslaught of the opposing forwards and had little opportunity for offensive work. In the first half Stanford scored three times, Brown converted all the tries. In the second period Nevada began to weaken and Stanford scored almost at will. Harrigan and Risling, in the five-eighths position, worked well. Cass, at half, was steady and got the ball to the backs consistently. Kenney Dole stood out the forwards. The freshmen and Santa Clara College battled to a scoreless draw. Tommy Yborrando, the Catholics' captain, pulled off several hurdling stunts, which, while spectacular, were not effective in advancing the ball.

FIESTA PARK SOCCER.

The second game in the soccer league will be played this afternoon at Fiesta Park, between the Rangers and the Clan Camerons. That the interest in this sport is increasing, is shown by the attendance at the game, which is much larger than at this time last year. Last Sunday the Rangers had a walkaway in the game with the Hibernians and they are out this afternoon to show that they are head and shoulders above all of the teams in the league. The line-up which the Clans present, however, promises to make it interesting for the champions.

To Check Slaughter.

SALIENT CHANGES IN NEW FOOTBALL RULES.

ON AN incompleted forward pass, the ball to be brought back to the point of the preceding down and a penalty of a down inflicted.

Any forward pass which is made from behind the goal line and which is not fully completed will be ruled a safety, irrespective of the down.

If on any play the ball strikes an official it shall continue to be in play.

The man carrying the ball cannot be helped by any other player of his team, and any man who, accidentally or not, places a hand on the runner to assist him shall have the penalty imposed upon him.

There shall be two minutes' intermission between the first and second and the third and fourth periods, during which time no player shall leave the field.

Above mentioned are the most important changes in the football rules this year, and every coach, player and official should make note of these alterations in order to avoid disputes or wrangles so unpleasant to spectators, writes Walter H. Eckersall in the Chicago Tribune.

Two of these changes were adopted at a meeting of coaches, players, and officials held in New York on Friday, at which Walter Camp presided, and there is every reason to believe the alterations will be adopted in other sections of the country. Both appear to be for the betterment of the game and are easy to interpret.

The eastern body drew up a resolution which reads that any forward pass which is made from behind the goal line and which is not completed shall count as a safety against the offending team, irrespective of the down. The former ruling called for a safety only on the third down, but there were few of these made, because a clever field general or a heady captain never would take a chance with a forward pass under the shadows of his own goal posts.

BALL STRIKING AN OFFICIAL.

The other important amendment adopted in the East relates to a ball striking an official. Under the old ruling, when the oval struck an official it was declared dead on the spot, but this season the ball shall remain in play regardless of the fact of its striking one of the arbiters.

It will be remembered Minnesota scored a touchdown against Michigan last fall in the first quarter of the game when the ball struck Umpire Hinckey after a blocked kick. The oval was picked up by one of the Gopher players, who planted it under the posts. Referee Hackett ruled the ball struck Hinckey and was dead on the spot. If this year's ruling had been in effect at that time, the result of this stubbornly fought game, which resulted in a 6 to 0 victory for Michigan, might have been the reverse.

If the eastern interpretation in regard to assisting the man with the ball is rigidly enforced, players will have to be careful about touching the runner. In other seasons officials were instructed to discriminate between accidental and deliberate helping of the runner, but at the eastern meeting a ruling was adopted that the side in possession of the ball shall be penalized if any member of the offensive team even touches the runner.

COACHES LIKE NEW RULES.

Expressions of keen satisfaction over the rules and the outlook for good football were the keynotes of the meeting in the eastern metropolis. Mentors of the leading eastern colleges asserted the present rules, if thoroughly learned and rigidly enforced by officials, will place the great college game on the same plane of interest as it was when the code was changed so drastically in the winter of 1905-06.

With every team of football importance in hard training and taking into consideration the matches which were played yesterday, one cannot help but appreciate the efforts of the coaches to devise strategic ground gaining plays under the strict limitations of the changed rules. The team play and individual efforts will show still greater progress along the lines of deceptive movements which will tend to put the defensive team in an awkward position for meeting what will be the ultimate opening up of the different plays.

One of the new problems which the coaches will endeavor to solve this season will be how to conserve the energies of the four men upon whom almost solely is placed the burden of carrying the ball, for it is these players who must provide the quick and active defense necessary in these days of forward passing, onside kicking and the shifting of tackles, guards or ends for quick assaults.

OTTO SEILER AN EXAMPLE.

Probably the best exhibition of the conservation of energy exercised in the West last year was in the case of Otto Seiler, the University of Illinois great kicker. In almost every game Seiler was taken out of the fray in the second quarter and held in readiness to be placed in the game again as soon as the Orange and Blue eleven had worked the oval down the field within striking distance of Seiler's drop kicks. The brainy work of the Illinois coaches in this respect should be a mighty good example for other football tutors to follow.

HARVARD HAS THREE SQUADS.

After two days' preliminary work on the football field, Coach Haughton, of the Harvard eleven, yesterday afternoon split his squad of more than sixty-five players, into first and second teams. There were three full elevens of the scrubs, while there were sufficient first-string men to furnish one eleven, with a full complement of substitutes and another complete team besides.

POOR MATERIAL AT CHICAGO.

According to football men who watched yesterday's initial training of the football squads from the University of Chicago and Northwestern, these two institutions have about the worst material Coach Stagg and Coach Hammett have ever had to handle. Neither of these representatives of the big eight conference is expected to measure up to anything like the pace to be set by the other elevens in the conference.

WHITE HOPE FOR MIDDIES.

Brown, who made the Naval Academy football team last year, his first in the academy, and who was considered an All-American guard by several of the experts, returned to Annapolis yesterday. He weighs over 200 pounds and is in splendid condition. The big problem for the coaches this year is to find heavy men for the two tackle and one guard positions, which were vacated by graduation. The new class has been scoured, but no very big men have been found. However, the coaches have brought to light, four youths, each weighing about 180 pounds. They are Derode, Perry, Alexander, and Howard, and they are being given special attention.

THE ORIGINAL NEAL THREE-DAY DRINK HABIT TRE

Not a Sobering-Up Process but Removal of All Al Strong Beverages Without Hypodermic I

In an attempt to free himself from the Chain of Remorse accompanying Failure, the "moderate drinker" will drink more deeply; but he will but forge another and stronger chain.

He tries to accomplish the impossible—make a Right of two Wrongs; he attempts to add Weakness to Weakness and make Strength.

Any kind of liquor drinking—moderate, steady, periodic—any kind of alcoholic liquor—brings the same result—an alcoholic-poisoned system. The poison is cumulative, causing a peculiar kind of nervousness which extends to every vital organ of the body. It dominates the brain—and this nervousness responds to no other sedative than alcohol in ever-increasing quantities. That is why a real, good, true man continues to drink, once he starts—why he can't stop.

The Neal is the one perfected treatment for liquor drinking—the one that brings positive, sure, certain results in each case in just three days—a longer period would be superfluous.

The liquor drinker can come to the Neal Institute today, take the Neal Treatment for three days—a compound less harmful than coffee—and go home at the end of the Third Day with a system freed of every trace of the alcoholic poison—the poison that has been keeping his mental and physical health long; go home at day craving li craved the first home at the strong, steady them; with an renewed, and will not allow til success is himself.

FOR SALE—
THE PIANO OPPORTUNITY YOU'VE BEEN LOOKING FOR.
We're one price (your protection) remember that.
Payments arranged to suit your convenience, remember this.
Never mind our reasons for these unusual piano bargains. Look at the prices and the descriptions.
IVERS & POND—Elegant mahogany hand-carved case; can hardly be told from new. Left on sale. Originally purchased for $500. Price now $235.
KRAKAUER—Fine walnut case, large size. The local dealer who handles this make asks $450. Practically new. Price now $180. This is the biggest value for the money you will find anywhere in Los Angeles. Remember the price of this Krakauer piano is only $180 now.
KELLER & SONS—Walnut case, full sized, genuine ivory keys. Used about two years. Has been thoroughly overhauled. Price now $130.
OAKLAND—Beautiful colonial case, genuine San Domingo mahogany, hand-polished. To hear this piano is to want it. The only reason for the price is we traded a player piano for it. $235 now.
NEW ENGLAND—Elegant genuine Circassian walnut case, satin-finished, looks like new. Beautiful tone. Be sure and see this one. Price now $215.
Come Monday morning, early. These are only a few of the bargains we offer in used pianos; there are plenty more, some of them brand new and every one of them a thoroughly reliable standard make. To appreciate both the pianos and the prices—you will find it very easy to make comparisons, but let us repeat: Come early, for these pianos at prices ranging from $90 up will find ready buyers.
HOLMES MUSIC CO., 422 Broadway.

BIGGEST PIANO HOUSE IN LOS ANGELES
FORCED OUT BY LANDLORD.
Every piano and player piano must go regardless of loss. Think of seeing such celebrated makes as Decker, Weber, Lester, Knabe, Steinway, Schubert; there are dozens of famous makes that ordinarily sell for $500 to $800, now offered at $121, $127, $139 and $167. Name your own terms, buy your piano at your own price, but act quickly. Pianos must be sold if we have to sell them for $50 apiece. Remember the name and number.

KNOCKOUT BROWN HAS AN OFFICIAL MASCOT.

Whenever Knockout Brown attends a fight on a night on which he himself is not working, everybody who sees him for the first time asks the identity of the little hunchback that follows in the trail of the boxer no matter where he goes.

We'll yet you in on the secret. The little cripple is Toby Volin, a Brooklyn youngster, and he's Brown's official mascot. Toby formerly labored in a similar capacity for Stanley Ketchel, but when the poor fellow was murdered, Dan Morgan, K. O.'s manager, quickly signed him up. Toby is no tyro in the mascoting business. He draws a regular salary and rides all over the country with his famous boss. He is always on hand when Brown fights, and just before the gong rings, climbs into K. O.'s corner to have his hump rubbed by K. O. According to Brown and Morgan, this means certain defeat for the opposing boxer.

Since Brown has been under the management of Morgan he has lost just three battles, according to the general opinion, and these have been against Sammy Smith, the second Murphy contest, and the recent Matt Wells engagement, and, strange to relate, all three were attended by "Daddy" Brown.

But it isn't here where Morgan's superstition ends. There is a jinx that he always tries to keep away from the clubs where Brown fights, and you can't guess who this hoodoo person is! It is none other than Brown's dad—and Morgan has a fit every time he sees the "old man" at the ringside.

The first time that Mr. Brown went to a fight it was at the Smith bout at the National Sporting Club. Morgan invited him to be present at this one; but when he looked at the papers next day and saw that the majority of experts rendered decisions against his boy he said, "Nix on the fights for 'Old Man' Brown in the future."

Thereafter, often Mr. Brown asked his son or Morgan to provide him with a ticket for a show where Valentine boxed, but he was always told to stay away, as he was a jinx.

"Pa" Brown didn't really know what the jinx was, as he is not very well versed in the American vernacular, but he thought it must be something dangerous, so he kept out of sight when his youngster boxed.

But reading column after column about his son, and having every one ask him why he didn't witness his son's battles, got him aroused by the time of the second Murphy scrap in Brooklyn, and he repeatedly asked for a ticket for the affair. Of course, being the "jinx" of the family, he was ignored.

However, on the night of the fight, even though he didn't have more than 10 cents in his pocket (the missus always seeing to it that he never has any more) he got into the show some way or other. Some say that one of the club members recognized him, told the management who he was, and got him in. At any rate, Morgan got a squint at him and threw up his hands.

Since that defeat Mr. Brown never expressed any desire to see his offspring fight, and he got so that he felt confident himself K. O. would win if he stayed away.

When the Wells bout was arranged Morgan determined right there and then that his chances of having Val come out victor would be enhanced if Dad Brown was not present; so the night of the scrap he had a taxicab hired and had it go down to Brown's house. Mr. Brown was compelled to get in it, it first being assured that he didn't have more than a quarter in his possession, and the chauffeur instructed to drive around until after the fight.

In some mysterious way Mr. Brown managed to break out of captivity, and just before the Brown and Wells bout was scheduled to start at the garden he hurried in, at the same time trying hard to keep out of the sight of Morgan.

However, some friend of Morgan recognized Mr. Brown, and he rushed to Dumb Dan and told him. Dan turned white with rage, and he remarked to one of his close friends that he had a hunch that Brown "wasn't right" and was apt to lose.

"The next time Brown fights I'll have his old man locked up," says Morgan.

NOBLE'S MEN WIN ONE-SIDED GAME

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 7.—The inexperienced San Berdoo High team was no match for the fast and tricky Hill-Top boys, and lost a one-sided game by the score of 26 to 0.

The High School back field outclassed their rivals in the passing game and carried the ball at will, going across the line four times in the first half and twice in the second period.

Candee and Brooks were particular stars for the city players, pulling off some clever stunts in the scoring line.

The San Berdoo Scrum about broke even in the heeling out but their backs could do nothing with the ball when they got it. Their team was quite a bit below the average, but they may improve before the end of the season as many of their players are new to the game.

SUFFRAGISTS ARE GLEEFUL.

Crown City Meeting Hears Speeches of Exultation.

Rev. Hughes Points to His Continued Advocacy.

Ten-Year-Old Boy Is First Postal Depositor.

[Office of The Times, 52 S. Fair Oaks Ave.]

PASADENA, Oct. 15.—Pasadena suffragists celebrated their victory at last Tuesday's election with a rally at Maccabee Auditorium last night, at which Rev. Matt S. Hughes, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, was the principal speaker.

He won the interest of his hearers from the start by opening his address with, "Fellow citizens."

"I was," he continued in part, "so fortunate as to have been one who addressed you at the first meeting held in Pasadena in the interest of women's suffrage. But that was not the first time I interested myself in the cause. I first became interested in it in Maine, twenty-one years ago. I believe that it is a matter of political economy, or in oether words, that women must take a part in national housekeeping.

"We have experienced many varieties of emotion during the last week, and it's wonderful how many different kinds of emotion one may experience upon the same subject. It is altogether a matter of the point of view you take.

"I think the time has come now in California when we should cease making a distinction between the sexes. There exists nothing truer than that the interests of women are the interests of men, and that the interests of men are the interests of women, and anything antagonistic to this is bound to be unwholesome in its effect. There is no question that does not touch the hearthstone sooner or later.

"Women are seriously interested in this question of war. In fact, the burden of war falls upon women more than it falls upon men. It is much harder to stay at home and send your loved ones to the front than it is to go yourself."

Another speaker was Mrs. B. D. Fisk of New York.

"Do not think that your work is all done," she said. "It is just begun. There remains much to be done by the women who want to be intelligent voters. Do not think of the women's party any longer. We are human beings. Now we are citizens of this great and glorious republic. It is not a question of sex now, but a matter of citizenship, and whether you are a man or a woman it makes no difference when it comes to settling these great problems.

"Do not think that women cannot fill offices. They are not going to seek them. But if you feel that a woman can fill an office as well as a man do not hesitate to place her there because she is a woman. Put her there because she is a citizen."

Several other well-known women took part in the programme, among them Rev. Helen B. Van Anderson Gordon of San Francisco.

CITY BRIEFS.

Russell E. Stone, a 10-year-old boy who lives at No. 1788 Summit avenue, stood in line three hours yesterday morning in order to be the first depositor in the new postal savings bank which opened for business at the postoffice at 9 o'clock. His deposit was $3. The day brought many other depositors and indications are that the bank will have all the business it can attend to.

Mayor Thum will probably authorize the contracting firm of Meesmer & Rice, to whom the contract was awarded, to begin work on the new Columbia street bridge next Tuesday. City Attorney Carr went to Los Angeles yesterday with contracts to which he secured the signatures of officials of the railway companies that are to co-operate with the city in bringing about the improvement.

Charles J. Fox, son of Richard K. Fox, publisher of the Police Gazette, who has spent several winters in Sierra Madre and other parts of Southern California, has determined to settle permanently in Pasadena. Last week through the E. E. Sisson Company he purchased a six-room bungalow at No. 1183 North Michigan avenue, where he will also build a garage.

James Harrison of No. 714 Locust street, yesterday received a letter from James Brown, formerly of Pasadena, but who is now living in the Panama Canal zone, in which the writer gave an interesting account of the progress made.

Elmer Grey, a well known Pasadena architect, expects soon to break ground for the erection of a handsome residence on Oak Knoll. He will build on El Molino avenue. The site adjoins the grounds of the palatial Story residence.

A house warming next Thursday will mark the opening of the enlarged parish house of All Saints Episcopal Church. Several rooms have been added to the building, which has been remodeled and renovated throughout.

E. D. Sexton, of New York, a well-known Bible lecturer, is scheduled to speak at the Board of Trade rooms tomorrow night.

A. Brazier Howell, who comes from Baltimore, has purchased through the David Blankenhorn Company, for a consideration of $25,000, an orange grove near Covina.

With the opening of the new Young Men's Christian Association building, a change will be made, beginning today, in the order and times of Sunday afternoon meetings. Y.M.C.A. services have been held in Library Park at 3 o'clock each Sunday afternoon. Hereafter they will take place in the auditorium of the new building and the meeting time will be an hour later, it was announced at the dedication of the building last Thursday night. The Women's Christian Temperance Union will hold a meeting in the park at 4 o'clock this afternoon. M. W. Atwood will speak on "The Southern California Home for Women."

The arrangements for the visit to the city tomorrow of President Taft were complete last night and the luncheon at the Hotel Maryland will be attended by a large number of prominent residents of the city. All guests must be in their seats by 12:45 o'clock. Thousands of blossoms are on hand for the decoration of the tables, which will be arranged in the form of an immense American flag.

As a benefit for the rest room fund of that organization, Ellen Beach Yaw will sing at the Shakespeare Club, October 23.

A special missionary service will be held at the Lake Avenue Presbyterian chapel at 11 o'clock this morning. The speaker will be Rev. Charles E. Hurlburt, a missionary to Kajabe, British East Africa.

Mrs. Julia M. Mitchell, a prominent club woman of the city, is the first Pasadena woman to register. She qualified to cast her ballot at the next election, yesterday. I. N. Smith, secretary to Mayor Thum and who is a deputy registration clerk, registered her name.

The game between the Crown City baseball team and the Division No. 1 team of the Los Angeles Railway Company at the Raymond Park this afternoon promises to attract a large crowd. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

Lancaster.

BIG LAND SALE PUT THROUGH.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC SELLS SIX THOUSAND ACRES IN BODY.

Los Angeles Syndicate Acquires Splendid Tract, Which Will Be Utilized to Grow Alfalfa and Hogs. Lancaster Realty Men Are Delighted Because of Activity.

LANCASTER, Oct. 14.—Six thousand acres of land in a body, sold to a company of Los Angeles capitalists, in the vicinity of Neenach in the west end of the Antelope Valley, to be turned into a large alfalfa and hog ranch, is the best development news this valley has received lately.

The Almondale Land Company, with J. M. Danziger, Dr. C. M. O'Leary and J. Pitts of Los Angeles as chief stockholders, has acquired this acreage during the past week, buying most of it from the Southern Pacific Company, and extensive improvements are already planned.

Surveyor Sorenson of Los Angeles, with a full crew, is now surveying the land, and will be in the field several weeks; a contract is to be let at once for the sinking of the first well, on section 15, to a depth of probably 800 feet, and when that is finished as many other wells as necessary will be put down on the same section, as the plans of the company call for the planting at once of that whole section to alfalfa, this first 640 acres to be the initial unit of the extensive alfalfa plantings which will come later.

Heretofore lands owned by the Southern Pacific Company in the Antelope Valley have been so firmly held that it has not been easy to purchase them, but possibly this sale is an indication of a change of policy on the part of the company and that their lands will be put on the market for settlement.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The largest artesian well so far developed in the Antelope valley was brought in this last week on the J. H. Woollet ranch, just west of the city limits of Lancaster. The well is flowing steadily from 160 to 170 inches, the column of water rising, according to Mr. Woollett, 22 inches above the 6-inch casing of the well. It would seem that the possibilities of the artesian strata in this valley have not yet been fully determined.

The death of J. M. Overshiner in Chicago last week, one of the strong advocates of mining development in the Willow Springs and Rosamond districts of the Antelope Valley, will be felt by many who knew him well in this section. The Tiger Head Mining Company, of which he was president, had done much development work, and Mr. Overshiner, though 74 years of age, had spent several winters in the vicinity of the mine actively looking after its working. He was well known in business circles in the East, being president of the Swedish-American Telephone Company of Chicago and of the Elwood Tin Plate Company of Elwood, Ind., as well as being actively interested in numerous other enterprises.

Good news for Lancaster and the Antelope Valley was contained in the recommendations of the Route Committee of the Southern Salifornia State Highway Association, that the route of the interior road of the State highway system pass through the Antelope Valley and the town of Lancaster and thence south through the Bouquet Canyon to Saugus and Newhall tunnel. There is little doubt that the recommendations will be confirmed by the Board of Supervisors and by the California Highway Commission. This will put Lancaster on one of the two main traveled roads of the State.

It is reported that D. D. Bronson, general inspector of forestry for the government, will recommend that some 8000 acres near Palmdale now included in the Santa Barbara Forest Reserve, be released for agricultural settlement.

The election on amendments last Tuesday called out but a meager vote in this precinct, hardly a third of those registered feeling it incumbent on them to go to the polls. In some other sections of the Antelope Valley even a smaller percentage of voters turned out to do their duty.

The apple crop from the Cram ranch in the west end of the valley, amounting to about 1500 boxes, has been sold to a wholesale house in Los Angeles, the price paid being, it is said, the highest ever paid in Southern California. The crop is of the Spitzenburg variety almost entirely, and particularly choice.

TOWN GROWS IN A DAY.

Glendale Annexationists Have Their Own Way and Take in Considerable New Territory.

GLENDALE, Oct. 14.—The annexation election held here today was devoid of special interest because there was no organized opposition to the measure. The area taken in by today's vote adds about 30 per cent. to the size of the city. In the acquired territory the vote was 128 for and 20 against and in the city it was 178 for and 11 against.

Long Beach.

CONSUMERS IMPATIENT.

Long Beach Council Receives a Tart Petition.

Immediate Reduction of Gas Rates Demanded.

Patent Office Upholds Rights of Beach Concern.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 14.—Unless the unexpected happens the City Council will next week adopt ordinances fixing the rate for gas at $1 per thousand and electric lights at 8 cents per kilowat. This action follows the presentation last night of an initiative petition presented by the Progressive League.

The gas and electric light companies submitted a communication offering to install the dollar gas rate July 1, 1912, and a 9 cent electric rate on January 1, and an 8-cent rate in July, 1913, but this was not agreeable to the petitioners, who threatened if the Council did not adopt their rates that the ordinance would be submitted to the people direct.

Pending ordinances, which it was alleged favored the gas company, were then killed by the Council by a vote of 4 to 2 and the initiative ordinances passed to their third reading, pending a report from the City Clerk as to the sufficiency of the petitions, when if found favorable, the ordinance will be passed and become effective at once. It will probably be resisted by the two companies, officials of which state that they have been under great expense the past two years and the revenues derived do not constitute a fair profit because of the great expense involved in the purchase of three antiquated gas plants and their transformance into a modern system, and in the case of the electric light, because of the outlay which the company is experiencing in constructing their $200,000 power plant on the inner harbor.

IN THEIR FAVOR.

The Long Beach Electrical Company, located at Third and Main streets, Los Angeles, and which manufactures an electrical fuse, today received notice that the Patent Office had decided in their favor in a suit for interference of patent which the inventor of the fuse, Samuel Estell, brought against Agostine Orelli for interference of patent.

A year ago Orelli served notice on the company that they were infringing on a patent secured by him, and tied up further manufacture. A suit against Orelli was decided in his favor by Judge Monroe, and then the company went direct to the patent office.

From the evidence brought out before H. E. Stauffer, the examiner in interference, it was shown that Orelli, as a foreman of the company, was shown Estell's improvement on the Tidmarsh patent fuse, and he made some modifications and secured a patent. Stauffer finds that this is true and that the patent even with the detail changes of Orelli, belongs to Estell by right of priority. The company will resume the manufacture of the fuses at once.

NEAR RIOT.

A near riot occurred in the Council chamber last night when advocates and opponents of the existing industrial district bordering on the Salt Lake tracks on Alamitos avenues between Second and Sixth streets clashed in the advocacy of continuing the present industries and of removing them from the territory altogether. Personalities were indulged in and it was with great difficulty that order was restored. Finally a pending ordinance regulating the matter was deferred one week.

PORT NEWS.

Mayor C. H. Windham, C. A. Buffum and H. S. Callahan, who went to San Francisco this week to interest northern shipping in the local harbor, reported to the Council last night that they had interviewed nearly twenty steamship lines and shipping companies and aroused considerable interest. Three of the lines will send representatives here in the next few days with a view of making Long Beach a port of call.

TWO BURGLARIES.

Two burglaries and several attempts were reported to the police today. The grocery of William Bowers was entered by cutting a screen and the day's cash receipts taken, it being the first time Mr. Bowers had ever neglected to take them home with him. Quan Lee, a Chinese laundryman was robbed of $70, the thief reaching into his window with a long pole and removing his trousers to the outside where they were found rifled this morning. In three other cases the thieves were frightened away.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Plans for the Cage submarine, models of which have been tried out at Balboa, have been completed by John F. Craig and work on the first one will be commenced this week. The submarine will be built of steel and will be seventy-five feet long and seven and a half feet in diameter.

Edwin J. Culbertson, for whom the authorities have been looking since last June on a non-support charge, surrendered himself to the Justice this morning and was held to answer for the charge. Culbertson says he is tired of dodging the law and wants to have his case settled.

At a largely attended session of the City Club tonight Congressman W. S. Stephens addressed them on the "Business of Congress." Later he was in conference with the quintet of candidates of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League, who are seeking to step into Postmaster Hirsch's shoes because the Postoffice Department has seen fit to change the name Longbeach to Long Beach, thereby creating a new office and according to the Congressman's idea, creating a new postoffice. The result of the conference was not made known tonight.

Arguments on the demurrer filed against the complaint charging the manager of Hotel Virginia with violating the liquor ordinance were heard today by Judge Hart and occupied the entire day. The defense attacked the complaint on technical grounds and also alleged that the ordinance was unconstitutional. The judge took the matter under advisement until Monday.

SUPERVISORS AND SHERIFF.

Will Be Banqueted by Azusa Chamber of Commerce as Manifestation of Gratitude.

AZUSA, Oct. 14.—On Thursday evening next the Chamber of Commerce will give a banquet at the Fothill Inn in honor of the County Supervisors and Sheriff. The occasion will be one for expressing appreciation of what has been done this summer in the way of improving the road to the San Gabriel Canyon, and also for discussing other matters of public interest. Prof. James S. Denton will be toastmaster. Hon. Charles Silent and other prominent men will speak.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Mr. Hughes, representing the American Safety League, whose headquarters are in Los Angeles, on visiting the Azusa grammar school, was delighted with the way in which the pupils went through with their fire drill. All the rooms were emptied in fifty-five seconds.

The first primary room, which has had seventy pupils, was divided this week and part of the children placed in charge of the newly-appointed teacher, Miss Elizabeth Robinson. They will occupy the room formerly occupied by the Azusa Woman's Club, but the time is not far distant when a new school building will be imperative.

WILL HONOR THE PRESIDENT.

Pomona's Mayor Declares a Holiday and the Town Will Unite in a Demonstration.

POMONA, Oct. 14.—Arrangements are now all completed for the reception of President Taft and his party when they arrive here at 1:40 o'clock on the afternoon of Tuesday. President Morris H. Wilson of the Board of Trade, a former resident of Cincinnati, who was instrumental in getting the President to stop here for ten minutes, and other officials, have planned to extend a rousing greeting to the President. Mayor Matthews has proclaimed Tuesday from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. a legal holiday here, and it is desired that all business houses be closed in honor of the Presidential visit.

There will be a big demonstration at the Salt Lake depot and hundreds of pennants and banners will be carried. A trained band of Pomona High School and Pomona College students will give the Yale yell. Baskets of fruits and flowers will be presented to the Presidential party, and the President will be presented with a large key to the city, made by the pupils in the sloyd department of the public schools. Local members of the Ohio Association will gather in a body around the Ohio banner at the railway station, and visitors are expected from all parts of the valley.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Dr. Alfred C. Reed, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Reed of this city, who is now in the United States Marine Hospital Service, is at present stationed at Ellis Island, New York, where he is a member of the inspectors who make the examinations of incoming emigrants.

Workmen have commenced to tear down the old Pilgrim Congregational Church at the corner of Third and Thomas streets to make room for the new modern operahouse which will be erected on the premises by a local syndicate of capitalists. In the destruction of this old church is recorded the passing of another landmark of a quarter of a century. The new theater will seat 1200 persons, and will have a balcony and gallery. It has already been leased for a term of years to C. C. McKey and C. C. Curran.

Plans have been completed for the conversion of the upper story of the Midgley building at Third and Thomas streets into a rooming house.

Prominent Symptoms of Catarrh

THE HEAD AND THROAT

This form of catarrh is most common—resulting from neglected colds—quickly cured with little cost by Drs. Shores' famous treatment.

Is your head stopped up?
Does your nose discharge?
Is your nose sore and tender?
Is there pain in front of the head?
Do you hawk to clear the throat?
Is your throat dry in the morning?
Do you sleep with your mouth open?
You can be easily cured now. Don't let it run into complications.

THE BRONCHIAL TUBES

When catarrh of the head or throat is neglected or wrongfully treated it extends down the windpipe into the bronchial tubes and after a while attacks the lungs.

Have you a cough?
Do you take cold easily?
Have you a pain in the side?
Do you raise frothy materials?
Do you spit up little cheesy lumps?
Do you feel like you were growing weaker?

Don't risk neglecting these warnings—stop the disease before it reaches the lungs.

OF THE EARS

Catarrh extends from the throat along the eustachian tubes into the ears, causing partial or complete deafness.

Is your hearing failing?
Do your ears discharge?
Is the wax drying in your ears?
Do you hear better on some days?
Does a cold make your hearing worse?
Don't neglect this until your hearing is irreparably destroyed.

OF THE STOMACH

Catarrh of the stomach is usually caused by swallowing poisonous mucous which drops down from the head and throat at night.

Is there nausea?
Do you belch up gas?
Do you bloat up after eating?
Is there constant bad taste?
Now is the time to be permanently cured.
Drs. Shores are curing hundreds every year.

The funeral of Miss Frances Doolittle, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Doolittle, was held at the funeral chapel of T. W. Patterson on North Carey avenue this afternon at 3 o'clock. The deceased was 18 years old, and was born in Detroit, Mich. She has resided here with her parents for a number of years, and besides them is survived by a brother, Harold, and a sister, Mary Doolittle.

EAGLE ROCK.

EAGLE ROCK, Oct. 14.—The Women's Twentieth Century Club held its first meeting of the season this afternoon in the parlors of the Congregational Church. It was the largest attended and most successful opening session the club has ever had on its opening day. It is the leading social and literary club of this valley. The opening address was delivered by the new president, Mrs. Godfrey Edwards. The event of the afternoon was a travel talk by Mrs. E. E. Hamilton of this city, who recently returned from an extended trip to Europe.

On next Saturday evening in the Eagle Rock Masonic Hall the first entertainment by the club for this season will be given under the direction of Mme. Elsa von Grofe Menasco, a resident of this city, and a noted cello player. It is to be called "A Musical Carnival of Nations," and some able talent will take part.

GETTING READY.

GLENDALE, Oct. 14.—Sixteen women of this city indicated a disposition to delve into the political game today by registering as voters. The first woman to qualify was Mrs. Dawson, who is 84 years old, but keen intellectually. The second was Mrs. Mary H. Gridley, the regent of the D.A.R. in Los Angeles. The ladies professed a preference for Republican policies and told their ages without the quiver of an eyelid

RETIRED MINISTER REPLIES.

Answers the Damage Suit of San Jose Woman, Who Alleges Breach of Promise.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE (Cal.) Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An answer to the complaint of Mrs. Cynthia M. Thompson, the artist, against the Rev. H. T. Besse, a former minister who was lately married, was filed with the County Clerk today. She alleges breach of promise. Damages in the sum of $50,000 are demanded in the suit instituted on September 20, almost immediately after the retired minister's marriage. Mr. Besse denies he ever promised to marry Mrs. Thompson, and indicates that they had an understanding that if the was any promise or agreement to marry the agreement was rescinded by mutual consent before September 16. He further says that if there ever was an agreement it was rescinded by the payment of $100, which he says was understood by both parties to discharge any obligation that the minister owed to Mrs. Thompson. Besse, who lives on North Whitney street, is nearly 90 years of age and is reputed to be wealthy.

DEPUTIES APPLAUD.

Mexican Lawmakers Find No Irregularity in the Business of Mustering Out Troops.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 14.—Convinced that the provisional government is guilty of no irregularities in the mustering out of the revolutionary army and in the maintenance of a part of it, members of the Chamber of Deputies applauded Minister of the Interior Garcia Granados, when he concluded a detailed report of the government funds so expended.

Granados said the mustering out had cost the government approximately 5,500,000 pesos in the last four months.

The failure of the Chamber to send the "no re-election" measure for promulgation throughout the republic removes the possibility of Francisco De la Barra, candidate of the Catholics for the Vice-Presidency, being barred from the race tomorrow.

Jose Pino Suarez, the progressive candidate for Vice-President, should receive in the Federal district division of the electoral college, 676 of the 906 votes. This proportion was indicated today by the voting of the electors of the eight electoral districts in the organiaztion of their governing board.

of a woman and a man gruesome find near the road- city forestry lands north of William Bergstresser, while rabbits today. The Coroner's reveals that the bodies had lain in the brush perhaps a year or more. A suicide pact is believed as near the bodies a bottle was found. The contents resembled wine. The Coroner will have the contents analyzed.

Near the bodies were found bits of clothing. The Coroner believes the man was 20 years and the woman 18. The teeth of each are well preserved. Of the woman's clothing remaining are a cheap black felt hat, high top shoes and rubbers. In one of the shoes was found parts of the bones of the foot, indicating that the woman was clothed when she died. A man's black fedora hat and parts of a white shirt were found. Other articles gathered up are a parasol, gold rimmed eyeglass, a match box, a man's black coat and vest, a woman's black coat, a comb, drinking cup and two books. One is a work on occultism issued by the Yogi Publishing Society. Another bore the title "Bha Gitta." Nothing by which the identity of either could be ascertained was found on any of the clothing or in the books.

CONTRACT AWARDED.

John D. Spreckels and W. H. Hannum has awarded to the John Robert Company a contract to erect their hotel building on the south side of D street between State and Union, for $395,000. The contract includes elevators, heating and electric fixtures. The building will have a frontage of 200 feet on D street and a depth of 100 feet on State and Union streets. There will be six stories above the basement. The ground floor area will contain 18,500 square feet. Above will be 275 rooms. Excavating will begin Monday. The contract calls for completion by October 15, 1912.

TRYING TO SECURE THE ROAD.

Fullerton-La Habra Line Will Not Be Built Unless Free Right of Way Is Guaranteed.

FULLERTON, Oct. 14.—The effort to secure an extension of the electric line from La Habra to Fullerton has been renewed by the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce which last night appointed a committee to obtain right of way. A definite proposition must be presented to the Pacific Electric by the citizens before the line will be built, according to advices from officials of the company. A conference with Paul Shoup will probably be held next month. President Benchley of the local chamber was instructed by the directors to inform the company that Fullerton will offer the right of way from the La Habra line to the southern city limits. Anaheim is expected to secure the right of way from that point through that city.

TOMATO SEASON OPENS.

The tomato harvest in the Fullerton district is now in full swing, and the outlook is for a better production than last year. The total acreage devoted to the crop this year is 1000 acres. The yield last year averaged five tons to the acre. Packing-houses are paying growers $25 per ton, which is nearly double the price obtained last season at this time. Ninety-five per cent. of the crop has been taken by the California Vegetable Union. The season will last till Christmas, barring frosts. The largest grower is John Hettebrink, who has thirty-six acres of tomatoes. Most of the crop goes to eastern markets, and is packed when half ripe. Women employed in packing make from $15 to $18 a week. Tomatoes are wrapped like oranges, and run about twenty to the basket, four baskets to the crate and 750 crates to the car. A carload would contain about 60,000 tomatoes. The culls are sold to canneries for $7.50. Many orange growers are growing tomatoes between the rows of trees and netting a nice profit. The vines when plowed under make good fertilizer.

BUILDING ACTIVE.

Considerable building is going on and projected in Fullerton. During the past month seventeen new building permits were issued by the building superintendent.

SANTA ANA HIGH WINS.

Defeats Los Angeles Military Academy at Football In a Ragged Game—Team Work Lacking.

SANTA ANA, Oct. 14.—In a ragged game, made interesting by her own brilliant running, Santa Ana High School this afternoon defeated the Los Angeles Military Academy football team by a 23 to 0 score. All but six of the points were made in the last quarter. Two touchdowns followed long punts, fumbled b ythe Academy. Two place kicks from field by Grourd, netted Santa Ana six points. One touchdown was on a sensational long forward pass to McPhee.

Robinson, Santa Ana's 145 pound half, put up the best game on the field. The Academy's line and kicks were weak and the team work lacking. The line-up:

NEW PASTOR ARRIVES.

Rev. Ernest Ford Will Occupy the Pulpit at Escondido Recently Vacated by Death.

ESCONDIDO, Oct. 14.—Rev. Ernest E. Ford will begin his pastorate of the Baptist Church tomorrow, succeeding the late Rev. W. F. Binney, whose death occurred at Ontario soon after his resignation from the Escondido church.

Rev. Mr. Ford was assistant pastor of the First Baptist Church in San Diego during a portion of the pastorate of Rev. W. B. Hinson, now of Portland, Or. When Rev. Mr. Hinson went to Oklahoma Rev. Mr. Ford accompanied him and later he returned to San Diego.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Commencing Tuesday evening the annual convention of the San Diego County Baptist Association will be held at the Baptist Church, continuing until Thursday noon. The speakers will include Rev. T. K. Tyson, Rev. F. D. Finn, Rev. Clarence R. Minard, Rev. E. E. Ford, Rev. Dr. W. H. Geistweit, Prof. J. A. Baber, Rev. F. J. Watson, Miss Bertha Clough and Mrs Anna Murdock. Rev. James B. Fox will be the moderator of the convention.

On account of the fact that the shipments of muscatal grapes in the green state for table use, was larger than usual, the raisin crop will fall far below the average yield, not being over 100 tons for the Escondido Valley. Some of the raisins are being packed. Six cents per pound, on the cars at Escondido, is the prevailing price being received by the growers.

FIRST AT SAN BERNARDINO.

Miss Clara Post Gains the Distinction of Becoming Initial Female Voter of County.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 14.—Miss Clara Post was the first woman to register in San Bernardino county. Bright and early this morning word from the Attorney-General's office was received authorizing the registering of women. Acting upon this authority Miss Post, who is a deputy in the County Clerk's office, took the oath as a voter, being registered by Deputy County Clerk Howard Guthrie, who therefore has the honor of being first official in the county to register a member of the opposite sex.

The formalities incident to this first registration were few. "Please register me," was Miss Post's request, and the necessary blank was filled out, signed and sworn to. Important as the incident was it occupied but a few moments, and marked the opening of the ballot to women in this county.

The women of the county are organizing Equal Franchise Leagues, and will commence at once to undertake a systematic education in politics. It is proposed to study every political question that arises, not as partisans, but with a view of securing the best light obtainable, in order that the women may vote intelligently, on every subject.

ELSINORE.

ELSINORE, Oct. 14.—Postmaster Thomas Clayton has received word from Washington that a postal savings depository will be established at the Elsinore postoffice October 17.

The Hot Springs town is full of Nimrods from over the State who are here ready for the opening of the quail season tomorrow. Quail are reported plentiful, as are duck, doves and rabbits.

The prune crop is about cured and shipments will begin from some of the orchards next week. The crop is a fine one generally, in this section. The base price is 5 cents with a graduated upward price according to grading.

Mr. and Mrs. Greer of Colorado are in Elsinore to locate. They have purchased 160 acres of hill and valley land of Carver Peck, in the Warm Spring Valley. Consideration, $2200.

Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Way of Riverside have rented a cottage for the winter and will reside here. Dr. Way is one of the oldest practicing physicians of Riverside county.

Mrs. O. W. Amsbury entertained the Elsinore Woman's Club on the afternoon of October 12, at her home at the Bundy Hotel. Mrs. T. L. Rush read a paper on the "Occupation of the Toltecs." Mrs. C. M. Williams gave "The Aztecs as Founders of Mexico's History." "Some Legends and Customs of the Aztecs," were given by Mrs. S. H. Powell. Mrs. Ralph Eddy, the leader, conducted an interesting contest on Mexican names and products. The club will be entertained October 26 at the home of Mrs. J. T. Kuhns. The subject will be "Mexico's Struggle for Independence."

JUSTICES OF PEACE NOT SURE OF THEIR STANDING.

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 14.—Wen William George Dufee, a wealthy turfman of Los Angeles, who recently was divorced from his wife after sensational court proceedings and Miss Helen Belle McGaughey, a beautiful young woman of the Southern California city, appeared in the court of Justice of the Peace W. H. Wheaton this morning and asked the venerable magistrate to marry them they ran up against the eighteenth amendment to California's Constitution and were refused.

The justice declared that semi-official announcement had been made that the woman's suffrage amendment became effective last Tuesday night and he would not take a chance in performing official duties as the law might hold good in his case. The eighteenth amendment provides for the abolishment of the office of Justice of the Peace.

Durfee then hurried to the office of Justice John Shoup, only to meet another refusal. As a last resort he rushed with his fiancee to the court of Police Judge E. A. Rizor, who is not touched by the amendment, and soon the knot was tied, the two justices acting as witnesses to the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Durfee are stopping at the Potter for a couple of days, after which they will go to San Francisco to complete their honeymoon.

WILL MAKE TOWN DRY.

Women With Voting Power Will Remove Liquor Temptation From the Town of Oxnard.

VENTURA, Oct. 14.—Already a movement is on foot, it is stated, to call for a local option election in Oxnard, this county. With women voting, the drys of that city claim that they would have no trouble whatever to close the saloons there. Just as soon as it is determined when women can make use of their new privilege, the agitation in Oxnard against the saloons will be begun.

The whole of the county is now dry and has been for a number of years, with the exception of Oxnard. The drys in Oxnard have hesitated heretofore, in making an issue with the saloons for fear of losing out, but it is claimed now that with women voting, it will be no trouble whatever to make the whole county dry as a bone.

ALLEGED JAIL BREAKER.

George Martin was up before the Juvenile Court. His case was postponed for a week. Martin is out now on a probationary sentence, by a San Francisco court. He is accused of burglarizing a store in this county and when placed under arrest, broke jail. He was arrested in Paso Robles because of a postal card his sweetheart there, wrote him. In his cell there he tried to burn his way out and was all but smothered to death by smoke. He was taken to a hospital and escaped from there, and was captured and brought back here. As he is but 18 years of age, he asked to be tried as a juvenile.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Capt. Bay Webster, who has been wintering on Anacapa Island with his family, brought Mrs. Webster, and the children to the mainland yesterday in his power sloop, for a visit of a week or so. Capt. Webster has established a school on the island for his two children, and retained a tutor. This is the first school ever established on the island within the memory of man.

All the lima bean threshers of the county are now on this side of the Santa Clara River, cleaning up the crop in the Mound and Saticoy districts. The threshing will all be through with the coming week.

NEW POSTMASTER.

WASHINGTON (D. C.) Oct. 14.—Edna M. LeFevre has been appointed Postmaster at Moosa, San Diego county, vice I. J. Frazee resigned.

ESCONDIDO.

ESCONDIDO, Oct. 14.—The Christian Church edifice, at the corner of Juniper and Indiana streets, is to be enlarged to twice its present capacity by the addition of a wing, which will front on Juniper street, the dimensions of which will be 36x44 feet. The addition will be used as the audience room of the church, and the old section, whose dimensions are 26x42 feet, will be used for Sunday school purposes. The improvement will cost in the neighborhood of $3000.

Having in mind the success of the first banquet, August 1, the directors of the Chamber of Commerce have directed the entertainment committee, consisting of J. W. Jobes, Dr. B. L. Crise, A. T. Robertson, M. V. Wisdom and A. G. Schweickhardt to arrange another for the evening of Wednesday, November 1. Nearly 100 people were present at the first banquet.

One Observing Pupil.

[Everybody's:] The supervisor of a school was trying to prove that children are lacking in observation.

To the children he said: "Now, children, tell me a number to put on the board."

Some child said "Thirty-six." The supervisor wrote sixty-three.

He asked for another number, and seventy-six was given. He wrote sixty-seven.

When a third number was asked, a child who apparently had paid no attention called out

"Theventy-theven. Change that, you darned thucker!"

SCRATCH PADS FOR THE SCHOOL CHILDREN

SICK HEADACHE, DIZZINESS, TORPID LIVER, CONSTIPATION—CASCARETS.

Sick headaches! Always trace them to lazy liver, delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or a sick stomach. Poisonous matter, instead of being thrown out, is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, awful throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets remove the cause by stimulating the liver, making the poison move on and out and purifying the blood. The effect is almost instantaneous. Ladies whose sensitive organisms are especially prone to sick headaches, need not suffer, for they can be quickly cured by Cascarets. One taken tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box means a clear head and perfect health for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle, cleansing, too. Children gladly take Cascarets, because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

Doctors' Prescription For Eczema

The most advanced physicians of this country and Europe are now prescribing a wash of wintergreen thymol and other soothing and healing ingredients for the cure of Eczema, Psoriasis, and all other forms of skin trouble. This compound is known as the D.D.D. Prescription.

Dr. Holmes, the well known skin specialist, writes: "I am convinced that the D.D.D. Prescription is as much a specific for Eczema as is quinine for malaria. We have been prescribing the D.D.D. remedy for years."

We ourselves vouch for the D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema and absolutely guarantee that it will take away the itch the instant you apply it.

If you will call at any of our stores, we will be glad to let you have a $1.00 bottle on the guarantee that it will cost you nothing unless you find it does the work. And you decide. For that matter, a trial bottle for 25c ought to be enough absolutely to prove the merits of the remedy.

Drop into our store, anyway, and as we have seen a great many cases of skin trouble, we will give you free a pamphlet giving directions for bathing, diet, etc., for all kinds of skin trouble.

Ask for the D.D.D. pamphlet, "Cause and Cure of Skin Disease." Get posted on this wonderful remedy today.

Too Fat, Refused to Work After 2. P. M.

Here is an interesting case. This good woman had become so fat that she was utterly exhausted after the midday meal. Her temper became so irritable that she finally refused to do any work after two o'clock in the day, feeling that she was rapidly becoming an invalid. If she climbed up stairs or had other slight exertion, it became almost impossible to get her breath. The doctor told her that she could do nothing unless she reduced her weight by some system of strenuous exercise and semi-fasting, but this she could not do, as she was already very weak.

Finally, a friend told her that she could obtain wonderful benefit by a simple home treatment. She was advised to write to Dr. H. C. Bradford, 219F, Bradford Building, 20 E. 22nd street, New York City, to obtain a very interesting, helpful book and a proof treatment which the able physician sends completely free, postpaid, to all over-stout men and women who write and ask him for them. The woman in this hypothetical case did so, and has lost 89 pounds speedily and easily. She walks sprightly now, feels as well and lively as a young girl and enjoys every moment of the day. If this should reach the eyes of any person who is over-stout, let him or her write to Dr. Bradford, at above address, and obtain without cost, something which may do world's of good.

What Wonderful Power Has This Man Over Disease?

The Greatest Electro-Magnetic Wonder This Country Has Ever Known.

By Giving New Life to the Affected Parts and Rejuvenating the Whole System He is Able to Cure in a Short Time the Most Obstinate Diseases.

FREE To Prove That He is Able to Give Immediate Relief the Doctor Will Examine and Give One Free Treatment to All Who Call During the Next Fifteen Days.

Dr. Glass, the noted English specialist, more commonly known all over this country as the Great Electro Magnetic Wonder, who is performing such wonderful cures at 316 S. Broadway, says there is nothing so remarkable about his wonderful cures; he simply finds the cause and removes it by putting new life and energy into the affected parts. Medicine alone will not do this. Some people are skeptical; some say they have tried everything else and, to their astonishment, are cured in a few days. Dr. Glass is a graduate of the regular schools of medicine and still uses medicine in some cases, but all of his remarkable cures are produced by the use of the ELECTRO-MAGNETIC. ALL CHRONIC DISEASES treated by him, but the doctor prefers to treat patients that have been pronounced incurable by other doctors. After an examination, if the doctor finds your case incurable, he will frankly tell you so. NO INCURABLE DISEASES TAKEN FOR TREATMENT.

EXAMINATIONS

Let me give you a thorough, painstaking examination FREE OF ALL CHARGE, and as a true specialist I will give you my honest opinion and advice. If I can cure you I will tell you so; if not, I will be equally frank with you.

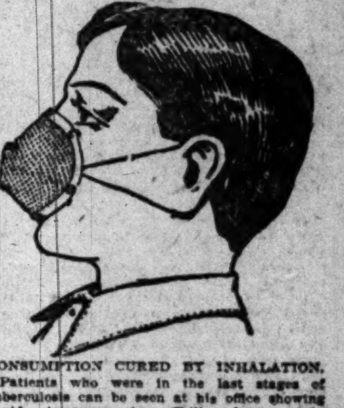
What Doctors Say is the Greatest Discovery of the 20th Century



CONSUMPTION CURED BY INHALATION.

Patients who were in the last stages of tuberculosis can be seen at his office showing rapid improvement. Chills, fever, night sweats, all disappear in a few days and patients grow stronger from the beginning. In the first and second stages home treatment is all that is required. Knowing how skeptical people are, Dr. Glass will give a trial treatment of one week free to demonstrate the merit of the remedy. Prof. Koch, who discovered the bacilli of tuberculosis, says the germ is inhaled into the lungs. If so, inhalation can be the only remedy—clearing the lungs of all pus, allaying the irritation, and, above all, the destruction of the bacilli.

Hotel Men Here.

The two men in whose hands the destiny of the Coronado Hotel has been placed arrived at the Alexandria yesterday on their way to the southern beach resort. They were H. W. Wills, for a number of years manager of the Menger Hotel of San Antonio and Gaynor Thigpen, former owner of the Great Southern Hotel of Meridan, Miss., and previous to that time assistant manager of the Virginia Hotel at Long Beach. The former will be manager and the latter assistant manager of the Coronado Hotel, succeeding Morgan Ross and Arthur Lewis respectively. Wills was manager of the Royal Hawaiian Hotel of Honolulu and assistant manager of the St. Francis at various times in his career. Both are rated high in the hotel fraternity.

OBITUARY.

Philip Verrill Mighels.

WINNEMUCCA (Nev.) Oct. 14.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Philip Verrill Mighels, the well-known author and playwright, died here Thursday as the result of an accidental gunshot wound, self-inflicted. The accident occurred last Friday while Mighels was hunting quail near Golconda. He was brought to a hospital here and for a time it was thought he would recover. A turn for the worse occurred late yesterday, however, and death followed several hours later. Mighels, who was 42 years old, was born in Carson City, Nev., where he studied law and was admitted to the bar. He went to San Francisco in 1892, where he was engaged for awhile in journalism, later going to New York to reside. He was the author of numerous short stories and a number of poems and plays.

John Henry Smith.

SALT LAKE, Oct. 14.—[By A. P. Day Wire.] John Henry Smith, second counsellor of the Mormon Church and third in succession to the presidency, who died yesterday, was intimately connected with the building of the railroads of the West. He was in charge of construction of 200 miles of the Central Pacific line where he gained the friendship of Gov. Leland Stanford of California, who tried vainly to induce him to enter his employ. Later he was connected with the Utah Central road. He was called to Washington on many occasions to represent Utah and the church in an unofficial capacity and gained the friendship and esteem of many of the leading public men of his day. He was sent to Washington to protest against the passage of the Edmunds-Tucker anti-polygamy law in 1882 and later appeared before Congressional committees to plead for the admission of Utah as a State. In 1884 he was arrested under the Edmunds-Tucker law on the charge of unlawful cohabitation, but was discharged for lack of evidence. He was made a member of the Council of the Twelve Apostles in 1882 and became second counsellor upon the death of John R. Winder, a little more than a year ago. He was a cousin of President Joseph F. Smith and a son of George A. Smith, former president of the church. Although his successor will not be named until the next semi-annual conference of the church next spring, it is generally supposed that he will be succeeded by Francis M. Lyman.

AUTO TRUCKS DAMAGED.

Explosion of Gasoline Tank Causes Fire in Creamery Company's Garage.

Several valuable automobile trucks belonging to the Burr Creamery Company, which were stored in a garage in the rear of the plant, No. 778 Towne avenue, were damaged by fire last night when a tank of gasoline exploded from an unknown cause.

The machines had been brought to the garage a short time previous and as far as known there was no fire in the building at the time. The arrival of firemen prevented the flames from spreading and the loss, which is estimated at $3000, was confined to the trucks in the path of the fire.

The building is owned by Turner and Strawl.

TROUBLE NOT ENDED.

California Orange Company Files Big Damage Suit Against Cement Company—Wants Work Concluded.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 14.—The orange growers of this district are still after the cement works near this city, determined, if possible, to have it closed down as a nuisance.

Today the California Orange Company brought suit for $60,000 damages, claiming its orange groves have been damaged to that extent by the dust from the plant which settles on the fruit trees and blanches the fruit, making it practically unfit for market.

This is the second suit against the company. Aside from damages, the company asks for an injunction to have the works abated as a nuisance. These were the allegations in the first case brought, which is now pending in the State Supreme Court. The company appealed from the decision of Judge Bledsoe in granting an injunction and awarding damages to the growers.

It is stated by the officials of the California Portland Cement Company that they are putting forth every effort to install devices that will rid the atmosphere of the injurious dust.

ELECT QUEEN.

ONTARIO, Oct. 14.—The contest for the right to rule Ontario during the festival ended tonight by the selection of Miss McCrea. The vote was: Miss McCrea, 3644; Miss Todd, 2268, and Miss Bernhard, 691. The carnival will be held October 19-20.

FIRST BRAHM'S CONCERT.

The first of a series of six concerts to be given by Brahm's Quartette attracted an audience of 500 music lovers to Blanchard Hall last evening. Lily Dorn, Austrian soprano, also was heard. From the reception they were accorded, the quartette feels assured of a most successful season.

DIES IN THE EAST.

The Right Soap For Baby's Skin

In the care of baby's skin and hair, Cuticura Soap is the mother's favorite. Not only is it unrivaled in purity and refreshing fragrance, but its gentle emollient properties are usually sufficient to allay minor irritations, remove redness, roughness and chafing, soothe sensitive conditions, and promote skin and hair health generally. Assisted by Cuticura Ointment, it is most valuable in the treatment of eczemas, rashes and other itching, burning infantile eruptions. Cuticura Soap wears to a wafer, often outlasting several cakes of ordinary soap and making its use most economical.
Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a postal to "Cuticura," Dept. 11D, Boston, Mass., will secure a liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book on the care of the skin and hair.

HEAD OF THE NATION WITH US TOMORROW.

Arrangements Completed for Entertainment of the President of the United States, Who Will Arrive in the Morning and Leave the Next Morning—Opportunity for Everybody to Greet Distinguished Visitor.

PRESIDENT'S PROGRAMME HERE.

MONDAY, 9:30 a.m.—President arrives at Arcade station. Brief official welcome by Chamber of Commerce committee.

9:35 a.m.—Parade through downtown streets to Washington Park.

10 a.m.—School children to wave flags and sing as President's party passes through park.

10:15 a.m.—Mass-meeting Praeger Park, with brief remarks by the Chief Executive.

10:30 a.m.—Arrive at the Auditorium. Set speech by the President. Admission by ticket. All tickets already given out.

12 m.—Start for Pasadena, making trip by automobile.

12:05 p.m.—Dedication of the Buena Vista bridge, the President breaking a bottle of Owens River water.

12:20 p.m.—The President speaks to the students at Occidental College.

12:45 p.m.—Leave the college for Pasadena, passing through South Pasadena.

1 p.m.—Reach Hotel Maryland, where the President will speak to Board of Trade.

2:35 p.m.—Parade west on Colorado street to Carmelita Park.

2:45 p.m.—The President speaks from automobile to assembled school children.

3:30 p.m.—Return to Los Angeles by way of Throop Polytechnic Institute.

3:45 p.m.—Brief greeting to faculty and students at Throop Institute.

4 p.m.—The President attends reception given by Afro-American Council at Blanchard Hall and receives gold emblem.

4:30 p.m.—The President reaches home of Dr. W. A. Edwards, No. 2600 Adams street, for rest and social time.

7:45 p.m.—Leave for Hotel Alexandria where the President will speak at elaborate banquet.

11 p.m.—Return to home of Dr. Edwards to pass the night.

TUESDAY—8:30 a.m.—Leave home of Dr. Edwards for University of Southern California.

9 a.m.—Brief reception at university and informal remarks by Mr. Taft.

9:30 a.m.—With escort of Long Beach citizens start for that city in automobiles.

10 a.m.—Stop at Watts to allow citizens to see the President.

10:30 a.m.—Reach Compton where informal remarks will be made by the President.

11 a.m.—Arrive at Long Beach, where big reception has been arranged.

11:15 a.m.—President speaks to crowd at Pacific Park, near ocean front.

11:45 a.m.—Rest and refreshments at Hotel Virginia, in front of which will be parked the special train.

12 m.—Leave Long Beach on special for Salt Lake City and the East.

The city is putting on color for the reception to the President of the United States. All day yesterday the work of decorating progressed systematically, and it will be continued today. The street electroliers have even been freshly painted.

When the special Southern Pacific train carrying the President and his party arrives at the Arcade Station at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning the Chief Executive will have completed a rail journey of 8818 miles since September 15, leaving 4153 miles to complete the swing around the circle. He is due in Washington November 1.

The plan for tomorrow involves no public ceremony or reception at Arcade Station. Within the cordon of police will be allowed only public officials and immediate members of the Reception Committee, but the entire route of the parade will be roped off, and every facility for observation will be afforded while the parade is passing.

The distinguished visitor and those who accompany him will be escorted by the Reception Committee to waiting automobiles, and the procession will move at once. A block and a half ahead will ride the Chief of Police and officers in an automobile to inspect the route and forestall any unexpected obstacle. Col. Schreiber and staff, Seventh Regiment, N.G.C., will head the parade, followed by the artillery and infantry. Then will come a troop of cavalry extending from curb to curb.

In an automobile with the President will ride the Mayor.

Next will be an automobile containing the official stenographers and secret service officials, followed by an escort of two police automobiles. Then will come automobiles and carriages.

ABOUT THE CITY.

From the Arcade Station the procession will move along Fifth street to Spring; north on Spring to First; west along First to Broadway, and south along Broadway to its junction with Main. The Presidential party will part company with the mounted police and escorts of troops at Seventh and Broadway, these organizations, however, rejoining the parade at Seventh and Hope. Previous to Prehistoric Discovery.

ANCIENT SACRED CAVE REVEALS BAT WORSHIP.

LOS ANGELES members of the Southwest Society of the Archaelogical School of America were keenly interested yesterday in meeting A. Hooton Blackiston, president of the Mexican and Southwest Development Company who, in spite of his large business interests in California and Mexico, is one of the most devoted archaelogical students of America.

On one of his recent trips to his headquarters at Mazatlan he ran down to Honduras to visit what is perhaps the most unique discovery in the way of prehistoric relics ever made on the western hemisphere. It is called the Sacred Cave and furnishes reliable data on one of the strangest phases of the religion and culture of the lost races.

This cave contains a deposit of copper bells, 800 of which have been recovered. They range in size from a button to a large dinner bell, and are more picturesque and varied in design than the bells made by any other known civilization. They each have for a clapper a ball of pure copper, and no two of them has the same tone. The cave also contains a number of images which evidently were objects of worship. Some of these Blackiston obtained.

"An old Indian was the first to find the cave," said Blackiston. "He discovered it on one of his hunting trips in 1908 and kept the knowledge an inviolable secret until a few months ago, owing to his total misconception of its value, and because the one man in whom he had confidence was not there. Recently his padrone returned and he then divulged the information that he had discovered an enormously rich mine with its precious metal on the headquarters of a small stream flowing into the Rio Chamelcan and twenty-five miles from the ruins of the ancient city of Naco. Thick growths of tropical vegetation, rushing streams, steep mountains and beds of quicksand make its access most difficult. The entrance is forty feet wide, and contains signs of what seems to be copper stain. Its depth is fifty-six feet.

"A few copper bells were lying on the surface and later excavations recovered them by the hundreds. The largest are nearly three inches in diameter. They range from conventional shapes to the most fantastic designs.

"The most interesting are in the forms of the fanciful faces of men and eccentric shapes of animals. One follows the lines of a turtle with an elongated neck bent backward for the handle. One has an exaggerated chin and nose like our own conceptions of a witch. Some represent strange creatures akin to the dragon of romance and these curl around bells that are shaped like a well.

"Some have broad gnome-like faces in which the opening of the bell represents the mouth, with one large tooth protruding on either side, and others have grotesque bat heads, being varied in different specimens by the presence of horn-like ears upon the forehead to high-ringed eyes and other idiosyncracies. One is a flat negroid face with wide open mouth out of which protrudes another face of totally different type with large nose and hideous, staring eyes. There are also numberless bells like our sleigh bells with a copper loop securely fastened on the back.

"These bells are not only surprising in design but are wonderful in workmanship. They represent consummate skill. There seems to be no

Snapped in the West's Great Outdoors.

Two Studies Caught by Mode Wineman,

Nature lover, and considered one of the greatest amateur photographers in the United States, who has come to Southern California to make his home. The elk was snapped in Yellowstone Park, while the soldier and his horse drinking in the same brook were seen by the camera in Arizona.

MOTORCYCLE RIDER INJURED.

Is Thrown From His Wheel When Latter Runs Into Wagon and Skull Possibly Fractured.

While returning from Santa Monica on a motorcycle yesterday noon, Thomas Reilley ran into a wagon at Pico and Figueroa streets and was thrown to the ground, receiving injuries to his head which it is feared may cost him his life. John Mersch, who was riding on the rear seat of condition to the California Hospital, where it was found that he had sustained concussion of the brain and perhaps a basal fracture of the skull. He lives at Tenth and Santee streets. Mersch resides at No. 243 South Figueroa street.

They had been to Santa Monica to witness the automobile races and were in a hurry to return. The accident happened when Rilley tried to turn from Pico street into Figueroa. He did not see the wagon until it was Real Life.

COMES TO BE WITH NATURE.

Man Who Pictures It Will Make Home Here.

For Art and Not for Cash He Uses Camera.

Tramps Far in Wilds That Others May See.

The man who is to the art of photography what Coret was to the art of painting has come to Southern California to make his home. He is Mode Wineman, who has the reputation of being the greatest amateur photographer of nature in America, and his commendations from art critics, lovers of the best things in nature, art's inspiration, speak volumes. Wineman is now at a Pasadena hotel, where he decided to go because an hour's tramp will take him at any time to the deep canyons, the rushing waters and the sturdy heights of te Sierra Madre.

For a number of years Wineman has been coming West nearly every autumn for a few months at a time. He takes long trips, practically always afoot with a pack horse following. He knows every nook and corner of Yellowstone Park, has snapped every remarkable detail of the Yosemite, and has wandered hundreds of miles through the forests, mountains and fields of California and other western States.

CRITIC'S VIEW.

At a time when some of Wineman's best work were on exhibit at one of the art galleries of Chicago, a critic wrote of the camera naturalist:

"Just as John Burroughs, Luther Burbank and Paul de Longpre are naturalists in their own peculiar way, so is Wineman in his. The intimacy with nature, which Burroughs expresses through his books, which Burbank proclaims by his experiments and De Longpre has perpetuated with his paintings, is rivaled by that which Wineman expresses with his camera."

His success he attributes to his mental joy in obtaining good results. He has waited patiently for two days among the pueblos of the Indians to get a picture of a single Indian carrying water from the creek bottom on his shoulders. He has wandered over a small area for a period of three or four days to get just exactly the right light, the proper focus of a panoramic view.

HE THINKS OF OTHERS.

"When I took up photography, I cared little for the art, thinking only to follow the example of friends who were having fun snapping anything and everything," he said. "When I, for the first time beheld the grandeur of the West, when I realized how much the life away from the sordid city, in the solitary places of the mountain ranges, holds, I figured that I could get more than ordinary pleasure from the picture machine.

"Further than that, I came to the conclusion that I could make many other poor, worn families feel brighter by giving them glimpses of nature at her best. It has been my aim since that time to bring a real message of the great wilds, back to the sick in the county and city hospitals and to other worthy shut-ins, who could never get the benefit of the country."

And that idea Wineman has faithfully followed. He has given his pictures gratuitously to many of the hospitals and to many of the institutions where they would bring a ray of sunshine. The orphanages know him well, also, not only for his pictures, but for the fact that he has taken the children of the rich, his pupils at music, and taught them to help their unfortunate fellow. He has sent them into the orphanages with musical programmes to make interest in the lives of the poor children and has also taught them self support and abnegation by manual work, all of which things helped to make his name a bright lige in the grime of a commercialized city

EXPERIENCE.

Despite the fact that Wineman is rather an anemic man in appearance, he possesses a sturdy strength that has taken him through many strange and some hazardous experiences. Laughingly he tells of the one that brought the greatest thrill, that produced gray hair on his head. "I had tramped twenty-three miles from Mammoth Hot Springs to Tower Falls in Yellowstone. The roaring of the rushing water convinced me that there was an excellent picture to be had by climbing down the side of a steep and narrow ravine.

"Almost immediately after starting the descent of several hundred feet, my camera overbalanced me and I took a head foremost course into the canyon. Some shrubbery impeded my direct drop and I managed to get hold of some of this. Great rocks far below, tearing water and jagged points loomed big and it was while trying to figure a way out of the predicament that I secured a glimpse of a wonderful picture, the falling tumbling water.

"After much maneuvering, I managed to secure a foothold. In gusts of wind which dashed occasional spray across my face, I managed to set the tripod and get ready for the picture. Just as I was about to press the bulb, I heard a growl, which as I turned, I realized came from a bear just emerging from its winter lair. Snatching the tripod, camera and grasping the bough of a tree, I swung off over nothing and finally dropped, after agonizing moments to what seemed a great distance. Stunned, but uninjured save for a few bad bruises, I picked myself up and when the film was developed, I found that I had secured one of the finest pictures ever taken of a waterfall anywhere.

"The country hereabouts affords wonderful opportunities for the nature lover who owns a camera. Every tree and every flower, even the habi-

VITAL ISSUE FOR DECISION.

Defense Would Eliminate All Jurors With Opinion.

Prosecution Holds Exclusion Bars Intelligent Men.

Court Is to Pass on Point in Case of Nelson.

Tomorrow Judge Bordwell will decide whether Z. T. Nelson, one of the talesman in the McNamara case, is qualified to sit in the jury box. Arguments were practically concluded yesterday morning, though the lawyers seem loath to let go the subject. Both sides regard it as one of the vital preliminary issues of the trial. To eliminate all talesmen who have an opinion as to what caused the explosion that wrecked the Times Building and snuffed out a score of lives will mean, declares the prosecution, that it will be almost impossible to secure a panel of intelligent men.

Cyrus McNutt, a former judge in Indiana, and one of counsel for the defense, yesterday argued that nothing can deprive the defendant of the inalienable right guaranteed by the Constitution—the presumption of innocence. He said Nelson's declarations made it apparent that the man believed dynamite applied unlawfully caused the disaster, and that he was prejudiced against all labor organizations.

McNutt protested that the defense wanted neither jurors favorable to labor organizations nor opposed to them. He said the present trial possesses features foreign to the average murder case and for that reason especial care should be taken in selecting the twelve men who shall try J. B. McNamara.

PRESS GAS THEORY.

"The eyes of the civilized world are centered upon this courtroom in Los Angeles," said McNutt. "We are not asking for jurors who are avowed friends of labor unions, and on the contrary we do not want enemies of organized labor in the jury box.

"The destruction of the Times Building caused a profound impression in the city. The various commercial organizations took a hand in the investigation and committees were appointed to ascertain if possible the cause of the explosion."

McNutt argued that these circumstances made the case very unusual. He said it was evident that the prosecution would have as its very foundation that the wrecking of the newspaper plant and the killing of a score of its employees was directly traced to dynamite applied by some person or persons. For this reason, he maintained, Nelson would be an unfair juror, holding as he did that dynamite caused the disaster.

In the argument it was brought out that the defense will evidently strongly rely upon the theory that gas and not a high explosive wrecked the building. To carry that theory to its final conclusion, it was shown to be necessary to have jurors ready to accept such a supposition at its face value.

"In the half century that I have been observant of courts," said McNutt, "I have found to my sorrow that often jurors will turn their backs, as it were, upon certain witnesses because they had previously formed opinions."

FINDS NO PREJUDICE.

Chief Trial Deputy Horton spoke on behalf of the District Attorney. He said he had carefully examined the transcript of Nelson's testimony and had found nothing in it to show the man was prejudiced against the defendant. He alleged that Nelson's opinion as to the agency that wrecked the Times Building was a collateral issue. He said the defendant was charged with the murder of Charles Haggerty by means of a dynamite explosion, and that this was the real issue before the court.

"The Penal Code of this State contemplates that educated men must form some sort of an opinion regarding a crime that attracts widespread attention," he said. "I maintain no man is required to remove his opinion, but notwithstanding it to be able to be a fair juror. I think it is for the court to decide from the appearance of the man as well as from his answers to questions whether he is qualified to sit on the panel."

Horton said it would be psychologically impossible for a man to forget all his impressions and to veil his consciousness of things he had heard and read.

Judge Bordwell did not indicate what his decision will be. He merely said he would study the transcript of testimony and look into some of the cases cited. With a decision reached it will be much easier to eliminate or hold other talesmen called to the jury box.

INDUSTRIAL PRECEDENT.

One of the important cases demanding the attention of the Supreme Court, when it sits this week, will be the habeas corpus writ sued out in behalf of W. F. Montgomery, of the firm of Montgomery & Mullin, who are charged with a violation of what is known as the city industrial district ordinance that limits manufacturing concerns to certain sections of the city. Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of manufacturing or industrial property is located within this district, and if the ordinance is pronounced good, compelling them to move out of that district, the financial loss will be heavy.

CANADIAN CLUB DINNER.

The ladies' auxiliary of the Canadian Club gave an elaborate dinner to the new officers, the retiring officers and friends, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mottashed, No. 3200 North Broadway, on Monday evening last. The next meeting of the club will be held in the Woman's Clubhouse November 7, the programme to be followed with a dance.

Annoyer Jailed.

J. A. McCain, arrested on Broadway Friday night on a charge of insulting women, was sent to jail for fifty days by Police Judge Rose yesterday. Sergt. Butler testified that McCain acted as if he were trying to hug the women, but was too intoxicated to do it. McCain admitted in court that he was under the influence of liquor. He was allowed the alternative of paying a

PICTURESQUE WOMAN LEADER.

COMMANDER BOOTH WILL HEAD MIDNIGHT MEETING.

Chief of the Salvation Army Will Deliver Two Addresses in This City — Phenomenal Personality Makes Her Leader When a Mere Child—Soldier and Orator.

A great midnight open-air demonstration, led by Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, will be the picturesque feature of the visit of Miss Booth to this city next Saturday and Sunday.

It is planned that on Saturday night, as the clock tolls the hour of midnight, the Commander will lead her forces into the dark places of the city, and the experiences may figure in her Sunday night address in the Auditorium, when she will speak on "The Midnight Tragedy." She will also speak in the Auditorium on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, her subject being "The Great Trust."

Commander Booth is the fourth daughter of Gen. William Booth, and a younger sister of the late Emma Booth Tucker. Though the daughter of the supreme head of the Salvation Army, she rose to the place of Commander through every grade, beginning as a seller of the War Cry on the streets of London, and her first speech was made at an open-air meeting in one of the darkest of London's slums.

Her first appointment was to the charge of a corps in one of the most disreputable parts of that city, and her first announcement, made in a large hall where she delivered her first address, was that she meant to be her own policeman, and it is said that within a few weeks she had wrought a revolution in the neighborhood, and had won the respect and affection of the whole gang of tough men and women. Those who had formerly persecuted her became her protectors, and when she fell ill, they were among her chief sympathizers. It is told that one of the toughs sold his vest at that time to purchase grapes for her.

In many disguises, she found entrance into the poorest and vilest haunts, sometimes going as a flower seller, or the pretended peddler of some green delicacy. It was during this period of her life that she became known as "The Angel of the Slums."

Since reaching the eminence of Commander, she has been in the front rank in every battle. Wherever the greatest difficulties have presented themselves, she has gone to take personal charge of the contest for the army. For nine years she was Commissioner in charge of all the activities in Canada, which covered the inauguration of the work in Alaska at the time of the Klondike rush.

Commander Booth is a remarkable combination of the tender-hearted, sympathetic Christian worker; the possessor of womanly grace and spartan heroism; an orator of unusual power and persuasiveness. During her former visits to Los Angeles the largest houses have been crowded to hear her, and those who wish to get in must go to the Auditorium in good time next Sunday.

JAIL AGAIN HOLDS HIM.

Alleged Swindler Locked Up Pending Arrival of Officers From Detroit Seeking His Extradition.

John F. Wilson, charged with swindling a number of ranchers of California out of sundry sums, and who on July 13 was sentenced to three months in the County Jail, is not free.

The sentence of Wilson expired Friday evening, and there being no intimation from the office of the United States District Attorney that he was wanted elsewhere, Wilson was released. Yesterday the government officials awoke up to the fact that Wilson was wanted on indictments returned by the Federal courts in Washington City and Detroit. The officers then hot-footed it after Wilson. He was found at his home and returned to prison. The authorities at Detroit were notified and it is expected that an officer will be here within a week to take Wilson back for trial on the charge of swindling.

Wilson, while he operated in California, was known under a number of aliases, F. W. Ward, J. W. Taylor and J. W. Warner, and he was also advertised as the head of the California Hay and Produce Company, with places of business in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Bakersfield, according to the handsomely printed letterheads of the alleged firm. It is known that he was alone in his alleged operations.

His usual plan was to learn the names of ranchers who had hay and grain to dispose of in carload lots. He would communicate with them and order all they could spare. In order to secure quick results he offered a little higher than the market rates for the stuff. Large shipments were made and the incident was closed, so far as Wilson was concerned. He is charged with failing to make remittance. In the indictment to which he pleaded guilty before Judge Wellborn, George Le Gaye, Corona; T. Robinson, Ora Grande; the Hollister Storage Company of Hollister; George G. Laidlaw, Ontario; H. S. Garrison, Murrietta; A. Stone, Metz; Nelson Anderson, Perris, and B. Shaw, Hollister, were among the alleged victims.

The day before he was sentenced by Judge Wellborn, Wilson had completed one year in the Alameda County Jail, and he presented to the court a letter from the jailer at Oakland, declaring that he was a good fellow, coupled with the plea that the writer hoped Judge Wellborn would be lenient with Wilson. On that occasion he was accompanied by his wife and children, and the fact of their presence operated to give Wilson a comparatively light sentence.

FOR BRANCH LIBRARY.

A meeting will be held in Smock's Hall, Pico Heights, on next Friday night, in the interest of securing a branch of the public library. All property owners are urged to attend and aid in the enterprise. The meeting will be under the auspices of the Pico Heights Improvement Association.

PROHIBITION MEETING.

A prohibition meeting will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at No. 517 South Broadway. Prof. A. Dobbins will speak on "A Great Historical Parallel," and will illustrate with stereopticon views.

Husband Catching By Fat Women

Many a too plump lady is groaning in spirit at this moment, as she lolls back with a lollipop between finger and thumb, at the thought of her matrimonial chances.

She tells herself she can never give up her lolling and her lollipops and go in for exercising and dieting instead. Not even for a husband. Yet one glance over her bulging breasts, at her equally well advertised hips, tells her all hope is vain unless she reduce.

Now, such girls are simply behind the times, or they would not worry about their reducing. They would reduce—and do it without disturbance of their appetite for candy or luxurious ease. All that is needed to take off twelve to sixteen ounces a day, and rapidly reduce the hips, chin, abdomen, etc. (where fat is most objectionable) is one pleasant, elegant Marmola Prescription Tablet, after meals and at bedtime.

Get the fat off where it jellies most and see what that change will do toward attracting the men. The tablets are not injurious in any way (being made after the famous Marmola Prescription—viz.: ½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fl. Ex. Cascara Aromatic, 3½ oz. Peppermint Water); and they are not expensive, the Marmola Co., 235 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., and all druggists

ENDS INDIGESTION IN A FEW MOMENTS

Gas, Heartburn, Headache, Sourness And all Stomach Misery Ended With Pape's Diapepsin.

Nothing will remain undigested or sour on your stomach if you will take a little Diapepsin occasionally. This powerful digestive and antacid, though as harmless and pleasant as candy, will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you can eat.

Eat what your stomach craves, without the slightest fear of Indigestion or that you will be bothered with sour risings, belching, gas on stomach, heartburn, headaches from stomach, nausea, bad breath, water brash or a feeling like you had swallowed a lump of lead, or other disagreeable miseries. Should you be suffering now from any stomach disorder you can get relief within five minutes.

If you will get from your pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin you could always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and your meals would taste good, because you would know there would be no Indigestion or Sleepless nights or Headache or stomach misery all the next day; and, besides, you would not need laxatives or liver pills to keep your stomach and bowels clean and fresh.

Pape's Diapepsin can be obtained from your druggist, and contains more than sufficient to thoroughly cure the worst case of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. There is nothing better for Gas on the Stomach or sour odors from the stomach or to cure a Stomach Headache.

NEWSPAPERS' FRIEND.

Mojonier, the Maker of Striking Photographs of Celebrities and Society People.

Life is sometimes droll in its manner of bending a man to its purposes and a highly successful man often seems to fall into the thing he was meant for quite by accident. Of course it was not an accident that Mojonier came West to grow up with the country, but that he quit general merchandise and took up photography was a happy circumstance so entirely irrelevant that it partook of the nature of chance. Mojonier had married at 19, and in Illinois, and had gone to Nebraska to make a fortune selling cheese, tallow candles and every other precious commodity that makes up the stock of the country store.

Then came an upsetting episode. Baby arrived. It was a girl and Mojonier ... describing the young woman's graces and western culture to his Geneva-born parents back in Illinois. Never before had there been a girl in the Mojonier family and the old folk took her mightily to heart. They telegraphed their congratulations and demanded a photograph. To the best of Mojonier's knowledge and belief, no such subdivision of the genus homo hibernated within 200 miles of the Mojonier general store.

Mojonier was young then—not that he is so old now—and as a dissipation he subscribed for a popular weekly. The number which came the week the baby arrived printed an advertisement offering a camera and complete photographing outfit for $1.75. Mojonier mailed his order by the first post and when the small tin box arrived he made a picture of that baby. He developed the negative in the basement while the neighbors sat on a doorstep outside and read him the directions. It was a good photograph and the sitter was pleased. ... lowing the movements of all who looked upn it.

This gave Mojonier the biggest "hunch" of his life. He liked making pictures better than selling cheese and he believed that pictures that looked at peple would be certain to take. He ordered a larger camera and practiced on everybody in his adopted State who would stand for it. Sometimes he practiced without the subject's knowledge or consent. Through it all he held to the one idea that with the intelligence, ideals or moods uppermost in the mind of the subject should be expressed through the eyes. He had been a photographer now for twenty-one years and he has never in his life made a picture in which he did not seek this effect.

His first professional work was in Larned, Kan. At the end of his first year, he took some prizes at a Wichita convention where he met a man who saw his possibilities and urged him to seek wider fields. ... told him to find some growing city where the people had enough atmosphere of thought to make them appreciate the poetry of his photographs. Mojonier was also a wise man and took this advice by coming to Los Angeles. Since locating here he has made photographs of some of the world's celebrities, especially those of the stage, but his most painstaking efforts have alway been in family work. He considers successful family portraiture the acme of his art. Above all things he strives for excellence in making the portraits of children. Incidentally he has attracted wide attention with Windsor Newton Oils. The new studio at No. 640 South Broadway has been especially popular during the winning campaign of the suffrage movement as he has filled scores of orders for newspapers and magazines anxious to print good pictures of the leaders in SICILIAN AND POLE.

A scientist has discovered that children born in America of foreign-born Polish parents have heads that are longer but narrower than their ancestors, while American-born children of Sicilian-born parents have skulls that are shorter and broader than the parental type. This has nothing to do with amalgamation, but only suggests an eventual convergence into an American type due entirely to environment. The melting pot is a slow process and the fuel seems inexhaustible.

GHOSTS OF OLD POPS.

Now, in these days of the initiative, the referendum, the recall, woman's suffrage and other political fads, there are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamed of in our philosophy. And if you will lie in wait when comes the lonely twilight hour you will see the ghosts of old Populists striking out through the shadows to take the middle of the road where once they wandered in the ancient days, cuffed and kicked and "cussed" by the very men who have now made possible the adoption of all the things that to the Populist heart were dear.

OLD BLIND HOMER.

Recent excavations have demonstrated that the places described by Homer in "The Iliad" actually existed as he pictured them in his immortal verses. Thus we are to add new laurels to Homer's crown of glory. He was not only a poet, but also a historian.

We would not have any knowledge of the places or the characters of which Homer sang had not the old blind poet spoken of them. And it is worth while to contemplate the fact that of all the personages of the Greece of 3000 years ago Homer's is the one great name that remains, poor though he was and a beggar.

A MAN'S MEMORY.

You might ask a man to translate an ordinary Latin sentence twenty years after his graduation from college and he would not be able to do it. The chances are that he would then be unable to do a sum in square root. But if you were to ask him the name and the color of the eyes of the first girl he kissed he could do it right off the reel.

It is a comforting thought that we are able to forget the things that we did not like when we were young, and that in the closest place of memory we store away our recollections of happy hours and happy hearts that once made life a gladness and a joy.

DRY FARMING.

The sixth convention of the International Dry Farming Congress will be held at Colorado Springs from Oct. 16 to 20. Government experts now estimate that 63 per cent. of what remains of the arid region may be reclaimed only by dry farming since this acreage lies outside of the zone of natural reservoirs. Colorado Springs is within an hour's ride of Calahan, Colo., where many thousand acres have been under cultivation by dry farming for about nine years. This land has been used almost exclusively for macaroni wheat, producing on an average of forty bushels to the acre, a grain which has a market value of about $1 a bushel.

LIFE IS LONG.

Herbert Spencer believed the universe expressed itself through an unending number of cycles of activity separated by periods of inactivity and darkness. Other men of science have reckoned with the universe as trending toward extinction through loss of energy and reduction of heat. An American professor has hit upon a new theory that will be more satisfying to the common intelligence than any yet proclaimed. This man believes that the law of gravitation must have its correspondence in a law for the uplift of forces and that the corollary of diffusion must be a collecting agent. In this manner the universe might perpetuate itself forever as naturally as the return of the seasons, or like the recurrence of seed time and harvest.

MEASURING TAFT.

Many people are busy of late taking the measure of the President. Taft is so big that he confuses small people and is the marvel of large ones. There is a quality of silence about his great strength which baffles persons of less effective method. A contemporary editor, whose vanity never sacrifices depth of thought and feeling to a superficial pose which might pass as brilliancy, thinks that the President's energy of brain so transcends his energy of will that he makes a better public servant than master. Our contemporary says that where moderation has been wisdom the President has been more successful than where an emergency required volition. We think the President's freedom from personal feeling and heated opinions has been the mainstay of his success. The habit of letting facts arrange themselves in order until they form their own conclusions is an attitude so judicial that only the sound in judgment can ever attain it. The truth about the President, however, is that he baffles analysis by his pure simplicity. He refuses to become complex simply because he fills a great office and his friends and his enemies must take him as he is for a man of intelligence who dares to do what he believes to be right.

The wicked men who led the fight against woman suffrage in Los Angeles will be compelled to do with a cold potato lunch. They COURTESY TO THE PRESIDENT.

The Presidential office has always been regarded by the American people as one of the greatest dignity and honor, and whether its incumbent was a great statesman such as Lincoln or Garfield or McKinley; a great general such as Grant or Taylor, or a great accident such as Polk, equal honor and respect have been accorded him, regardless of whether the people have agreed or differed with the measures and policies of his administration.

The greatest partisan leaders have seldom been elected to the Presidency. Webster, Clay, Cass, Seward, Blaine, Thurman, Bryan each failed. Indeed administrative efficiency rather than constructive statesmanship has, until late years, been required of the Chief Executive. Now he is expected to be a party leader, a premier after the English fashion, a standard bearer and not a disinterested and impartial executive of the Congressional will. The veto power was originally not expected to be used except to prevent the enactment of unconstitutional laws, and not merely because the President did not agree with the policy of the proposed measure. Cleveland would not accept the latter theory. In pension bills he laboriously scrutinized the evidence on which the pension was granted in each case, and vetoed more bills than all his predecessors together from Washington down.

It has always been considered that innovation and experiment in lawmaking was the exclusive prerogative of Congress, and that it was not the privilege of the President to assume the role of a parliamentary leader. The change in public opinion with respect to the Executive has modified the former view, and he is now expected to be a constructive leader, an originator of laws as well as an enforcer of laws.

The greatest and most beneficent public measure of the century—the peace pact with England and France—was born in the brain of President Taft. Reciprocity with Canada—fortunately defeated by Canada—was his measure. Instances might be cited in which he has endeavored to supply by executive order laws which Congress neglected to enact.

Thus far the President in his tour has not met from members of the party out of power, nor yet from insurgent Republicans, the discourteous treatment with which Conservative mobs in England greeted the Liberal Prime Minister. The Los Angeles insurgents will not be the first to extend discourteous treatment to the President of the United States.

SPEED MANIA.

Those who express the fear that the speed mania with which the present generation appears to be afflicted is a bad omen, will find their fears groundless if they will investigate history. From the very beginning men have been fascinated by the idea of speed.

There are ample evidences in the footprints petrified in the sands of time that the men of the stone age and even of the paleolithic age were addicted to foot races. We have no doubt that many a bet of shells or painted feathers was laid on the result of the fall of two stones of equal size thrown over a precipice. Our hairy ancestors of the dim past must have certainly wagered on the movements of the ichthyosaurus as to whether it would cross the road or take to the jungle.

Speed is exhilarating. You take an old man who has slowed up in his movements and he will grow young again if he rides habitually in a fast automobile. Nobody desires to ride in the slow railway train. The "limited" is none too speedy for the most old-fashioned person to be found anywhere.

We think it is really all for the better that the world desires to speed up and to keep on going as fast as possible. When a man mopes he gets the blues. If he hangs around home instead of attending the races he broods on his troubles, his liver and the rheumatics. He is always benefited by excitement.

At the same time there is no law to prevent the recluse from seeking his cave wherein he may study the classics and invite his soul by pondering over the conclusions of the philosophers. In spite of the initiative, the referendum, the recall and woman suffrage, this is still, to a considerable extent, a free country.

A "REASONABLE DOUBT."

Does any judge know, does any lawyer know, does any skilled dialectician know, does anybody in the world know what kind of a doubt a reasonable doubt is? Chief Justice Shaw of Massachusetts made more than half a century ago a definition which has been quoted and approved by hundreds of courts. He said: "A reasonable doubt leaves the mind of the juror, after due consideration and comparison of all the evidence, in that condition that he cannot say that he feels an abiding conviction to a moral certainty of the truth of the charge."

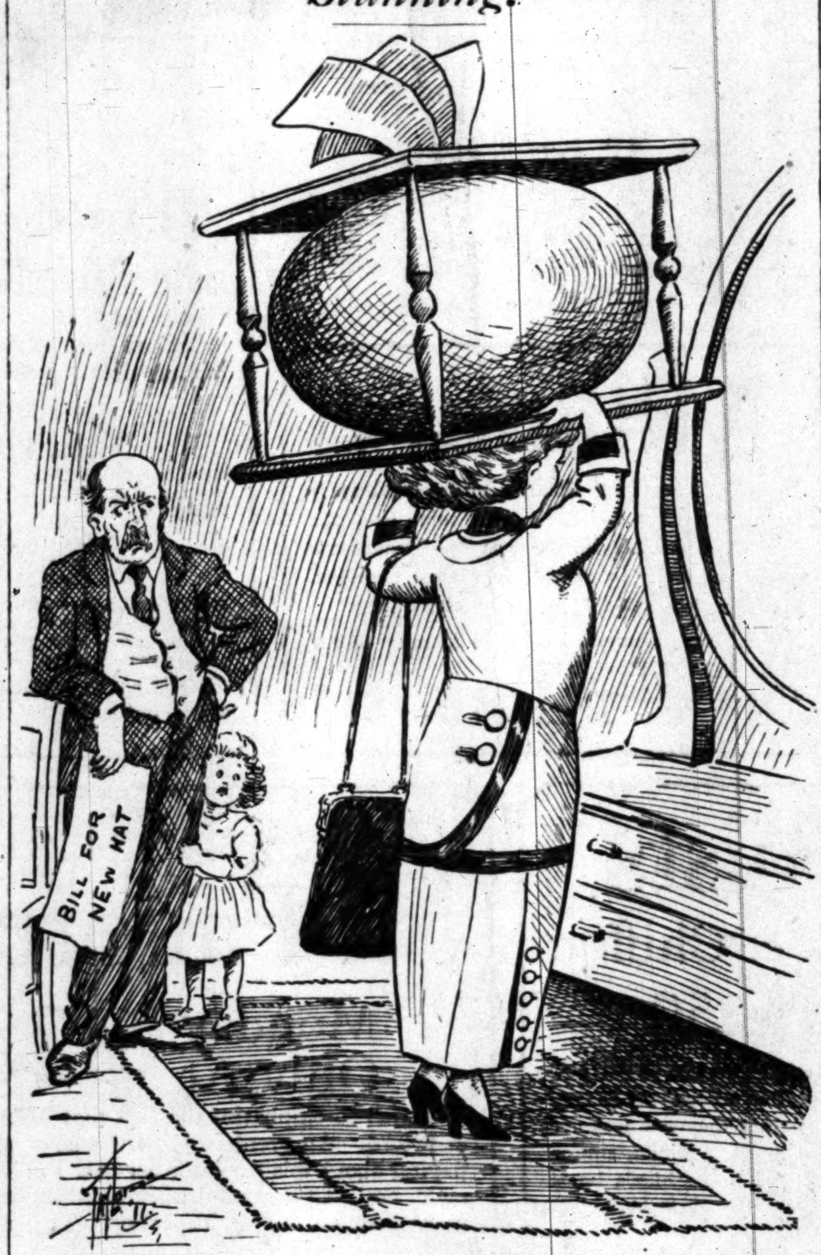
The metaphysical disquisition of the great Massachusetts jurist is not altogether free from obscurity. How does an abiding conviction differ from any other kind of a conviction? How does a moral certainty differ from an absolute certainty or an intellectual certainty? A clever reasoner can make a juryman with a twist in his mentality believe that there is a reasonable doubt as to whether Guiteau assassinated Garfield or shot him in self-defense.

Bishop Whately demonstrated logically beyond a reasonable doubt that no such person as Napoleon Bonaparte ever lived. "It is true," said counsel learned in the law, "that there is a witness who saw my client point his rifle in the direction of the plaintiff's dog and fire it, and there is another witness who saw the dog drop dead. But where, gentlemen of the jury, is any witness who saw the bullet hit the dog? In the absence of such a witness you must have a reasonable doubt as to the guilt of my client, and, having such a doubt, you must acquit him."

That which would seem doubtful to one man would appear certain to another man. A possible doubt would appear to be a reasonable doubt to one juror, while with another no doubt would appear reasonable for which he could not give a reason.

An excellent definition of a reasonable doubt was once given by a Los Angeles Superior Court judge: "I instruct you, gentlemen of the jury," he said, "that a reason-

"Stunning."



IS THE END REALLY IN SIGHT?

The conflict between Italy and Turkey is not one which at base can be regarded as between Islamism and Christianity. It is one between orientalism and occidentalism. It is the same conflict which prompted Xerxes to lead a million Asiatics to crush Greece and so prevent further colonizing of Asia by Europeans. The struggle in the pass of Thermopylae, that at Marathon, followed by the sea fight in the Bay of Salamis, thwarted for the time being the desire of Asiatics to preserve the continent to their own kind of civilization. Had the effort to keep Europe out of Asia succeeded there would have followed an attempt by the Asiatics to control Europe. The defeat of the Persian army was followed by frequent efforts on the part of Europeans to dominate Asia. Xenophon, with his 10,000 Greeks, made such an effort.

Then came an interval of quiet in this direction, the struggle to break out again between Carthage and Rome. Carthage, of course, was in Africa. The Carthaginians were Asiatics. The people of the near East in those early days were very aggressive. They traded to all points on the Mediterranean, passed through the Straits of Gibraltar and bought tin from the mines of Cornwall and carried on commerce with the Irish at the mouth of the River Shannon. All around the shores of the Mediterranean are numerous remains of Phoenicians. Many a height on all the peninsulas is still pointed out as the acropolis of these daring navigators of the early days.

Carthage fell before the prowess of Rome, but that did not bring the struggle to an end. It was carried on by Turks, Tartars and Saracens, who took Jerusalem from the Jews and Christians and made it a Mohammedan holy place. They captured Constantinople and were only turned back by the strong walls of Vienna, by the hammering blows of Charles Martel on the plains of Tours near the city of Poitiers in France. The final check was given in the great sea fight in the battle of Lepanto.

The halting of the Asiatic invasion was followed by an aggressive movement on the part of the Europeans to control Asia in those great events known as the Crusades. Jerusalem was taken and retaken, but, like Constantinople, finally remained in the possession of the Saracens and Turks.

The reported intention of the Italian government is to exact from Turkey as a war indemnity the cession of Palestine or the Holy Land. It is further stated that the government on the Quirinal intends to hand over the sacred territory to the church authorities on the Vatican hill.

There has been enmity between those two hills of ancient Rome since the civil government of Italy made the Eternal City its capital. The Pope has since that time shut himself up in the Vatican so closely that his foot has never trod the streets of Rome. But Pius X is an Italian, and a patriotic one to his heart's core. When the civil government declared war on Turkey, His Holiness very promptly sent his blessing to the troops as they marched away to fight the battles of his country. Perhaps this overture on the part of the gentle head of the papal government has reached the heart of the King of Italy, and the suggested offer of the Holy Land to the church may be a case of the Quirinal meeting the Vatican half way.

There are other signs in the news of the day of the disintegration of the Turkish power. The Sultan has been known for nearly a century as the "Sick Man of the East." The whole system of Islamism is out of date, out of place in our time and upon our earth. Orientalism has never been a match for occidentalism in any phase of human thought or human aspiration except in the way of religion. All Europeans who worship at all do so under some system which had its origin on the other side of the Bosporus.

So we shall watch the onward movement of current events and see if perchance this is to be "the beginning of the end" of the long struggle between orientalism and occi-

NO REASON FOR EXCITEMENT.

The merchants of Europe are reported to be exercised with a fear of the United States exacting "excessive tolls" from ships passing through the Panama Canal. Of course the greatest excitement is in London, Liverpool and other ports in the United Kingdom, whence so many merchant ships sail for all the ports upon the seas of the globe.

These merchant princes of England and elsewhere may possess their souls in patience. The United States is building the canal, a work impossible for any other nation on earth. It is being built primarily for Americans and their interests, and secondarily for the rest of the world.

All nations of Europe, Asia, Africa and the islands of the sea have an advantage over us in building merchant ships and manning them. They put menace on top of menace before our eyes to keep us from competition in the carrying trade. They subsidize steamer lines plying to all parts of the world, and we do not. Were it not for the prohibition which prevents foreign ships from trading between the ports of the United States, Old Glory would disappear from the seas, excepting as its brilliant folds fanned the breezes from the mastheads of the warships. When the canal is built this prohibition will still be effective until the radical free-traders get absolute control of the government, which may a just and loving Providence forbid to happen until the millennium shall have come and gone.

If it should be the pleasure of the United States government to extend this small measure of protection to American shipping by permitting vessels flying the national flag bound between any ports in the world to pass through the canal free of all tolls, it would not be by any means an effective measure of protection to American ships. The cheaply-built vessels of England, Germany and Japan, the cheaply-manned vessels of these nations and the subsidized fleets thereof would still make competition by American ships impossible.

If our government should decree that vessels flying the national flag may pass the canal free of toll, it would not necessarily follow that "excessive tolls" would be levied on other ships. The canal is costing a large sum of money to build. Its up-keep and operation will call for continual outlay, and the vessels that use it must pay a moderate interest on the first cost and for maintenance for all time to come.

UNCLE WALT.

The Poet Philosopher.

Some kinds of hogs are sure to drop into the busy barber shop on Saturday, when people there await their turn to take a chair and have the gentle barber prune the whiskered tassel and festoon. And when the hog gets in a chair the barber has to cut his hair, and treat him to a dry shampoo and dye his straggling galways blue. It takes the barber half a day to curry down this swinish jay, and people have to wait their turn, and righteous wrath doth in them burn. You've seen the porker in the car, who wants all comforts that there are; he occupies a pair of seats; on one he piles his grips and feets, and on the next his carcase lies, while to a book he glues his eyes, thus to avoid, by hoggish guile, the gaze of people in the aisle, who stand on feet that ache and smart, and curse the hog, from heels to heart. Oh, hogs that roam on tootsies four, you're surely creatures to adore, compared with hogs on trilbys two who root their way this sad world through!

funny specimen the Uni- is! I have come across lately—and they are good second. The University Snob invariably claims to be a "Harvard man," or a "Yale man," as the case may be, because he once happened to get a drink of water from the janitor at one of those institutions.

He will bring this precious piece of information about being a "Harvard man" in upon every possible occasion until someone thinks to ask him what year he was up. Then he becomes a little vague and if you are a nasty, persistent sort of person you will finally discover he attended summer school there for six weeks in the dear old long ago.

It is curious that this cheap and meretricious form of snobbery should find such favor in these democratic days. It must be confessed it is usually indulged in by young men from back East with a praiseworthy desire to impress us westerners with their superiority. And since their own sweet personality fails, they drag these respectable institutions in to back them up.

Not "Misunderstood."

Don't you despise the much-married but "misunderstood" man? He usually suffers from that most objectionable possession, the artistic temperament, and he will tell you with mournful insinuation that his marriage was a "great mistake." His wife is incapable of appreciating his sensitive moods and is wholly lacking in sympathy for his beauteous flights of fancy.

He poses as having high ideals and a splendid scorn for the mundane. He speaks of his wife being upon "a lower intellectual plane," and invariably regards himself as a most interesting and long-suffering martyr. He takes all his friends into his confidence. His wife is generally a reticent, rather nervous little woman, with a hunted look in her eyes. The chances are he married her for money—and in any case, he is a selfish pig and a poor provider.

The Clever Mother.

In consideration of the present scarcity of bachelors, I think girls ought to know the value of a clever mother. It's the best asset a girl can have.

One little married lady of my acquaintance is fond of relating how her own matrimonial selection was attained—and she positively had half a dozen proposals of marriage inside of a few weeks.

Her story is that up till the age of 19 or so she was regarded as a child by her mother, and not regarded at all by eligible bachelors. Then one day a caller happened to mention that she supposed Mabel was not the sort of girl to attract admirers, and Mabel's mamma sat up and took notice.

Being a clever mamma she forthwith intended to show the world that any daughter of hers could have all the admirers she wanted and more.

Therefore the ensuing week saw a good deal of dressmaking activity, and the attachment of Mabel to an amateur dramatic club, a tennis club, and a boating club. These, however, were not the essential things. Mabel was taken to dances, to the Horticultural show, the military tournament, Ascot, Goodwood and Henley Regatta. But these, too, were only the frillings. The whole secret of Mabel's success lay in the fact that she had a brilliantly clever mother. That mother made Mabel the most valuable thing on earth. Her conversation with eligible bachelors conveyed the idea that she would be ready to hang, draw and quarter any young man that tried to rob her of Mabel. If by chance, Mabel was intrusted to their care to visit the academy, or even to walk across the ballroom, the strictest injunctions were laid upon those young men to bring her back within a specified time. And—cleverest trick of all—almost before the allotted time was up she would send another young man to find Mabel and bring her safely back.

This gave Mabel the necessary vogue, as all young men want what they think all other young men want. And even Mabel's laughing warnings, that mamma was husband-hunting on her account, failed to spoil mamma's clever game. Before a month had passed Mabel had had two proposals, and after that they averaged one a week, until she accepted one in sheer weariness.

And this is a true story.
Train your mothers, girls.

WHAT WOMEN ARE DOING.

Miss Gertrude Jordan has been nominated to succeed herself as County Treasurer of Cherry county, Neb., on every political ticket, and no one has come forward to oppose her. When she was elected two years ago she was prevented from taking charge of the office for several months because some of the old officeholders asserted that no one was eligible to office who was not qualified to vote.

Mrs. Ellen Rose of Buena Vista, Pa., is carrying on a unique business among women—pumping sand and coal from the bottom of the Susquehanna River. Although Mrs. Rose has passed her seventieth year, she directs her force of fifteen workmen personally, going out with them every morning and visiting them several times a day to see that everything is going right.

Mrs. Elise P. Buckingham of California owns and manages one of the largest orchards in the world. She is a New York woman, having been born and brought up in Genesee Valley. She began her career as a fruit grower by purchasing 250 acres of land in the valley of the Vaca River. She planted more than half of the tract in fruit trees of various sorts, which paid her so well that she increased her holdings by 1000 acres. Mrs. Buckingham joined with A. T. Hatch, the "fruit king," in bringing the first refrigerator cars to California.

Miss Helen K. Goss, president of the senior class of Wellesley College, has announced plans whereby each senior takes upon herself to advise and encourage a group of freshmen. The registration at Wellesley closed with about 1400 students enrolled for the coming year. This is twenty-eight more than were enrolled last year.

Mrs. Mary D. Porter of Brockton, Mass., has won two prizes with paintings exhibited at the Weymouth County Fair. She is 84, and never took a lesson in painting until after she passed her fiftieth birthday. One of the prize-winning paintings was a water color and the other an oil painting. Mrs. Porter has been a prize winner in the poultry department at the Weymouths fairs for several years, and last year she added to her honors by taking first prize for the best loaf of brown bread.

Miss Mary Johnston is to deliver an address at the national suffrage convention to be held in Louisville, Ky., October 19 to 26. Among others to be heard at the convention are Jane Addams, Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, Miss Clay, Mrs. Thompson-Seton, Brand Whitlock, Mrs. Caroline B. Crane, Mrs. T. P. O'Connor, Mrs. Pankhurst, and Mrs. Desha Breckenridge.

GET-RICH-QUICK SCHEME.

Alleged Agents for Magazines at Reduced Rates, Working City, Police Report From Complaints Received.

According to the complaints which have reached the police, self-styled agents for magazines are obtaining money under false pretenses and the public is warned by the authorities not to hand money to men unless they have proper credentials.

Five men were arrested Friday on suspicion and taken to the University Police Station, but for lack of evidence they were discharged.

The method pursued by these alleged agents i sfor one man to call at a residence and offer three magazines at a greatly reduced rate. If he dies not receive the money at this call, he takes the citizen's name, promising to call again. In the course of a few days another man drops around and insistts upon being paid for a subscription.

Officers of news agencies state that these men apparently use no order blank, writing the names of magazines subscribed for on blank sheets. In this way, without delivering the magazines, they clean up considerable money.

MANY MOOSE TO MARCH.

Antlered Tribe Will Give a Night Parade in Honor of Visiting Lodges and There Will Be Red Fire.

Hundreds of moose—two-legged and hornless—are expected to parade next Wednesday evening in honor of visiting lodges. Los Angeles lodge No. 386, Loyal Order of Moose, will be the host.

The turnout will be complimentary to Pomona, San Pedro and other lodges from nearby cities. Pomona is expected to send 350 members, and its degree team, in new regalia, will exemplify the work of the order. This will take place at the headquarters of the Los Angeles lodge in the Levy building, and will be followed by a reception and banquet.

There will be redfire and music by several bands in the parade. Two of the bands will escort the local Moose to the Salt Lake station to meet a special train bearing the visitors.

The lodgemen will fall in line and move at seven o'clock, their march covering First street to Broadway, to

The Public Service: City Hall and Courts.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Voters may be called upon to vote on a $3,500,000 bond issue for the construction of a storm drain system throughout the city.

Arguing that the remanding of a man to jail by a justice of the peace is illegal since the ratification of a constitutional amendment abolishing justice courts, the effect of the recent ballot is to be tested by an attorney.

At the City Hall.

STORM DRAINS ARE DEMANDED.

MARATHON HEIGHTS APPLIES TO CITY COUNCIL.

Project Is to Bond City or Provide for Construction Out of General Tax Levy—Cost Would Be Three and One-half Millions—Plan Favored by Commissioner.

A bond issue for $3,500,000 for a storm drain system throughout the city may be the next proposition on which Los Angeles will be called to vote, the officers of the Marathon Heights Improvement Association believe. To start the project they yesterday filed for the association a set of resolutions addressed to the City Council in which they declare that the present method of planning storm drains for segregated districts results in too great cost, while property is often assessed to pay for what is of no direct benefit to it. They want the Council to order the City Engineer to make a survey of the entire city for a storm drainage system and ask that bonds be provided to pay for the system when the map shall be made.

In the discussion of La Brea storm drainage assessment district two weeks ago, all the members of the City Council present declared themselves in favor of having the city pay either by a bond issue or by direct taxation for the construction of a complete storm-drainage system for Los Angeles. The Marathon Heights people therefore think there will be no opposition to the order for the City Engineer to do the work.

At the office of the Board of Public Works, where the maps and estimates of the storm districts of the city have been kept, whether the districts have been approved or not, it is roughly estimated that the construction of a complete "separate" system for storm drainage would cost $3,500,000 and that unless the city had that amount in hand for the purpose it would not be of value to the municipality to commence the work.

"It will take eighteen months to complete the maps and specifications of the Jefferson street district," said Commissioner Humphreys yesterday morning, "in which there is an area of 7300 acres."

The great question, he explained, was how to provide the money. Through a very small part of the city in the central or downtown part and in a small part of Boyle Heights, there is a storm drainage system constructed a number of years ago with $400,000 raised by bonds. When it was proposed to vote $300,000 in bonds later for another storm-drainage system in another district, the voters refused to agree to it. The money, the commissioner said, could not well be taken from the general tax fund on which there were already heavy demands, so the financial obstacle remained.

He is in favor of a separate storm drainage system, however, and explained why.

"In providing for the drainage of a city," he said, "we must decide on a surface drainage system or a sub-surface system. If the surface system, we must have deeper gutters at the curbs, and it must be a continuous gutter system, running clear through to the end for several miles. As the water flows down this it is constantly increasing in volume and at certain points the way may become impassable. At railway crossings culverts must be constructed. Just to show what these cost, in the Alameda street district the estimate for the storm drain, sub-surface drainage, is $106,000. With the surface system in that district, to construct the culverts alone would cost $80,000.

"Again, with the surface drainage system, we cannot wash the streets as readily as with the sub-surface system. In the latter case, the water could run off the pavement into the drains and catch-basins, and thus taken care of without bother or inconvenience. In the surface drainage system, however, when a paved street is washed in the upper districts, the people in the streets below immediately protest. All the water runs down on them. This year we are to construct in the neighborhood of thirty-five miles of asphaltum paved streets and it should be decided now whether we are to have one system or the other. The southern part of town is getting more water than ever before, because it no longer sinks into the soil but runs down into that region over the paved streets up town."

The commissioner said that the man who owned property on the hill worth more than the property at the foot of the hill, undoubtedly felt that it was unjust to assess him at the full value of his property when he derived no benefit from a drain, while the man who got all the benefit in the streets below was assessed proportionately less.

"I know of a case where within 500 feet there is one vacant lot that is valued at ten times the valuation of a lot 500 feet away. The owner of one lot, who is at a higher altitude, does not need the drain, yet he has to pay ten times as much as the man below who does need it," the Commissioner continued. "It is evident that the whole city must undertake the work on the same principle as the schools, where people readily recognize the necessity of maintaining the school system whether they have children or not."

FIRE TRUCK TESTED. SECOND IN THE WORLD.

Los Angeles has the second city service fire truck in the United States and that means in the world, too, for this machine was built for this city. It was given its official test yesterday afternoon and Acting Chief O'Donnell can't talk about it now without little shivers of delight.

The City Council and the Fire Commissioners were to have been there, but they were not, nor was the Mayor. But O'Donnell represented the department, Minute Clerk Carroll the Council, and there were on board as guests, Superintendent of Engines Price, Chief Clifford of the Pasadena department, J. C. Barthel of the Venice purchasing department, Agent Hirsch of the machine company, John Kelly and Deputy Fire Marshal Dutton. Fred Ayers drove the machine as demonstrator.

The test was on the flat and up and down hill, and Acting Chief O'Donnell took pains to make it thorough. Starting from the City Hall, the run to Temple street and out to Grand avenue was made at the rate of twenty miles an hour. Then the machine turned and went down First to Hill and South on Hill to Second, west along Second to Grand avenue, traveling slowly for this distance. Proceeding along Bunker Hill, First, Echo Park road and Temple street to Belmont, the turn was made at Belmont and then the motor was let loose at twenty-five miles an hour while traveling along Temple to Edgware road.

The most severe part of the test was going south on Grand avenue to Fifth, where half way down the hill, the machine was stopped, turned, and then sent slowly back up the Grand avenue hill.

"It is a great addition to the department," said the Acting Chief at the conclusion of the test. "Everything is in first class condition and it is certainly a big improvement on the horse truck. Why, at one time we were able to make thirty miles an hour without an effort today along First and Temple streets, running on the level."

The truck is a six-wheel machine, the two forward and the two rear wheels steering. It is chain drive and weighs 12,000 pounds. Ordinarily it carries a crew of eight men. Yesterday there were thirteen aboard.

FAVORS GOOD TRESTLE. NEW WILMINGTON ROAD.

The break in the main road between Wilmington and Long Beach is to be bridged if the City Council will consent to appropriating $12,000 for the work. The Board of Public Works at its session yesterday morning decided that a trestle should be constructed on piling creosoted to preserve it against the weather, and $12,000 is the estimated cost.

Last spring there was an overflow into the wash that is crossed by East Seventh street, Wilmington, and the old trestle was carried out. As East Seventh street is the main artery of travel between that district and Long Beach, the residents there and a lumber company asked that the road be put into condition, but nothing has been done until now. A temporary structure was asked for, but it was thought better by the Board of Public Works to erect a trestle of a permanent character.

Pays His Own Way.

The use of asphalt and oil on public roads and streets is to be discussed at considerable length by the delegates to the State convention of oil men in Santa Barbara a week from next Tuesday, and the City Oil Inspector yesterday informed the City Council that he thought he should be there. He asked for one day's leave of absence and agreed to pay his own expenses.

At the Courthouse.

BLOW AIMED AT JUSTICE COURTS.

POINT IS RAISED CONCERNING RECENT AMENDMENT.

Writ of Habeas Corpus is Applied for in the Case of a Man Sent to Jail, Attorney Contending That Court Which Committed Him Has Been Abolished.

Attorney Robert J. Adcock yesterday endeavored to bring home to the justices of the peace of Los Angeles the full import of the constitutional amendment ratified on Tuesday abolishing their office. He applied for a writ of habeas corpus for the release from the County Jail of J. A. Woods, committed by Justice Forbes for failing to provide $500 peace bonds on being found guilty of threatening his wife bodily harm.

Adcock promptly laid the application before Judge Hutton, in the Superior Court, who signed it for return tomorrow morning before Judge Willis.

A second ground on which Adcock based his application for the writ was that the affidavit made against Woods by his wife was not witnessed, holding this in itself, made the proceedings against the defendant illegal.

Another point raised by Adcock in asking for the writ was that, according to his way of thinking, the abolition of the office of Justice of the Peace became effective as soon as it became definitely known that the constitutional amendment had carried.

"The Legislature has no power or authority to allow ten days to lapse before the new amendment is in force," said Adcock, "and I fully expect that the decision of Judge Willis will bear me out in this."

TO PENITENTIARY. PROBATION DENIED TWO.

Guillermo Leal, a Mexican found guilty on the testimony of a Turk of having burgled a store run by three Hebrews in North Main street, was sentenced to a year in San Quentin yesterday by Judge McCormick. The defendant asked to be put on probation, but the court said his offense called for his being taught that the law cannot be broken with impunity. He stole a graphophone.

Clyde Carver, who broke his probation promises three times, on the last occasion by forging a check for $16, got a year in Folsom. He begged for another chance, saying that at the time of his arrest he had secured a job, intending to pay back the money. He also told the court that his father, a professional gambler, was shot to death when he was very young and that afterward he had to shift for himself.

Judge McCormick told him Probation Officer Dodds was opposed to showing the prisoner further leniency, as he had repeatedly transgressed despite the assistance rendered him. Carver, who is 21 years old and has spent five years in the Reform School, broke down as he was led away.

LITTLE DAMAGED. AWARDED ONE DOLLAR.

In the case of W. Lemon, an Alhambra contractor and builder, who sued John Newman of that place for $3000 damages for alleged slander, Judge Houser yesterday returned judgment for the plaintiff for $1. In the opinion of the court, Newman was guilty of Wheels, Too.

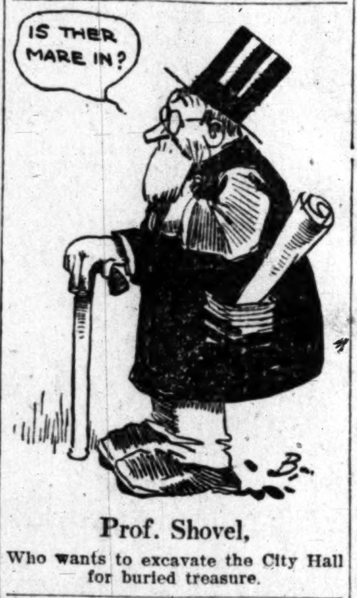
TURNING THE CRANKS KEEPS MAYOR BUSY.

CRANKS in broadcloth and in silks, in calico and in rags, cranks that turn the wheels of progress and cranks that have slipped a cog—all find their way to the Mayor's office in the course of time at the rate of anywhere from a single specimen to a score every day. They are waiting when the Mayor arrives in the morning and they are hanging around all day,



Prof. Shovel,

Who wants to excavate the City Hall for buried treasure.

lingering in the corridors of the City Hall until the doors close for the night, or standing outside on the steps and asking passers-by: "Is that Mr. Alexander?" They keep him busy every spare moment.

And then there are the letters, too, from persons with ideas that don't just fit right and who want the city to set them straight.

One very persistent correspondent has never been able yet to see why Los Angeles should build a harbor down at Wilmington and San Pedro, when, according to his notion, the Los Angeles River might be deepened and broadened and docks built right at the foot of First street, where the deep-sea ships of the world might unload cargoes from Europe and the Orient, not to speak of the coastwise traffic.

"It would be a broad, beautiful waterway," he wrote some time ago, "and the banks could be planted with palms and tropic verdure, with driveways. It would be the talk of the world."

But that idea was altogether too expensive a scheme for another man, who was a real inventor. He thought it foolish for Los Angeles to spend a cent on a harbor when it was only a matter of time before his own invention would be adopted and ships would come skimming over the waves and skipping along the beaches, leaping the hills and running races on land with railway trains. They would come directly to the stores of Los Angeles in the downtown streets, he thought, and expenditures for engineering along the waterfront would be a thing of the past.

This inventor has not been heard from for some time, but to make up for him there have been astrologers who wanted the city to pay for information as to gold mines right under Olive street, for statements as to the vote for the next municipal government, how women would cast their ballots when they got a chance, and a few other things just like that. Other writers tell how lonesome they are in the cold and bitter winters of New England, Kansas or Alaska and how they would like to come to Los Angeles and start a little home with a wife to be provided—with the home—by the city.

Insane men and women get in to the Mayor's office without trouble, but His Honor gets them out again just as soon as possible and with the use of tact and discretion never has to call the police to help him.

'At first," he said in telling his experiences, "Henderson asked them to state their business, but that did not work well. So they come in by themselves—just walk in and sit down. Sometimes men or women will come in and sit there for an hour right opposite this desk without saying a word. The only way to do with them is to tell them to state their business in five minutes. They usually talk that long and then go out.

"The greatest number of callers on useless errands, however, are not the cranks, but men and women who think the city ought to pay their way home to the East or somewhere because they did not get the positions they expected. If they could only get back to their former homes a position is waiting for them, these persons say. Of course there is no fund for sending people home, and the city never could begin to do it."

Music.

FURNISHES BIG BAND FREE AND IN HURRY.

THE LOS ANGELES BAND ASSOCIATION, with J. T. Fitzgerald as president, was formed yesterday morning, and already a band of fifty picked musicians has been organized to welcome President Taft upon his arirval tomorrow morning and to escort the Chief Executive upon his trip through Los Angeles. This band, and all other bands which may in future be employed by the Los Angeles Band Association, will not cost the city a penny.

The headquarters of the association will be at No. 708 Ferguson building, and the members will hold meetings there every ten days to discuss the best means of providing music for this city. The association is to be co-operative, non-profit-sharing, and to be supported by popular subscription. The object is to be in position to furnish music for all special civic functions and entertainments, such as the big Shriner's conclave to be held in Los Angeles next May. The Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association or any other organization of boosters will be furnished with a band upon any required occasion. The newly formed association was organized for only one purpose, which is to foster and maintain a high class band in the interest of the entire city. The officers of the association will not be paid salaries, and as long as there is money in the treasury any body of men interested in civic betterment may be furnished with musicians, free of charge, upon any special occasion. The board of directors will cull the best musicians from all parts of the city and organize them into a band that will be a credit to Los Angeles, they declare.

Membership fees will be $10 annually, or $100 for life. R. H. Holmes is vice-president of the association, Harry E. Dean, secretary, and F. E. Golding, treasurer. The board of directors consists of J. T. Fitzgerald, R. H. Holmes, H. C. Rand, W. J. Bryant, H. E. Golding, W. J. Howe, Joseph Blust, Harry E. Dean, J. H. McElheney, H. W. Frank, A. R. Brauer, H. S. Jones, J. L. Edmiston, V. O. Geoffrion and C. L. Bagley.

Drowned?

DAVID CAPLAN DEAD, AUTHORITIES BELIEVE.

DAVID CAPLAN, over whose head a reward of $10,000 impends for alleged complicity in the destruction of the Times Building, is believed dead by attaches of the District Attorney's office. Their belief is based upon investigations of Caplan's movements in and about Seattle.

According to Asst. Dist.-Atty. Ford the last place where Caplan was positively seen following his secret departure from San Francisco, is Lake Bay, a socialistic colony a short distance from Seattle. Evidence of trustworthy character has also been received by the District Attorney purporting to show that Caplan was taken in a launch by residents of Lake Bay several months ago, presumably to the Canadian shore of Puget Sound. It was announced before going that the alleged dynamiter would be landed a short distance from Victoria, and thence conducted to safe retreat in the wilds of British Columbia.

The launch, according to reports on file in the District Attorney's office, never touched the British shore. Some time afterward the boat returned to Lake Bay, apparently from the successful landing of Caplan. Since then nothing has been heard of Caplan. It is the sinister feeling of Asst. Dist.-Atty. Ford that Caplan was drowned in Puget Sound to seal his lips forever.

Ford's opinion that Caplan has been done away with is also shared by Chief Detective Browne of the District Attorney's office, who has been in charge of the investigation of the alleged dynamiter's movements since and prior to his arrival at Lake Bay. Endless data has been unearthed by Browne's men concerning Caplan's movements in the North, but nothing has been forthcoming subsequent to his launch trip across Puget Sound. As a result several Lake Bay residents may be called here as grand jury witnesses.

When Caplan arrived in Lake Bay, according to Burns's agents, he was in a sad state physically and financially. His means were gone, and his clothes were out. Friends in the Lake Bay colony came to his rescue. Against the advice of the Lake Bay socialists, it is asserted by the Burns agents, he continued to communicate with his wife in San Francisco. Often he expressed a desire to see her and their children. His longings finally so impressed the Lake Bay people, according to the Burns men, that the trip to the Canadian shore was arranged. At that time the detectives were getting close to Caplan.

When the reports concerning Caplan's disappearance under the waters of Puget Sound reached the District Attorney's office it was believed that sooner or later proof would be found, but this has failed to materialize.

It was announced by Asst. Dist.-Atty. Ford yesterday that a new grand jury will be called before the first of the year to take the place of that discharged on Friday. The statutes make it mandatory that a grand jury be called each year. That just discharged was a holdover from the year previous.

Ford also believes that a grand jury will be needed before the trials of the alleged dynamiters are completed. It is the theory of Dist.-Atty. Fredericks that it is better to have a fully-organized jury ready than to wait to summon one when occasion demands.

THE RISE OF BROWN.

Few men in Los Angeles have so wide an acquaintance as W. A. Brown—you know him; he has grasped your hand. There is now being organized in Los Angeles a new undertaking company to be known as Brown & Willett, with W. A. Brown at its head.

Almost everybody knows W. A. Brown for what he is, honest and upright, a good clean Christian man. Mr. Brown began his career here as a street car conductor and there was not one detail with which he was not familiar with or any part of the duties of which he was not master. Naturally courteous he rendered his passengers many attentions. HEAD OF NATION EVENT.

this, however, the visitors will have proceeded along Main street to Washington and then west to the entrance to Washington Park. Inside the baseball grounds the procession will move in a circle, the President reviewing 13,000 school children, who will wave flags and sing. The exit from the park will be by the way it was entered. Leaving the park, the parade will cross the street to Praeger Park, after which the line of march will again be taken up, continued along Washington street to Hope street and north along Hope to Seventh, where the escort will rejoin the procession, then along Seventh to Olive and north on Olive to the Auditorium. The schedule provides for the arrival at Washington Park at 10 o'clock and at the Auditorium at 10:30 o'clock.

At the Auditorium the Presidential party will pass between two lines of veterans and enter. Capt. H. Z. Osborne, acting president of the Chamber of Commerce, will preside. He will introduce Mayor Alexander, who in turn will present the President for the only set speech that he will make in Southern California.

Preceding the arrival of the President there will be a band concert in the foyer of the Auditorium.

At noon the procession will re-form in front of the Auditorium and move on Fifth street to Broadway, and north along Broadway to First street, at which point the escort will leave the President. Between 12:10 and 12:15 Mr. Taft will break a bottle of Owens River water on the Buena Vista bridge, thereby dedicating it.

TO OCCIDENTAL AND PASADENA.

Leaving the bridge, the party will dash away to Occidental College. The President and his escort will enter the main hall, where a greeting will be given by Dr. John Willis Baer, president of the college. Mr. Taft will speak briefly to the students. One of the features of this gathering will be the presence of the Yale Club of Southern California. Its members will occupy places of honor in the front of the hall and as the President approaches they will give the old Eli yell.

From Occidental the party will drive slowly through South Pasadena and up Fair Oaks avenue to Colorado street, Pasadena, to Hotel Maryland. Mayor Thum and a delegation of representative Pasadenans will greet the President and escort him to a seat of honor in the dining-room. The decorations will be lavish, the head table being adorned with flowers to carry out the scheme of the American flag in red, white and blue. Dr. Baer will act as toastmaster and give one of his brief introductions. When President Taft was here two years ago Dr. Baer at a similar banquet introduced the Chief Executive in just nine words. He told Secretary Wiggins of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday that he will be even more brief this time.

The speaking will be through promptly at 2:35 p. m. The President will then be slowly driven west on Colorado street to Carmelita playground. On each side of the street will be lined the residents of Pasadena and the stores and public buildings along the thoroughfare are already decorated with flags and bunting.

RETURN TO LOS ANGELES.

At the playgrounds will be assembled thousands of children. The President will speak a few words from his machine and return on Colorado, coming back to Los Angeles by way of Oak Knoll.

According to schedule, Mr. Taft will reach Blanchard Hall at 4 o'clock, where members of the Afro-American Council and its friends will give a rousing reception to the man who has done so much for the negro race. He will be presented with a handsome gold emblem. From the hall Mr. Taft will be taken to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Edwards, his brother-in-law and sister, No. 2600 West Adams street, for a few hours of rest. He will pass the night with his relatives.

Shortly before 8 o'clock a committee consisting of Phil A. Stanton, Gen. Chaffee, Walter J. Ballard, Dr. Edwards, Judge Bordwell and L. H. Schwaebe and W. M. Bowen will escort the President to the Alexandria.

EVENING BANQUET.

The banquet will be held in the new hall in the annex. All the tickets in the hall have been sold, but there are a few places left in the balcony. Those wishing seats can get them at the Chamber of Commerce.

The banquet hall will be decorated in patriotic colors and the following menu will be served:

California Oyster Cocktail
Clear Green Turtle with Sherry
Relishes
California Ripe Olives. Celery
Almonds
Crab Legs. Papillotte, President
Rack of Lamb, Alexandria
Sorbert, Surprise
Breast of Chicken White House
Alligator Pears, Los Angeles
Potatoes
Neselrode, Fantasie
Petit Fours
Roquefort, Parisian
Demi Tasse
Wines Cigars Cigarettes

The committee in charge is M. H. Flint, chairman; L. J. C. Spruance, M. A. Hamburger, Stoddard Jess, W. M. Garland, R. W. Burnham, William Lacey, Capt. Randolph A. Miner, W. I. Hollingsworth and Oscar Lawler.

In the absence of James Slauson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, Capt. Osborne, first vice-president, will preside. He will introduce former Senator Flint as toastmaster. Besides the President there will be speeches by Oscar Mueller and Senator Works.

TO LONG BEACH.

At 7:30 o'clock Tuesday morning a committee from Long Beach will go to the home of Dr. Edwards to escort the President to the resort city. En route a stop will be made at the University of Southern California at 9:30 o'clock where he will be greeted by the faculty, student body and friends of the institution at the College of Liberal Arts on University avenue at Fifty-fifth street. The President will speak from his automobile. Brief stops will be made at Watts and Compton, after which the party will journey by way of Signal Hill to Long Beach. School children will be massed t welcome the President. They will have flags and flowers and, as the Presidential party passes through, the children will strew the pathway with flowers. The children will be arranged according to flowers they carry, the intention being to portray the national colors, red, white and blue in fragrant petals. At Pacific Grove the President will address the crowd and at 11:30 o'clock he will go to the Virginia Hotel, where light refreshments will be served. The special train that is to convey the President over the Salt Lake Railroad to Salt Lake will be stopped in front of the hotel from which point the party will resume the rail journey.

TIZ FOR SORE FEET.

Tired, Aching, Swollen, Smelly, Sweaty Feet? Corns, Callouses or Bunions? Use TIZ. Its sure, Quick and Certain.

You Will Enjoy Using TIZ. The Most Pleasant Remedy You Ever Tried and Moreover, It Works.

At last here is an instant relief and a lasting, permanent remedy for sore feet. No more tired feet. No more aching feet. No more swollen, bad smelling, sweaty feet. No more corns. No more bunions. No more callouses, no matter what ails your feet or what under the sun you've tried without getting relief, just use TIZ.

TIZ is totally unlike anything else for the purpose you ever heard of. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleanses them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists at 25 and 50 cents per box, or direct if you wish from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

MUCH OIL IS BURNED.

Bakersfield Men Are Scorched While Putting a Gate on a Gusher. Caused By Gas Explosion.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] This morning while J. Burke, W. M. Elder and John Lynde were putting a gate on the Kern Trading and Oil Company's flowing well No. 23, near Maricopa, an explosion of gas occurred that severely burned the men about the faces and arms and set fire to the rig and sump. The men were just tightening the nut on the last bolt when the explosion took place and what the cause may have been remains a mystery.

After the gate was in place the oil continued to flow between the casings at the rate of 1000 barrels per day and this oil continued to burn all day. The rig was consumed as was the oil in the sump and other wells and sumps nearby were threatened. The damage was confined to the immediate vicinity well 23, however, and tonight it was stated that the K. T. & O. people were getting the fire under control by banking dirt around the burning well. The three men were painfully hurt by the flames and were taken to a hospital. It is not expected, however, that they will suffer any permanent injury slandering Lemon by telling a number of persons that the plaintiff stole several bags of cement from a man for whom he was working, but that Lemon's reputation was such that he was little damaged by Newman's acts.

The case was submitted to Judge Houser several days ago. A number of witnesses took the stand for Newman and testified that all they could say for the defendant in connection with his business and other methods would not redound to his credit. An attempt by Lemon's attorney to show that their statements against his client were founded on malice, was fruitless.

COURTS MAY ADJOURN.

CHANCE TO SEE PRESIDENT.

At a meeting Friday night of the Superior Court judges at the Union League Club several important propositions were considered, among them the matter of suspending action of the law and motion calendars on Monday, owing to the visit of President Taft.

It was agreed to allow the question to rest in the hands of the judges of the various departments. Several of the judges were in favor of putting their law and motion calendars over until Monday afternoon and they will probably do this.

Another question disposed of was a request by Attorney E. M. Barnes, formerly connected with the Rawson divorce agency, that the judges agree to the transfer of nine such divorce cases from Department Six, where they would be heard by Judge Monroe, to a special commissioner. Barnes asked that the testimony be taken by L. A. Boyd, a stenographer.

The only action taken by the judges was to refer Barnes's request to Judge Monroe, from whose jurisdiction he would take the cases. It is regarded improbable that the cases will be transferred from his department.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

DISLIKED TENANT. On the ground that the tenant to whom they rented his house, No. 1320 West Thirty-seventh street, damaged it inside and out by carelessness, Richard Fast has brought suit against Wilson & Fox, real estate dealers, for $20,000 redress. The action was filed for Fast by Attorney Otto Schraeder. He charges that the actions of the tenant damaged the property in reputation as well as physical appearance.

COURTS MOVE OVER. Three more departments of the Superior Court will be installed in their new quarters in the Hall of Records tomorrow. They are one, three and six, presided over by Judges Woods, Wilbur and Monroe. There will then be Department Nine, previous to the opening of the McNamara trail.

DAMAGE SUIT. Charging that she was seriously injured by being thrown from a Los Angeles Railway car last April, Alice E. Campbell yesterday filed suit against the company for $26,000 damages.

Public Service Corporation Submits Arguments in Street Lighting Case. Decision Reserved Fifteen Days.

Arguments in support of its contention that while doing construction work for the city permits to erect electric light poles are unnecessary were submitted to Police Judge Frederickson by the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation yesterday and a ruling is to be given on the 30th inst.

The cases against the company were those in which E. R. Northmore, superintendent of electrical construction, was charged with having proceeded with the street lighting work on Normandie avenue between Colegrove and Melrose without having secured permits and Patrick Carroll and H. E. Richmond were charged with having laid gas pipes in West Hollywood without permits.

The defense to the latter complaint was that the men in charge of the work believed they were working in the county and not in the city.

Many authorities were cited in the street lighting case to show that the company had the same rights as a municipal corporation would have when doing the same work in the city's interest and upon order of the City Electrician.

CASE MAY GO OVER.

It was expected that the appeal of Beatrice Anita Turnbull-Baldwin from the opinion of Judge Rives, nonsuiting her action to have herself declared the legal and natural child of "Lucky" Baldwin, would be argued Wednesday, but it is understood that the matter will go over until January. No opinions will be handed down during this session of the court, but arguments and briefs will be submitted for action later on.

DIVORCE CASE REMANDED.

The District Court yesterday held that the divorce suit brought by Jessie E. Johnston against James C. Johnston, decided by Superior Court Judge Davis in favor of the woman, must be remanded for another hearing. The allegation of Mrs. Johnston was a failure to provide. It was shown that the wife left the husband and he was perfectly willing that she should go away. In the opinion of YANKS HIS HAIR.

It Comes Off and Man Who Has Encounter With Woman Goes After a Complaint.

Is tearing off a man's toupee disturbing the peace?

This question was asked of Deputy City Prosecutor McConnell yesterday by an angry man whose shining pate told more cogently than words that he was the party interested.

His name is W. J. Tomach, and he conducts a hair store. The person who he declared ruthlessly deprived him of his hirsute adornment is a young woman who recently purchased several dollars' worth of hair, but neglected to pay for it.

He waited a few days, trusting that she would appear and settle, but she did not, and he sent a collector to her room. Tomach said he did not wish the prosecutor to gain the impression that he saw nothing of the young woman. On the contrary, he said he saw a great deal and she looked over and carefully examined every bit of hair in the store that would match her own locks, but there was no indication that the original purchase was to be paid at once.

Yesterday morning she descended upon Tomach with all the ardor a recently enfranchised woman could summon. When the storm abated, he said, he was minus his wig and feeling as if he had been stepped on. She objected to the calls of his collector.

He could have put his wig on his head again, but laboring under the impression that to do so would destroy the evidence, he left it—the wig, not the head—under guard in his shop, and hurried to the Central Police Station to consult the prosecutor.

A complaint was issued against the woman, charging disturbance of the peace, and she must appear in the Police Court tomorrow.

How $10 Will Create a Life Income

Profit-Sharing Gold Bonds a New and Attractive Investment.

A Secured Income of 6 Per Cent. While Prospective Earnings Show as High as 200 Per Cent. Yearly.

Under a system of issuing profit-sharing guaranteed Gold Bonds by a corporation, formed by leading Los Angeles business men, any one able to save and invest a small sum monthly can purchase a $100, $500 or $1000 profit-sharing gold bond, guaranteeing 6 per cent., while sharing in profits that have exceeded 200 per cent. per annum in similar enterprises.

A $1000 bond, according to what has been done, will later pay an annual income of $2000, and all the time your money is as safe as in a bank.

The safety of the investment is guaranteed by deed of trust of all the company's property in one of the strongest trust companies in Los Angeles, who pay interest and profits direct to the investors.

A $100, $500 or $1000 bond, which may be purchased for cash or easy monthly payments, should create a life income of $200 to $2000 annually, which is a mighty good thing to have at any time of life, especially in old age.

Write today to E. G. Rifleout, 262 Wilcox building, Los Angeles, for booklets, bank certification, letters from prominent people and the story of how $1000 made a million, while $1000 in a bank at 4 per cent. increased to $2025.82 in 18 years.

ATTACKS EXCLUSION LAW.

Holds That International Treaty Supersedes Statute That Discriminates Against Chinese Coolies.

A novel point in Chinese extradition proceedings was raised before United States Commissioner Williams yesterday, in the hearing of the case of Yee Ah Shin, charged with being unlawfully in the country.

A demurrer was filed by the defense giving grounds that under the treaty arranged for by President Cleveland and Secretary Gresham, afterward ratified by the United States Senate, this country cannot discriminate against the Chinese as a nation.

It is argued that the treaty is the absolute authority between nations, superseding the law on the subject of Chinese exclusion that at the time of the ratification of the treaty had been in operation about one year.

Assistant United States District Attorney Cryer was given time to prepare an answer to the demurrer, and Wednesday next was fixed for the argument. Commissioner Williams acknowledged that the contention was a new one to him, and thought that the matter ought to be fully argued and submitted.

It is alleged that the exclusion act is discriminatory in its operation in that it does not provide for the deportation of laborers belonging to any other race who are coming to the shores of the United States. Also, that as the "favored nation" clause allows other people to remain here, it should apply to the Chinese, inasmuch as under the treaty they are assured that protection not only as to person but to property.

The point raised in behalf of Yee Ah Shin will be carried to the highest courts if Commissioner Williams holds against him. A number of Chinese interested in the matter, have raised a fund to push the litigation through.

VAST SUM IS INVOLVED.

Case Which Extends Back Several Years Is Being Heard by Superior Court Judge.

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 14.—A suit which goes back into the past history of the Allesandro Irrigation Company of this county and involves court actions which took place eight years ago, also bonds in the sum of over a million dollars, is being heard in the Superior Court here.

This is the case of Arthur Young of Chicago, against the Allesandro Irrigation Company, the action having been brought to set aside an order made by Judge J. S. Noyes here in 1903, dissolving the company acting as defendant, to obtain judgment in the sum of $735,000 and interest claimed as due the bondholders.

The holders of the bonds are residents of England and Scotland, who assigned for the purposes of bringing this action to Arthur Young, a Chicago capitalist. In the courtroom during the hearing is a large trunk full of bonds in charge of Banker Hubbard of Redlands, who has been appointed custodian. The defense is made on the grounds that the bonds were illegally issued and therefore are void. The attorneys for the plaintiff are E. W. Freeman of Los Angeles and C. C. Haskell of San Francisco. The attorneys for the defense are Sydney J. Parsons of Los Angeles, and W. A. Purington of this city. Various estates in this county are making the defense in the suit.

SUPREME COURT TO SIT.

The Supreme Court is to begin a week's session, at its rooms in the Bullard block, tomorrow afternoon, with a full bench headed by Chief Justice Beatty. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the court will sit en banc; on Thursday, Friday and Monday, it will divide in departments.

Transforms Complexion; Wins Social Favors

"Had I been unable to transform my complexion so quickly, so completely, by an unique process I had just learned of, I never could have attended the Charity Ball." A certain social favorite, a picture of loveliness at the great event, told me this. "I had been much run down," she said. "When I beheld myself in the mirror after a night's troubled sleep, I saw I was becoming heavy-eyed and pale. I could not take, and attend the ball, the long rest my physician advised. A friend suggested I get an ounce of mercolized wax at the druggist's and use it as I would cold cream. I did—the result is apparent.

"In a week I had a new complexion. The wax took off the old skin, with its worry lines—so gradually, there was no discomfort. Now you see the fresh, bright underskin, with its youthful glow and expression."—Saturday Evening Herald (Chicago.)

FACTS, FEATURES AND FANCIES FOR ~~WOMEN~~ AND MEN

BY OLIVE GRAY

DAILY BEAUTY HINT: A third each of olive oil, rose water and benzoin is a prescription which has been given to me, well recommended for use in clearing the complexion and softening the skin.

"Never have we had a call for so many garments of superior quality," said one of the leading merchants, to me yesterday. "It seems as though Los Angeles ladies have determined to outdo their past excellencies and to that end they choose the very best of gowns, suits and motor coats as well as millinery. "Really," he continued, "it is almost impossible for us to get our shipments from the East fast enough. We are, in fact, far behind in our orders for especially smart wearables such as velvet suits and the exclusive three-piece suits which come in a single model each."

Nor was this merchants alone in voicing the situation. I have heard in a number of places that buying has been fast and furious since the season opened.

A man of large views, who has just returned from the East, tells me that from all indications there, we shall have at least a full year of exceptional prosperity throughout the country.

I love to hear that kind of talk, instead of a dull rumble about "hard times." Especially is prosperity talk refreshing, when it is backed up by a knowledge of facts.

The Next Event.

The next great athletic and social event in Los Angeles is "Tan-To," at Ascot, and it is said that this will present an opportunity for wearing some of the fine attire which has been accumulating in my lady's wardrobe during the past weeks, or which she will acquire during the two weeks to come.

It is rumored that many handsome costumes are in preparation for that occasion, which will afford an opportunity similar to the horse show, or the Grand Prix in Paris, for the display of fine raiment.

"Crownless and Collapsible."

That applies to a bonnet! To THE bonnet. The NEW bonnet. The "Tan-To" bonnet.

"Crownless and collapsible" sounds as though there were "nothing to it;" but such is far from the case. This new bonnet is really one of the prettiest of the season's quaint styles. It is somewhat on the "poke" order, projecting coquettishly over the fair face, and rounding up in the back, in an adorable fashion, where it is tied with broad ribbon. These, when untied, render the hat quite flat for packing, or stowing away. The "crownless"—well—it just isn't there. Instead, your pretty hair dress—done in the latest half-high style of course—shows through the opening. Isn't that an innovation? And such a becoming innovation, too. You need be only half-way prettey, to look just charming in one of these new "Tan-To" bonnets.

There are a number of them in a window of a big Broadway store. One is of white velvet, trimmed with dark fur, and it has a bunch of tips posed jauntily at the back of the "crownless." Another, in metallic blue velvet, has the most delicious little wreaths of tiny hand made velvet flowers set all around the brim. One in black satin had the most saucy little "turn up," or white satin, at the back, below the "crownless." Another in burnt-rose velvet, was abloom with big roses in the same shade, which were set at one side of the brim, where it fastened together below the "crownless." Now I am aware that you have no idea what these bonnets look like; for I had not, when told about them. They must be seen.

In the same window are the new "Tan-To" scarves, with fringed ends, and some stunning coats, with tartan linings. These are quite the best looking coats seen this season; and they are a departure form the "two faced" onec brought out earlier in the season.

The center-piece in this window is a big poster of the game, which is the reason for the especial garments shown, together with a tire, "attired" in flowing velvet in the colors of the teams which play in the new game, cardinal and royal blue.

The Dressy Suit.

In another house which is noted for the exclusive styles brought in, I saw a three-piece afternoon suit which the merchane called my attention to as especially appropriate for wear at the new motor game, as it was embroidered with the motor emblems—the automobile wheel and flying arrow. This superb creation was of pastel peach German broadcloth of finest quality. The coat, which was of unique and handsome cut, was embroidered by hand in the motor emblems, upon skirt and revers and sleeve, and embellished with buttons which formed as an automobile wheel—the embroidery edging the button and forming the outer rim of the tire, while the flying arrow seemed to form the button hole. The same embellishment was used sparingly upon the skirt and was concentrated upon the blouse—or the "chiffon top," as the upper to these suits is called—which was in the identical shade of the broadcloth.

Another stunning suit seen here was of oxford zibbeline, in an inconspicuous stripe, the goods being turned to form quaint insets of the stripe, and the skirt cut in a very original manner. The chief feature about the coat was that it could be worn with the collar buttoned closely, while in the motor—when it had somewhat the appearance of the most trim Norfolk, with its smart shoulder yoke—but instantly the wearer arrives at the grand stand, open comes the coat and two stunning broad revers of white ratine appear, and behold a really dressy suit!

A New White and Lace Store.

Is not that metropolitan? A store devoted entirely to the housing of white goods and laces! Such a store will open on Monday morning. It is in connection with one of the largest and best known big stores on Broadway, and is in fact, joined right on to it, but has a separate entrance as well as one through arches.

Here will be kept nothing but white goods and laces. They will be found in all kinds and varieties, and the reputation of the house for absolute reliability guarantees that the quality will be of the best.

Baby Show.

One of the big Broadway stores was just completing its Annual Baby Show, when I happened in, on Saturday.

It was a pretty sight, to see those pink and white babies, of various ages, from the very most pink age, to the age when they were almost ready to pick out bargains for themselves—(if they happened to be girl-babies.) There was a weighing apparatus in a pretty booth and two maids were in attendance to weigh each little one as it was brought up by its proud mother. I was glad I did not have to decide which baby was prettiest! After weighing, each was presented with a dainty Babylogue, in which to keep a record of its growth, the first step, the first word spoken and in fact the entire progress, stage after stage of its baby life. Artistic illustrations and apt verses, make this a keepsake worth having.

Evening Slippers.

In one of the Broadway shoe houses I saw the very latest thing in evening slippers to wear with gowns made partially, as are so many now, of lace, of gold, or antique gold filet.

These dainty slippers were of cream white satin and the front of the vamp was encrusted with a network of golden bugles, under which were set white opalescent beads, gleaming through with real gem-like brilliancy.

This kind of slipper has, it is said, quite superceded those of cloth of gold, for wear with gold embellished evening gowns; and in fact they are much more appropriate and harmonious. There was something almost heavy-looking about the metallic cloth slippers, while those of white satin are always charming, and these particularly so.

Fashion's Latest.

In that exclusive Broadway shop which handles only the very latest of French importations, I saw among the newest velvet gowns; on which had an exceedingly "different" coat. It was of heavy Lyons velvet, and was made something on the order of the Russian blouse, which is being revived. The "skirt" of this coat was edged with skunk fur, and the skirt proper was of black with a gold bullion brocade—a superb creation, it was. A gown—or rather a "coat dress," as these one-piece affairs are called, was of fine French serge, in navy—and it relied wholly for its grand chic, upon the worsted ornaments which embellished it. These were in two shades of blue Berlin wool, formed into straps, used in groups to seem to fasten the garment in unexpected places and to hold in place the oddly-shaped drapery. Each of these ornaments had a simulated button hole, formed from white beads.

Honest Advice to Consumptives

Somehow these exists a vast amount of skepticism as to the possibility of curing Consumption. We state none but facts, and are sincere in what we assert.

If ourselves afflicted with Tuberculosis, we should do precisely what we ask others to do—take Eckman's Alterative promptly and faithfully. The reason we should do this and warrant we have for asking all Consumptives to take it, is that we have the reports of many cures, one of which follows:—

1619 Susquehanna Ave., Phila, Pa.

"Gentlemen: For two years I was afflicted with hemorrhages of the lungs, the number totaled nearly one hundred. Our family physician advised another climate, as to remain would probably be fatal; however, I remained and in February of 1902 I was taken with a severe attack of pneumonia. When I recovered sufficiently to walk about the house I was left with a frightful hacking cough, which no medicine I had taken could alleviate. I was again advised to go to another part of the country. It was at this time, March, 1902, that I learned of Eckman's Alterative. In a short time my cough was gone and I was pronounced 'well' or 'cured.' Since that time I have had two slight attacks of pneumonia and I have resorted to no other medicine to effect a cure.

"I am at present in excellent health and feel that as long as I can obtain Eckman's Alterative, I have no fear of Consumption. I cannot speak too highly for the good it has done."

(Signed) HOWARD L. KLOTZ.

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever; Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. For sale by The Owl Drug Co.'s Stores and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet of cured cases and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

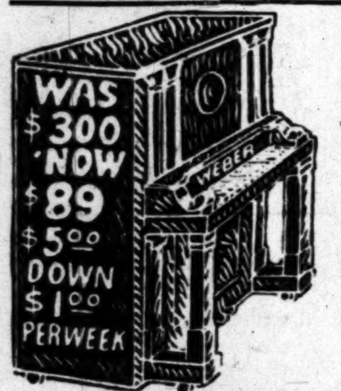
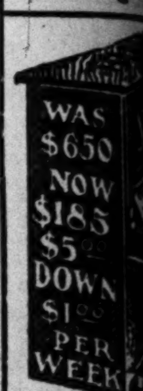
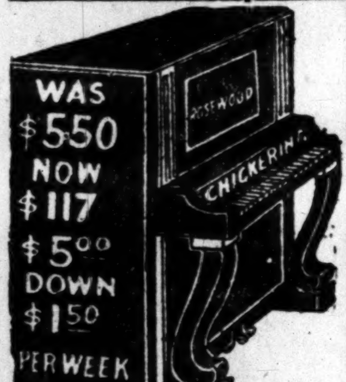
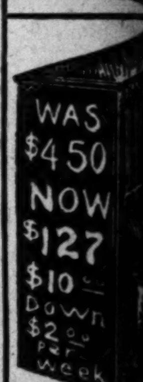
Every Player Piano Must Be Sold at Once









In player pianos we can offer you your choice of the very choicest. The player piano is now the standard instrument of the American Navy, and in use in every town on the Pacific Coast; the Eilers de Luxe Player, manufactured under the supervision of C. B. Lawson, superintendent of the Weber Factory during the years when the Weber was at its best; the Welte Mignon, made in Germany, which faithfully reproduces the playing of the master pianists, have pronounced the most perfect player-piano ever put upon castors. The Bungalow Player (Registered), highly adapted to the bungalow and the small apartment, on account of its compact size, but which still has the complete keyboard and plays the standard 88-note music roll; all of these and many others are at hand for the purchaser of a good player-piano.

We will make it an object to you to pay cash for these pianos, but if you are unable to do that bring $50.00 and choose your instrument. If that is too much, bring $20.00, or bring $10.00, or bring $5.00. Every instrument in this store has got to go at once. If you are unable to pay any more simply pay the cartage and take them away. Use them free for a couple of months. They must be moved out of here at once.

WARNING

Another dealer, desiring to profit by the Eilers reputation and the large trade that has come to us, has squatted right beside us in such a manner that many unsuspecting people get into the wrong store, thinking they are in Eilers'; but, watch; see that you get into Eilers'; see that your receipts are signed by Eilers; see that you get Eilers' quality; see that you get Eilers' satisfaction.

CAUTION

Look over the door for the name EILERS, otherwise you may be decoyed into the wrong store. At present we are unable to secure satisfactory location, but until we do we shall confine our efforts to our wholesale business, supplying retail stores in Southern California from our Los Angeles wholesale warehouse. We are going to close our Los Angeles retail store, located at 244 South Broadway, closing it up absolutely until such time as we can get a suitable building and location. GENIUS GIVEN GENEROUS AID.

Reform School Girls Working for Self-Reclamation.

Talented Ones Given Special Training by State.

Are Taught Sewing and the Household Arts.

BY CHARLOTTE M. EDDY.

"He knows no scar who never felt a wound."

In the State Reform School at Whittier are forty-four girls who can bear witness to the truth of Shakespeare's observation. Commited for various offenses, they are making efforts at self-reclamation, aided and abetted by officials of the institution. Within the red brick wall of the school they breathe in an atmosphere of toleration, but beyond those walls the toleration, as far as the unfeeling world is concerned, ends.

Still there are many women who do not believe the girls are bad, who feel that they have rather been sinned against than sinned, as the number of reform school girls now on probation [illegible] is just double the number of the girls in the school.

Mrs. Caroline Thompson, principal of the school, is an optimist. She believes in humanity. She believes that the girls were not bad from choice, but as a result of environment and [illegible], and that under proper influences wonders may be wrought in their reform.

Accordingly, the girls are put on their honor when they enter the school. They are taught to work out their own salvation. They are taught household economy and such arts and crafts as will help them to become useful women and good wives. And, above all else, they are taught to venerate the home.

There is a young woman in a mercantile house of this city who has a gift for drawing. She is a designer. She is a valued and trusted employee. She also is a graduate of the Whittier Reform School, but her employers don't know that. She has never told them, because she knows the world's prejudice against her kind.

The girl's downfall was brought about by a family quarrel. Her father and mother separated. The mother wished to marry again, and felt that the girl was in the way. A slip—and the girl was sent to the reform school.

FRAMING A CAREER.

When Mrs. Thompson discovered the girl's talent it was decided to give her instructions in drawing that would enable her to make her way through the world. At considerable cost for tuition and car fare, the State sent the girl to Los Angeles several times a month to take lessons. The lessons continued for a year, and at the end of that time the young art student had made such advances that she was able to secure the position already mentioned. She was put on probation by the school, and now is of age and free. In the principal's office at the school examples of this young woman's ability may be seen on the walls. One sketch in particular, a rose, is exquisitely executed.

Cooking, sewing, embroidery and music, vocal and instrumental, are taught by special instructors. The girls are allowed to select from these arts according to their particular talents. Half of each day is devoted to school studies, the other half they must be busy at something. The school training embraces the ordinary grammar school curriculum.

In furtherance of the honor system, a division has been formed of the best-behaved girls, known as Company B. There are sixteen girls in Company B who are eligible to parole. They have been drilled in housekeeping and are prepared to be taken into any household where they are desired, provided the school authorities can be satisfied of the dependability of the applicant. Each of the women who has provided a home for the eighty-eight girls on parole is responsible for the girl in her charge.

THE WORLD'S WAY.

There have been instances where the girls have returned to the school voluntarily after having been placed on parole. Not infrequently they have complained that they were harshly treated because they are State school girls, and have declared that they would rather remain in school, restrained but happy, than be "farmed out" and despised.

But such treatment is the exception rather than the rule. Between 80 and 90 per cent. of the girls who are admitted to parole make good, Mrs. Thompson declares.

This fact is also attested by Probation Officer Martin, who visits the homes of paroled girls at regular intervals.

Francis Dwyer is a wealthy San Francisco man who has interested himself in several of the Whittier girls and has given them advanced education. In one of the San Francisco hospitals is a Whittier girl on parole, who is being given a medical training by Dwyer.

In the school hospital are two girls who are studying to be nurses and are instructed by the school physician.

Another talented girl is a Jewess who possesses a rich contralto voice and is being given a musical education by the State. She receives instructions from a leading Los Angeles musician and is hoping soon to obtain a position as a church soloist. A society woman is taking great interest in this girl.

In addition to the particularly talented girls, there are fourteen of no mean ability who are receiving piano lessons from an instructor who lives at the school.

PERIODS OF JOY.

During the course of the year six [illegible] are given, at Halloween, Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Years, St. Valentine's Day and Easter. A masquerade ball is held at Hallowe'en and the costumes worn are always pretty and original. Programmes for these affairs are made by the art students and the refreshments are prepared and served by the girls.

A deep religious spirit is discernible among the girls. Eight have been baptized at their own request, and testimonials at their religious services are not infrequent. Credit for this reformation is given the probation officer, who is a clergyman and gave up his church to devote all his time to the school. Rev. Mr. Martin says that he finds this field of work most gratifying, as there is good in every one of the children in the school. They respond readily to his teachings and seem to appreciate deeply the interest that is taken in their welfare.

All of the underwear for the boys—and all of the clothing for the inmates of the girls' school is made by the girls, who spend several hours a week sewing. There are twelve girls who show marked aptitude in this direction and sewing machines have been provided for their use.

The sewing teacher is looking for day work for one of her pupils, a girl of seventeen years, who last week completed a suit for one of the girls who was sent out of the school on probation. All of the work on this suit was done by the girl and without assistance.

The washing and ironing for all the school is done by girls, as well as the cooking. The bill of fare is varied and wholesome.

A HOMEY PLACE.

The school has every appearance of a fashionable girls' seminary. At the entrance to the grounds there are two tall gates which swing open wide during the day, giving the idea of freedom to come and go. It is only another exemplification of the honor idea. Within these gates are broad, sweeping lawns and great, sheltering shade trees, with seats and cosy corners for moments of rest. Beyond lies the main hall, surrounded by summer houses and various other buildings, vine-covered and homey looking.

The happy spirit of the school was observed by a visitor recently, who spied a little pickaninny in the washhouse, who sang at top voice: "And Jesus fills me happy all the day!"

Letters from girls who have graduated and are married, happy and respected, are Mrs. Thompson's joy. Recently she received one from a young Swedish woman, who declared: "I love you. I will never forget you, lady sweetest." This girl was rescued from white slavery and left the school with great reluctance when she became of age. She is married and as for happiness—well, her letter amply attests that.

GLIMPSES OF SAN FRANCISCO.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—It is a case of after the battle now, and the people are beginning to wonder what it is all about. It is doubtful whether the suffragettes will ever forgive this city for voting so strongly against their pet measure. Be that as it may, we will have to struggle along the best way we can and fortify ourselves for the coming session of the Legislature.

It is of interest to note that Mayor McCarthy spent $500 to secure reelection, while James Rolph, Jr., paid out $1000. At least these are the amounts the two gentlemen admitted in their recorded statements of expenses. It is to be hoped that the recording angel will look the other way when the statements are being transcribed in the good books.

A great many people have the idea that Oakland is not progressive. It is a wrong impression and to disprove it the enterprising citizens of the town are giving their first annual dog show. There are over 300 entries. G. Muss Arnolt, the famous painter of dogs, is to be the judge. He is a recognized authority the world over on canines, so owners whose dogs do not win cannot appeal to a higher court.

It has been some time since Columbus discovered America and was robbed of the credit by a gentleman named Amerigo. If Christopher was alive now his heart would have swelled with pride to see the grand parade in his honor, held on Columbus avenue lately changed from Montgomery avenue. The Italian population turned out in force, so the celebration was an unqualified success.

According to Mrs. Florence E. Ogden, her husband, Wesley, not only spends his waking moments in a tenderloin cafe, but also sleeps there. She remonstrated with him and he told her to mind her own business or he would "blow her brains out." She took his tip and sued for a divorce.

When appointed Police Chief "Gus" White refused to buy a uniform because he did not know how long he would hold the job. This was wise on his part. He has not carried out the McCarthy programme and his speedy separation from the office is expected. White will return to his former job with the gas company a wiser man.

Everybody likes Taft and we are glad he came to break ground for the world's fair. Larry Harris has written a proclamation urging a general illumination. He says: "Light up and stay lit. Keep the smile on the town. If you asked a friend to your house you would not expect him to come in with a dark lantern. And President Taft is the best friend San Francisco ever had."

Agriculture is coming into its own at last. A State University professor has urged that it be classed among the honorable professions. The staid old Commonwealth Club at its monthly banquet at the St. Francis Hotel turned aside from its usual metaphysical debate and listened to papers by experts advising how the State might give aid for agricultural studies.

New Way of Curing Corns

"Gets-It" Puts Your Feet in Clover.

Every owner of a corn, callous, wart or bunion is going to get the surprise of a lifetime.

No longer do you have to gouge out these things with a digger or knife; no more slicing with razors and drawing blood, no more blood-poison; no more sticking plasters.

"GETS-IT," the new preparation, is as harmless to the skin as water, but, blazes, how it works! Nothing to stick or hurt. Lo and behold your corn comes out. You don't have to drag it out. "GETS-IT" is sold at all druggists at 25 cents a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill. Sold in Los Angeles by The Owl Drug Co.

LOS ANGELES PLAY-CENTER.

CORT AND COHAN & HARRIS GIVE US ALL TRY-OUTS.

Cort's Remarks on the Difference Between This Town's Theatricals and All the Rest—Striking List of New Plays Which Will Soon Be Announced for Production.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

"The Bird of Paradise," the biggest Los Angeles success in a twelvemonth, will close its run at the Belasco Theater tonight, and it is quite probable that it will be produced in New York City, by Oliver Morosco, before the new year.

John Cort announced in a New York interview, about the middle of the week just closed, that in the future Los Angeles would be the try-out point for every one of his productions.

Mr. Cort was merely duplicating the words of Cohan & Harris, who made this identical announcement three weeks ago.

It is probable that Henry W. Savage will give the trial performance of Oscar Straus's new operetta in Los Angeles next spring. This work is the long-awaited successor to "The Chocolate Soldier."

Announcements of extraordinary interest—concerning new plays—will shortly issue from the Morosco-Blackwood company.

Mr. Morosco will soon prduce at the Burbank Theater a new French play, entitled "Through the Wall." James K. Hackett intends to use this as a starring vehicle when "The Grain of Dust," his present vehicle, settles slowly to the earth of history.

Marion Short and her sister, collaborators on "The Grand Army Man," which David Warfield produced, have sent Mr. Morosco two new pieces, already accepted by New York managers with the condition of a Los Angeles try-out. The authorial ladies will be in attendance at their premieres.

Charles Dazey, who wrote Wilton Lackaye's latest stellar vehicle, "The Stranger," has given Mr. Morosco the option on his new play, "Captain La Fitte," an episode in the life of the famous hero of the early nineteenth century.

Other new plays soon to be first presented by one of the two Morosco-Blackwood companies are "Bought," by E. T. Warren, a well-knwn New York author, and "Once Upon a Time," by Amelia Holbrook, who has heretofore confined herself to the writing of rural plays.

Edgar Selwyn writes that he is at work on a new play which he fondly believes will be as interesting and vital as "The Arab." He will come to Los Angeles to try it out in May, 1912.

The scenario of Lee Arthur's new play, "The Toy," has just been received. It is a powerful story of life at the national capital, and contains many of those flashes of brilliant human observation for which Arthur is noted.

In his recent New York talk Mr. Cort said: "The two stock companies in Los Angeles are not 'stock' companies, as we know them, and it is ridiculous to call them such. They are producing companies. They have made a record unequalled, and even unapproached, by any similar organizations in the world.

"Stock companies are termed stock companies because they are a permanent institution, and produce old, tried plays, weekly.

"The only old plays that the Los Angeles companies present are honored favorites whose revival is demanded."

Incidentally, Frazee & Lederer, purchasers of "Jimmy, Jr.," produced at the Burbank last summer with Richard Bennett in the title-role, will present the same in New York City in about ten days.

Is Los Angeles a road-and-stock town?

Or is it an absolute producing center?

Facing the facts just named—foolish question!

GERTRUDE HOFFMAN'S BALLET.

The Large and Unique Organization Which She Will Bring to the Hamburger Majestic Theater.

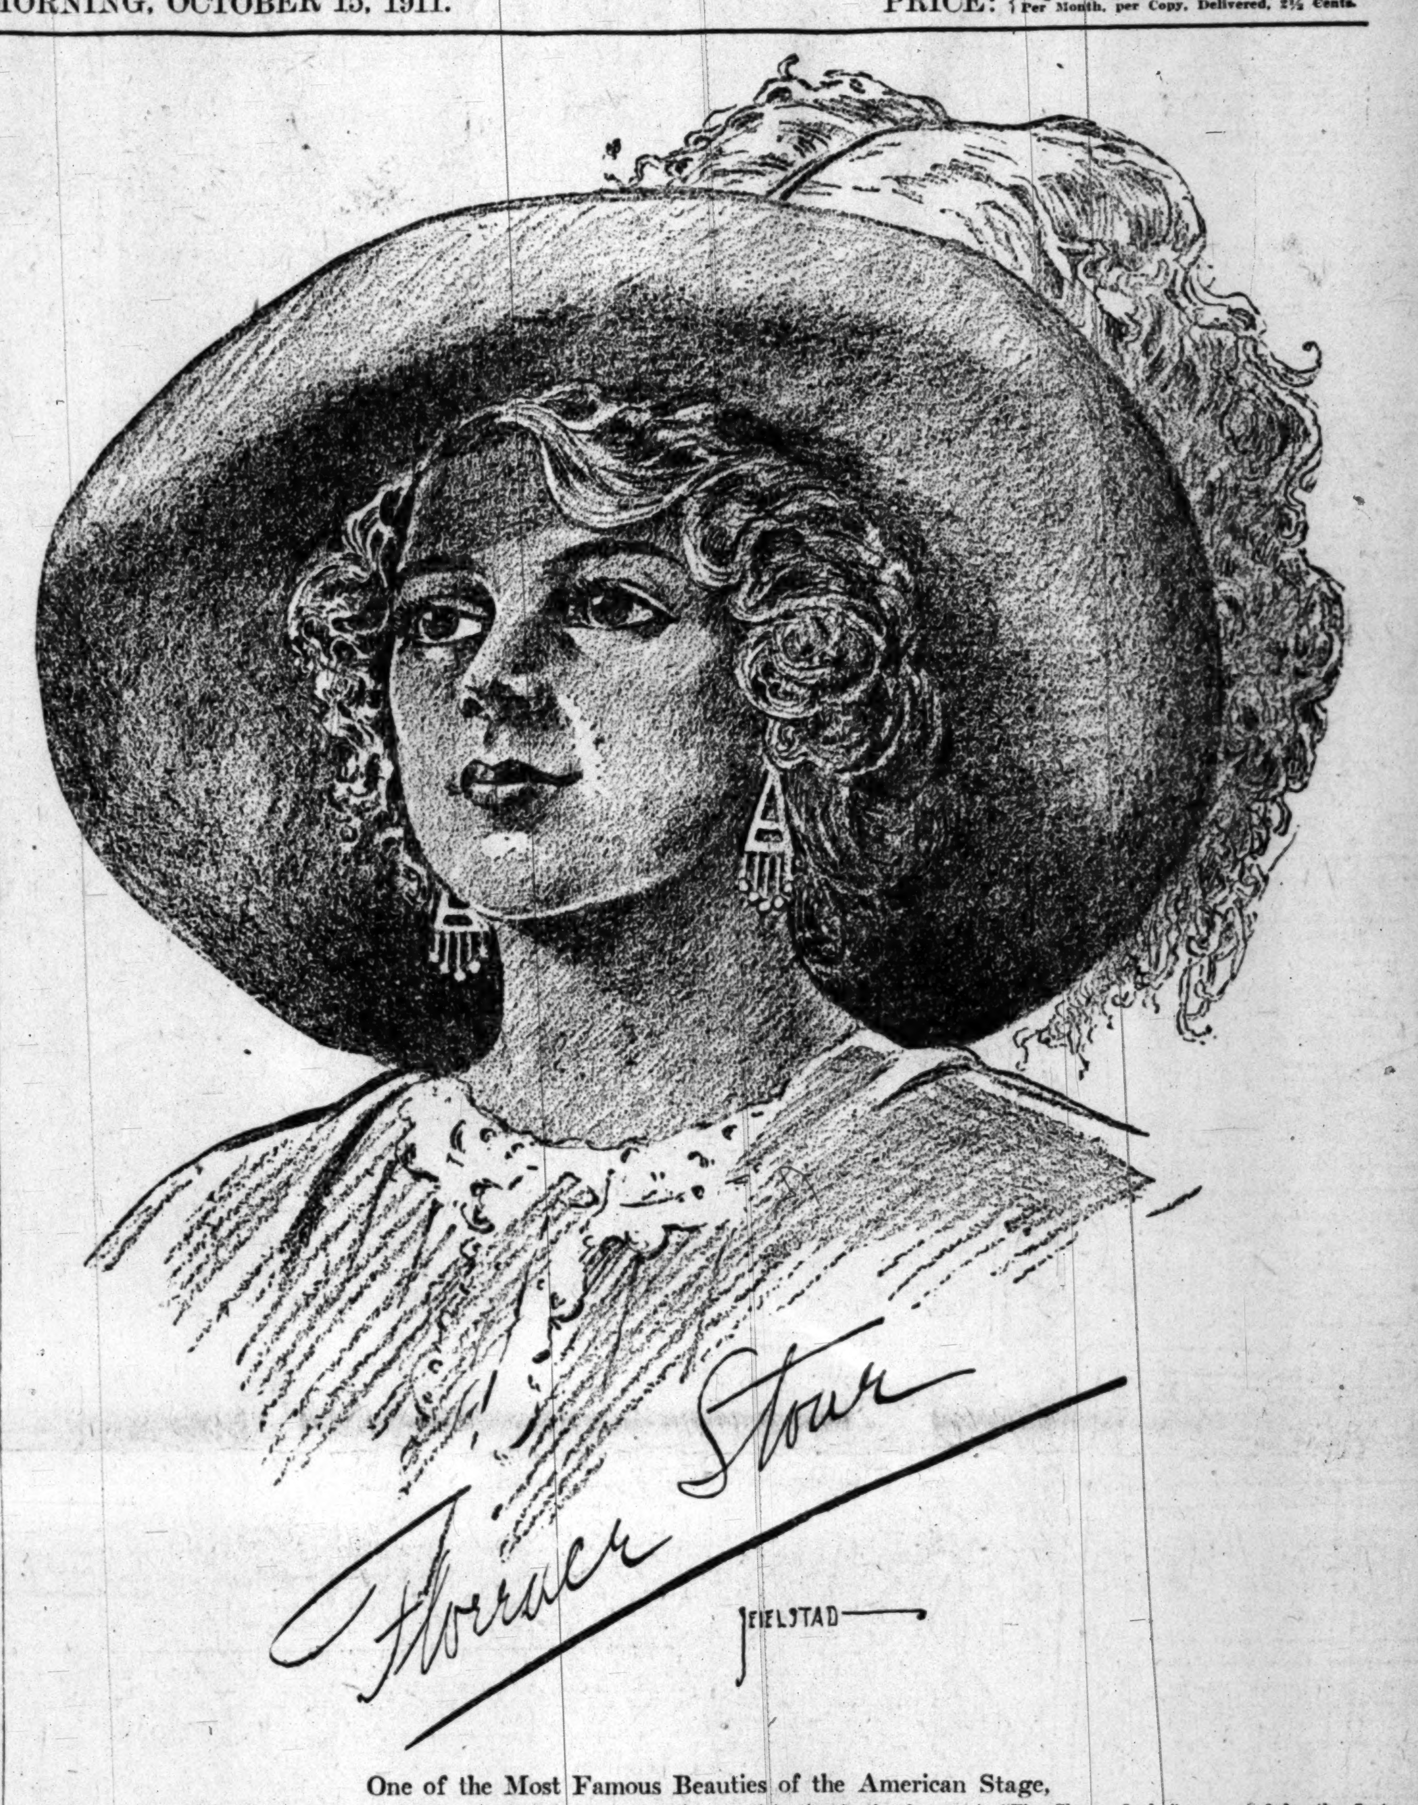
The following statements anent Gertrude Hoffman are vouched for by her fervent, large and gentlemanly herald, Paul Benjamin, who is stirring up things promiscuously in advance of his star.

Gertrude Hoffman has supplied the English-speaking world with a stage sensation, "La Saison Russe," which comes to the Majestic Theater Sunday, October 29, for an engagement of one week. New York took to its heart the dancers and mimes, from the kingdom of the Czar, rejoiced in the acceptance of a new art, and hailed Miss Hoffman as the high priestess of a new cult. Associated with this enterprising young woman are Managing Director Morris Gest and F. Ray Comstock.

"La Saison des Ballets Russes" does not consist in the presentation of Russian dances as these dances have been known in America. What the sculptor and the painter have attempted from the primary inception of the art of representation by means of pigment and marble, these Russian artists accomplish through the medium of chorographic mimodrama, bringing to perfect realization an art which dates back countless decades on the continent of Europe.

The three ballets constituting the entertainment are "Cleopatra," a mimodrama, for which the music was composed by Arensky, Rimsky-Korsakow and Glazounow; "Les Sylphides," a romantic reverie, music by Chopin, and "Sheherazade," a chorographic drama, music by Rimsky-Korsakaw. A pleasing divertisement in the programme is the interpolation of Gertrude Hoffmann's Revue, in which she is seen in impersonation of stage celebrities.

Mrs. Sophrona Smith of Glenwood Springs, Colo., 91 years old, mother, grandmother and great-grandmother, toiled with kettles, pots and pans over the heat of a cook stove to prepare the dinner served to her descendants in celebration of her birthday anniversary.



One of the Most Famous Beauties of the American Stage,

And also one of its foremost emotional actresses; shortly to return to active participation in the drama via "The Chorus Lady," presented for the first time in stock.

The Week.

HARTMAN BACK AT OLD STAND.

ROAD SEASON TO OPEN AT THE LYCEUM.

Belasco Has Fine Old Revival in "A Bachelor's Romance"—"Country Boy" at the Mason—Figman in a Favorite Play—"Billy" at the Burbank—In Vaudeville.

Ferris Hartman and his company will open their own season of melody and fun at the Grand Operahouse this afternoon. The initial play will be Pixley & Luder's "Marcelle." This is the offering in which Louis Gunning and Jess Dandy scored a triumph at the Casino Theater, New York City, remaining there for a protracted run and playing to capacity houses. "Marcelle" is foreign in its character. It abounds in rythmic melodies and clever dialogue. It tells the story of the financial entanglements of one Baron Bonverghoff, who to save his baronial estates must produce a son. In his extremity the Baron hires a French actress to impersonate the offspring. A cousin of the Baron is in love with this actress and begins a search when she disappears from Paris. When he discovers her masquerading as a boy, he makes some trouble but love finally conquers and he withdraws his objections to her masquerade. This leaves the Baron free to claim his estates. The cousin claims the actress and all ends happily. Ferris Hartman will be at home in the role of the Baron. It will give him ample opportunity to display his cleverness in German dialect. Myrtle Dingwall will play the French actress. Miss Dingwall's delightful voice and charming personality are well remembered. Harry Garrity, comedian of experience; Hatty Devon, character woman who has been brought here from New York; Vilma Steck, sister of Olga Steck, in soubrette roles; Lucile Palmer, contralto; Percy Bronson, for several seasons with Kolb and Dill; Arthur Rials and Hazel Van Houtten are some of the new names which will appear on the programme. Josie Hart, Joseph Fogarty, Charles Bates and several of the other old guard still remain in the cast. Adolph Bueschner will wave the baton.

—o—

Lyceum.

Beginning today its fall and winter season, the Lyceum will present itself to its friends in a complete new dress. Draperies, seats, carpets, decorations—all are new, changed in color scheme and up to date.

"The Barrier" is the opening attraction. It is a dramatization by Eugene Presbury of Rex Beach's virile and true novel of the real Alaska. The scenery, effects and costumes of the New York season come intact, it is alleged. Heading the cast is Norval MacGregor, an actor and stage director of experience, who interprets the role of John Gale. Eleanor Haber was chosen for the difficult and sympathetic part of Necia, the girl whose supposed Indian blood makes the "barrier" between her and Capt. Lee Miller, which is the motif of the love story. Max Steinlee, comedian, has the comedy role of No Creek Lee, which he handles as usual to the last notch; Mattie Hyde is Alluna, the squaw wife of Gale, and the two villians, Stark and Runnion, are in the hands of Bryce Howatson and George Byron, respectively, with George Cleveland as Poleon, the light-hearted French Canadian.

Following "The Barrier" will come Dave Lewis and his company in "Don't Lie to Your Wife." The week at the Lyceum will begin always with a Sunday matinee, and other matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday.

—o—

Belasco.

James Neill, actor-manager, and at present stage director of the Belasco company, has won numerous triumphs on the local stage, but none of them has surpassed his artistic and human portrayal of David Holmes, the central male figure of Martha Morton's "A Bachelor's Romance." Mr. Neill will have an opportunity to repeat his former successes in this charming piece at the Belasco next week, commencing tomorrow night, and in the endeavor will have the assistance of not only the regular Belasco forces, but of that decidedly popular actor, John Burton, who will make his first appearance on the Belasco stage Monday night in the role of Beggs, the faithful and confidential secretary to Holmes.

Out of the great mass of plays that were produced a decade or so ago "A Bachelor's Romance" remains as one of the refreshing and clean bits of dramatic literature. Age does not seem to effect its pleasing qualities, and the tender, gracious, young-old literary critic, Holmes, who forgets that his young ward has grown to womanhood, is still as fascinating and delightful a character as when he was first made known to native audiences by Sol Smith Russell. If there is any play of American product that seems destined to emulate the poetical brook it is "A Bachelor's Romance" and with each re-occurring revival of the comedy, the reason is not hard to find.

The performance of "A Bachelor's Romance" will engage the services of David Landau, who will be seen as Holmes's worldly brother, Gerald; Richard Vivian, as a newspaper man; James K. Applebee, as the classically educated Mr. Mulberry; Miss Sullivan, as David Holmes's young widowed sister, and Bessie Barriscale as Holmes's ward, who refuses to be a feminine Peter Pan, and who is one of the most pleasing heroines of modern stage literature.

Mason.

The wide appeal which Edgar Selwyn's comedy, "The Country Boy," possesses, and which in a measure is responsible for the long and prosperous engagements it has enjoyed in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia, is attributed to the display of true and sincere affection—the kind that always attracts—between mother and son. In the play, when the lad leaves his home and starts for the city with his mother's thoughts and love accompanying him, the scene brings back memories to many of those in the audiences who have in years gone by undergone a similar experience. They hear once more the voice that is now hushed, and feel upon their brow the tender kiss of the mother whose love is always strong for her child, either in success or failure.

"The Country Boy" will open its engagement at the Mason tomorrow night, continuing for the remainder of the week, with a matinee Saturday. The company includes Alfred Cooper, Frank McCormack, Doan Borup, Frank E. Jamison, George Schaeffer, Olive Templeton, Elda Furry, Charlotte Langdon, Nellie Fillmore, in addition to others.

—o—

Hamburger Majestic.

Max Figman will make known his most successful play, "Mary Jane's Pa," at the Hamburger Majestic Theater this week, commencing tonight, with the comedian in his role of Hiram Hawkins, the Indiana poet, philosopher, nomad and cook.

Mr. Figman will have the benefit of a supporting company including Miss Lolita Robertson, who will be seen in the role of Hiram's industrious wife, and little Dorothy MacKay as Mary Jane. Miss MacKay played the part on the road with Mr. Figman.

Edith Ellis, who is responsible for "Mary Jane's Pa," has contributed to the dramatic literature of the native stage a product that will long stand as a leader in the list of rural plays.

The story is fascinatingly original, with little quiet touches of sentiment blooming here and there, and much keen, wholesome humor sprinkled through every scene. It is a clever study of the average small-town domestic situation, topped by a splendid lesson. Every line is clean-cut and is agreeably normal, the situations are all quaintly humorous, while the characters are quainter still.

"Mary Jane's Pa" is a recital of the wanderlust that strikes Hiram Watkins, an Indianian—a loveable, although quite a shiftless, sort of a fellow who happily possesses a wife whose character is exactly the opposite to that of her husband. During Watkins's absence from home a daughter—Mary Jane—is added to the family and the wife assumes the publication of a newspaper and becomes a personage of actual political and business importance in the small town. When Watkins gets tired of his wanderings he returns to his home, only to find that his better half will not consent to his sharing in her business venture, although she says he may remain at home in the capacity of cook, Mary Jane, of course, remaining in ignorance of his identity.

Burbank.

The Burbank audiences, who in the past have showed very plainly that they have a decided liking for good, clean comedy or farce, will have a chance for much enjoyment in this particular line of stage entertainment next week, when George Cameron's rollicking "Billy" will be seen.

In the hands of such a capable organization of players as the Burbank company, and with such a clever comedian as Henry Stockbridge in the chief role, "Billy" should prove a hit.

"Billy" has to do with the adventures of Billy Hargraves, a young college football coach. During a game he has lost his teeth and he has secured an artificial set. Under ordinary circumstances the result would not have caused Billy much inconvenience or concern, but it happens that he is called upon to make a trip with his mother and sister to the Bermudas and, of course, he meets on board the ship the very girl he has always wanted to meet.

This girl's mother, singularly enough, also wears a set of false teeth, and when both Billy and the mother lose their artificial molars the fun is started in real earnest and there is no let-up in the complications or in the hilarity until the end of the third act.

—o—

Orpheum.

A double-headed bill, one containing some of the best known and liked artists in vaudeville, comes to the Orpheum the week opening Monday matinee, October 16. Topping it are Edwin Stevens and Lily Lena.

Stevens is a star of the first magnitude. He is perhaps best known in the legitimate in his work in "The Devil," and in vaudeville as a creator of Dickens roles. This time, with Tina Marshall, his well-known leading lady, he appears in a new skit, "Cousin Kitty," an act from his own pen designed to exploit his and Miss Marshall's talents.

Lily Lena—dainty, lively and little; one of the best beloved of the English comediennes, comes with several trunks full of new gowns and hats, and a whole budget of new songs, each with its own tang and the usual "stinger" on the end. Miss Lena is on her third round of Orpheum houses, and is thoroughly established as an institution. This season she appears for the first time without a gown—in tights. But it is only a disinclination that has prevented this long ago.

The Australian Woodchoppers come with probably as odd an act as ever appeared on the circuit. Two huskies, Jackson and McLaren, give an exhibit of the craft of the antipodean woodsman, with real trees, and the way they go through timber is a revelation. They also do some clever ax throwing.

The Four Elles, with their "dances modernes" are from the London Hippodrome and Colliseum, and are expert examplars of the Terpsichorean art, along new lines. They are on a quick tour of the circuit and are here only one week.

Hermine Shone & Company in "The Little Goddess," the Three Leightons in a new act, "De Pahty ob de Second Pah't," the Blank family, jugglers, and the Primrose Four, with "1000 Pounds of Harmony" will be here another week. The new views of the world will show up-to-date pictures by the daylight process, and the orchestral concerts at 2 and 8 o'clock will feature, among other numbers, the "Peer Gynt" suite of four dances, a request number of great popularity.

—o—

Empress.

A new bill of seven acts, with music and fun as the predominating features, will come to the Empress Theater tomorrow afternoon.

The coming bill promises to be even above the high standard of popular priced "S. & C." offerings for it contains a great amount of comedy, and plenty of music from ragtime to the classics.

The especial feature of the new bill is the La Vine Cimaron Trio in their whimsicality "Imagination" "Imagination" is a satire on physical culture. It seems that an ebony hued member of a shady family is troubled with a recently coined word "Imaginitis" and goes to Prof. Cure-All for relief which he gets—good and plenty. Miss La Vine having a case of nerves at the same time gets a treatment that the audience won't forget.

A singing specialty calling for a repertoire of foreign songs and characterizations will be offered by the team of Terry and Lambert. They have but recently returned from a long tour abroad.

One of the fun hits of the new bill should be found in "A Leap Year Leap," a novel and fast one act comedy, which will be presented by Willard Hutchinson and company. Hill and Ackerman have a combination of fun and acrobatics of the "Hoot Mon" order; Geiger and Walters have a musical act, "In the Streets of Italy" and plump little Florence Hughes is a dispenser of jollity. Exclusive of these new acts will be the comedy pictures.

Pantages.

An interesting and amusing programme for the week commencing with Monday's matinee is indicated by the advance information regarding the new show. Heading the new list is Edward De Lorsia and his company in "Red Ike." Ike is a Westerner of the days that are now seen only in distant perspective. He is one of the characters that loom large on the vanishing landscape of frontier days, one of those heroic figures, those contradictory composites acting on the impulse of the moment, whether good or evil, that Bret Harte delighted to write of.

The Doric Trio are cowboys with highly developed vocal talent whose repertoire has been pithily described as "classy but not classic." John P. Reed, prince of good fellows and emperor of all the monologists and parodusts, will contribute a monologue which past experiences with this comedian indicate will be replete with laughing material. Minnie Bernhardt's marionettes will supply fifteen minutes of laughter. With this act is Antonio Stokes whose resemblance to Caruso is strengthened by a tenor voice of notable quality. Comedians and jugglers are Keeler and Don who make the sixth entry. Their past record is the best guarantee that their present offering will be in keeping with the remainder of this notably good bill. The week's run of motion pictures entitles the Pantagescope to special mention.

Luna Park.

An unusually attractive bill will be offered during the coming week by Manager Snow of Luna Park. The attractions will be put on for the first time this afternon and will be continued twice daily.

Heading the list of features is Harry de Nova, "king of the high wire." This performer walks a tight wire strung 150 feet above the ground. He allegedly holds all records for high wire walking, his most daring feat being a trip across the gorge at Niagara Falls.

Farley and Hunt are known to the Los Angeles public, having appeared here several times in vaudeville. They are comedy acrobats and horizontal bar artists. They will present something new at Luna Park and should be received cordially.

The Monitor and Merrimac spectacle is another feature which will please. This spectacle depicts the most famous naval battle of the Civil War. It is a combination of pyrotechnics and mechanical effects.

The Hendee Family will furnish music and mirth in the Crystal Auditorium. There are ten members of this family and each is a clever performer.

In the theater "The Truth About the Pole," a brand new motion picture, will be shown. This picture contains 1500 feet of film and forty lantern slides an dis a careful replica of the incidents surrounding the alleged discovery of the North Pole by Dr. Cook. The picture never before has been shown in the West.

Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, president-general of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, is the owner of a tract of 10,000 acres of land in Illinois on which she is conducting a back-to-the-farm enterprise. Only a short time ago Mrs. Scott was elected president of a coal mining company, to succeed former Vice-President Adlai Stevenson.

JOHN PHILIP, INCOMPARABLE.

KING OF ALL BAND MEN IN LOS ANGELES THIS WEEK.

Will Bring His Big Organization to the Auditorium for Twelve Concerts—His Long Tours and World-Wide Renown—Musical News of the Week in Home Circles.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

John Philip Sousa, whom it is no press agent's exaggeration to call the greatest band man in history, has been in and about Los Angeles for a week past, and commencing tomorrow, will give a week of brilliant programmes at the Auditorium.

Mr. Sousa has long since become an American institution.

He and his music have become famous in every civilized country on the globe, and latterly, in countries not civilized. It is safe to declare that alien peoples who have never heard of George Washington, Thomas A. Edison or even King C. Gillette know what Sousa does and just what he looks like.

Music has never had so extensively advertised a personality, not even excepting Caruso.

And as the old saying about smoke and fire runs to paraphrase, there cannot be so much renown without some merit.

Mr. Sousa's marches are the best ever produced in America, in that they are the most typically American. Much beyond these marches the composer-conductor has never progressed, but it is infinitely finer—as Emerson said and as all men must agree—to do one thing better than anyone else than a whole lot of things just a little better than the average.

In spite of all the years he has journeyed through this country and Europe with his band, there has never been the slightest sign to indicate that the public was becoming weary of his programmes or of his compositions. On the contrary, his recent tour of the world, when he visited Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, the three latter for the first time, demonstrated beyond a doubt that enthusiasm for his work was still growing, and that his compositions are more acceptable than ever before. Since composing the "Washington Post," Sousa has written so many marches that he cannot recall their titles. His latest is called "The Federal," and will be played on Monday night.

The programmes arranged for next week are fine as a library of musical research. The German and Italian schools vie in prominence with the Spanish and the French; there is the swing and the merry jingle interwoven as the Sousa marches find their way between the more sedate compositions of English and American composers, and in this clever musical mosaic is found the secret of the Sousa success and popularity.

It is something at Mrs. Lillian Goldsmith presides exactly a party and not exactly ing. Perhaps one should call conversazione, with most of the on extremely advanced done by Mrs. Goldsmith. The "tea" hostesses are to consist of Mrs. Laurence Morgan, Miss Blanche Robb, Miss Dorothy Fagge, Mrs. Harold Allen, Mrs. Reginald Whitaker and Misses Scott, Walters, King, Mabel Tare, Blanche Allen, Howdon and Jenss.

The Courtesy Committee will include Mrs. Hugh Wallace, Mrs. C. J. Fox, Mrs. Robert Plant and Misses Dorothy Bower, May Byrne, Wilkie Gilholme, Zillah Hunt, Nora Kirschoffer, Sidney Young, Aubrey Allen, Laura Mitchell, Hazel Robb and Miriam Palmer.

Mrs. Harcourt Wilson, to whom the inception of the affair is due, is noted for her sweet English voice.

An English society paper states that Mrs. W. W. Astor intends passing part of the winter here.

Last night Dr. Robert and Mrs. Burdette presided at the Celtic Club's dinner at Christopher's—an occasion upon which the male members were allowed to invite their wives and daughters.

Dr. Burdette is eligible to the Celtic Club because he had a relative who was Welsh in the dear dead long ago—that is how he came to be chosen president. Every member must have at least a wipe of Scotch, Irish or Welsh in his constitution. Mr. Hector Alliot, however, hasn't even a wipe so they had to make him an honorary member.

The dinner was all that a dinner presided over by Dr. and Mrs. Burdette might be expected to be and, as most of the guests endeavored to affect a Celtic temperament, at least for the evening, things went with a merry swing.

One of those mysterious affairs known as a rushing party, also took place last evening at the home of Miss Eleanor Richards of Glendale. It was in connection with that sacred society of Occidental College, known as the Delta Sorority, and some forty guests, all young and mostly pretty, assembled for the important matter of inspection. For, in case you did not know before, a rushing party is an affair to which you invite newcomers and see if you are going to like them enough to invite them into your charmed circle. Rather a delicate situation for the newcomer, of course, but it seems to work admirably at Occidental.

Miss Edith Osmond, the president, is a charming and gifted young lady, vice-president of the student body of the college and a fine tennis player. Other active members are Misses Chloe Philips, Mary Allen, Margaret Daniell (daughter of the gifted artist,) Dot Davis, Fern Sanborn, Louise Smith and Celia Tucker.

Miss Elizabeth Elliott, one of the alumnae, is to leave for San Francisco on Sunday morning on a short visit.

Southern Party.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Woolwine, with their daughter, Miss Martha, who have been enjoying an extended visit in the eastern and southern States are visiting relatives in Nashville, Tenn. They have just concluded a fortnight's stay at their old home in Virginia where, with relatives and friends, the time passed pleasantly.

One evening last week a smart dancing party was given at the New Law Building by Hamilton Woolwine complimentary to the Misses Mary and Martha Woolwine. The hall was attractively decorated and formed a pretty setting for the "Virginia Reel," which was danced during the evening. Among the guests were:

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Woolwine and daughter, Miss Martha, of Los Angeles, Cal., Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Woolwine of Narrows, Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Hargrave of West Point, Va., Mrs. Mollie Wharton of Nashville, Tenn., Mrs. R. L. Poindexter of Graham, Va., Mrs. Judge A. A. Skeen of Norton, Va., Mrs. C. D. Kemp of Toronto, Canada, Mrs. M. D. Woolwine, Misses Ellen and Dee St. Clair, Douglass Peck, Mary Woolwine, Marguerite Pearson, Messrs. Hamilton Woolwine, Judge Bernard Mason, Allen Brown, Will St. Clair, Ike Painter, Stirling Mann, John Foote, Don William and Bob Lee Poindexter.

Invitations Issued.

The wedding of Miss Helen Angeline Stoughton and Roy Bradley Wheeler is set for Wednesday afternoon, November 1. The invitations were sent out yesterday by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Easton Melville Stoughton. The service will take place at 4 o'clock in the Pasadena Presbyterian Church.

This will add another important event to the winter list, as the invitations include Los Angeles society, as well as that of the Crown City. Mr. Wheeler and his bride will enjoy a honeymoon trip and after February 1 will be at home at No. 689 Ardmore avenue, this city.

—o—

In San Antonio.

Mrs. Carl Leonardt with her daughters, Miss Clara and Mrs. Frank Powell, left Tuesday for San Antonio, Tex., where they will pass a few weeks.

—o—

In New York.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Potter of this city are registered at Hotel Bretton Hall, in New York, where they will remain several weeks before returning to this city. Mr. and Mrs. Potter have been motoring since August in the region of the White Mountains, where they enjoyed a merry vacation.

—o—

Home from Tour.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Everhardy and their son, John Raymond, have returned from a four months' tour through Germany, Austria, England, France and Switzerland. While in Austria Mrs. Everhardy was a guest at an afternoon reception at which Princess Elizabeth of Austria was the honoree.

—o—

Invitations Out.

Another wedding which society will attend is that of Miss Phila Milbank and Lyman Ross McFie, which will be solemnized at the residence of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Milbank of No. 2707 Wilshire boulevard, on the evening of November 8. Miss Milbank has asked Miss Alice Elliott and Miss Kate Van Nuys as her attendants, and Mr. McFie has chosen for best man Maynard McFie. Little Mary Milbank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Milbank, will carry a basket of rose petals. Miss Milbank was graduated several seasons ago from Mt. Vernon Seminary at Washington, D. C., and Mr. McFie is a Berkeley man.

—o—

Formal Announcement.

Formal announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Mary Hollister and Trobridge Hendrick, son of Judge and Mrs. J. W. Hendrick, of this city. Miss Hollister is the daughter of Mrs. Hollister of San Luis Obispo, and is a niece of Mrs. Mary Banning of this city. No date has yet been set for the wedding.

—o—

Society Enthusiastic.

Since the announcement of the Tan-To game, which will be held at Ascot Park the afternoon of Saturday, October 28, society has been interested and box parties at this event promise to be smart to a degree.

Much is heard these days of sporting events in Paris and society at the Grand Prix is one of the chief features. Tan-To will be similar to the French event in a social way and society will have a chance once more to wear its dainty togs.

There is to be a tea party following the game, where the maids and matrons can enjoy a bit of gossip over their tea cups and much fun is anticipated. Mrs. Walter V. Pomeroy is a hostess who is planning a party for that afternon, as is also Miss Anita Brodrick, who is an enthusiastic sport lover.

—o—

Coronado Society.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ellis, of Merced, are spending a two weeks' vacation at Coronado. Mr. Ellis is general auditor of the Yosemite Valley Railroad and of Hotel del Portal, recently built at the entrance to the Yosemite Valley.

Mrs. John H. Norton, a society woman of Los Angeles, motored to Coronado the first of the week for a two weeks' stay. She is accompanied by Mrs. B. F. Willcox.

I. S. Ker, Miss Ker, and Miss M. Ker, composing a Pasadena family, are spending several weeks at Hotel del Coronado.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Stone, Harry S. Pratt, and Miss Stone, of Pomona formed a dinner party at Hotel del Coronado Saturday.

Mrs. William A. Gill, wife of Capt. Gill of the cruiser Colorado, has arrived at Hotel del Coronado, to pass the winter. She is accompanied by Miss Grassie Bulkeley of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. F. W. Burr, C. R. Burr, Mrs. A. K. Pruden and S. H. Constans, of Monrovia, form a motoring party passing some time touring the country surrounding San Diego.

Mrs. Thomas McClelland and Mrs. Sue M. Harter of Los Angeles were luncheon guests at Coronado Friday and Saturday.

—o—

San Diego Gossip.

The marriage of Isaac Hart Purdy of Purdy, Westchester county, New York, to Miss Fanny Grant, daughter of U. S. Grant, Jr., of this city, is to take place Monday, October 16, in Adrian, Mich. The ceremony will be performed in the home of Mrs. Alfred Wood, cousin of Miss Grant, where Miss Julia Grant was married to E. C. King of Portland, Or. For several weeks U. S. Grant and his daughters have been guests of the Purdy family in New York. Both families left there Thursday for Adrian. The ceremony is to be attended only by members of the Grant and Purdy families. Mr. and Mrs. Purdy will spend their honeymoon motoring through Canada. After November 1 they will reside in a fine new home erected by the groom, on the Purdy estate, at Purdy, N. Y.

The marriage of Joan S. C. Shaw to Miss Leonora E. Bosch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Bosch, took place Thursday morning in the parlors of the Unitarian Church, Rev. Clarence J. Harris officiating. Members of the bride's family were the only attendants. Mr. Shaw is a prominent business man of Chicago. The bride's father is the largest property owner of San Diego. After November 1 Mr. and Mrs. Shaw will be at home at No. 4353 Kenmore avenue, Chicago.

Wedding Announcement.

The marriage of Miss Hazel Glen Dunseth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Dunseth, to Ulysses S. Grant was solemnized at the family home Thursday evening, October 5. The Rev. J. M. Schaefle read the ceremony in the presence of members of the families only. The service was read in an alcove of the living-room, which was banked with asparagus plumosus and carnations. The bride was attired in a gown of satin brocade draped with marquisette and trimmed with pearls. She carried a shower of bride roses. Mrs. Dent Gilbert assisted as matron of honor and Mr. Gilbert was best man. A buffet supper was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Grant left for a brief trip.

Have Returned.

Col. O. C. Hutch and family have just returned from their summer home at Manhattan Beach and are domiciled in their new home at No. 555 Cahuenga boulevard, where they will be pleased to see their friends. They formerly resided in the East.

$1.00 to $2.00 Hat Pins 50c

It would be utterly impossible to describe these Hat Pins in detail, the styles are so many and so varied. Many of them are samples, with no duplicates; others are broken lines of early season lots. All, however, are new and most desirable in point of style and quality, and as for value, that feature speaks for itself.

In the lot of several hundred are some few that were marked 85c, but the great majority are actual $1.00 to $2.00 values.

It's a good Christmas investment. Choice 50c.

Paris Dress Trimmings

As in the making of gowns themselves, all eyes are turned Paris-ward for the new, so, too, in the making of all that goes to make the gown what it is—especially the trimmings—one's eyes look in the same direction.

They Show Radical Departures

This brown cord with the soft silky blue to lighten it, for instance, is typical of the new heavy bands. And the gold and dull metal embroideries on square black meshes are equally new and striking. Soft Brussels-like nets with vivid embroideries in bold designs—these you will like.

Quite exclusive is this showing, for as every well-informed modiste and well-gowned woman knows, it is in the Robinson Co. Dress Trimming Section that the lovely Paris creations find their best expression.

Bedding

With cold nights now the rule instead of the exception these may truthtully be called timely bargains:

Heavy white wool blankets, 11-4 size, with wide silk binding—the $7.50 grade—now $6 a pair.

Eleven quarter blankets of soft fluffy lamb's wool—slightly soiled—cut from $12.50 to $8.50 a pair.

Sateen covered comforters filled with clean down—the $10.50 grade at $8, and the $12.50 grade at $10.

New shipment of 6x7 ft. lamb's wool comforters covered with best grade of silkoline, at $3.50, $5 and $6.

(Main Floor, Left Aisle)

$10 to $15 Silk Petticoats . . . $5.00

Five dollars, tomorrow, for any Taffeta silk petticoat heretofore priced up to $15---a collection of several hundred, including every shade you'd care to wear, as well as black.

Pompadours, Dresdens, solid colors, changeables, black-and-white stripes, colored stripes---a seemingly endless variety.

(Second Floor, Rear)

Waists With Side Frill or Rever

There are few wash waists, save the strictly tailored shirt waists, that do not show one or the other of these methods of finish. The popularity of the flat rever is recent, but already strongly marked. Pretty styles, lace trimmed or hand-embroidered, or both, may be had in wash waists from $1.75 to $25. Chiffon waists, $6.75 to $45.

(Second Floor, Front)

Dinner Gowns

Elegant dinner gowns of meteors, crepes, charneus, brocaded velvets, etc., with chiffon, lace and beaded trimming—luxurious creations possessing all the latest style touches—$100.00 to $300.00.

(Second Floor, Front)

Most Striking Points About the New Hats

The new high crowns.

The great number of becoming small hats.

The practicability of all hats—large and small alike.

Daring combinations of color and materials.

The unique trimmings—such as the silk roses with fruit made into wreaths, the gold and silver roses, and laces of the same metals, the heavy fringe showing coronation colors, the "shower Paradise" and the immense feathers of uncurled ostrich.

(Second Floor, Rear)

Short lots of Curtains

Housekeepers will be glad of the opportunity to buy lace curtains such as these on a basis of three pairs for the fair price of two—that's about what the reductions average on these one to five-pair lots.

Fine Brussels nets, Battenberg and Irish Point laces, 3 and 3½ yards long. The $15 to $25 grades at $12.50 pair. The $10.50 to $14.50 grades at $8.50 pair.

$3 AND $3.50 VELOURS $2—50-inch Imperial velours of the best grade in light, dark and medium shades of green, blue, brown, red and rose, now $2 a yard.

SUN-FAST DRAPERIES—highly mercerized stuffs that look like real silk, in combinations of brown and green, gold and brown, and rose and green, $1.25 a yard; 50 inches wide. The same weaves in solid colors, $1 a yard.

Shikli Reps for portieres and drapes to match, $1.50 a yard; 50 inches wide.

(Third Floor, Rear)

Flannels

Our Flannel Dept. is well equipped to supply your Winter needs.

Fifty or more new designs in the unshrinkable "Viyella" flannels—especially desirable for waists and house dresses—at 75c a yard; 31 inches wide.

"Iona" Scotch flannels, 29 inches wide, at 45c a yard.

Plain and printed French flannels—designed especially for kimonos—75c a yard; 27 inches wide.

Beautifully embroidered white flannels, 75c to $2.50.

A Christmas Air in the Art Dept.

This Art Department will prove an interesting place to the far-sighted women who are anxious to get their Christmas shopping done early.

SILVER-PLATED NOVELTIES AT 50 CENTS TO $1 EACH—Salve and vaseline jars, hair-pin boxes, powder puff and hair receivers of glass with silver-plated covers in both bright and French gray finishes; jewel cases made entirely of metal and lined with pink or blue silk.

EXQUISITE RIBBON NOVELTIES—Pin cushions of various shapes and sizes, opera bags, traveling cases, hat pin holders, etc.

FERN DISHES AT 50 CENTS TO $3—Of glazed pottery with unglazed linings in green and tan—round, square and octagon shapes—surprisingly artistic, considering the cost.

STAMPED TOWELS—large towels of best quality fancy and plain huck, stamped for French cross stitch or darning designs, $1 each. Guest towels to match for 50c each.

(Thid Floor, Front)

UNDERPRICED VASES, FRUIT DISHES, ETC.—China fruit dishes on stands, hand decorated with miniatures and gold tracings; Italian Raphaelesque vases, and Royal Vienna glass vases with silver deposit on outside. Values up to $5 for $1.75.

HALLOWE'EN NOVELTIES—such as pumpkins, witches, black cats, etc., and candy boxes representing watermelons, potatoes, lemons, apples, etc.—15c and 25c each.

Slightly Damaged Toys at Half or Near It

Christmas stock piling in on us—over a hundred fifty cases already in.

Toys from Germany, England, Russia, France, Japan and our own country. It is to be the most extensive showing ever brought to the southwest.

Naturally in such great quantities of goods coming six or eight thousand miles, many get marred, scratched and broken. These are being placed on separate tables and sold out at about half the prices their unharmed duplicates will bring. As many of them are so slightly damaged that a child would not notice the defects you are safe in buying them for Christmas gifts.

SOCIETY.

Twenty-third street, entertained the members of the Mascot "500" Club at her home with a luncheon. A cut-glass bowl resting on a handsome drawn-work cloth, filled with dark red and light pink enchantress carnations, combined with ferns, brightened the table, and covers were laid for Mrs. S. M. Myall, Mrs. G. L. Butterfield, Mrs. W. F. Leck, Mrs. J. L. Markwell, Mrs. Frank C. McArthur, Mrs. H. H. McCord, Mrs. Van Zant, Mrs. Collette, Mrs. Henry Parlee, Mrs. Frances Bischoff, and special guests were Mrs. J. P. Kerner, Mrs. H. Warner and Mrs. Frank Parke. After luncheon "500" was enjoyed and prizes were won by Mrs. Van Horn, Mrs. Minnier and Mrs. Dreyfus.

Dancing Affair.

Mrs. L. H. Schafer gave a dancing party to about seventy-five friends last evening, at the Lovejoy Hotel, Third and Grand avenue. Delightful music was furnished for the dancing, and punch was served.

Off to Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Thayer of Mt. Olive avenue, left yesterday morning for a three months' continental trip, stopping en route at Chicago, and New York City. They will sail November 1 for England and will visit France and Germany also.

Luncheon Delightful.

Pink Killarney roses and maiden-hair fern in a cut-glass bowl; place cards on which were marine views and the words "Bon Voyage," and in the distance, outlined in gold, an ocean liner, and a life preserver which turned into an American flag, characterized the luncheon given in honor of Mrs. J. W. Thayer, by Mrs. George Crandall at her home in South Pasadena Friday. Covers were laid for Mrs. Willis Tiffany, Mrs. Phillip Zobelein, Mrs. Charles Lick, Miss Jean Cleirhew, Miss Myrtle Ouellet, Miss Mabel Wilson. A delightful musical programme was enjoyed following the luncheon.

Sans Souci Club.

A Chop Suey luncheon, with the accompanying chop sticks, was the innovation carried out at her home, No. 1346 West Twenty-ninth street, by Mrs. Henry Valk, complimentary to a card club, of which she is a member. A huge cluster of chrysanthemums graced the center of the table, and the place cards were hand-painted and ornamented with the same flower.

Those present were Mrs. Warren S. Young, Mrs. Charles Anderson, Mrs. J. L. DeLaittie, Mrs. S. D. Parker, Mrs. M. F. Van Horn, Mrs. Frank L. Stiff, Mrs. J. B. Sturdevant, Mrs. Frederick Webb, Mrs. W. H. Mayme, Mrs. Henry Valk, Mrs. Charles McDonald, and Mrs. George W. Maxon.

Luncheon at Jonathan Club.

Mrs. Robert Heffner, No. 928 Lake street, entertained with a luncheon at the Jonathan Club recently. Pink roses and pink carnations were the flowers used and covers were laid for members of the Alpha Rho Sorority and guests.

Card Matinee.

Mrs. James McCaskey, No. 2276, Cambridge street, entertained the members of the Bonnie Brae Bridge Club with a luncheon Tuesday. Pink cosmos in various shades brightened the table and the place cards harmonized. Bridge was enjoyed in the afternoon and prizes were won by Mrs. Young and Mrs. John Gibson.

The guests included: Mrs. C. F. Anderson, Mrs. C. McDonald, Mrs. J. C. Cline, Mrs. Frederick Webb, Mrs. Edward Palmer, Mrs. Warren S. Young, Mrs. George McCaskey, Mrs. Carl Schermerhorn, Miss Ethel Palmer, Miss Helene Henschel and Mrs. John Gibson.

Informal Luncheon.

Mrs. F. M. Peironnet entertained Miss Evelyn Olmstead of Burlingame, Miss Constance Lister of Alhambra and Mrs. B. C. Lembke of Wilmington at luncheon recently.

Birthday Anniversaries.

In honor of the birthday anniversaries of her mother, Mrs. Alice Jamison and Malcomb D. Cooke, Miss Marseline Jamison entertained Saturday evening at her home, No. 1128 Hubbard street, with a pretty dinner party. The lights were shaded with pink, the same color note being carried out in the floral decorations

A profusion of pale pink carnations and ferns, mingled with tiny pink miniature lights were used about the table and attractive little favors marked places for Mr. Mrs. Richard Westbrooke, Mr., and Mrs. Malcomb D. Cooke, Mrs. Thatcher, Mrs. Carolyn Thayer, Mrs. Elle Newman, Mrs. Jamison, Miss Alice Virginia Wilson, Miss Marseline Jamison and Messrs. Stead and Hobart Thatcher.

In San Francisco.

Mrs. Frances L. McNeal and her daughter, Miss Hazel McNeal, left for San Francisco yesterday to attend the Grand Chapter Convention Order of the Eastern Star. They will visit relatives in Oakland and San Jose. Others in the party will be Mrs. L. J. Hathaway, Mrs. Margaret West, Mr. William Barber, Miss Ida Fricke, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. LeMasters, Mrs. W. B. Raymuns, all of Los Angeles.

For Bride-to-Be.

Miss Lydia Maurer of West Thirty-fourth street entertained Saturday afternoon for Miss Leah Robinson, who is soon to wed John Jubel Earle. The reception rooms were adorned with yellow and yellow-shaded candles adorned the luncheon table.

Those present were: Misses Edith Hough, Leah Robinson, Hazel Bell, Ethel Tremaine, Mary Allen, Gladys Allen, Olive Mennell, Florence Nelson, Kate Bell, Lucille Ayres, Edna Shillington, Marguerite Jacobson, Bertha Hill, Gertrude Schaffer and Laura Brown.

On Honeymoon.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Anabel V. Patterson to Harry E. Hooker, which was solemnized Tuesday, October 3. The ceremony was read by the Rev. George Henry of the West Adams M. E. Church.

Miss Patterson is the niece of Mrs. W. A. McCombs of No. 2823 Hobart boulevard and has been visiting her for eight months. A series of pre-nuptial luncheons, dinners, and parties have been given in her honor. Both Miss Patterson and Mr. Hooker are here from Chicago.

After an extended honeymoon on the Pacific Coast which will include a sojourn at Yosemite Valley, Mr. and Mrs. Hooker will reside in Chicago.

Miss Behymer to Wed.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Behymer announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Enid, to Dr. Roy Malcolm, the wedding to take place on December 18.

Dr. Malcolm, who is a native of California, received his degree of bachelor of arts from the University of Southern California in 1906 and his master's degree from Harvard in 1909, while the degree of doctor of philosophy was conferred upon him at Harvard in 1910. The last year he has been a member of the faculty of the U.S.C.

Miss Behymer, who is a young woman of charming personality, and marked musical talent, is a native of California and a graduate of the L. A. High School. Since completing her course there she has been pursuing her musical studies and last year took a special course in the University of Southern California, where she met Dr. Malcolm. She is a member of the Entre Nous Sorority of the U.S.C. and is very popular with students of the institution.

Aboard Ship.

Angelenos who left San Francisco yesterday for Honolulu include Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Gibbs and two children, Mrs. M. H. Crawford and daughter, Miss Charlotte Huse, Miss Kate Newkirk, Mrs. Fannie Davison, Master Maynard Davison, Capt. and Mrs. F. Whitehead, Paul H. Lenz, H. R. Bullen, W. B. Vorwerk, Mrs. Gertrude Trok, Mrs. F. W. Behling, C. O. Smith, A. D. Swan, T. G. Harrell, Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Keeley and H. F. Hiller. They expect to also make the trip to the volcano Kilaeua, which is unusually active at present, also visiting the world's famous Pali and several other interesting points in the islands.

At Lakeside.

Mrs. H. E. Dolittle entertained with a dinner at Lakeside Inn on Monday. Her guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Gibson of Winslow, Ariz., and Mrs. J. W. Gibson of Los Angeles.

Quite a number of nimrods have taken advantage of the fine duck shooting at Lakeside. Those who helped to open the season were F. E. Kinney, A. E. Kinney, L. A. Henry, W. J. Burt of Los Angeles; O. Henry Savage, Harry Downes, Frank Dupree and L. C. Hardy of San Diego. Before leaving the men thoroughly enjoyed a duck feast.

Luncheon Party.

Miss Beans of Los Angeles entertained Saturday at Mt. Washington Hotel with a luncheon. The following young ladies from the Cumnock School were present: Valorie Viall, Ruth Bliss, Vara Telly, Margaret Marshall, Elma Crank, Jessie Jones, Orma Anderson, Ruth Darling, Georgia Temple, Sara Clingan, Sara Miller, Ida Thompson, Edna Green, May Howard and Glenn Way.

To Live in Bakersfield.

A quiet wedding ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Sutton at No. 225 East Sixty-sixth street Tuesday evening, October 10, when their daughter, Galena M. Sutton, was united in marriage to Frank Kirkland by Rev. James M. Frame, pastor of the Otterbein United Brethren Church. The wedding march was played by Mrs. C. W. Sutton, a bride of thirteen days, and formerly Miss Francis W. Anderson. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion. Only immediate relatives were present. After the ceremony the bride and groom departed for Bakersfield, where they will reside for the present.

Cousin Honored.

Miss Ethel Alton of No. 199 East Thirty-sixth street gave a five hundred party Wednesday evening in compliment to her cousin, Miss Florence Alton, of San Mateo, who is visiting her. The ladies' prize was won by Mrs. Cliffe Fox and the gentlemen's by Frank Alton.

To Wed Today.

Miss Richlie Walters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Rich Walters, of Van Ness avenue, will become the bride of Frank Arthur Greth, this evening, the service to take place at the Walters' home. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Horace Mallows, pastor of the Pilgrims' Plymouth Congregational Church.

The home will be decorated for the occasion with ferns, white carnations and chrysanthemums.

Supper will be served. following which the bride and groom will leave for Seattle, where they will visit for a while before returning to Los Angeles to reside.

Going North.

Mrs. Frances L. McNeal and her daughter Miss Hazel A. McNeal, will leave today for San Francisco to attend the Grand Chapter Order of the Eastern Star. They will visit friends in San Jose, and Oakland

Another Shower.

Miss Richlie Walters, whose marriage to Frank Greth is to take place the 15th. inst., was the guest of honor recently at a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Irene Stewart. The decorations were in gold and white, and after a dainty repast, the bride elect was the recipient of a number of handsome presents. The invited guests: Mesdames Frances Avery, John J. Stewart, the Misses Cora Eickenberry, Dee Fellows, Edna Brown, Mary Largey, Hazel Utman, Alice Heck, Genie West, Richlie Walters and Irene Stewart.

Santa Barbara Notes.

A wedding of great interest to Santa Barbara society was held in Brookline, Mass., last Saturday, when Miss Frances Habir Shaw was married to Henry Gordon Hawes, Jr., of Montecito. More than 500 guests attended the cermony which was a society event in the eastern city. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Fred Habir Shaw, formerly of New York, and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gordon Hawes of Montecito. He is a graduate of Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. At present he is with a big insurance company in Philadelphia. Mrs. Robert Hayes, Jr., of New York was the matron of honor, while Van Court Warren of Los Angeles was the best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smartt entertained the Neighborhood 500 Club Wednesday night at their home on West Figueroa street. Refreshments were served by the hostess after the cards were laid away. The winners of prizes were A. J. Abraham and Mrs. E. G. Dodge. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Abraham, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Patton, Mr. and Mrs. George McComber, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Fitch, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Eilers, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Milo M. Potter and their beautiful and accomplished daughter, Miss Nina Jones, have been residing for weeks in San Francisco. It was Miss Jones's first visit to the northern city and she was entertained by many of her summer acquaintances. Among those who entertained in her honor were Miss Marian Newhall and Miss Harriet Alexander.

Miss Ora Harris, a popular school teacher of the city, entertained a number of her friends Saturday evening with a beach tea. The affair was given on Dutch principles, each young lady bringing a mysterious box in which rested a dainty contribution to the luncheon. Before having tea the crowd enjoyed a dip in the surf. Among those present were Miss Hazel Russel, Misses Irene and Caroline Candy, Ellen Pierce, Ella Wilson and Mrs. Pearle Karr.

Miss Dorothy Gamill was surprised Friday night when a number of her friends gathered at her home bringing with them dainty refreshments. Those present were Misses Annie Knall, Thelma Stevens, Ellen Lee, Florence Hudson, Arabella Hayward, Elizabeth George, Elizabeth Heacock, Dorothy Aden, Lily Harback, Edwin Carty, Belmont Higgins, Dean McComber, William Cerry, Lawrence Stables, William Peterson, Lenton Converse, Arthur Harback, Fred McCloski, Chester Reilly.

Mrs. Marion L. Cummings, of No. 18 West Sola street, is entertaining five young ladies of Carpinteria for the week-end. Today she chartered a special trolley car and took her guest to the beach, where they had a most enjoyable time.

La Cumbre Circle, No. 511, Women of Woodcraft, gave Miss Trinnie Tanner a delightful surprise Thursday night when they appeared at her home and presented to her a beautiful tea service and three handsome bouquets. Miss Tanner soon is to be married to Bruce A. Anderson.

OUT-OF-TOWN SOCIETY.

Sierra Madre.

THE WOMAN'S CLUB opened its year with a most elaborate luncheon served at the clubhouse, Monday noon. Five long tables were spread in the auditorium at which one hundred people were seated. The club colors, gold and white, were carried out in the decorations. The middle of the tables was banked with maiden-hair fern. Vases of yellow and white dahlias were placed at intervals. There were dainty place cards and yellow and white bonbon dishes. At one table were seated the president, board of directors and several guests. The guests were, Mrs. William Buarhyte of Los Angeles, Dr. James Campbell, Dr. Cornell, Prof. E. T. Pierce, Mayor Jones and A. S. Mead. Speeches were heard from all at this table. Mrs. J. A. Osgood, the "Club Mother," gave a few words of welcome, followed by a most eloquent talk on "Philanthrophy," by Mrs. Baurhyte of Los Angeles. Impromptu speeches were heard from the gentlemen. Mrs. L. C. Torrance gave an interesting report of federation work. Chairmen of all the committees gave enthusiastic talks on their work for the coming year. The presidential address, given by Mrs. William J. Lawless on "Ideals" for club life, was strong and eloquent. The club looks forward to a most promising year, as all the members are very enthusiastic. New members are: Mrs. J. M. Beard, Mrs. F. J. Garey, Mrs. L. L. Krebbs, Mrs. T. E. Yerxa, Mrs. A. J. Perry, Mrs. John S. Mason, Mrs. Rowland D. Laws, Mrs. K. M Ham, Mrs. Guy H. Johnson, Mrs. C. Rowland, Mrs. Harry E. C. Webb and Mrs. Nourse, Miss Anna Price Simmons and Miss E. D. Williams.

Mrs. Edgar W. Camp left Wednesday night for a trip through the Middle West.

The Misses Ethel and Neome Stimson of Los Angeles are week-end guests of Mrs. W. H. Ingraham.

Miss Hazel Hill was the guest of

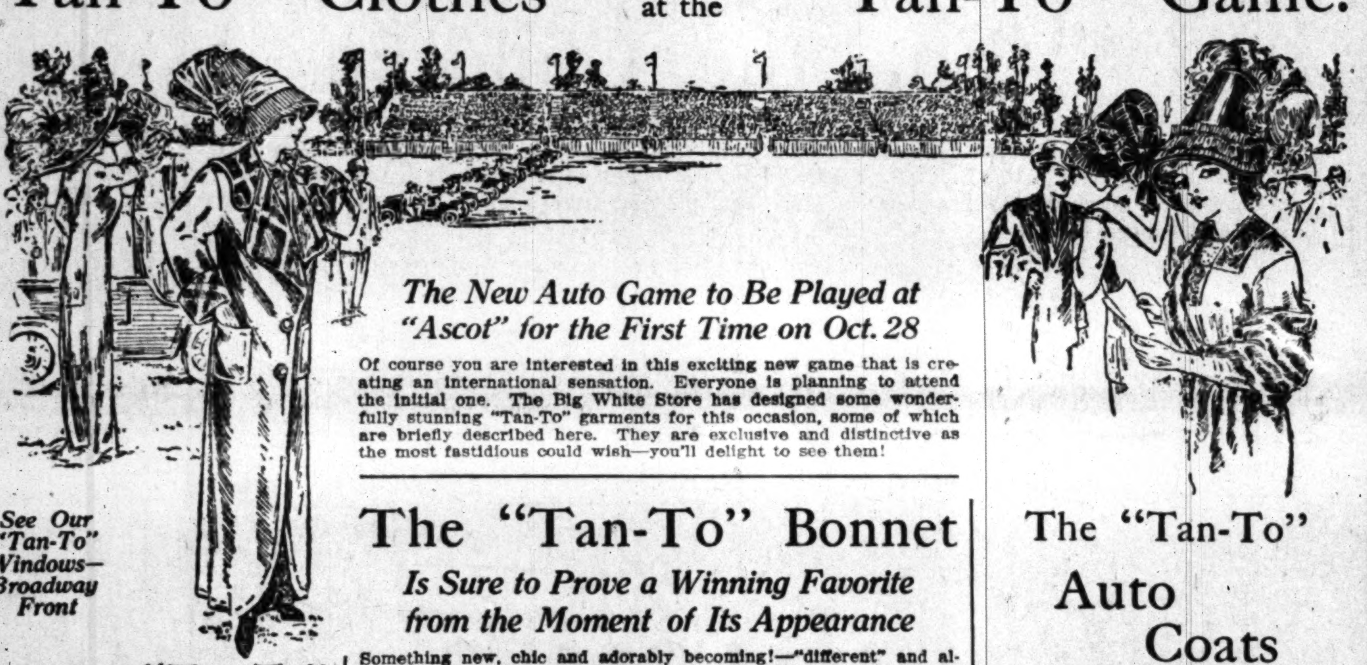
"Tan-To" Clothes For Wear at the "Tan-To" Game!



See Our "Tan-To" Windows—Broadway Front

The New Auto Game to Be Played at "Ascot" for the First Time on Oct. 28

Of course you are interested in this exciting new game that is creating an international sensation. Everyone is planning to attend the initial one. The Big White Store has designed some wonderfully stunning "Tan-To" garments for this occasion, some of which are briefly described here. They are exclusive and distinctive as the most fastidious could wish—you'll delight to see them!

There's a "Tan-To" Scarf Too—

—that touches the top note of daintiness and beauty! It'll be much in evidence at the game. Of extra quality chiffon, 2½ yards long with hemstitched ends from which depend heavy, knotted silk fringe. In green, gray, Alice blue and a rich brown. And the price is $5.00.

The "Tan-To" Neckwear

—is on the way. You'll vote it charming! We'll tell you more of this later—it's to be an unusually pleasant surprise!

The "Tan-To" Bonnet

Is Sure to Prove a Winning Favorite from the Moment of Its Appearance

Something new, chic and adorably becoming!—"different" and altogether fetching! The creation of our own artist designer, and it is destined to produce a sensation. Of velours, velvets and openwork of gold or silver lace, crownless, collapsible, adjustable.

It Runs the Entire Gamut of Fascination

Trimmings are of jeweled or beaded novelty bands, mink and martin fur, ostrich novelties and plumes, flowers and accordion plaited silk, satin or maline. Sketches give some idea of the "Tan-To's" quaintness. You are sure to want one! Priced $15 to $25.

A New Hair Dress

—has been originated in our Hair Dressing Parlors and there's no doubt of it's meeting a cordial reception. Graceful and aristic as can be and particularly effective when worn with a "Tan-To" Bonnet. Ask about it. (Second Floor.)

The "Tan-To" Auto Coats

—rightly deserves to be called not only the latest but the most practical fad of the season. No coat is better adapted for motor wear or excels it in gracefulness of style. Patterned after London's latest ideas, it will strongly appeal to the woman who dresses well.

At the Big White Store Exclusively

It is not a reversible coat, but of finest all-wool steamer cloth with vari-color plaid back patterns, or pure camels' hair with wide flaring cuffs, revers and collar of contrasting shade. $25 to $45.

THE EGAN SCHOOL

Vocal

Thomas Taylor Drill

Thomas Taylor Drill, the head of the Vocal Department of the Egan School, is by all authorities conceded a leading place among the vocal masters of America, and is considered by many of the country's finest musicians the very foremost in his profession.

Mr. Drill has just come from Chicago, where for years he has been an artistic Light of Lights, the director of the famous Musurgia and Irish Choral Societies, and the discoverer and developer of a number of the greatest voices to be heard on the American stage today—and all the time well fulfilling his own dual position of singer and conductor.

Unquestionably Mr. Drill is better fitted than any man west of the Mississippi River to handle the Egan School's Operatic Department.

A truly splendid revival of "The Chimes of Normandy" is now under way, via the talents of the Egan Operatic Chorus. It will be a brilliant production, both scenically and musically.

For the present, a merely nominal charge of $1 per month is made for entering this chorus.

Important to note:—The entrant will have, in the impending stage productions, the personal tuition of every member of the Egan professional faculty.

Fencing

Richard Kruger

The brutal "mush" bullet may rend and destroy at 100 yards, even when sped by the trigger-pull of the most nerveless weakling, but we must admit that the wonderful grace and courtly carriage of men of the olden time was due in great part to their training for a now obsolete means of personal defense—the rapier.

Men nowadays do not need quarte and tierce to defend themselves any more than they need swimming and other athletic exercises as immediate life-preservers. But there is nothing in the whole range of muscular activity which gives man — and woman, too — such ease, poise, elasticity of movement and grace of bearing as the lightning-like art of the small sword.

Richard Kruger, the Fencing Master of the Egan School, is not only learned in the subtleties of both French and Italian swordsmanship, but he is in addition a young man, and brings into his fencing classes an amount of personal vigor and dramatic bodily strength which is amazing.

Kruger is the holder of a number of fencing championships, and his style is the latest word in perfect swordsmanship.

FLORENCE STIRLING CHILDREN'S CLASS

This year Director Frank C. Egan found it impossible to make his Dramatic Faculty better in quality, so he did the only thing possible—he enlarged it.

Ever since the establishment of this institution the Dramatic Faculty has been not only the biggest and best West of New York City, but the equal of any aggregation of histrionic instruction anywhere in the world.

Here the prospective student beholds a group of teachers every one of whom—in the varying lines—has been a notable success.

Those who have to do with the actual stage productions are well-known masters of their crafts—professionals in the fullest and finest sense of the word.

Actual presentations of master-plays, in one of Los Angeles' biggest theaters, with every professional aid and adjunct.

For the Children

Already seventy-five parents have committed their little ones to the care of the Egan School. The Egan Children's Class is the pride of the institution. A new child's play is being prepared for them, and will be presented at the Hamburger Majestic Theater. The Egan School never made a mere puny prodigy, but it does develop little minds and bodies alike, by study and play subtly combined, and promotes the growth of sturdy men and women for the next generation.

EVERY MEMBER OF THE EGAN FACULTY GIVES HIS OR HER SERVICES TO THE CHILDREN, FOR THE NOMINAL FEE OF $5.00 PER MONTH.

Dancing

Mme. Matildita

The oldest of all aesthetic expressions is the art of the Dance. The ancient Greeks carried it to perfection, and it played a solemn part in every function of temple and state in the ancient world.

The wave of Puritanism submerged but could not drown this delightful expression in movement, and today the art of the Dance is recognized as one of the three great educators.

The Egan School teaches Dancing as an Art.

Mme. Matildita, chief dancing instructor, is a graduate of the Scala ballet, and knows every tradition of rhythm and grace as formulated in that world-famous institution.

To fully comprehend, not only in one's mind, but in body as well, what true dancing means is to be an absolute commander of one's self—anywhere, any time, any place.

The Art of the Dance is a splendid social asset and an absolute stage necessity.

SOCIETY.

Mrs. Richard Smith of Whittier this week.

Miss Hilda Humphries has returned from a three months' trip to the Orient and spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Humphries.

Miss Edith Blumer has left for Nordhoff, to be the guest of Mrs. Sherman Thacher for a few weeks.

Mrs. Francis Latimore and Miss Latimore of Pasadena were guests of Mrs. Robert Maher Tuesday.

The first dance of the season was held at the clubhouse Friday night. Music was furnished by Mr. Sneby of Los Angeles. Patronesses were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Stilson, Mrs. W. J. Lawless and Mrs. Guy H. Johnson.

Mrs Charles B. Green was the guest of Mrs. Gardner of Lamanda Park this week.

PIANO

Mr. Egan, whose great school now uses the Melodigrand piano exclusively, says:

"I want to tell you, and also the public, of the great pleasure we are deriving from your wonderful Melodigrand Pianos. After giving them a thorough trial, we find they stand the test beyond expectations. Mr. Drill, of our Vocal Department, is loud in his praise of the singing quality. In promoting the musical department of the Egan School, we want a piano that we can stand back of, and are highly pleased with the choice of the Melodigrand."

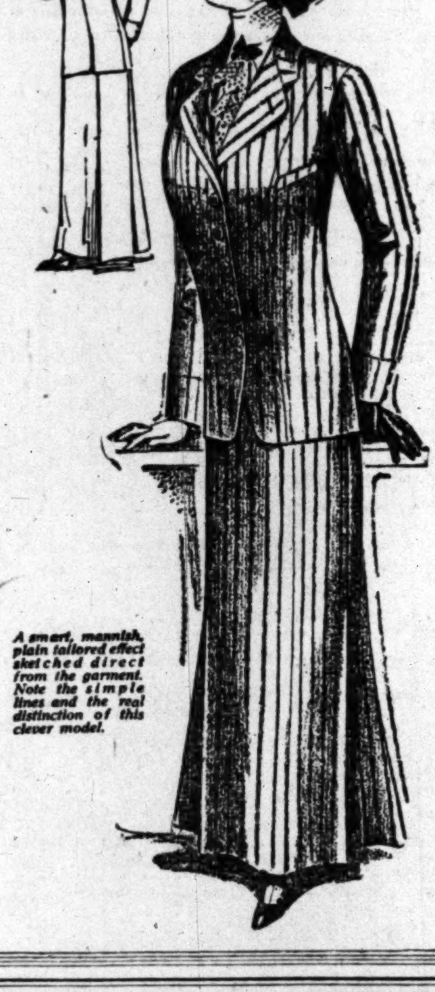
Exclusive Styles

A Feature of Our Apparel For Misses and Women



A smart, mannish, plain tailored effect sketched direct from the garment. Note the simple lines and the real distinction of this clever model.

EXCLUSIVE Style is a feature of our Women's garments—and this was never more noticeable than in the new ideas we have assembled this Fall. Our models positively are not to be duplicated in Los Angeles—and this is due to the fact that our dealings with the makers are personal—we maintain personal relations with the Designers. Thus, while conforming to general style requirements, our models show style features that are distinctive—different—exclusive. This puts our offerings into quite another class from ordinary Ready-to-Wear.

Superior Fabrics and Tailoring

Our personal work season after season with the Producers of Women's garments is having a most telling effect. You'll note it in the superiority of the fabrics in our Suits, Coats and Dresses. They have real "class," as well as genuine service quality. We have been buying fine woolens for years, and are experts. Naturally we make our knowledge tell. Likewise are we judges of tailoring—we know at a glance whether a garment is tailored as it should be or not. We insist upon thorough tailoring in every model we accept. Our makers realize this—that is the reason for the beautiful workmanship you note in Harris & Frank garments.

Suits Plain, man-tailored effects—Suits with the smart simple lines and the perfection of "drape" that is so essential in tailored Suits. Many of these models can be purchased at very moderate prices. In fact, every Suit we show is "sensibly" priced—its worth is evident at a glance. Many smart effects, also, in demi-tailored and Fancy Suits, including some beautiful three-piece models. All the new shades are shown, in all the most popular fabrics.

Dresses Smart new Street Frocks in Pattern Cloths and in Serges—models in White, Coronation, Navy and other fashionable shades. They are tailored to perfection. Dresses, also, for House and Street wear, in demi-tailored effects—in Cream Serges, Velvets, Corduroys and Crepe Meteor Silks. These are strictly exclusive effects, most individual in style.

Coats Handsome new Coats in the very latest fabrics. They're in new fancy Mixtures, including Reversibles—correct ideas for Auto, Street and Evening wear. We are especially strong in Outer Garments for "Juniors," Misses and Small Women, showing the largest assortment of this class of garments in Los Angeles.

Service You'll be delighted with our service. It's the quiet, courteous, helpful kind. We take pleasure in showing you garments and giving you all the time you wish, whether you are ready to make a purchase or not. We fit all garments perfectly—and you, yourself, may be the judge as to this. A special invitation is extended to Visitors from out-of-town, as well as to Los Angeles' Women, to visit our commodious Women's Department.

CONSPICUOUS among pleasant social functions of last week was the dinner dance given last evening at the Valley Hunt Club, which was the first large social gathering there for the winter season. Covers were laid for forty and the table was placed in the large reception hall and charmingly ornamented with white and lavender nicotrina arranged in a large brown basket. After the dinner, dancing was enjoyed in the ballroom, where music was furnished by the Venetian orchestra. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. John E. Marble, Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Lutz, Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. John Earle Jardine, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Worcester, Mr. and Mrs. David Blankenhorn, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Halsted, Mr. and Mrs. Torrey Everett, Mr. and Mrs. William St. John Ranney, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Macomber, Dr. and Mrs. Francis F. Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Strafford, Dr. and Mrs. Henry H. Sherk, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Churchill Clark, Misses Sherk, Anne Peterson, Messrs. Lawrence Thomson, John H. Booge and others.

One of the elaborate functions of last week was the reception held Wednesday evening after the wedding of Miss Helene FitzGerald and Edwin Rafsnyder Sorver, which was solemnized in All Saints Episcopal Church at 8 o'clock. There were 800 guests to witness the ceremony, but the reception was a smaller affair given at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Albert FitzGerald on South El Molino avenue. The floral decorations of white chrysanthemums, pink and white carnations were unusually elaborate. Before a background of white chrysanthemums and bamboo the bride and groom received the guests assisted by Mr. and Mrs. FitzGerald. Others assisting about the rooms were the maid of honor, Miss Jessie McCamet, and the brides maids, Misses Ethel Hinds, Margaret Mears, Alice Earley and Mabel Seibert, and the ushers, Messrs. Robert Cassamajor, Harry FitzGerald, Gordon Gatch and Walter R. Barnes. A collation was served in the flower-decked dining-room and at midnight Mr. and Mrs. Sorver left for a wedding journey of two weeks and will be at home after November 15 on New York avenue.

Miss Cora Hill of North Raymond avenue entertained Friday with a prettily appointed luncheon given for Mrs. Arthur Chase of Cleburne, Tex. Covers were laid for six of Mrs. Chase's old friends.

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Brenner of Peoria street, who have recently returned from their wedding, which occurred August 30, in Mason City, Iowa, were the guests of honor Monday evening at a reception given by Carl Brenner, father of the groom. There were seventy-five guests present, and music furnished by a male quartette added to the pleasure of the affair.

Miss Helen Angeline Stoughton, who is to marry Roy Bradley Wheeler November 1, was the guest of honor yesterday at a matinee party and luncheon at the Alexandria, given for her by her bridesmaids-to-be, Miss Elsa West of Altadena and the Misses Caunt of Boston.

Mrs. A. H. Carter of North Wilson avenue was the hostess Monday at a five hundred party arranged in honor of Misses Myrtle and Hazel Jones of Pepper street, who left Friday for a trip to the Philippines and the Orient. A happy surprise was a feature of the entertainment and this came in the announcement of the engagement of Miss Lena Mae Carter and Alfred C. Eggleston, who will be married December 18. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lantz, Misses Agnes and Dolly Barry, Blanche Vachon, Jane Darling, Vera Grauert, Winnie Camp, May Lawrence, Rosalind Meador, the Misses Jones, Carter, Messrs E. Schultz and John Barry of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Ledford of South Pasadena, Messrs. Richard Deyo, Eggleston, Charles Willetts, Roy and Elvin Carter, John Meador, Wilbur Bailey, Roy and Howard Christianson and Dr. Ralph Newcomb.

Col. W. N. Washburn of Lincoln avenue entertained Monday with a dinner complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. W. Stanley Harrison and their daughter, Miss Dorothy Harrison. Covers were laid for ten.

Miss Edith Wood, whose engagement to Thomas Finch was recently announced, was the guest of honor at a card party given by Mrs. George B. Unckles at her home on Summit avenue Tuesday afternoon. Five hundred was the game, and those present were: Mmes. D. F. Pyle, A. D. Wood, C. R. Adams, George Brenner, H. J. Campbell, O. F. Ericson, Misses Leona Lewis, Alice Morrison, Hazel Knight, Rodna Asper, Ida Wishart and Edith Wood.

Mrs. E. G. Mattison of South Pasadena avenue arranged a pretty juvenile party Tuesday to celebrate the birthday anniversary of her daughter, Laura Mattison. There were twelve children and some of their mothers present.

Dr. and Mrs. Wilmer Rogers of Galena avenue gave a "500" party Monday evening in celebration of the fifth anniversary of their wedding day. The house was gay with floral decorations and the score cards for the game were of orangewood suggestive of wooden wedding appointments. The prizes were awarded to Mrs. Viney and Miss Chenworth and Dr. W. A. Boucher and after the games much music was enjoyed. Mr. Chenworth contributed vocal solos and Mr. Shaw gave some violin numbers. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Rawls, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Stocks, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. McClellan, Mr. and Mrs. William Seckler, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Keep, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Cut, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Boucher, Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Viney, Misses Rosie Allen, Chenworth, Messrs. INTO a bower of flowers by the use of red dahlias and scarlet carnations, was the home of Mrs. William B. Tompkins transformed Tuesday afternoon, when she entertained with one of the smart "500" parties of the week. Scores were kept on hand-painted cards, ornamented with hearts, clubs, diamonds and spades, and at the top of each a ballet dancer. At the close of the games prizes of cut glass were awarded to Miss Ward and Mrs. Stephens. Elaborate refreshments were served, in which the color scheme of red was carried out. When the ices were served, a red heart was found frozen in each. Guests included Mrs. T. W. Bishop, Mrs. Otis Byers Manchester, Mrs. Mary E. Holmes, Mrs. Munson Case, Mrs. George Adams, Miss Ward, Miss Ethel Palmer, Mrs. Clinton Woodruff, Miss Mae Foster, Mrs. David Vail, Miss Bertha Bosbyshell, Mrs. C. L. Bennett, Mrs. G. L. Mr. and Mrs. John A. Walthery, No. 1617 Monterey road, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Maud C. Walthery, to Dr. David F. Herspring of Woodland, Yolo county, Cal.

Mrs. Gilbert Johnson of San Diego was the complimented guest at a luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. William Council, at her home, No. 1625 Laurel street. A large cut glass bowl filled with pink and white cosmos, graced the center of the table, and hand-painted cards ornamented with the same flower marked places for Mrs Gilbert Johnson, Mrs. Mary L. Stringfellow, Mrs T. W. Bishop, Mrs. B. F. Huntington, Mrs. E. V. Schermerhorn, Mrs. Dana W. Dunten, Mrs. Don F. Gates, Mrs. Charles G. Gates, Mrs. John Salisbury, Mrs. Edward F. Hobert and Mrs. William B. Stringfellow. Following luncheon dainty fancy work was the pleasure of the afternoon.

Mrs. B. F. Huntington, No. 1535 Ramona avenue, charmingly entertained at her artistic home the Pasadena Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, at their first meeting of the new year, which was presided over by their new regent, Mrs. Maynard Force Thayer. Mrs. William Douglass Turner contributed to the pleasure of the afternoon by reading some of her stories. A profusion of blossoms, gracefully arranged, adorned the rooms, shades of lavender cosmos decorating the living-room, and the rich yellow roses blending with the color scheme of the dining-room. Mrs. Frank J. Martin assisted the hostess in serving delicious confections and ices to about twenty-five guests.

"Five hundred" was the game provided by Miss Laura Hoffman, No. 1129 Fair Oaks avenue, Thursday evening, when she entertained a small coterie of friends. Potted ferns and roses were used to enliven the rooms where the tables were arranged and dainty refreshments were served. Prizes were captured by Miss Eola Crippen and Jack Reddock. Present were Miss Grace Reddock, Miss Eola Crippen, Miss Frances Bischoff, Miss Bess Gardner and Messrs. Jack Reddock, Carleton Gilbert, Walter Kuencer, Hugh Crippen and Maurice Gifford.

In honor of the Rev. and Mrs. John Oliver, who are leaving this city to go to Ontario, Mrs. Z. L. Parmalee entertained with a dinner party Tuesday evening, at her home, No. 919 Fair Oaks avenue. A large Japanese basket filled with the purple bougainvillea graced the center of the table, and covers were laid for the Rev. and Mrs. John Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. J. Christ, Miss Clara Parmalee and Miss Florence Parmalee.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fisher Hobert, No. 1610 Marengo avenue, are entertaining a house party for the week end, of Los Angeles guests. week end of Los Angeles guests. Last evening a dinner party in their honor was given all the appointments in the affair being in blue and yellow, followed by many novel stunts in their beautiful Japanese garden, which was lighted by electricity. Today they are being entertained for dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Crippen, No. 1203 Elm avenue. Included are Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Pelt, Mr. and Mrs. Fox Stamps, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Ellery Crippen.

Mrs. George Wilsonentertained the members of the Tuesday Afternoon Thimble Club, at her home No. 635 Prospect avenue. Waist Values From the Stock That Women Recognize as Most Full of Value

Look at these two items—look, then make your plans to come early Monday and investigate. And remember is no style of waist on which we cannot save you money—much money.

New Chiffon and Lace Waists
Such wonderfully beautiful waists, they are. When they are elaborate, every feature that helps to make them so, bears on it the mark of richness. When they are simple, they are luxuriously simple. The chiffon waists are shown in all colors and all styles. Their prices range from $6.75 upwards. The lace waists, in ecru or white include designs with set-in or peasant sleeves, and with touches of colored velvet trimming. A wonderfully large stock, and a price range from $3.75 to $24.50.

A Sale of Chiffon Waists at $5 some novel marabou, wing, breast and aigrette effects that are worthy of your attention.

Trimmed Hats at $10
Such values as no one can duplicate. Unusual values, remarkable values, sensational values. Your chance to get a $10 hat that would be marked at $15 or $18 in any other store on the coast. Turbans are included in the sale, but most of the designs are broad, with novelty breasts and wings.

Velvet Shapes in Black
Broad shapes, flawlessly made of a very superior grade of velvet. They are shapes which, in themselves, are elaborate and which require little elaboration to transform them into finished half-creations. They are grosgrain-bound, which greatly enhances their beauty. Their values are tremendous.

Fifty Exquisite Imported Paris Model Waists

French hand-made productions imported direct for the recent Fashion Show. Now that they have served their turn we offer them without reserve at one-fourth off regular price.

THEY represent the latest triumphs in waist-making by such celebrated foreign designers as "Samuel" of Paris. Each waist is an exquisite work of art and no two of them are alike. In materials, chiffon and net take the lead. Some with filet lace jumpers worked out with wool embroidery. Many have long sleeves with the new Citoyenne frill cuff; the frill idea is also carried out in the three-quarter sleeve models. The Brussels net waists are especially dainty; they also have long sleeves with frill falling over the hands. The sleeves set in at the arm sizes is a new departure. The graceful outlines of these waists will appeal to women who love the new and beautiful. Sale Fourth Floor.

AN ADVERTISING INNOVATION

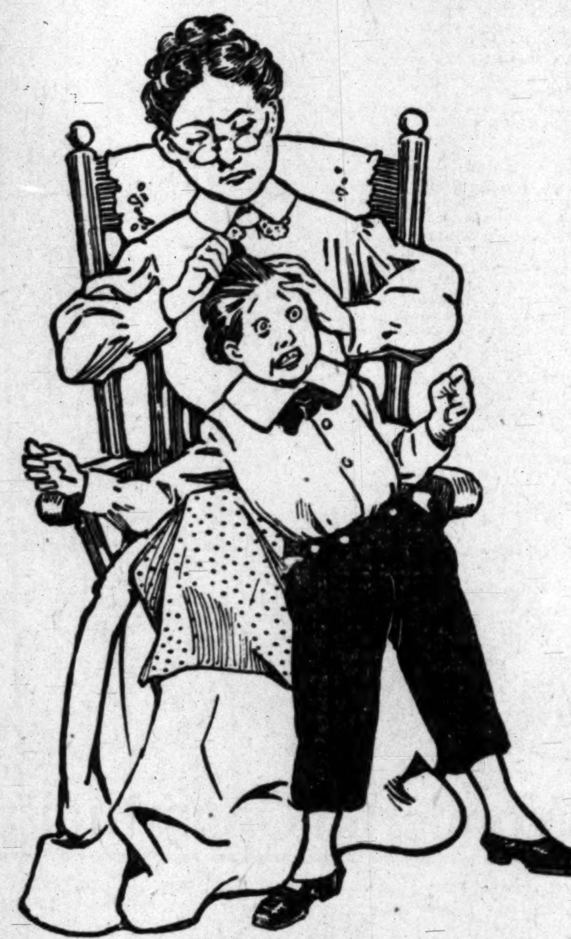
In order to afford its many busy patrons better opportunities and more time in which to take advantage of and profit by its Bargain and Special offerings, one of the largest and most popular local Department Stores will shortly adopt the plan of announcing these sales in The Times the day before and not on the day they occur. This system, which has proved successful and been adopted in the East, will not only be very gratifying to shoppers generally, but it will undoubtedly increase the profitableness of the advertising campaigns of the firms adopting it.

The enormous business done by Department Stores on Monday as a result of Sunday advertising conclusively proves that the practice of giving purchasers a whole day in which to prepare for their shopping expedition is productive of the best results.

Women, as a rule, and men too, like to read advertisements leisurely and discuss the merits of advertised articles with their associates, and for this and many other reasons, they are much more likely to patronize sales advertised for Tomorrow, than they are those announced for Today. No matter how rare a bargain an advertised article may be, many women are unable to leave home on short notice to take advantage of the sale, but they could and would make arrangements to attend it if announcements of values and prices were made in the morning papers of the day before. In this age of nerve destroying competition it pays to promote the convenience of the public, and the outcome of this commendable effort in that direction will be watched by local merchants with considerable interest.

THEN — AND — NOW

THEN "Mother's" code of Scalp Cleanliness included the energetic use of a fine toothed comb
NOW she applies a reliable scalp prophylactic and antiseptic



HERPICIDE CO.

How well we recall the days when mother would say: "Here, get the fine-toothed comb. I must scratch your head, it is full of dandruff." And, oh, the agony of the next two hours. How we hated it. There was no use in remonstrating. We were obliged to submit our tender scalps to that scratching and digging which left a hurting in each individual hair and our scalp raw, tender and perhaps bleeding.

Poor soul, she didn't know what else to do. The germ origin of dandruff had not yet been determined. But the dirt and dandruff was a reality, it was there and must be gotten rid of. There was no such thing as a sanitary hairdressing and the fine-toothed comb was the most effective eradicator "mother" knew. And what did she accomplish? Nothing, absolutely nothing, but the temporary removal of the scale-like accumulation and the infliction of pain and discomfort.

What does "mother" do now?

Instead of that torturing and hair-destroying comb she keeps on hand at all times and insists upon every member of the family using regularly and intelligently

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

The Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer

Unlike the comb, Herpicide is effective. Far from being a discomfort, it's use is a delight. The feeling of cleanliness and self-assurance following an application of this remedy commends it to all, young and old, men and women. Properly applied, Herpicide works down around the root of the hair where it destroys the germ life that causes dandruff. This permits proper nourishment to reach and strengthen the hair which becomes vigorous and luxuriant and ceases to fall out. Itching of the scalp, which is so disagreeable, stops almost instantly.

Newbro's Herpicide contains no grease, does not stain or dye and possesses a most delicate and exquisite odor.

STORIES OF FAMOUS POEMS.

"HIGHLAND MARY."

Robert Burns.

Ye banks, and braes, and streams around
The castle o' Montgomery,
Green be your woods, and fair your flowers,
Your waters never drumlie!
There Simmer first unfauld her robes,
And there the langest tarry;
For there I took the last farewell
O' my sweet Highland Mary.

Of all Robert Burns's sentimental poetry—and he was largely a poet of sentiment—his "Highland Mary" is the most popular, and in many respects the most beautiful. Mary Campbell, of whose worth and beauty Burns has sung with such deep feeling, was the daughter of a mariner who lived in Greenock. Mary became acquainted with the poet while on service at the castle of Montgomery, and their strolls in the woods and their roaming trysts only served to deepen and settle their affection. Their love had much of the solemn as well as the romantic; on the day of their separation they plighted their mutual faith by the exchange of Bibles; they stood with a running stream between them, and lifting up water in their hands vowed love while woods grew and water ran.

The Bible which the poet gave was handsomely bound. "Ye shall not swear by my name falsely," was written in the bold Mauchline hand of Burns, and underneath was his name, and his mark as a freemason. They were to meet no more. Mary Campbell was carried off suddenly by a malignant fever. The first intimation the poet had of her fate was when, it is said, he visited her friends to meet her on her return from Cowal, whither she had gone to make arrangements for her marriage.

Burns addressed many of his poems to "Highland Mary," during her lifetime. Of one of these, entitled "Mary Campbell," Burns says:

"In my very early years, when I was thinking of going to the West Indies, I took the following farewell of a dear girl. You must know that all my earlier love-songs were the breathings of ardent passion, and though it might have been easy in after times to have given them a polish, yet that polish to me would have defaced the legend of my heart, so faithfully inscribed on them. Their native simplicity was, as they say of wines, their race."

Burns's poem "To Mary in Heaven" is one of the best favorites of the poet. This ode was composed by Burns in one of his fits of melancholy on the anniversary of Highland Mary's death. All the day he had been thoughtful, and at evening he went out, threw himself down by the side of one of his corn-ricks, and with eyes fixed on "a bright particular star" was found by his wife, who, with difficulty, brought him in from the chill midnight air. The song was already composed, and he had only to commit it to paper. The first verse follows:

Thou ling'ring star, with less'ning ray,
That lov'st to greet the early morn,
Again thou usherest in the day
My Mary from my soul was torn
How sweetly bloom'd the gay, green birk,
How rich the hawthorne's blossom,
As underneath their fragrant shade,
I clasped her to my bosom!
The golden hours, on angel wings,
Flew o'er me and my dearie;
For dear to me as light and life,
Was my sweet Highland Mary!

Wi' mony a vow, and lock'd embrace,
Our parting was fu' tender;
And pledging aft to meet again,
We tore oursels asunder;
But oh, fell death's untimely frost,
That nipt my flower sae early!—
Now green's the sod, and cauld's the clay,
That wraps my Highland Mary!

O pale, pale now, those rosy lips
I aft ha'e kissed sae fondly!
And clos'd for aye the sparkling glance
That dwelt on me sae kindly!
And mouldering now in silent dust,
That heart that lo'ed me dearly;
But still within my bosom's core
Shall live my Highland Mary!

My Mary! dear departed shade
Where is thy place of blissful rest?
Seest thou thy lover lowly laid?
Hear'st thou the groans that rend his breast?

"Highland Mary," says the Hon. A. Erskine in a letter to George Thomson, "is most enchantingly pathetic." Burns says of it himself, in a letter to Thomson: "The foregoing song pleases myself; I think it is in my happiest manner. The subject is one of the most interesting passages of my youthful days; and I own that I should be much flattered to see the verses set to an air which would ensure celebrity. Perhaps, after all, 'tis the still glowing prejudice of my heart that throws a borrowed luster over the merits of the composition."

Burns gives the following interesting account of his short courtship with Mary Campbell: "My Highland lassie was a warm-hearted and as charming a young creature as ever blessed a man with generous love. After a pretty long trial of the most ardent reciprocal attachment we met by appointment on the second Sunday of May in a sequestered spot on the banks of the Ayr, where we spent the day in taking a farewell before she should embark for the West Highlands to arrange matters among her friends for our projected change of life. At the close of the autumn following she crossed the sea to meet me at Greenock, where she had scarce landed when she was seized with a malignant fever, which hurried my dear girl to her grave in a few days, before I could even hear of her illness."

The story of the ceremonial in the river, with the Bible added was first given by Cromek, but his picturesque parting was considered somewhat apocryphal till, a good many years ago, a pocket Bible in two volumes, presented by Burns to Mary Campbell, was discovered in the possession of her sister at Ardrossan. This Bible afterward found its way to Canada, whither the family had removed; and having excited the interest of some Scotchmen at Montreal, they purchased it (for its possessors were unfortunately in reduced circumstances,) and had it conveyed back to Scotland, with the view of being permanently placed in the monument at Ayr. On its arrival at Glasgow, Mr. Weir, stationer, Queen street (through the instrumentality of whose son the precious relic was mainly procured,) kindly anounced that he would willingly show it for a few days at his shop to any person who might choose to see it. The result was that thousands flocked to obtain a view of this interesting memorial, and the ladies in particular displayed an unwonted eagerness regarding it, some of them even being moved to tears on beholding an object which appealed so largely to female sympathies.

On the anniversary of the poet in 1841, the Bible, inclosed in an oaken glass case, was deposited among other relics in the monument at Ayr.

Developing.

Strange to think that in the darkness of this little, silent room,
Where the lantern's steady crimson gleams—a red eye—in the gloom,
I can watch imprisoned sunbeams weaving pictures in their loom.

Just one flash of time's swift shuttle so! that made them! There they creep
Slowly out upon the plate here, as a dream creeps out on sleep
When the awakening soul remembers long-lost thoughts from out the deep.
So sometimes, when I am weary, out upon my mind's blank plate
Creep slow pictures that were graved there long ago by careless fate,
Hidden deep in memory's dark-room they like buried sunbeams wait—

Strange old pictures, long forgotten, left unrecked of in my brain,
Till comes memory with her lantern, pours some scent, some old refrain,
Like a liquid spell upon them, and, behold, all's clear again!

—[Isabel W. Hutchinson, in Chamber's Journal.

OVER THE SEA.

The Very Rev. Dr. H. Russell Wakefield, dean of Norwich, has been appointed Bishop of Birmingham by King George. The new bishop is a lineal descendant of the Rev. Gilbert Wakefield, who, in the eighteenth century, defended the principles of the French Revolution against the attacks of Bishop Wason, and was in consequence imprisoned for two years in Dorchester Gaol.

Dr. J. A. F. Orbaan, author of Sistine Rome, has returned to Europe to resume work in the archives and library of the Vatican. Dr. Orbaan is a specialist in the history of Rome after the Renaissance.

Bahisat-al-Badia is said to be the most popular woman of her race in Egypt. She has taken part in various movements to help Egyptian women. At a recent congress she delivered an address setting forth the needs of the Mohammedan women and calling on the members of the congress to support laws to help them.

George Moore, the author, has moved from Dublin to London. Moore of course is an Irishman. He lived in England and France for a number of years, but at the time of the outbreak of the South African war he was so absolutely opposed to the war that he renounced England and moved back to Ireland. After seven years he returned to England.

Amalia Gugliemenetti, poetess, novelist and journalist, one of the most fascinating of Italy's daughters, has boldly declared that man has lost the power of loving and that the passion of love is in decadence.

She wants to revive the age of minstrelsy and chivalry, when love-sick poets thought nothing of sacrificing life to their ideal. She says that today love in its highest sense is practically dead; that man is little better than a mere animal; that woman on her side does little to fan the immortal flame but thinks more of her froks and her freedom—hence the increase in divorce and the gradual disgust of man for the married state.

Senora Cusino is said to be the richest woman in the world. If not quite that, she is one of them, for she is credited with the possession, in her own right, of an estate worth $200,000,000. She comes from an old Chilean family, and since the death of her husband, Senor Cusino, she has managed her enormous properties in silver, copper and coal mines with remarkable success. She owns a fleet of steamships, a magnificent estate near Santiago, and employs hundreds of workmen in her vineyards alone on the slope of the Andes. In fact, she owns a whole city, the mining port of Lata, where she ships her coal to all South American ports. The whole town is run by this talented business woman, even to the grocery and dry goods stores.

A LITERARY EXCURSION

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Most folk think of Lord Rosebery as a politician and statesman—or perhaps as a Derby winner—rather than as a man of letters, yet Archibald Philip Primrose, fifth Earl of Rosebery, is one of the greatest living masters of the English language. He has written essays and monographs that deserve to become classics, but it is in the spoken word that he excels. Lord Rosebery is pre-eminently the most graceful and polished orator in King George's dominions.

He has just been giving us a taste of his quality in his address as rector of St. Andrews' University in Scotland on the occasion of the quincentenary celebrations of that most ancient of Scottish seats of learning and in that address he has given us a much-needed definition of that abused term "culture"—"a large and vague phase" said Lord Rosebery, "which means, I suppose, the intelligent enjoyment of literature."

So little culture had Scotland in the that in 1370 not one of the Scottish days when the university was founded nobles could sign his name and two centuries after its foundation, Patrick, Earl of Orkney, virtual king of a large part of Scotland, could not repeat the Lord's Prayer, and his execution was postponed for a few days so that he might receive a little religious instruction.

To visualize the progress of the world since the foundation of the university, Lord Rosebery called up the ghost of the first rector, by imagining him, like Swift's Struldburgs of the Island of Luggnagg to be immortal.

"I do not propose to go through the circumstances of the centuries which he would observe and endure," said Lord Rosebery. "But there were some notable facts that one cannot omit. He could scarcely, for one thing, have remained a respecter of persons. He would have seen a fair proportion of our few archbishops hanged or assassinated. He would have seen dummy bishops content to collect their lawful incomes for the benefit of unscrupulous laymen, and appointed for no other purpose. He would have seen the Scottish peerage almost annihilated on a single battlefield. He would have seen five of his sovereigns die violent deaths and their line eventually wither and perish in a foreign land. He would have seen the great church, which had overshadowed Scotland, full of wealth, walls of Jericho at the blast of the power and renown, full like the trumpet, which would also blast the material prosperity of St. Andrews'. He would have seen the great church which succeed it, not less ambitious of power, attempt to found a theocracy of which they should be the visible instruments, but ultimately confined by the good sense of the people to its spiritual functions, for its own advantage and for the strengthening of its legitimate action. Each and all of these blows would strike straight to our rector's head, but he would have to survive them.

"How, then, would your undying rector sum up? 'Be of good cheer,' I think he would say, 'you have gained enormously in my long recollection, much in freedom, much in prosperity, and in the admiration of mankind for your race. If there are momentary shadows, remember that depression often arises from too limited a view. There are ages and cycles in history. The man who judges from a lustre should enlarge his range. He may live under a cloud for a moment, but he should raise his eyes to the hills and remember the eternities. My world, 'he would say, 'has disappeared. The ideas, the standards, the human types have all been washed away by the deluge of time; those which I can hardly recognize in their new surroundings are the only fragments to which my memory can attach itself. They and the waves which lap them alone remain. I have seen generations come and go like the tides, and they left me stranded in loneliness. I cannot remember and I cannot forget. I have lived through storms and sunshine, sometimes bewildered by both.'

" 'But,' he would add, 'has time made events clearer and brought occasions into their true proportion? I have been conscious of progress to the light. I entered upon office in medieval times, forty years before the date of the fall of Constantinople, at which modern history is supposed to being. That overthrow of the great bulwark of our faith and civilization in the East, caused a crash throughout Christendom. It seemed the end of half history, but we have lived through its effects. I have seen cyclones in which thrones toppled over like ninepins and sublime heads rolled in the dust like apples in an orchard; I have seen eclipses that seemed eternal and rivers as in Egypt turn to blood; I have seen life and death and glory chasing each other like shadows on a summer sea, and all has seemed to be vanity. But I remain in the conviction that, though individuals may suffer, when we take stock of a century at its end we shall find that the world is better and happier than it was at the beginning. Sursum corda' he would continue, 'and lift up your hearts, for the world is moving onwards. Its chariot wheels may crush for the moment, but it does not move to evil; it is guided from above, and guided, we may be sure, with wisdom and goodness which cannot fail. That is the comfort which even in blackest darkness must afford light; and so,' your ancient rector would continue, 'if I am destined to live through the next five centuries and behold the millenary of St. Andrews', I shall see, no doubt, a community as different from this as is this from that of 1411, but much better, happier and wiser than the university of 1911, as is the last from the first.' "

The services rendered to literature by St. Andrews, were referred to also by Arthur Balfour, another ex-Prime Minister of England, who said:

"I believe it to be true that at all events from the time when this university was founded right to to the era when Burns and Scott made the poetry of Scotland the common heritage, not only of Britain but of English-speaking peoples, and made it even an international possession, most of the great poets of Scotland were connected with this university. I am not going to enumerate them, still less am I going to discuss their merits, but I do not think that a ceremony like that of these three great days ought to come to a conclusion without, at all events, those of us who are Scotsmen in this assembly saying something—saying that we remember Dunbar, Lindsay, Douglas, Montrose, and last of all, but not least, Ferguson, who, if not the inspirer of Burns, was his predecessor and in some sense his master."

There are few inventions that have not been anticipated by the novelist. Jules Verne made use of the submarine long before it was a practical reality and I believe he also foretold the flying machine. Now we learn that the latest scientific marvel the "aerophone," by which a young English engineer named Grindall Matthews claims he can telephone without wires, really is the child of Rider Haggard's brain. Haggard himself pointed out to me the other day that in his book "Stella Fregelius" written in 1898 and published in 1903, he describes an instrument almost identical in character to that invented by Mr. Grindall Matthews and bearing the identical name. I wonder if some clever lawyer couldn't establish a copyright in the name, even if he couldn't get the courts to assign to Haggard a share of the patent rights

Another phase of the truth that there is nothing new under the sun is the point of a story which a friend has just been telling me about Andrew Lang, who, as I suupose you know, doesn't think much of modern authors.

"I talked to him," said my friend, "of Marie Corelli, George Moore, Hall Caine and other novelists, but he just pished and pshwaed until at last I got angry and said, "but perhaps Mr. Lang you haven't read any of our modern fiction?' "

" 'Oh, yes,' he replied, 'I read it all, forty years ago, in Dumas.' "

G. A. MUNN.

"THE MASTERPIECE."

LESLIE T. PEACOCKE.

The editor sat in the editor's chair and the editor looked at me;
He glanced at the manuscript in my hand and he scowled most banefully,
"What's that you've got? More foolish rot about devils and drinks and song?
I've had quite enough of such senseless stuff and I'm looking for something strong.
I'm in need of good, sterling, romantic verse, about rivers and wind and trees,
And flowers and love, with a turtle dove and a sigh and a gentle breeze;
With a sorrowful touch, but not too much, just enough to make them sigh
And call forth tears from romantic dears, who are wistfully moist of eye."
So I bent my steps to my library and I took my pen in hand
And I courted the muse, for I couldn't refuse the editor's stern command.
I conjured the wind from the distant shores and I ranted of Love, Sweet Love,
Of oceans blue and of hearts so true and the moon and the stars above.
I wrote of the hair of a maiden fair and of violets in the glade,
Of roses red and "the words he said" and the beautiful vows they made.
I walked the floor from desk to door and I courted the muse till dawn,
And I finished my lay at the break of day, enchanted, but spent and worn;
Then I laid me down with my masterpiece and I dreamt of a great reward,
Of endless fame and my name a name to be held in a great regard;
Then I hied me back to the editor's den and I proudly laid it down,
And awaited his praise and great amaze and his promise of great renown,
He scanned and scanned and he clenched his hand and sputtered and fumed and raved,
While I stood on the rack till he handed it back with a smile—he is well-behaved—
"Go; take it away, and bury it, pray, out of sight of the human race,
And keep to your winks and your devils and drinks, and your steps, please, now retrace."
So I slunk away with my roundelay and I buried it underground,
And watered its bier with a salty tear, in a place which can't be found.
And that is the end of all my hopes, my efforts don't count for much,
I can't write of trees, love, rivers, or breeze—it appears that I haven't the "touch."

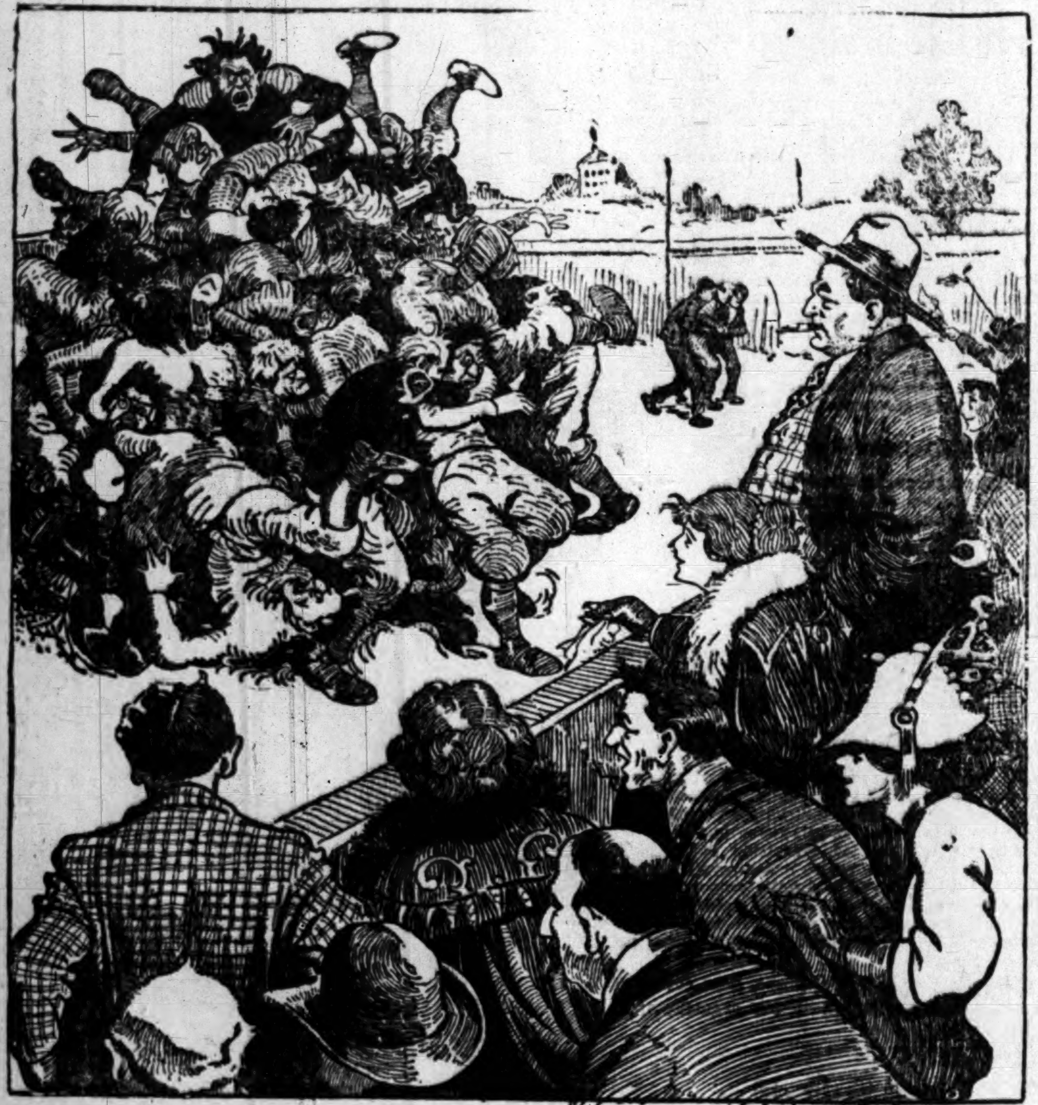
Reflective Quality of Wall Paper.

In painting or papering the walls of a room the question often arises what color reflects the most and what the least light. Recent experiments in Germany gave the following results: Dark blue reflects 6½ per cent. of the light falling upon it, dark green about 10 per cent., pale red a little more than 16 per cent., dark yellow 20 per cent., pale blue 30 per cent., pale yellow 40 per cent., pale green 46½ per cent., pale orange nearly 55 per cent., white 70 per cent. Glossiness and varnish increase the amount of light reflected.

COLONEL CROWE OF CRIPPLE CREEK.

BY WALLACE IRWIN.

He Finds Football a Quiet Little Game.



"IN A MESS LIKE A LOT O' ANGLE-WORMS TRYIN' TO CRAWL OUT OF A TIN CAN"

Col. Crowe and Sandow Jones, the timid bandit, occupied a suite on the eleventh floor of the Plazastoria, two rooms and a common bathroom in between. As the bathroom cost $2 a day extra, and as my western friends had been schooled to regard a bath, as a sort of week-end frivolity—something not to be thought of before Saturday night—it was easy to see that they were paying for their baths at the famine rate of $7 apiece.

"Don't put me down as grudgin' the price," said Col. Crowe. "Because I ain't. Y' don't know how sort o' satisfyin' and consolin' it is to have a bathroom always waitin' for you to jump in and splash around. It uplifts and inspires. It's like livin' next door to a church; maybe y' don't use it any oftener than the law allows, but it sort o' purifies you to know it's there! Then y' got to regard these here hotel bathrooms as works of art—tiles, tiles everywheres, white as a maiden's soul and slippery as a gambler's oath; tub of the same color, and long and deep enough to drown a team o' mules in—and look at the nickel-plated sody-fountain layout with a dozen wheels and spiggots where the happy bather can git hot or cold water of any desired flavor by just turnin' the proper cog. Yes, friend, the Grand Canyon o' the Colorado is all right in its place; but for reel-re-fined grandeur, give me a high-toned New York bathroom in all its majesty of Turkish towelin' and modern sanitary plumbin'!"

It was late last Sunday morning when I found the colonel and his little friend Sandow, occupying their royal suite. The colonel, who had just undergone the weekly purification ceremony, stood in front of a bureau painfully hewing away at his wiry beard. He ignored my entrance, so I lightly passed into the next room where Sandow Jones, half of his stumpy body buried in a big trunk, was bobbing up and down as he deposited several dozens of assorted firearms on the counterpane of his bed. There were derringers of ancient pattern, silver-mounted six-shooters, of a Mexican breed, long, blue army revolvers, deadly automatics, and any number of hammerless or triggerless forty-four-caliber killers which go along the border under the general name of "guns."

"Kind o' goin' over my stock," said Sandow. "That's a secret o' my success in the bandit business—never allow my tools to git out of order. Lots o' desperadoes goes out o' business the first season because they git sort o' shiftless and no-good. That ain't no way to git ahead. What 'd y' think of a druggist that 'd allow his nux vomica and corn plasters and bromo-seltzer to run out durin' the season when there was most call for them goods? You 'd say he was deservin' all the failure he got. Same way with train robbery and horse thievery. Enterprise pays."

"I suppose you've — er— brought down something with each one of those tools?" I suggested, pointing to the arsenal on the bed.

"Most of 'em," agreed Sandow. "But there's a few ain't no good—jest keep 'em for sentiment and old association. Fer instance there's that derringer—no practical good for nothin', but Hank Carson handed that to me right after I shot 'im up to Trinidad. 'Keep this as a sooveneer of old times, Sandow,' he says and passed away on account of his lungs bein' punctuated by two o' my bullets. This here iron," said Sandow, pointing to an especially deadly looking cannon, "has got seven notches in the handle—all kills—wounds don't count in my business. The sixth notch was account of a Mexican section boss who crossed my trail with a——"

"Say," said Col. Crowe, stalking into the room with shaving lather still clinging to one side of his face like a half portion of gray whiskers, "say, I tried to haul this here mountain shrimp to a football game yesterday——"

"Naw, ye don't!" snarled Sandow, lovingly handling the murderous row of hardware displayed on the bed. "Y' don't rake me into no football game. I got to draw the line somewheres."

"What's your objection to football?" I asked.

"It's dangerous," said the toy desperado carefully spinning the seven-notched revolver around his forefinger.

"So you've been to a football game!" I said to the Colonel, wishing to quell any discussion in the presence of that arsenal.

"Yep. Sidney MacNamara, fella that superintends a mine down on Nassau street, he took me yesterday. The game was between the Yales and the Harvards——"

"Impossible!" I objected. "Yale and Harvard don't meet till much later in the season. It must have been some other teams."

"Maybee it was the Universal Barbers' College versus McGeek's Shorthand University. Anyhow, they played and I was there."

"How do you like the game, now that you've seen it?" I asked.

"'Tain't in it with bullfightin'," said Col. Crowe critically. "In the first place the killin' is all too harem-scarem and accidental. There's plenty o' brutality, but it ain't played up so that the audience can git full benefit of it. Maybe it wasn't a first-class game I seen; but it seemed to me I'd a-gone away more satisfied if more o' the injury had been did in full view o' the audience. Time and again I seen 'em do the same thing—all squat down with their heads close together while the captain shouted '4—11—C. Q. D!', thus givin' the secret signal for who was to be killed—next y' knew some young man was left for dead in the field while them assassins scampered away from the scene o' the crime as merry as kangaroo colts. Now I ain't raisin' no objection to murder, if it's included in the rules of the game; but as long as the audience pays a dollar to git in and 25 cents extra for the privilege of carryin' a flag, I claim it's their right to be in on all the fun. If somebody's got to be killed, let it be did out in the open where everybody can see it. Though I ain't got much use for a Mexican, ordinary, I must say they're lots greater artists than us when it comes to a public slaughter-house event."

"You mean you prefer bullfighting to football?" I inquired, shocked.

"It's more square and above the table," said Col. Crowe. "When a Mexican goes to a bullfight he goes with the expectation of seein' somethin' or somebody killed. He's never disappointed. And what's more, the killin' is played up into a big draymatic spectacle. The bull, the horses, the bull stickers are all marched out to the music of a brass band. The horses and five or six assorted toreadors are slaughtered in full view o' the audience, right under the grandstand. Then when the bull is all lathered up into a glorious state o' peevishness, the chief sticker steps forth into the center of the arena and they fight it out. If the toreador kills the bull the audience yells, 'bray-vo, toreador!' But if the bull kills the toreador, the audience with equal enthusiasm yells, 'bray-vo, bull!' It's a cinch game. Whichever way y' play it y' git what y' want—a gory sacrifice."

"Do you think the object of sport is a gory sacrifice?" I asked, more horrified than before.

"Well, ain't it?" inquired the colonel. "You'll generally find that the public, payin' from two bits to two dollars for their tickets, is goin' to be disappointed if they don't see somebody hurt. Hence sports. The object of a bull fight is to kill the bull; the object of a football game is to kill the half-back; the object of an aviation meet is to kill the aviator; the object of a melodray-ma is to kill the villain; the object of a baseball game is to kill the umpire; the object of a prize fight is to see a 400-pound White Hope beat hopeless by a six-ounce fireman from Pueblo.

"And that's why I say," continued the colonel, "that football ain't no sort o' game for civilized folks to enjoy. It's full o' pleasant fatalities, but the deadly part of it is dropped in sort of offhand, so you don't git no benefit out of it. Twenty-two young fellers in red and blue shirts with short quilted pants tryin' to push each other off the field; twenty-two full-built huskies tied together in a knot with jest about as much logic or di-rection to their movements as you'll find in a mess o' angleworms tryin' to crawl out of a tin can. They stand up. They put down their heads. Somebody yells, '23—11—O. K.' and they all fall down in a heap. Pretty soon they untie their arms and legs and stand up again—all but one quilted hero, who remains on the turf givin' an imitation o' Jim Jeff tryin' to come back.

"'Poor Charlie, is he hurt?'" asks a Foolish Questioner from Vassar.

"'Oh, no. He's jest layin' there a-listenin' to the fairies,' says the handsome Romeo settin' next to her. A gent with a bucket and a sponge rushes onto the field. I don't know who this fella is, but I guess, by his important air, he must be president of the college. He dips the sponge in the bucket and gives the fallen hero a bath, while both colleges howl together.

'What's the matter with rah-rah?
He's all rah-rah!
Who's all rah-rah!
Rah-rah!'—

"So the afternoon goes on. The empire blows the whistle. The heroes stand up. The captain yells '13!' They squat with their heads together a minute, then they all fall over and another man is killed. Once in a while they vary the programme by kickin' a leather pumpkin between two clothes posts while both colleges continue to inquire 'What's the matter with Rah-rah?' It may be fun for them, but it's mighty monotonous for me, as the frontiersman said when the Apaches tried to skin 'im alive with a dull knife."

Col. Crowe picked up a blue automatic revolver and clicked it at Sandow's feet just to see if it was loaded.

"Do you think football can ever be made safe?" I asked.

"It might," said Col. Crowe. "It's nearly as safe as prize fightin' now. But do 'y want to make it safe? Sport with the danger removed is like beer with the alcohol extracted—healthy, perhaps, but totally lackin' in the few entertainin' qualities it ever had."

PSYCHOLOGY OF INTOXICATION.

Careful and Scientific Study of the Various Stages Through Which an Inebriate Passes.

[New York World:] How alcohol destroys a man's faculties in an exactly inverse order to that of their acquirement has been most graphically depicted by Dr. A. D. Bush, the well-known authority on mental diseases.

Dr. Bush declares alcohol to be a somatic (body) poison which acts upon the tissues destructively and produces more or less acute but well-marked psychoses (derangements of the nervous system.)

Opium, he says, overwhelms the organism, producing collapse; strychnine exhausts the centers of respiration; prussic acid paralyzes at once, but alcohol insidiously attacks the highest functions of the brain and mind and successfully and in inverse order overthrows all the intellectual faculties acquired by the evolutionary process, reduces man to the level of the brute, and finally to the gutter as a mere animate being.

One day of heavy drinking is, according to Dr. Bush, sufficient to overthrow the cumulative work of ages and to resolve man into his primitive capacity of simple nervous response.

In the development of the child the emotion of shame is a later acquirement than the emotion of fear, and hence, in the process of devolution or regression, the former would be sooner lost. Likewise, the faculty of reason, first manifested by the infant in the fourth month, is a higher faculty than that of memory, shown in the second week of life. Consequently the power of reasoning would be surrendered while memory remained active. And so, with other faculties which will be enumerated presently, the highest being the power of discrimination and of self-control.

Among the first faculties, then, which a man loses when he becomes intoxicated are his fine self-control, his discrimination and his sense of shame. Hence he raises his voice and talks inadvisedly; disagreements of no moment irritate him; he becomes voluble and indulges in high-flown rhetoric, in patriotic buncombe or in shallow sentimentality. In short, alcohol so weakens his judgment that he can no longer distinguish the trivial from the important.

Also he grows restless and walks about gesticulating wildly, for, as his power for deliberate movements is impaired, so his ability for expressive movements, which was an earlier acquirement, is temporarily increased. As a consequence, besides his gesticulations with arms, shoulders and body, he makes grimaces, wags his head, and laughs and cries by turns easily and exceedingly. Next, this faculty in its turn weakening, the imitative faculty appears. He now yelps, barks and crows or imitates ridiculously the speech of those about him. Then, at last, his attention wanes and his movements become more uncertain until no longer able to co-ordinate his muscles, he sinks to the floor, where he lies twitching, and then still, breathing stertorously. Thus he returns by the alcoholic route to the helplessness of the babe.

The superficial brilliancy of speech sometimes displayed by the intoxicated comes from the loss of the higher faculty of abstract thought and the consequent increase of constructive imagination with its still more inferior companion, reminiscent imagination. But though the speech of the drunkard appear brilliant, adorned as it is with metaphor and extravagant imagery, his thoughts lack coherence and rationality, and his seeming brilliancy soon abates and ends in unintelligible gibbering.

So much for the intellectual regression; now for the emotional, which is quite as interesting.

The primitive emotions, as named by Dr. Bush in the order of their succession, are surprise, fear, social feelings, pugnacity, anger, affection, sympathy, pride, grief, hate, benevolence, shame, remorse, and lastly, the aesthetic sense.

Now, what is the usual emotional picture presented by a well-educated and intelligent man who has "taken too much?"

We show such a one a fine painting and his blunted aesthetic sense pronounces it "rotten." A friend pities his condition and the drunken one shows remorse and shame. He swears he'll never take another drink and calls himself a fool. The next minute he invites every one to have another with him (benevolence.) Some one refuses and is abused roundly by the tipsy one (hate.) Suddenly grief succeeds and he weeps copiously. Then, noting the smiles of those surrounding him, he feels resentment, pride comes to his aid, and with his head held high and his chest thrown out, he struts about boasting of his exploits and those of his forebears. Next he becomes sympathetic, affectionate and playful and capers about poking his companions in the ribs, knocking off their hats and cracking coarse jokes. But, not finding his jokes and antics appreciated, he grows angry and wants to fight. Then, again, his mood changes and he is excessively social and calls every man his friend. He may think for the first time, even of his family, and staggers toward the door intending to go home, but, if it is night, the darkness without frightens him (fear) and he falls prostrate. Then, recovering somewhat, he half raises himself and, gazing around in great surprise, asks what happened, until, his thoughts growing still more confused, he becomes indifferent to all impressions and sprawls over an insensate hulk of what was a man.

"Alcohol," the learned physician concludes, "is thus seen to be not only an exceedingly subtle poison, but is also in its power of reversing the evolutionary process one of the most remarkable drugs known."

BATTLES and LEADERS of the CIVIL WAR

1861 – 1911

THE CONFEDERATE RAM THAT DEFIED A MIGHTY FLEET.

Stirring Story of the Famous Arkansas, Which Fought Single-Handed the War Vessels That Blockaded Vicksburg in 1862, Prior to Grant's Siege of the City, After the Mississippi Had Been Opened to the North and to the South of the City by the Union Naval Commanders.

BY CAPT. I. N. BROWN, C.S.N.,

[Copyright, 1911, by Century Company.]

N THE 28th of May, 1862, I received at Vicksburg a telegraph order from the Navy Department Richmond to "proceed to Greenwood, Miss., and assume command of the Confederate gunboat Arkansas, finish and equip that vessel without regard to expenditure of men or money." Greenwood is at the head of the Yazoo River, 160 miles by river from Yazoo City.

During the season of overflow, I found my new command four miles from dry land. Her condition was discouraging. The vessel was a mere hull, without armor; the engines were apart; guns without carriages were lying about the deck; a portion of the railroad iron intended for the armor was at the bottom of the river, and the other and far greater part was to be sought for in the interior of the country.

Taking a day to fish up the sunken iron, I had the Arkansas towed to Yazoo City, where the hills reach the river. Here, though we were within a few hours of the Union fleets, (Farragut's and Davis's, which were engaged in blockading Vicksburg,) there was the possibility of equipment.

Within Five Weeks.

Within a very short time after reaching Yazoo City we had 200 men, chiefly from the nearest detachment of the army, at work on the deck's shield and hull, while fourteen blacksmith forges were drawn from the neighboring plantations and placed on the bank to hasten the iron work. Extemporized drilling machines on the steamer Capitol worked day and night fitting the railway iron for the bolts which were to fasten it as armor. This iron was brought from many points to the nearest railroad station and thence twenty-five miles by wagons.

The trees were yet growing from which the gun-carriages had to be made—the most difficult work of all, as such vehicles had never been built in Mississippi. I made a contract with two gentlemen of Jackson to pay them their own price for the full number, ten, and in time, along with other mechanical equipment, we obtained good carriages from each contractor.

The finishing, armoring, arming, and equipment of the Arkansas within five weeks' working-time under the summer sun, from which we were unsheltered, and under the depressing thought that there was a deep river of but six hours' steaming between us and the Federal fleet, whose guns were within hearing, was an achievement not inferior under all circumstances to the renowned effort of Oliver Hazard Perry in cutting a fine fleet from the forest in ninety days.

We were not a day too soon, for the rapid fall of the river rendered it necessary for us to assume the offensive without waiting for the means to bend the railway iron to the curve of our quarter and stern, and to the angles of the pilot-house. As there was little thought of raiding the former, the weakest part, by the enemy, we tacked boilerplate over it for appearance sake, and very imperfectly covered the pilot-house shield with a double thickness of one-inch bar iron.

What the Arkansas Looked Like.

The Arkansas now appeared as if a sea-going vessel had been cut down to the water's edge at both ends, leaving a box for guns amidships. The sloping sides of the box, a foot in thickness, had over them one layer of railway iron, the ends closed by timber one foot square, planked across by six-inch strips of oak, were then covered by one course of railway iron laid up and down at an angle of thirty-five degrees. These ends deflected all missiles striking at short range, but would have been of little use under a plunging fire. This shield, flat on top, covered with plank and half-inch iron, was pierced for ten guns—three in each broadside and two forward and aft. The large smoke-stack came through the top of the shield, and the pilot-house was raised about one foot above the shield level. Through the latter led a small tin tube by which to convey orders to the pilot.

The battery was respectable for that period of the war, ten guns in all which under officers formerly of the United states service could be relied on for good work, if we could find the men to load and fire. We obtained over 100 good men from the naval vessels lately on the Mississippi, and about sixty Missourians from the command of General Jeff Thompson. These had never served at great guns, but on trial they exhibited in their new service the cool courage natural to them on land.

Drying Our Powder.

On July twelfth we took our Missourians on boar dand dropped below Satartia Bar, within five hours of the Mississippi. On the fourteenth we started from Satartia. Fifteen miles below, at the mouth of Sunflower River, we found that the steam from our imperfect engines and boiler had penetrated our forward magazine and wet our powder so as to render it unfit for use.

We were just opposite the site of an old saw-mill, where the opening in the forest, dense everywhere else, admitted the sun's rays. The day was clear and very hot; we made first to the bank, head down-stream, landed our wet powder (expecting the enemy to heave in sight every moment, spread tarpaulins over the old saw-dust and our powder over these. By constant shaking and turning, we got it back to the point of ignition before the sun sank belowe the trees when gathering it up, we crowded all that we could of it into the after-magazine and resumed our way, guns cast loose and men at quarters, expecting every mement to meet the enemy. I had some idea of their strength. General Van Dorn, commanding our forces at Vicksburg, having written to me two days before that there were then, I think he said, thirty-seven men-of-war in sight and more up the river.

We anchored near Haynes's Bluff at midnight and rested till 3 a.m., when we got up anchor for the fleet, hoping to be with it at sunrise, but before it was light we ran ashore and lost an hour in getting again afloat.

At sunrise we gained Old River—a lake caused by a "cut-off" from the Mississippi; the Yazoo enters this at the north curve, and mingling its deep waters with the wider expanse of the lake, after a union of ten miles, breaks through a narrow strip of land, to lose itself finally in the Mississippi twelve miles above Vicksburg. We were soon to find the fleet midway between these points, but hid from both by the curved and wooded eastern shore.

We Sight the Enemy.

As the sun rose clear and fiery out of the lake on our left, we saw a few miles ahead, under full steam, three Federal vessels in line approaching. These, as we afterwards discovered, were the iron-clad Carondelet, Capt. Henry Walke, the wooden gunboat Tyler, Lieut. William Gwin, and a ram, the Queen of the West, Lieut. James M. Hunter.

Directing our pilot to stand for the iron-clad, the center vessel of the three, I gave the order not to fire our bow guns, lest by doing so we should diminish our speed, relying for the moment upon our broadside guns to keep the ram and the Tyler from gaining our quarter, which they seemed eager to do. I had determined, despite our want of speed, to try the ram or iron prow upon the foe, who were gallantly approaching; but when less than half a mile separated us, the Carondelet fired a wildly aimed bow gun, backed round, and went from the Arkansas at a speed which at once perceptibly increased the space between us. The Tyler and ram followed this movement of the iron-clad, and the stern guns of the Carondelet and the Tyler were briskly served on us.

Lieuts. Grimball and Gift, with their splendid sixty-fours, were now busy at their work. I was on the shield directly over our bow guns, and could see their shot on the way to the Carondelet, and with my glasses I thought that I could see the white wood under her armor. This was satisfactory, for I knew that no vessel afloat could long stand rapid raking by eight-inch shot at such short range.

We soon began to gain on the chase, yet from time to time I had to steer first to starboard, then to port, to keep the inquisitive consorts of the Carondelet from inspecting my boiler-plate armor. This gave the nearer antagonist an advantage, but before he could improve it he would be again brought ahead. While our shot seemed always to hit his stern and disappear, his missles, striking our inclined shield, were deflected over my head and lost in air.

I Am Twice Wounded.

I received a severe contusion on the head, but this gave me no concern after I had failed to find any brains mixed with the handful of clotted blood which I drew from the wound and examined. A moment later a shot from the Tyler struck at my feet, penetrated the pilot-house, and cutting off a section of the wheel, mortally hurt Chief Pilot Hodges and disabled our Yazoo River pilot, Shacklett, who was at the moment much needed, our Mississippi pilots knowing nothing of Old River. James Brady, a Missourian of nerve and equal to the duty, took the wheel, and I ordered him to "keep the iron-clad ahead."

All was going well, with a near prospect of carrying out my first intention of using the ram, this time at a great advantage, for the stern of the Carondelet was now the objective point, and she seemed to be going slow and unsteady. Unfortunately the Tyler also slowed, so as to keep near his friend, and this brought us within easy range of his small arms. I saw with some concern, as I was the only visible target outside our shield, that they were firing by volleys. I was near the hatchway at the moment when a minie-ball, striking over my left temple, tumbled me down among the guns. I awoke as if from sleep, to find kind hands helping me to a place among the killed and wounded.

Fighting the Enemy Alongside.

I soon regained my place on the shield. I found the Carondelet still ahead, but much nearer, and both vessels entering the willows, which grew out on the bar at the inner curve of the lake. To have run into the mud, we drawing thirteen feet (the Carondelet only six,) would have ended the matter with the Arkansas. The Carondelet's position could only be accounted for by supposing her steering apparatus destroyed. The deep water was on our starboard bow, where at some distance I saw the Tyler and the ram, as if awaiting our further entanglement.

I gave the order "hard a-port and depress port guns." So near were we to the chase that this action of the helm brought us alongside, and our port broadside caused her to heel to port and then roll back so deeply as to take the water over her deck forward of the shield. Our crew, thinking her sinking, gave three hearty cheers. In swinging off we exposed our stern to the Carondelet's broadside, and Lieut. Read at the same time got a chance with his rifles. The Carondelet did not return this fire of our broadside and stern guns. Had she fired into our stern when we were so near, it would have destroyed or at least have disabled us.

We neither saw nor felt the Carondelet again, but turned toward the spiteful Tyler and the wary ram. As these were no longer a match for the Arkansas, they very properly took advantage of a speed double our own to gain the shelter of their fleet, the Tyler making good practice at us while in range with her pivot gun, and getting some attention in the same way from our bows. Under the ordinary circumstances of war we had just got through with a fair hour's work; but knowing what was ahead of us, we had to regard it in the same light as our Missouri militia did, as "a pretty smart skirmish."

On gaining the Mississippi we saw no vessels but the two we had driven before us. While following these in the direction of Vicksburg I had the opportunity of inspecting engine and fire rooms, where I found engineers and firemen had been suffering under a temperature of 120 degrees to 130 degrees. The executive officer, while attending to every other duty during the recent firing, had organized a relief party from the men at the guns, who went down into the fire-room every fifteen minutes, the others coming up or being, in many instances, hauled up, exhausted in that time. In this way, by great care steam was kept to service gauge, but in the conflict with the fleet the fire department broke down. The connection between furnaces and smoke-stack was in this second conflict shot away, destroying the draught and letting the flames come out into the shield, raising the temperature there to 120 degrees, while it had already risen to 130 degrees in the fire-room. It has been asked why the Arkansas was not used as a ram. The want of speed and of confidence in the engines answers the question. We went into action in Old River with 120 pounds of steam, and though every effort was made to keep it up, we came out with but twenty pounds, hardly enough to turn the engines.

We Sight the Great Fleet.

Aided by the current of the Mississippi, we soon approached the Federal fleet—a forest of masts and smoke-stacks—ships, rams, iron-clads and other gun-boats on the left side, and ordinary river steamers and bomb-vessels along the right. To any one having a real ram at command the genius of havoc could not have offered a finer view, the panoramic effect of which was intensified by the city of men spread out with innumerable tents opposite on the right bank.

We were not yet in sight of Vicksburg, but in every direction, except astern, our eyes rested on enemies. I had long known the most of these as valued friends, and if I now had any doubts of the success of the Arkansas they were inspired by this general knowledge rather than from any awe of a particular name. It seemed at a glance as if a whole navy had come to keep me away from the heroic city—six or seven rams, four or five iron-clads, without including one accounted for an hour ago, and the fleet of Farragut generally, behind or inside of this fleet.

The rams seemed to have been held in reserve, to come out between the intervals. Seeing this, as we neared the head of the line I said to our pilot, "Brady, shave that line of men-of-war as close as you can, so that the rams will not have room to gather head-way in coming out to strike us." In this way we ran so near to the wooden ships that each may have expected the blow which, if I could avoid it, I did not intend to deliver to any, and probably the rams running out at slow speed across the line of our advance received in the smoke and fury of the fight more damage from the guns of their own men-of-war than from those of the Arkansas.

In a Volcano of Fire.

As we neared the head of the line our bow guns, trained on the Hartford, (Admiral Farragut's flagship,) began this second fight of the morning (we were yet to have a third one before the day closed,) and within a few minutes, as the enemy was brought in range, every gun of the Arkansas was at its work. It was calm, and the smoke settling over the combatants, our men at times directed their guns at the flashes of those of their opponents.

As we advanced, the line of fire seemed to grow into a circle constantly closing. The shock of missiles striking our sides was literally continuous, and as we were now surrounded, without room for anything but pushing ahead, and shrapnel shot were coming on our shield deck, twelve pounds at a time, I went below to see how our Missouri backwoodsmen were handling their 100-pounder Columbiads. At this moment I had the most lively realization of having steamed into a real volcano, the Arkansas from its center firing rapidly to every point of the circumference without the fear of hitting a friend or missing an enemy.

I got below in time to see Lieuts. Read and Scales with their rifled guns blow off the feeble attack of a ram on our stern. Another ram was across our way ahead. As I gave the order, "Go through him, Brady!" his steam went into the air, and his crew into the river. A shot from one of our bow guns had gone through his boiler and saved the collision. We passed by and through the brave fellows struggling in the water under a shower of missiles intended for us.

It was a little hot this morning all around; the enemy's shot frequently found weak places in our armor, and their shrapnel and minie-balls also came through our port holes. Still, under a temperature of 120 deg., our people kept to their work, and as each one, acting under the steady eye of Lieut. Stevens, the executive officer, seemed to think the result depended on himself, I sought a cooler atmosphere on the shield, to find, close ahead and across our way, a large iron-clad displaying the square flag of an admiral. Though we had but little headway, his beam was exposed, and I ordered the pilot to strike him amidships. He avoided this by steaming ahead, and, passing under his stern nearly touching, we gave him our starboard broadside, which probably went through him from rudder to prow. This was our last shot, and we received none in return.

We Tie Up Before Vicksburg.

We were now at the end of what had seemed the interminable line, and also past the outer rim of the volcano. We were not yet in sight of Vicksburg, but if any of the fleet followed us farther on our way I did not perceive it.

The Arkansas continued toward Vicksburg without further trouble. When within sight of the city we saw another fleet prep-ring to receive us or recede from us, below. With our firemen exhausted, our smokestack cut to pieces, and a section of our plating torn from the side, we were not in condition just then to begin a third battle; moreover humanity required the landing of our wounded—terribly torn by cannon shot—and of our dead. We were received at Vicksburg with enthusiastic cheers. Immediate measures were taken to repair damages and to recruit our crew, diminished to one-half their original number by casualties, and by the expiration of service of those who had volunteered only for the trip to Vicksburg.

We had left the Yazoo River with a short supply of fuel, and after our first landing opposite the City Hall we soon dropped down to the coal depot, where we began coaling and repairing, under the fire of the lower fleet, to which, under the circumstances, we could make no reply. Most of the enemy's shot fell short, but Renshaw, in the Westfield, made very fine practice with his 100-pounder rifle gun, occasionally throwing the spray from his shot over our working party, but with the benefit of sprinkling down the coal dust.

Getting in our coal, we moved out of range of such sharp practice, where, under less excitement, we hastened such temporary repairs as would enable us to continue the offensive. We had intended trying the lower fleet that evening, but before our repairs could be completed and our crew reinforced by suitable selections from the army, the hours of night were approaching, under the shadows of which (however favorable for running batteries) no brave man cares from choice to fight.

Our Third Battle of the Day.

About sunset of the same day, a number of our antagonists of the morning, including the flagship Hartford and the equally formidable Richmond, were seen under full steam coming down the river. Unfit as we were for the offensive, I told Stevens to get under way and run out into the midst of the coming fleet.

Before this order could be executed one vessel of the fleet sent a 160-pound wrought-iron bolt through our armor and engine-room, disabling the engine and killing, among others, Pilot Gilmore, and knocking overboard the heroic Brady, who had steered the Arkansas through our morning's work. This single shot caused also a very serious leak, destroyed all the contents of the dispensary, and, passing through the opposite bulwarks, lodged between the wood work and the armor.

Lieut. Stevens promptly detailed a party to aid the carpenter in stopping the leak, while our bow and port-broadside guns were rapidly served on the passing vessels. So close were these to our guns that we could hear our shot crashing through their sides, and the groans of their wounded; and, incredible as it now seems, these sounds were heard with a fierce delight by the Arkansas's people.

Why no attempt was made to ram our vessel, I do not know. Our position invited it, and our rapid firing made that position conspicuous; but as by this time it was growing dark, and the Arkansas close inshore, they may have mistaken us for a water-battery. We had greatly the advantage in pointing our guns, the enemy passing in line ahead, and being distinctly visible as each one for the time shut out our view of the horizon.

And now this busy day, the 15th of July, 1862, was closed with the sad duty of sending ashore a second party of killed and wounded, and the rest which our exhaustion rendered necessary was taken for the night under a dropping fire of the enemy's thirteen-inch shells.

In three days we were again in condition to move and to menace at our will either fleet, thus compelling the enemy's entire force, in the terrible July heat, to keep up steam day and night. We constantly threatened the offensive, and our raising steam, which they could perceive by our smoke-stack, was the signal for either fleet to fire up. As the temperature at that season was from 90 degrees to 100 degrees in the shade, it was clear that unless the Arkansas could be "destroyed" the siege, if for sanitary reasons alone, must soon be raised.

Our Brush With the Essex.

The timely coming of the iron-clad Essex, fresh from the docks, and with a new crew, enabled the Union commander to attack us without risk to his regular or original blockading force. They could not have taken us at a more unprepared moment. Some of our officers and all but twenty-eight of our crew were in hospitals, ashore, and we lay helplessly at anchor, with a disabled engine. The following morning at sunrise the Essex, Commodore William D. Porter, with the Queen of the West, no doubt the best ram of the Union flock, ran down under full steam, regardless of the fire of our upper shore-batteries, and made the expected attack. We were at anchor and with only enough men to fight two of our guns; but by the zeal of our officers, who mixed in with these men as part of the guns' crews, we were able to train at the right moment and fire all the guns which could be brought to bear upon our cautiously coming assailants.

With a view perhaps to avoid our bow guns, the Essex made the mistake, so far as her success was concerned, of running into us across the current instead of coming head-on with its force. At the moment of collision, when our guns were muzzle to muzzle, the Arkansas's broadside was exchanged for the bow guns of the assailant. A shot from one of the latter struck the Arkansas's plating a foot forward of the forward broadside port, breaking off the ends of the railroad bars, and driving them in among our people. The solid shot followed, crossing diagonally our gun-deck, and split on the breech of our starboard, after-broadside gun. This shot killed eight and wounded six of our men, but left us still half our crew.

What damage the Essex received I did not ascertain, but that vessel drifted clear of the Arkansas without again firing, and after receiving the fire of our stern rifles, steamed in the face and under the fire of the Vicksburg batteries to the fleet below. Had Porter at the moment of the collision thrown fifty men on our upper deck, he might have made fast to us with a hawser, and with little additional loss might have taken the Arkansas and her twenty men and officers.

We were given time by the approaching ram to reload our guns, and this second assailant, coming also across instead of with the current, "butted" us so gently that we hardly felt the shock. The force of his blow was tempered to us no doubt by the effect of our three broadside guns, which were fired into him when he was less than fifty feet distant. Apparently blinded by such a blow in the face, he drifted astern and ran ashore under the muzzles of Lieut. Read's rifles, the bolts from which were probably lost in the immense quantity of hay in bales which seemed stowed over and around him.

Getting clear of the bank, the ram wore round without again attempting to strike the Arkansas, and steamed at great speed up the river, receiving in passing a second broadside from our port battery, and in the excitement of getting away neglecting the caution of his advance, he brought himself within range of our deadly bow guns, from which Grimball and Gift sent solid shot that seemed to pass through him from stem to stern. As he ran out of range he was taken in tow and was run up into the Davis fleet.

The Ram's Gallant Twenty.

Thus closed the fourth and final battle of the Arkansas, leaving the daring Confederate vessel, though reduced in crew to twenty men all told for duty, still defiant in the presence of a hostile force perhaps exceeding in real strength that which fought under Nelson at Trafalgar.

The conduct of our men and officers was on this occasion, as on every former trial, worthy of the American name. Moving quickly in a squad, from gun to gun, reloading and running out each one separately, and then dividing into parties sufficient to train and fire, they were as determined and cheerful as they could have been with a full crew on board. The closeness of this contest with the Essex may be inferred from the circumstance that several of our surviving men had their faces blackened and were painfully hurt by the unburnt powder which came through our port-holes from the assailant's guns.

It was perhaps as much a matter of coal as of cannon, of health as of hostility, that the Union commanders had now to decide upon. If the Arkansas could not be destroyed, the river siege must be raised, for the fifty ships, more or less, could not keep perpetual steam to confine one little ten-gun vessel within her conceded control of six miles of the Mississippi River. It was indeed, a dilemma, and doubtless the less difficult horn of it was chosen. Soon after our contribution to the Essex's laurels and between sunset and sunrise, the lower fleet started for the recuperative atmosphere of salt-water, and about the same time the upper fleet—rams, bombs, and ironclads—steamed for the North. Thus was dissipated for the season the greatest naval force hitherto assembled at one time in the New World.

Vicksburg Free of the Enemy.

Vicksburg was now without a suspicion of an immediate enemy. I had taken, with my brave associates, for the last sixty days, my share of labor and watchfulness, and I now left them for four days, only, as I supposed, to sustain without me the lassitude of inaction. Important repairs were yet necessary to the ram's engines, and much of the iron plating had to be refastened to her shattered sides.

This being fairly under way, I called, Thursday afternoon, upon Gen. Van Dorn, commanding the forces, and told him that, having obtained telegraphic permission from the Navy Department to turn the command of the vessel temporarily to the officer next in rank, First Lieutenant Stevens, I would go to Grenada, Miss., and that I would return on the following Tuesday morning, by which time the Arkansas, I hoped, would be ready once more to resume the offensive.

Almost immediately on reaching Grenada, I was taken violently ill, and while in bed, unable, as I supposed, to rise, I received a dispatch from Lieut. Stevens saying that Van Dorn required him to steam at once down to Baton Rouge to aid in a land attack of our forces upon the Union garrison holding that place. I replied to this with a positive order to remain at Vicksburg until I could join him; and without delay caused myself to be taken to the railroad station, where I threw myself on the mail bags of the first passing train, unable to sit up, and did not change my position until reaching Jackson, 130 miles distant.

On applying there for a special train to take me to Vicksburg, I learned that the Arkansas had been gone from that place four hours. Van Dorn had been persistent beyond all reason in his demand, and Stevens, undecided, had referred the question to a senior officer of the Confederate navy, who was at Jackson, Miss., with horses and carriages, furnished by the government, in place of a flagship, thus commanding in chief for the Confederacy on the Mississippi, sixty miles from its nearest waters. This officer, ignorant of the conditions of the Arkansas, ordered Stevens to obey Van Dorn without any regard to my orders to the contrary.

The Fate of the Arkansas.

Under the double orders of two commanders-in-chief to be at Baton Rouge at a certain date and hour, Stevens could not use that tender care which his engines required, and before they completed their desperate run of 300 miles against time, the starboard one suddenly broke down, throwing the vessel inextricably ashore. This misfortune, for which there was no present remedy, happened when the vessel was within sight of Baton Rouge.

Very soon after, the Essex was seen approaching under full steam. Stevens, as humane as he was true and brave, finding that he could not bring a single gun to bear upon the coming foe, sent all his people over the bows ashore, remaining alone to set fire to his vessel. This he did so effectually that he had to jump from the stern into the river and save himself by swimming, and with colors flying, the gallant Arkansas, whose decks had never been pressed by the foot of an enemy, was blown into the air.

SOME FISHERMEN.

Thomas Rhodes, a veteran fisherman of Narragansett, R. I., while overhauling two of his boats in the bay, found a cigar box in one of his lobster pots. Rhodes opened the box and found in it a well-soaked $1 bill.

Dr. A. T. Sanders of New York City, while fishing at Lobster Lake, near Lewiston, Me., hooked and hauled up a valuable gold watch and at the same time his guide hauled up a fine shawl, both the property of a woman who had lost them in the lake the day before.

With the death of Capt. Courtland Clark at Jordon, Ct., the last of the famous Jordan Cove fleet of fishing captains passes away. He was the best-known of the Jordan Cove seafaring men. Ninety years old, he never smoked tobacco nor drank alcoholic liquors.

It is reported from Highland Lake, Ct., that while Ephraim Carmel, a hotel proprietor of that place, was fishing from a boathouse which stands on stilts over the lake, something grasped the fishing pole and tugged so strongly that Ephraim was obliged to grasp the door casing to keep from falling into the water. In the tug of war which then ensued the boathouse was dragged off the foundation and one end dropped four feet into the lake. Ephraim, however, finally had to let the pole go.

Joseph C. Lincoln is back again on Cape Cod at Harwichport, which is within a few miles of Brewster, where he was born. Mr. Lincoln is an enthusiastic deep-sea fisherman and spends much of his time upon the water. Brewster, Harwichport and Chatham are the models of the Cape Cod villagers which he had made famous in his books under the names of Trumit and Oreham.

Don't Meddle With a Corn

Don't pare them. That doesn't help for long. And paring too deep has caused blood poisoning a good many thousand times.

Don't merely protect them. Don't doctor and nurse them. Cover a corn with a Blue-jay plaster, and the pain is ended. In two days the corn comes out. In the meantime you forget it.

Five million corns per year are removed in this cheap, simple way. It never fails. No harm, no pain, no discomfort. Why don't you take advantage of this wonderful invention? Go get a package now. Get rid of corns.

A in the picture is the soft B & B wax. It loosens the corn.
B protects the corn, stopping the pain at once.
C wraps around the toe. It is narrowed to be comfortable.
D is rubber adhesive to fasten the plaster on.

Backache

Is only one of many symptoms which some women endure through weakness or displacement of the womanly organs. Mrs. Lizzie White of Memphis, Tenn., wrote Dr. R. V. Pierce, as follows:

"At times I was hardly able to be on my feet. I believe I had every pain and ache a woman could have. Had a very bad case. Internal organs were very much diseased and my back was very weak. I suffered a great deal with nervous headaches, in fact, I suffered all over. This was my condition when I wrote to you for advice. After taking your 'Favorite Prescription' for about three months can say that my health was never better."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. Tones and builds up the nerves. Do not permit a dishonest dealer to substitute for this medicine which has a record of 40 years of cures. "No, thank you, I want what I ask for."

THE GREAT ASSIZE;

BY REV. DR. NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS.

LAST Sunday morning the Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis preached in Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, on "The Great Assize and the Distribution of Honors and Rewards by the President of the Immortals." The text was from Matthew xxv:34: "And the King shall sit upon His throne, and then shall He say unto the righteous, Come, ye blessed of my Father; inherit the kingdom prepared for you." Dr. Hillis said:

The French people have a society called the Immortals. Thirty millions of people are sifted to get three or four thousand men of genius, and then these three thousand are sifted for the one hundred Immortals. At the close of the exhibition every year honors and prizes are distributed in recognition of any who have achieved distinction in art. On July 1 the Immortals were assembled upon a platform, in the presence of a thousand people who were interested in the triumphs of French artists. The painters were there, headed by Harpigny, and the sculptors, led by Rodin. Men of literary distinction were there, headed by Anatole France and Edmond Rostand, and there also was the president of the republic and his representatives. The grand prize was conferred upon one painter for the greatest canvas of the year. Honors were distributed in recognition of the greatest portrait and the greatest landscape; while one youth received a fellowship that enabled him to study in Rome for three years, at the expense of the French people. As the name of one favorite after another was called off the admirer of this leader or that one burst into rapturous applause, and not infrequently the exercises were interrupted by the rushing forward of a score of friends to congratulate the victor of fame.

Among other onlookers was a little woman in black, and her son. The boy had nothing to indicate that he expected recognition, and when his name was called out he walked quickly down the aisle. As he began to ascend the steps to receive his medal the applause began. The artist who addressed him told the boy that his talent was a gift of God and his father's, that his gift must be nurtured and held in trust, and that with hard work he might become the almoner of bounty to the entire people, and that the medal was given, partly as an act of approval of what he had done, and partly as a prophecy of what they expected him to achieve; then, amidst the applause of the multitude, he returned to his seat. His mother was a widow, who wore black for her dead husband. During the address to her boy she sat with her eyes looking steadily into space toward the ceiling. The lines of her little black dress were provincial lines, and she showed she was a stranger in Paris. She was a poor working woman. The hands that held the umbrella were large, and the skin was cracked and seamed. The boy took her hands, pressed them apart, slipped the gold medal between, stooped down and kissed the broken hands, and suddenly sat upright again. The little widow never changed the angle of her head. What did she see? The heavens open, and the boy's father standing by the throne of God? Did he know that his ambitions were fulfilled in his son? Did this hour add rapture even to the joys of heaven? The father's hand sowed and the son reaped the harvest. Suddenly these two, the boy and the mother, who seemed alien to the brilliant assembly, slipped away and disappeared in the crowd, but they left this theme, "The Great Assize as Recognition Day for the Righteous, and the Distribution of Honors and Rewards by the President of the Immortals?"

THE GOLDEN SHEAVES.

Here and now the horizon is only nine miles away, while from above descend the clouds that veil the earth. The new air cars do indeed lift up an occasional man, making it possible for him to look down from the heights, and trace the rivers and the railways, like shining spider webs, spun out over the land in threads of silver, with towns and cities for sparkling deeds. But in that last great day every man shall be lifted up so that he can look down upon the map of his own activity, and trace the lines of influence as they move in blessing over his fellow men. In that hour, what reversals of judgment! When names that are swollen today shall burst like iridescent bubbles, and leave not a wreck behind! And while the names that are so obscure as to seem strange, shall expand until they fill the horizon with the brilliancy and stability of the sun itself. Strange that a whole generation can go after men whose work is ephemeral! Passing strange, that public opinion, even in an intelligent age, can applaud to the echo leaders who load themselves down with thick clay! When men acclaim the sycophant and deceiver, and exalt the strong who have spoiled an entire generation, passing by those who have really changed the very world for better in which they live.

A Forgotten Hero.

A contrast torn from history will illustrate the thought. If you will read the history of election of the votes for Vice-President in 1789, you will find that certain politicians' names are very prominent in the voting, being second only to Washington himself. These politicians were cheered in Wall Street when Washington took the oath of office. Historians have tried in vain, until recently, to find out who they were and what they did, only to discover that one had a pull in municipal politics in New York, and was the feted, honored guest at banquets with Washington and Adams. But while this sandfly of a day's fame was sipping honeyed sweets out of punch bowls, in Presidential levees, look at John Fitch over in Philadelphia. He

UNRECOGNIZED HEROES.

Now Jesus affirms that there is a meeting place for the dead, so that evil men who escape penalties here and heroes who have no recognition in life shall receive the just recompense for their deers, beyond the grave. Some men's labors go before them to their reward, while other men's deeds follow after. So mistaken is society in its distribution of honors that when a hundred years have passed away, if corrections were made we would chip away half the wreaths from the busts of men whom yesterday enthroned, and we would have to find niches for others who were buried almost in paupers' graves. The modern historian either ignores or speaks with scorn of soldiers and kings who were carried to the tomb out of palaces, and were buried with the adulation of the multitude. On the other hand, society has always stoned its prophets through the streets, hooted its philosophers out of life, tortured its apostles in halls that were dedicated to justice, and slain its martyrs at the feet of its pictured gods. It is a commonplace remark to say that Pontius Pilate went home midst cheers to his palace, while Jesus turned toward His cross; that the judges of Athens drank wine and nectar, having mixed poison for their noblest teacher in Athens; that Nero sat down to his banquet, having sent Paul to the executioner's ax; while from Huss and Savonarola to yesterday's dispatch of the medical missionaries and teachers, clubbed to death in the South Sea Islands, the tale is one of generations whose eyes were blinded that they do not see the loftiest souls, and whose ears were heavy that they should not hear the overtures from heaven itself. There are many arguments for the life immortal, but none weightier than the moral argument. The argument of waste is against the extinction of great minds. That the poet, the statesman and the hero with the ripened intellect, the matured judgment, the winged imagination and the conscience divine should be snuffed out like an extinguished star or sun is to charge folly on the creator, himself. But for serious minds that argument is light as punk over against the moral argument, that Nero lived in a palace and destroyed men, while Paul was the martyred savior of society and dwelt in a dungeon. Men feel that in a moral universe these wrongs must be righted, and that the day of retribution for Nero must come, and the day of reward to Paul. Jesus affirms that all events are marching toward the great assize, when the King shall sit upon His throne, and call before Him all men, that the secrets of all hearts may be exposed, and that those who have lived and died for justice and right may have their recognition and reward.

LIFE THAT NOW IS.

Another assumption upon which Christ's statement of the Great Assize proceeds grows out of the fact that pleasure-seeking and selfish men have their reward here and now, and need no recognition beyond. The fairness of the world in which we live is self-evident. It is a long scale that stretches between the selfish man at the bottom and the self-sacrificing martyr at the top. But touch any string between, and nature will give back that vibration which she received. Every man has the reward of his deeds and being. It used to be said that sin yielded a lying pleasure instead of a real one, but this is as silly as it is false to nature and experience. The man who turns his body into a harp of the senses, and lives for the banqueting table, has his reward. The sensual man finds the Madeira clusters delicious to the palate, as are the cooled wines of Italian hillsides. The fop finds that soft colors are grateful to the eye, and loves to hear the rustle of rich robes. He who lives for equipage and show is rewarded by the buzz and flattery of the admiring multitude. The politician who organizes graft and corruption in city government, and as an ex-saloonkeeper carries away millions, that hire castles and buy villas in foreign lands has his reward in the applause of men whose habits are on a level with his own. Nature is quite fair to men. She has no prejudices. The miser is rewarded by the clink of coin sliding through his fingers. To be sure, it is not the same kind of reward that comes to him who hears the gold slipping out of his fingers into the thin hand of a poor woman toiling for orphan children. But still, the swollen miser has his reward as he goes in his old age pattering down the hillside of death to take his plunge into the abyss, never dreaming that the gold in his pocket will take him down like lead, and never leave a single bubble to rise to the top of the black waters. But, nature is so fair that she allows a miser to have a good time while he is going down the hill. All these who are journeying toward the rubbish heap of creation to drop into nothingness have their sensual reward through the life of the physical senses. Commonplace souls have what they earn—commonplace rewards. Those, therefore, who have harvested the very crop of joy that we sowed in the life that now is, have no reason for expecting any harvest of reward and recognition, and in the far-off future, when we have sowed only four ourselves in the present. There is to be a meeting place of the noble dead, of the heroic and self-sacrificing dead. Parents, patriots and teachers, who sow in tears today, in joy the far-off tomorrow shall come in, bringing their sheaves with them.

invented the steamship, and first drove a boat up and down the Susquehanna. Through Benjamin Franklin, who induced Congress to adjourn and inspect his little craft, and made possible Robert Fulton, the Olympic and every modern sea palace. But Congress gave him no financial assistance, legislators declined to help. Paris and France laughed at him as a lunatic, but poor Johnny Fitch struggled on. Every year his face grew sharper, and thinner; every week his clothes grew more threadbare, and finally every day made his step more infirm, until the night came when he wrought self-destruction after being jeered at by the worthless creatures of an alehouse. That Congress should have built him a palace as a house, Legislatures should have fed him on ambrosia, and given him the wine of the gods to drink; society should have carried him as a triumphal hero into cities; and even today it is an open question whether John Fitch, that ragamuffin, pleading for an invention in Congress, or George Washington, putting the vote to adjourn the Congress to see Fitch's little ship, has done the more for the 90,000,000 of people in the republic. A Scotch minister invented the reaper, about 1820, and died in poverty, as did an American minister who invented the typewriter. For the inventions of poor starving ministers make up the most tragic and thrilling chapter in the history of mechanical devices. For as in Christ's time, one man sows and another man reaps; one man labors and another enters into the fruit of his labors. One man fights and wins the victory, and another runs away with the Victoria cross. The most amazing spectacle in the world is that of leaders strutting about with stolen wreaths on their brows. The cowards, who ran away from a battlefield, and when the danger was past, sneaked back and plucked a medal of honor from the lapel of a hero slain in battle, and henceforth wore another's honors, make up a spectacle for gods and men. The distribution of honors in modern society would seem to argue that the medals of scarred heroes and martyred Presidents and statesmen have been put up at public auction for sale to Midas' sons. In Nature, the November wind strips the leaves away, to reveal the strength of the tree, and the stars that are seen above the branches. And in the Great Assize, all lies and tricks shall be stripped away, and we shall behold men as they are, and not as they seem.

But who are these in bright array—this elect group of immortals, gathered about the throne of God? They are those who have translated eternal principles into terms of time. These are they who have lived for the future and for others, instead of for today and themselves. Now what is it to live for a principle? Let mother nature interpret for us. Out in the field stands the husbandman with a little seed. All about are hundreds of tons of black soil and the tons are large, and the little seed is small. But the seed is alive and vital, and the vital inner force takes up the soil and the sap and the sunshine and reorganizes them, into a great charter oak, in which the birds of the air have their nests, and the beasts of the field find shelter. It is the same soil, and the same sun and sap, only that little seed rearranged the hundreds of tons of soil by a vital principle. Not otherwise some man named Martin Luther in Germany, or John Robinson in Delfthaven, or Winthrop at Plymoth Rock, takes a living principle and reorganizes husbandry, invention, finance, government, religion about at vital center. The centuries come and go, but that principle rearranges all American life. Finally you have not a king-ridden people, but a self-governing people governing their own industries, governing their own thought and speech and reading, ruling their own happiness, character and life. It is this vital principle, keeping a man in touch with God, that lends sanctity to his days, that lends greatness to his deeds. Bacon discovered the inductive philosophy, and used experiment. Wendell Phillips used to say that if Bacon could return to earth, he would stand beside the reaper and say, "That is my tool—I gave you the method." He would stand beside the ship and say, "That is my steamer—I showed you how. That is my telegraph, my cable, and my loom." But in a larger and more divine sense, if we listen we can hear the footsteps in the marketplace, of one whose name is above every name, who has the right to lay His hand upon every law and liberty, every reform and philanthropy, toward the slave and the outcast, while He whispers, "That is my Golden rule, that is my royal law of love, inasmuch as He did it unto one of the least of these my little ones ye did it unto me."

THAT RED AUTO.

BY EFFIE STEVENS.

The first time the red automobile passed the house Margaret Holden remembered with amusement the incoherent tale which Aunt Sophia had brought home with her from her outing the day before, of an up-to-date chicken thief who was boldly flitting about the town at night, raiding various roosts and carrying off their feathered occupants; but when, during the course of the same afternoon, the brilliant machine had whizzed down the street no less than four times she began to feel slightly nervous.

"I'm glad Aunt Sophia hasn't noticed it," she thought uneasily. Aunt Sophia owned a flock of fancy fowls which was the appleof her eye, and she had already been considerably upset by the story of the illusive chicken thief, so Margaret resolved to say nothing about having seen the red automobile.

But when Aunt Sophia went to bed at 7 o'clock with a sick headache and Margaret was left to her own devices the memory of that red automobile rose up and haunted her.

In vain she told herself that its business had probably been an entirely legitimate one; that it had a right to pass the house as many times as its chauffeur wished; that a black machine or a gray machine might have passed a dozen times and she would not have noticed it.

It might not even be the same auto which she had seen pass the house four times, since she had been unable to make out the number. To be sure, there had been only one person in it each time, but that was the chauffeur, and disguised as he was by the customary auto togs, she could not be certain that he was the same chauffeur.

Margaret shivered a little as she thought what a splendid disguise the goggles and cap and coat would make for a chicken thief or even a burglar. The black mask of the old-time highwayman was insignificant beside them.

"I don't see why this had to be Bridget's evening out," she thought dolefully. "I do wish somebody would come in. Why, I'd be glad to see even Freddie Lebar and listen to a twenty-first proposal."

She smiled at herself for she had left home because she was weary of that young man's persistent proposals, and was half afraid, too, since she recognized the fact that the constant falling of water will eventually wear away a rock, and Freddie was—well, Freddie, the best fellow on earth, if only he did not aspire to be her husband.

Margaret tried to read; then she walked about the living-room restlessly. Finally she turned out the lights and sat down beside a front window which commanded a good view of the street. She was not in utter darkness, however, for an electric street lamp just below the house filled the room with a soft, dim light.

"I might as well watch as I seem unable to do anything else," Margaret thought.

The dim light and the stillness of the place had a soothing effect upon her, and she dropped into a slight doze in spite of herself.

How long she slept she never knew, but she suddenly awoke to find herself sitting bolt upright in her chair, every nerve alert for the repetition of some sound which must have aroused her.

"Guess I must have been dreaming," she thought dazedly. Then a muffled, throbbing sound reached her ears. At first she could make out nothing. Then slowly, very slowly, a dark object came into view, an object with a brilliantly gleaming headlight.

Margaret peered out of the window as if fascinated, unable to move or think for the moment.

Slowly the moving object passed into the circle of radiance from the electric street lamp, and she felt her heart give a quick bound, as she made out the red color of the automobile. Ever more slowly it advanced until it was abreast of the house—then it stopped. Its solitary occupant alighted, and stood examining the house intently, as if not quite satisfied that it was the place he sought.

"Oh, what shall I do?" Margaret asked herself wildly. "It's the chicken thief, I'm certain of it. Aunt Sophia will never forgive me if I let him carry off her prize winners. Should I call her, I wonder? No, she is so timid, she would be perfectly useless. Whatever is done I must do alone."

At last the fellow seemed to make up his mind that he had made no mistake, and struck across the lawn toward the small building, formerly a carriage house, in which Aunt Sophia kept her pets, an ordinary hen house being considered by her not good enough for them.

Margaret realized that if anything was done it must be done quickly. It would not take the man long to open one of the windows.

Her first thought was to telephone for the police. Then she saw the futility of that move. Come as quickly as it was possible for mortals to come, the fellow would have ample time to disappear, red auto, chickens and all, before they arrived.

There was a streak of fighting blood in Margaret's veins, and it came to the surface now, nearly obliterating her natural feminine nervousness.

She looked about her for some weapon of defense—she could not go upon the fellow empty-handed—but the dim light revealed nothing that would answer her purpose.

Suddenly she remembered her Uncle Warren's shotgun which for years had hung upon the dining-room wall.

"It's just the thing," she thought. "I don't suppose it's loaded, but the chicken thief won't know that."

Having softly unlocked the back door, Margaret took the gun from its rack and tip-toed silently out of the house and toward the chicken house.

She was just in the nick of time, for the intruder had raised a window and was in the act of stepping through the opening, or so Margaret thought.

"Stop, or I'll shoot," she cried, as she rushed forward. But in her excitement she failed to notice an empty box which was in her path. Over it she tripped. The gun flew out of her hands, and she fell in a frightened, almost insensible heap to the ground.

The next moment she was being supported by a strong masculine arm.

"Did the gun go off?" she gasped, struggling to a sitting posture as a full remembrance of the circumstances rushed in upon her dazed faculties, and she realized that this man must be no less a person than the chicken thief.

Then she heard Freddie Lebar's kindly voice saying gravely: "It is lucky for you, Margaret, that the gun wasn't prepared for business."

"Freddie!" she gasped, sinking back into the shelter of the protecting arm again. After all she felt more dizzy than she had realized. "I'm so glad it's you."

Freddie was glad, too, and he let it be known in a way Margaret could not misunderstand if she had wanted to.

"How did you come here, and how did you know it was I, and did the chicken thief get away?" she finally asked all in a breath.

"Your voice gave you away when you threatened to shoot," Freddie chuckled happily, for, although he had not proposed again, he knew there was now no need of his doing so. "Of course, I knew you were visiting your aunt and I intended looking you up in the morning anyway. Your mother told me where you were. But I guess I'm the only chicken thief that's been here tonight, though I didn't know about there being any chickens till a moment ago. I suppose you have been hearing about that chicken thief with the red auto, but he's been caught.

"You see, I came down today to see Jack Trently safely married. I found his chauffeur had cleared out, and as there were no end of things to be seen to I volunteered to drive the machine for him. I've been making the old car hum all day. I'd just taken the happy couple to the railway station, and was bringing the car back to Jack's father's place when, not being familiar with the streets, I must have got pretty well mixed up. I went as slowly as I could, watching for possible familiar landmarks, and when I got here I thought I'd reached the place. These old-fashioned houses do seem all to have been built from one plan. As everything was in darkness, I thought I wouldn't disturb any one, but would go and open up the garage before I drove the car in. I found the door locked, but I tackled the window. I'd found, though, that I'd made a thrilling mistake just as you appeared on the scene."

"I'm so glad you weren't the chicken thief," Margaret sighed contentedly.

BITS OF VERSE.

My Morning.

My golden morning! Glad will I stay for you,
Wait till you come and my heart understands,
Touching my eyes that are dim while
I pray for you.
Into the light with your beautiful hands,
And all my wonder shall be believing,
And all my vigil shall be fulfilled,
Sorrow and waiting and love's bereaving
With the light of my morning stayed and stilled.

O, my morning, so filled with splendor,
Dawn of my midnights lashed with fire,
Peace of my dreams that my life shall render,
Hushed with the vision of life's desire.
How in the faithless should quicken your beaming?
They shall all pass and their voices
be dumb,
And their eyes shall be blind who have turned from their dreaming.
But lo! I shall know that my morning has come.

My golden morning, my far, far morning!
Years have gone over, still you will shine,
Winter and rain come apace with their warning,
Bloom and the summer are sweet on the vine,
Ever they meet you, my hope and my yearning,
Steadfast, out of the silences past,
Ever abiding, my faith that is burning—
Your glory shall find me and fold me at last.

The Dead.

Who are the dead?
Are they the souls, who, questing, forth have fared
Through the loose doors of their frail tenements?
Who tarried not for staff, nor wine,
nor bread?
Who in the stress of night their bosoms
bared,
Despite our bitter tears, our fond laments?
Are they the dead?

Who are the dead?
Are they the souls who, from their larger view,
Regard with quiet eyes our foolish ways?
Marvel that we should seek to stay, instead
Of speeding them to their environs new?
And smile to see the sepulchers we raise?
Are they the dead?
Who are the dead?

Say rather, are we not life,
Bound by our sickly worn creeds
That strangely who are led Apart from love, by strife,
Stifled, enslaved,
Are not we dead?
—[Adelaide Guthrie,

Why We Mark Our Goods In Plain Figures

WE have frequently called attention to the fact that all our goods are marked in plain figures. Just how much and what that means to the purchaser of furniture, carpets and draperies, we shall try to explain.

Webster defines the word "plain" as being honest, candid, guileless, without ambiguity. Therefore, it seems to us that the marking of a piece of furniture with PLAIN figures would require the simple stating of a real concrete fact in easily-read and unmistakable symbols. This looks simple, and is simple—so simple, in fact, that very few stores can reconcile it to their methods of doing business.

When you enter this store you will find that the price marked on any piece of furniture here is an honest price—plain, candid, guileless, without ambiguity—is our lowest and only price, not subject to discounts or commissions of any kind. The article (or articles) will be delivered to your home promptly and in good order for THAT price, with our absolute guarantee of satisfaction, which means that the sale is not complete until YOU say so.

Perhaps it is not necessary for us to say that this method of marking goods was adopted by this store years ago—from the day we first opened our doors. Our one price—which also means low price—policy has proven thoroughly satisfactory to many thousands of customers.

Claremont.

THE most important society event of the past week was the wedding on Monday evening, at the home of Mrs. C. M. Parsons of her daughter, Mary Cornelia, to Robert Granville Spurgeon of Long Beach. Dr. Henry Kingman performed the ceremony, which took place in the spacious living room before the fireplace, which was a bower of stately yellow chrysanthemums, and feathery asparagus plumosus fern. Decorations of ferns and yellow shaded lights added to the effect, while in the adjoining rooms Pink Maman Cochet roses were used. The bride, who was gowned in white crepe mentor with rose point lace and pearl ornaments, carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley, with maidenhair fern. She wore a spray of orange blossoms in her hair. The maid of honor, Miss Jessamine Reed, of Portland, Or., wore white marquisette over yellow messaline and carried a large bouquet of yellow roses. The best man was Clyde C. Whitney of Santa Ana. A collation was served, following the ceremony in the court, which had been inclosed and decorated with trailing vines. Later in a shower of rose petals, Mr. and Mrs. Spurgeon left by automobile for Long Beach, where they will make their home.

Mrs. Samuel Earle Blakeslee was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Ida Blakeslee, on Monday on her way to Norwood, Colo., to join her husband, who was formerly one of the faculty of Pomona College School of Music. Riverside.

THE MISSION INN is most romantic having cloister niches and Spanish balconies, and with its soft mission chimes and cathedral organ, makes a setting which attracts the newly wed. Among the most prominent of these the past week were Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Weir of Los Angeles. Nowhere could one find such romantic surroundings unless by crossing the ocean and going to the old Alhambra or old Spanish castles. In the music room is an old gothic dower-chest about 300 years old. Little did the demure maid away back there so long ago, dream as she stitched her "long white seam," that her dower chest would one day add interest to a wayside inn away off on the western edge of what was then an unknown world. The master of the inn, F. A. Miller, who is now in Europe, is making great acquisitions in old Spanish wood carved doors and wainscoting, having made the entire purchase from one large convent.

Among the prominent eastern families who are seeking relaxation in California are Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Daly of Cleveland.

Now that the cool weather has come, the run from Los Angeles is greatly enjoyed by automobilists. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks of Pasadena, accompanied by their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Clifford, were here during the week.

Mrs. F. K. Rule, Miss Helen Macleish and D. Ray Rule came down by automobile from Los Angeles on Saturday and lunched at the Glenwood. Later in the day they returned to the city accompanied by Simeon Baldwin of Riverside. His marriage to Miss Macleish on the 28th will be one of the interesting affairs of Los Angeles this autumn. Mr. Baldwin is connected with the Southern California Gas Company of this city.

Norman Lawler and wife, were among the week's visitors to Riverside. They were on their way to Mexico, where Mr. Lawler is manager of Senator Clark's ranch in Mexico. He is a brother of Oscar Lawler of Los Angeles.

Inglewood.

THE REGULAR meeting of the Dickens Literary Club was held this week at the home of Mrs. Samuel A. Barron. After the regular business had been transacted, the president read the Los Angeles Press notices regarding the growth of the Inglewood club and various extracts from the Dickensian, concerning the lecture programme of H. Snowden Ward, who is to visit America this winter and of the influence of Dickens on Australian Democracy. Mrs. Eager exhibited the Dickens stamps, and also presented the club with a subscription to the "Dickensian." A suggestion was made looking into the matter of establishing a "Tiny Tim" cot in the Children's Hospital.

A number of people appeared at a meeting called Tuesday evening to discuss the matter of organizing an historical club. It was thought that such a club would not have scope enough so it was decided to call it the "Fortnightly Club." A committee was appointed to prepare a constitution and an outline of subjects. It seemed the opinion of those present that there should be three or four departments, and the following were suggested: Travel, science, the practical arts, history, including local history. It was decided to hold a meeting two weeks from now.

Mr. and Mrs. McNeal and son, Charles, who have lived in Inglewood for the last year and a half, left this week for Lynchburg, Virginia, where they will engage in business.

Miss Fern Bowen returned Monday from Indiana, where she was called several weeks ago by the serious illness of her father.

Redondo Beach.

THE Arion Club, a musical organization of Redondo Beach, is making much progress in its attempt to interest the music-lovers of this city, under the management of G. S. Thatcher, who is president, and who organized the club. Mr. Thatcher, who is an accomplished musician, has given a great deal of time and hard work to the project. While it has only been organized a short time, there are now seventy-five members in the choral, which, under the direction of J. T. Judson, meets every Tuesday night in the ballroom of the Hotel Redondo. The orchestra under the direction of L. H. Young is progressing in a remarkable manner, having now twenty-five members, and will soon be in a position to give concerts. Mr. Young has had a great deal of experience as a leader of some of the large eastern organizations and thoroughly understands his work. The orchestra meets every Thursday evening in the Hotel Redondo for practice. Many of the members have had much previous experience in musical lines. The club will assist in the presentation of a light operetta, which will be given by the Woman's Club of this city, on the evenings of November 2 and 3, during the county fair.

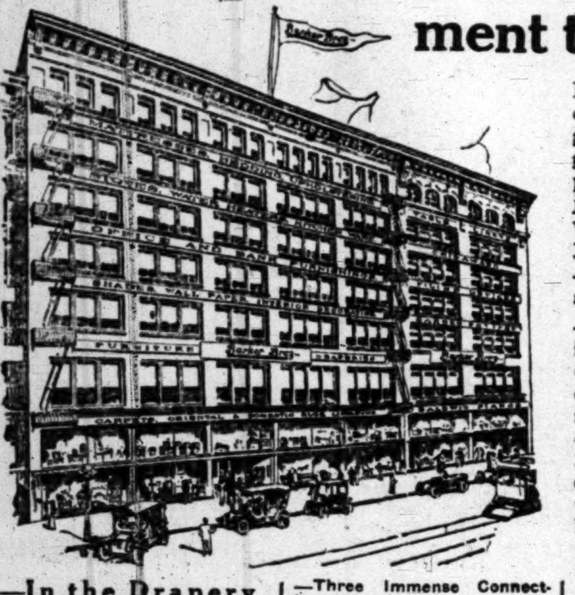
"Reliability a Steadfast Rule" — A Bulletin of Home-Furnishing News and Special Offerings — "Economy an Uppermost Factor"

---A Word of Welcome from America's Greatest Home-Furnishing Establishment to the Thousands of New Comers to Southern California



It is a hearty welcome that Los Angeles and neighboring towns extend to all who come within the gates of our beautiful cities. All that we have—our beautiful land, our glorious sunshine, our flowers and fruits, our peace, our happiness, prosperity and progressiveness—we are ready to share most generously. You have doubtless come, expecting much, and we are sure your every expectation will be realized. You will enjoy living in Southern California. You will regret that you did not come before. You will send for your friends "back East" to come and also share these good things, when you realize them fully.

—Now, a few words of suggestion to those who have homes to furnish—to aid in achieving the most practical, satisfactory and economical outlay.

—Those who are about to establish homes in Los Angeles or Southern California—especially those who are strangers within our land—will find home furnishing here radically different from that followed in other sections of the country. Here in Southern California, where our homes are open to the air and sunshine, where "winter" is but a misnomer, and where much of life is spent out of doors, furnishings are universally adopted in harmony with these conditions. You will find at Barker Bros.' the furnishings that are most suitable.

—We extend to every furniture seeker a most cordial welcome to visit our great store, where will be found the largest, most comprehensive and most complete stock of furniture, carpets, rugs, draperies and other necessities to be seen in any Western establishment. It is an exposition which will make the selection of home furnishings easy, satisfactory and economical. Largest assortments in every department. Lowest prices on all grades of goods, and "Best Terms," if you desire, to make settlement easiest.

—The offerings described in our announcements today are but the smallest hint of what may be expected in the matter of values at Barker Bros. Upon our floors, in the various lines, will be found nearly ten thousand different sample pieces of furniture from which to select—every one a value which, we are confident, cannot be duplicated elsewhere. Come to our store, without feeling any obligation to buy, and make our offerings the basis for comparison.

—Three Immense Connecting Buildings.

—27 Floors in All.

—One-Quarter Million Square Feet of Floor Space.

—Overflowing with everything that is best in house-furnishings.

—Take Advantage of Our "Best Terms"

—"BEST TERMS," as we designate our credit plan, enables you to pay as your convenience permits; it places the "time" buyer in position to buy where varieties are greatest, where values are best at all times and where prices are always lowest; it makes it possible for you to buy better furniture than you might feel you could afford were you compelled to pay cash or abide by the arbitrary rules which govern the ordinary credit transaction elsewhere.

Tomorrow Is One Day Too Late.

By HERBERT KAUFMAN.

(Copyright, 1911, by Herbert Kaufman.)

Do it today. Something else will need your full attention tomorrow.

The earth has far more time than you, but it never postpones single turn—that's why it has always followed a progressive course.

Make hay while Opportunity is shining. Between sundown and sunup all your calculations may be upset.

Wars usually break from a clear sky.

Earthquakes don't post their routes and send out advance agents.

Disease never inquires if you can afford to be ill.

Banks smash in total disregard of your calculations.

Nothing is certain until it has been done.

Hesitation is the silent partner of failure. There's a mighty lot of irresolution loafing around posing as caution.

Most of so-called "conservatism" is really plain, old-fashioned indecision.

Only the prompt succeed. Men with the habit of squeezing the last drop of action out of every moment always find enough in the future to keep them going at full tilt.

Many a cause has been lost by a pause. When the hour is ripe for action utilize it before it rots from delay.

While the weather's still fine harvest—it may rain in the morning.

If you have the range, fire—fortune is a shifting target.

If you have verified your judgment, act—the pigeonhole isn't designed for completed plans.

Do when you're due or be downed. You're education isn't complete if you don't "know-when" as thoroughly as you "know-how."

Leap for your chance before it slips past. Don't be a dolt—risk a jolt.

Better take a slugging than play the sluggard. If you must lose, lose quickly and through the spigot, not the leak-hole.

Learn where you stand. The sooner you know you're wrong the earlier your show to retrench.

Ring the alarm before the flame breaks through the roof.

Repair the break the instant it's reported.

Check the waste while it's still a mere dribble.

Change your motto from "postpone" to "posthaste." Your lost chance may have been your last chance.

Everybody's aiming at the head of the line—everybody's crowding from the rear.

There are thousands of other men coming down the street; while you're hesitating over the purse at your feet a more eager hand will grab it.

You can't control the clock. Every time you hear it tick, you're losing a little more in the game of life.

Play while you have a "stack." Don't "chip" away your days.

You can't replace youth and vitality and enthusiasm; you can't retrace the old paths. When you turn back you must follow the generation that followed you.

Now's the time for YOU to act!

THE largest social event of the week was the reception tendered the new pastor of the M. E. Church, the Rev. O. M. Reinius, in the church parlors Thursday evening. The members of the Ladies' Aid Society had charge of all the arrangements, which were nicely planned and executed. The large parlor presented a bright cozy apeparance, with the pretty rugs, rockers and beautiful rose bouquets on the many small tables. Greetings of welcome from the pastors of the Christian and Congregational churches and different organizations of the Methodist Episcopal Church were responded to by the Rev. Reinius. Delicious refreshments were served during an informal social hour. Almost 200 were present.

ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

Near Brussels.

The turn of noontide has begun;
In the weak breeze the sunshine yields.
There is a bell upon the fields;
On the long hedgerow's tangled run
A low white cottage intervenes:
Against the wall a blind man leans,
And sways his face to have the sun.

Our horses' hoofs stir in the road,
Quiet and sharp. Light hath a song
Whose silence, being heard, seems long.
The point of noon maketh abode,
And will not be at once gone through.
The sky's deep color saddens you,
And the heat weighs a dreamy load.
—[D. G. Rosetti.

At the Steckel.

A series of brilliant one-man exhibitions will be held at the Steckel gallery, No. 336 1-2 South Broadway, beginning tomorrow, with the work of Helena Dunlap, who will be followed, in quick succession, by Jack Gage Stark, Mary Helen Carlyle, Fannie E. Duvall and others.

Helena Dunlap is a talented Whittier girl who has been working for some years in Paris. She has just returned to Southern California, after many notable successes in the great French metropolis. She will show twenty-four canvases on the present occasion, which promises to be a brilliant one. As the pictures were not in the gallery when this notice went to press, I had no chance to see her work, but the titles are delectable and inviting. Many of the pictures have already been shown in such important exhibitions as the Paris Salons of 1908, 1909 and 1911; at the Independent Salon of 1911; at the Hostel Exhibition, Paris, 1910, and at the Exhibition of American Artists, Chicago, 1908.

Here are some of the titles—next Sunday I hope to tell you more about the pictures. "The Brass Market, Bruges," "Old Houses, Munich," "October, Bruges;" "Winter Munich;" "The Cafe, Paris;" "Cafe, Venice;" "Early Spring, Giverny;" "La Porte, Surennes;" "The Seine in Winter," "Reflections, Venice," "The Swans, Bruges."

Sound pretty inviting, don't they? Miss Dunlap's exhibit will continue for two weeks. Then comes Jack Gage Stark, who has been painting industriously round his home and studio in Arizona all summer, and who will exhibit some of his latest and most brilliant efforts in impressionism. Stark's work, shown in the Blanchard gallery last year, created a sensation.

Mary Helen Carlyle, the English woman, born in Africa and educated in Paris, has already been seen in the Steckel gallery. Last winter she exhibited some exquisite miniatures, a few genres of interest and technical brilliancy, and a collection of California gardens in pastels, which were noteworthy. She has been sketching in Santa Barbara, Vancouver and San Francisco since then, and the result of her summer's work will be the exhibition to follow Stark's—November 16 to December 2.

Fannie E. Duvall will follow Miss Carlyle. Miss Duvall's work needs no introduction to Los Angeles picture lovers. Her studio on Marmion Way has been the exhibition room of good painting from her brush for years. After her departure for Paris, some four or five years ago, it became a literary sanctum—but has been made into a studio again. For Miss Duvall is back, and we hope she will stay, even though we know the "brushing up" of Paris is good for artists. Her exhibition will consist of European subjects.

In Daniell's Gallery.

Many one-man exhibitions at the Daniell Gallery, No. 218 South Broadway, are also promised. The first will be that of Albert Clinton Conner, which opens tomorrow with about twenty beach studies and mountain scenes. Conner's exhibition will continue for one week only. From the 23rd to the end of the month Charles A. Rogers will show Chinatown studies, pictures of San Francisco ruins, and California landscapes. Rogers has been painting in the Yosemite Valley all summer, and much of this work will also be exhibited.

During the first half of November Elmer Wachtel will show landscapes of Southern California in the Daniell Gallery, and this exhibition will be followed by the recent water colors of Marion Kavanaugh Wachtel. Elmer Wachtel will show fifteen pictures, Marion Kavanaugh Wachtel, about ten. Detleff Samman will follow the Wachtels, exhibiting in this gallery during the first two weeks in December.

Albert Clinton Conner is a painter who for many years has made Southern California landscape the subject of loving and conscientious care. The scenes he depicts are the simplest bits of nature—a curve of the shore with the quiet waves of morning breaking upon it, a glimpse of hills and mountains seen through trembling leaves of autumnal sycamores or sturdy green limbs of live oaks, a sunlit ripple of water over rocks in a river bottom—intimacies that touch the heart and kindle the imagination.

These charming little pictures are the records of a true artist's daily impressions of nature—notes by the way, taken here and there and everywhere, and always with a fine and wholesome simplicity, a notable absence of self-consciousness and striving after notoriety. Conner paints because he must—and first, last and all the time to please himself. Nevertheless, it enchants him to know that you are pleased too, for in him dwells the eternal child, even though he is affectionately known to many of his fellow painters as Papa Conner.

For the past two years Conner has been living at Manhattan Beach, and of course many of his later subjects are sea subjects. These have all the simple charm of his studies of oaks, roadways, distant mountains and dusty arroyos, and are filled with the delicate grays, so suggestive of poetic mysteries, that always characterize this artist's work.

The exhibition of Albert Clinton Conner's work will continue for one week, beginning tomorrow, at the Daniell Gallery.

Return of the Wachtels.

After six weeks of sketching in the wonderful Matilija Canyon and five weeks of work among the beautiful scenes surrounding Santa Barbara, the Wachtels have come back to their Los Angeles studio, which is now filled with the artistic spoils of their summer conquest.

These famous landscape painters had remained away from Santa Barbara and Montecito for six years—and now they lament and wonder why, for they found that region a veritable land of enchantment, a painter's Eldorado. They had been away so long that they had forgotten.

And they are going back. They have purchased three acres of land on Mission Ridge, and on these they are going to build their summer studio. When that is completed—which will be soon—we shall see them, alas! only six months out of every year in Los Angeles.

The projected studio on Mission Ridge will be a great advantage to them. Their sketches made, they need not wait till these grow cold, but may start in to paint pictures when the inspiration comes. Hitherto they have had to wait till they came back to Los Angeles.

Mission Ridge is a picturesque estate of about forty acres situated a short distance outside Santa Barbara. The Wachtels will find their three acres quite enough, for they contain no less than fifty or sixty beautiful live oaks. Think of being the proud owner of sixty oaks! Could artist's heart desire more? Yet the Wachtels have much more. They may sketch for a lifetime from their studio windows. Looking east, they may see Mount Rincon and Montecito. To the south stretches the broad ocean, with Santa Cruz only twenty-five miles away. West of them lies Mission Canyon toward Hope Ranch Valley. Santa Barbara is in the southwest. Everywhere are mountains. Am I describing a painter's paradise? That's what it is. The Wachtels say so, and they are "painters who know."

John M. Gamble will have a studio near that of the Wachtels'. Fernand Lungren, who left Los Angeles some years ago, built his studio at the bottom of Mission Canyon.

Well, we will let Elmer Wachtel and Marion Kavanaugh Wachtel go to Santa Barbara, since they have promised to come back to Los Angeles every winter and still claim this city as their "home town." Without freedom painters perish, and the Wachtels are too valuable to be allowed to die.

Some of the most beautiful work will be shown next month in the Daniell Gallery. After that it will be exhibited in the studio near Mount Washington by appointment, and to the general public on Sundays.

Seven canvasses by Elmer Wachtel are now on view at Moulton & Rickett's, in Chicago. Later these dealers will give him a one-man show in their galleries. O'Brien, also of Chicago, bought ten of Marion Kavanaugh Wachtel's water colors last winter. The landscape exhibited by her in the American Water Color Society's show in New York, and featured in the catalogue and the International Studio, was purchased by a San Francisco man, even though he had not seen the picture. Though these notable painters are prophets who are appreciated in their own country, it is pleasant to know that the appreciation is not confined to Southern California.

Fine Arts League.

The announcement of the Fine Arts League of Los Angeles has just been issued. It is an artistically printed brochure, the type and illustration on the gray cover being in light green and black. The frontispiece shows the main facade of the Los Angeles County Museum of History, Science and Art, and is a facsimile reproduction of the water color drawing made by the architects of the building, Hudson & Munsell.

A beautiful tribute was paid the Fine Arts League when the Board of Supervisors gave into its care for fifty years the rotunda and the gallery of the museum, which will be completed about January 1, 1912. Plans for the league's permanent art home are nearing completion, but the courtesy extended by the Board of Supervisors is appreciated, and the league will do all it can to help make a success of the great scheme which has been so well begun.

In appropriating a large sum of money for a splendid building to be devoted to art, science and history, the Supervisors have set an example that may well be emulated. Doubtless many of our wealthy citizens will find pleasure in assisting to make these galleries a testimonial of the taste and art appreciation of our people, that a favorable impression may be made when travelers and friends from other parts of the world visit the West.

The Fine Arts League of Los Angeles will be in dignified company. Other organizations to occupy the building are the Southern California Historical Society, Southern California Academy of Science, and the Southern Division of the Cooper Ornithological Club.

The membership of the league includes not only the names of leading citizens of Los Angeles and the surrounding country, but also those of residents of California as far north as San Jose and San Francisco, and south to San Diego.

As the time approaches for the completion of the museum, a prospectus with calendar will be issued, and artists of distinction will be invited to contribute works of art. A high standard will be maintained in the galleries of the league. It will be an honor to exhibit where the admission of inferior work will be made impossible. Except in the case of very distinguished artists who may be invited to contribute, no work will be admitted to the galleries of the league that has not been favorably passed upon by the Committee of Selection to which it belongs.

A monumental group of sculpture, typifying art, science and sculpture, is being created by Julia Bracken Wendt for the central place in the rotunda. The large area, with its well lighted dome, will furnish a dignified setting for a noble group.

You are cordially invited and earnestly requested to participate in the work of establishing and maintaining a great, free museum.

Another Lost Picture.

The disappearance of the Mona Lisa suggests the question What has become of Leonardo da Vinci's other famous picture, the Leda?

It was one of the five pictures from the brush of that master acquired by Francis I, and it used to hang with the others in the Palace of Fontainebleau. There is a detailed description of it, written in 1585 by Lomazzo, who classes it with the Mona Lisa as one of Leonardo's few completely-finished pictures.

Poussin's friend, Cassiano del Pozzo, remarked it at Fontainebleau in 1625, and it is duly mentioned in a "Catalogue des Galleries" printed in 1694. From that date onward, however, no bibliographical trace of it can be discovered. There is no record of its having been destroyed, stolen or lost. It has simply vanished from view, and no one has the least idea where it has gone.

ART NOTES.

The twelfth annual reception of the College of Fine Arts, Garvanza, was held yesterday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon Prof. James Harmon Hoose gave a talk on "The Spirit of High Art." Pictures by Henry Lovins, instructor in the school, were on exhibition. In the evening William Lees Judson presented the gold medal of 1910-1911 to Miss Emma Bridges.

Elizabeth Borglum has just returned from her summer in Santa Barbara, and has reopened her studio in Blanchard Hall. Some excellent sketches are the result of her summer's work out of doors.

Rob Wagner, who has also been in Santa Barbara all summer, will return to his studio very shortly. The work in his painting classes will begin on November 1.

James E. McBurney held a reception to a few of his friends yesterday afternoon in his studio in the Walker Auditorium.

John M. Donovan has been sketching at San Pedro this summer.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY HINTS

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Ethyl: Your mother is right in condemning face powder, as it will in time ruin any complexion, by clogging the pores and causing the skin to become rough and wrinkled. If you desire your face to retain its smooth, rosy appearance, use the following lotion and I am sure your mother will not object nor will you ever regret it: Dissolve four ozs. of spurmax in a half pint hot water and add two teaspoonfuls glycerine. This lotion takes away that shiny, sallow appearance, and will make your skin smooth and velvety without giving to it a powdered look. Spurmax lotion stays on much better than powder, does not show, and is unequaled for removing tan, freckles and skin pimples.

Rena N.: Neither vaseline nor olive oil will correct your scalp troubles. Keep your scalp clean with frequent shampoos, and use the following tonic about twice a week, massaging it gently into the hair roots: Mix one oz of quinzoin into a half pint alcohol, then add a half pint cold water. This invigorating tonic will destroy every particle of dandruff, eliminate scalp irritation, stop your hair from coming out, and promote a healthy, abundant growth. Its regular use makes the hair soft, glossy and free from that stringy, dead-looking condition.

Mildred: Do not despair. You can rid the skin of those bothersome hairs and wear low-neck gowns, if you get an ounce of delatone at the drug store and with a little mix enough water to form sufficient paste to cover the hairy parts. Let remain two or three minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs will have vanished. While delatone costs a dollar an oz., it is well worth the price, as a second application seldom is required to permanently remove hairy growths.

F. R. A.: Dieting and exercising will not reduce weight permanently. The only safe remedy I know of that will not injure one's health is made by dissolving four ozs. of parnotis in a pint and a half of hot water. A tablespoonful taken before meals reduces superfluous flesh at an amazing rate and does not leave the skin flabby and wrinkled. A friend of mine wrote me that in five weeks she reduced her weight 37 pounds with this simple remedy. It is inexpensive.

Chorus Girl: Your dull, weak, expressionless eyes can easily be made bright and sparkling by putting in each eye twice daily a few drops of a tonic, made by dissolving an ounce of crystos in a pint of water. It will not smart but will prove wonderfully strengthening to tired, inflamed eyes. It is a great aid to those who wear glasses, and a fine remedy for granulated eyelids and eye troubles generally.

P. B.: Your sallow, pimply skin, lack of energy, poor appetite, sleeplessness and other marks of ill health are due to impure blood. The best way to tone up your system and get back your good health is to take before each meal a tablespoonful of this simple, home-made tonic: In a half pint of alcohol dissolve a half cup sugar and one oz. kardene, then add hot water to make a quart. This old-fashioned medicine is very strengthening to a run-down system, and will soon put you in the best of condition. As a liver regulator, it is very fine and is indispensable for general family use.

Mrs. H. W.: If ordinary creams do not help in removing your wrinkles, try massaging your face with this greaseless cream-jelly: Stir together and let stand over night before using, two teaspoonfuls glycerine, one oz of almozoin and a half pint cold water. This almazoin jelly will clear and smooth your complexion, leaving your skin soft, velvety and free from blackheads, large pores, pimples and roughness. For treating freckles and tan, I find this preparation very fine.

Grace T.: Do not be deluded into believing that soap is good for shampooing. Even when you make a soap-jelly, the deadly alkali that eats the very life out of your hair still remains. The alkali in soap dulls, bleaches and streaks the hair, causing it to split and break off. I have found that a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water makes the very best shampoo imaginable. It lathers freely, removes all dirt and dandruff and rinses easily. Your hair will dry quickly and be surprisingly bright and fluffy. No other shampoo preparation I have ever seen is so good to keep the hair and scalp in a perfectly clean, healthy condition.

ODD PLAY FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

"THOUGHTS BLACK AND WHITE" FOR CHILDREN'S THEATER.

Work by Alfred Allen and a Collaborator in Preparation Under the Direction of Frank Egan—Activities of Children and Their Varied Classes.

One of the quaintest of children's plays is now being finished for the use of the "Children's Theater," a dramatic innovation under the wing of the Egan school, and whose successful presentations at the close of last season will be remembered.

The name of this play at present is "Thoughts Black and White," but a new and more striking title will probably be given the piece before production. It is being written by Alfred Allen, and a collaborater.

"Thoughts Black and White" is an allegorical fantasy, showing the conflict of Greed, Selfishness, Love, Kindness, Hate, Envy, Pity, Mercy, etc., etc.—all these qualities being personifications.

The leading "people" are Love and Selfishness, and the black-and-white costume scheme differentiates good from evil to the young mind unable to grasp the finer subtleties of action and argument.

Mr. Allen's collaborator is the mother of a little one in the Egan classes.

The children's class at the Egan school has started with a membership of seventy-five, and, according to the director's statement, extraordinary pains are being taken to secure for these children the best that the school has to offer.

They are taught fencing, dancing, voice and expression, with reading.

The principal teachers of the little folk are four, beginning with Miss Sterling, who has the beginners' class, and then including Mrs. Florence Dobinson, Alfred Allen and then Mr. Egan himself.

OLD AND YOUNG.

Alden B. Knight of Worcester celebrated his eighty-fourth birthday anniversary Wednesday by cutting down and chopping up an apple tree.

Leona Whitton, the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Whitton of Acworth, Ga., is said to have made a cotton-picking record for one of her age in that State by picking fifty pounds of cotton in one day.

Hazel, the 9-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Teague of Clinton, Ill., is said to be quite an adept at whistling. The mother says that no one taught the child, but that she appeared to develop the talent naturally. She can whistle as loud as an adult.

Brockton reports a prodigy in the person of Mildred Leona Russell, who at the age of 5 attends the third grade of the Hancock School in that city. The little girl is able to do fourth-grade work, it is said, and fifth-grade arithmetic.

The youngest airman in England is Naval Cadet Leo Mansfield Robinson, who has made several flights at Brooklands in a Deperdussin monoplane and is only 14 years and 4 months old.

Mrs. Phoebe Powelson died recently in Stamford, Ct., at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Theodore Miller. She was 93 years old. Mrs. Powelson was a devoted Bible student, and continued to read the Bible within a few days of her death. It is asserted that she had read the Bible through sixty times and that when only 10 years old she had committed 4000 verses of it to memory.

Nine-year-old Raymond Fisher of Ware, with a fish-hook made from a pin, caught in Fresh Water Lake there Monday an eel four feet long, ten inches at its greatest girth and weighing nearly ten pounds.

Frau Dutkiewicz, residing at Posen, has celebrated her one hundred and twenty-fifth birthday. So far as official records go, she is the oldest woman in the world. She is tall and thin, but bent and very feeble, although not absolutely bedridden. Her face is full of wrinkles of twelve and a half decades.

CHURCHMEN, EDUCATORS.

Miss Alma Lewis has been appointed medical missionary to China by the Board of Foreign Missions of the Episcopal church. She is a graduate nurse, and for the last seven years has been matron in charge of the Newark Sanitarium at Charlotte, Mich.

The Rev. Florence Kollock Crooker has just declined a call to take charge of a Universalist church in Boston. She gives as her reason for declining her desire to help her husband, the Rev. Dr. J. H. Crooker, who is the minister in charge of the Unitarian Church at Roslindale, Mass.

The schoolboy who amuses girls and boys near him by wagging his ears is violating a law of science and is merely giving strength to tendencies operating against his proper evolution, according to J. Howard Moore, instructor of zoology at the Crane Technical High School, Chicago. Mr. Moore said he was certain there is in man's organism a vestige of a tail. Regarding the theory that man originally was a monkey, he said: "It always seemed to me more honorable to have started humbly and come up than to have started high and come down. I would rather be an evolved monkey than a demoted god."

The Rev. Daniel Woodward, the member of the State Board of Control, now in charge of the State Penitentiary at Waupun, Wis., will be elected permanent warden of that institution. Mr. Woodward lost his pulpit at Omro, Wis., and was forced to leave the ministry because he supported the candidacy of Gov. McGovern as an opponent of Capt. Lewis of Racine, the county option candidate, in the primary campaign. Mr. Woodward's congregation declared he violated the policy of the church in aiding the anti-county option candidate.

Fighter of the Family.

[Youngstown Telegram:] The tough little boyl with the red hair and freckled face pushed up against the neat little boy and said, impudently:

"My sister can lick your sister."

The neat little boy did not argue the matter.

"And my big brother can lick your big brother."

The good little lad winced.

"And my ma can lick your ma."

The quiet lad shifted from one foot to the other.

"And my pa can lick you pa."

There was a flash of pink shirtwaist the sound of some hard object coming in contact with a spongy substance, and the quiet little lad stood triumphantly over his adversary, quietly waiting for him to push his nose back into the center of his face, where it belonged.

"But just remember this," he observed quietly, "you can't lick me."

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY SYDNEY FORD.

"GOOD morning, fellow citizen," is the favorite form of salutation these days among women suffragists. It rolls like a sweet morsel under their tongues, I assure you, and oh, the plans that are being laid. The study of civics, municipal government, etc., promises to be the fad of the hour.

Riverside sends word that she will organize a Woman's City Club this week for the purpose of educating her women citizens.

A prominent Los Angeles society woman is quoted as saying that hereafter she shall play bridge but once a week, reserving the balance of her leisure time for studies in civics, and the public library will have to lay in a new stock of books on political subjects to supply the demand. It bids fair to be a renaissance of education in civic affairs that will beat the record of the historical past. Novels and light literature will take to the dusty top shelf.

Seriously, about the best answer that has been given to the query which is now on every lip: "Well, but what are the women going to do first?" was the other morning when one of the speakers at that club suffrage symposium, told the story about the sick man who begged his doctor to take him off the slop diet he had prescribed and let him have roast chicken.

"You can eat the chicken when you are strong enough to go out and catch it," was the reply of the medical man. The women are now strengthening their sinews to catch the chicken.

Women in Sunday-Schools.

The teacher training lectures given each Wednesday morning at Berean Hall, headquarters of the Sunday-School Union weekly meetings, are attracting a good deal of interest among Sunday-school teachers. Dr. Charles Seccombe of Santa Ana, president of the State Sunday-school Association, is the lecturer, and there are now 150 women in the class.

Miss Meme Brockway, president of the union, was at Riverside last week attending the Riverside County Sunday-school convention, and this week will be in San Bernardino, attending the meeting of that county. Both these meetings are preliminary to the great annual State convention, which comes off in Los Angeles early next month.

One of the most successful workers in the union is Mrs. A. L. Dennis. She is at the head of the third year primary section, which is the largest section in the union, having a membership of 155—and new members constantly coming in who realize the golden opportunity of perfecting themselves in the art of teaching under the instruction of Mrs. Dennis, who, beside holding this office, is the county elementary superintendent.

Before her marriage Mrs. Dennis as Miss Tritt, was one of the most successful teachers in the city schools. She is a sister of Prof. Tritt, principal of the Thirtieth-street school.

Marathon Heights Club.

The Marathon Heights Club will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. W. Kane, No. 820 Hubbard street. Book reviews will be the topic of discussion, Mrs. C. E. Fabrick reviewing Beach's "The Ne'er Do Well," and Mrs. Z. B. Elton, Cutting's "The Wayfarers." The club is planning for the first evening entertainment, to be given the first week in November.

Badgers Will Banquet.

The Badger Club will hold a banquet at Hotel Westminster next Wednesday evening when members of the club will entertain their men friends. Judge Rose will act as master of ceremonies and will introduce the various Wisconsin men who will speak.

Dr. William E. Huntington, formerly of Wisconsin University, more recently president of Boston University, will respond to the toast to the native State of the Badgers. Other speakers will be Judge H. C. Dillon, J. D. Radford and P. H. Smith. It is hoped also that President Blaisdell of Pomona College and Albert C. Wheat will be present and speak.

Hollywood Woman's Club.

A meeting of the Hollywood Woman's Club was held Wednesday afternoon in Toberman Hall, the club home for the ensuing year.

The main feature of the programme was the review of four popular works of fiction which was conducted in a rather novel way by Mrs. B. F. Harper who had the programme in charge. The club members were divided into four groups for a twenty-minute discussion of the books under consideration. At the end of this time the leader of each group gave to the club a summary of the discussion. This composite opinion of a score of critics made a most comprehensive review reflecting many minds from various standpoints.

A violin solo by Mr. Grover, who played an exquisite original composition entitled "A Poem," opened the afternoon's entertainment and, at its close, Miss Shrader sang "My Rosary" and was obliged to respond with an encore. A social hour over the teacups concluded the very pleasant session.

Mrs. A. L. Dennis,

Prominent worker in the Sunday-School Union.

Matinee Musical Club.

Mrs. Edith Arnold Schulenburg will lead the programme at the Matinee Musical Club next Thursday afternoon. "Evolution of the Piano" will be her topic which she will illustrate with music from composers from the early sixteenth century to the present.

Miss Pauline Long will give a reading and Mrs. Gertrude Allyn Long, M. de Chauvenet and Rosa Donazar will contribute musical numbers. Mmes. W. F. Withrow, W. A. Olney and Miss Eva Olney will be the hostesses.

In the World of Women.

Miss Ida M. Leonard, the well-known teacher whose specialty is the training of the speaking voice, has returned from a three-months' tour of Europe.

Clifford Howard will undertake to offer a solution of the labor problem before the Woman's City Club tomorrow.

A. Cox of the Park Commission spoke on "The City Beautiful" before the Highland Park Ebell Club Tuesday in place of Judge Silent who was detained by illness. Mrs. S. J. Brimhall, accompaned on the piano by Mrs. J. E. Croft, sang delightfully.

Mrs. O. Shepard Barnum has presented a copy of Dana Bartlett's book "The Better Country" to the Friday Morning Club, acknowledgement of which was made by the president at the last meeting.

Mrs. Arthur N. Davidson and Mrs. J. G. Braun will be the speakers at the Alhambra Wednesday Afternoon Club this week. Next week Mrs. Mary H. Gridley of Glendale will lecture on oriental rugs and will exhibit some rare specimens, among them her famous 500-year-old Persian rug—the oldest one brought to the World's Fair in Chicago.

Mrs. George V. Wright will review Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird" before the Highland Park Ebell Club next Tuesday and Anne Kavanaugh will give a reading from the same before the Friday Morning Club this week.

THE HELPING HAND.

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

If one should care to disturb his peace of mind by pausing to consider too closely the value to the world of all the individuals he meets, he might be constrained to think that society would be better off if society were not composed of so many persons. There have have been persons in the world who never gave any good excuse for their existence and whose death was the only service they ever rendered humanity. If a man cannot perform some service of worth for his fellowmen, it would be to the interests of his fellow men if he would kindly crawl off into a mountain cave and proceed to die.

A number of boys and girls near Downey have formed a "Sunshine Society." They meet once a week at the home of one of the members and each member is expected to tell of a kind deed that he or she has performed during the preceding week. At the close of the meeting the members vote on which one in the class shall be given the weekly medal for having shown the most kindness. At a recent meeting a vast deal of merriment was caused by Horace Ball, a bright young fellow who is studying to become a public school teacher. When he was called upon to tell of a kind deed he had done he said: "Mr. President, I am sorry to say I have been out of town for the past week and have not had an opportunity to do a kind act." The class members smiled among themselves and when the ballots were counted, lo, Horace Ball's name led all the rest. On each ballot was written, "Horace Ball, who performed a great service to the entire community by being absent from it for an entire week."

President Taft's kindness of heart reached out to Lottie Burns, convicted at Nome, Alaska, for selling liquor without a license. Her sentence of one year would have expired in February, and her release then would have inflicted severe hardships upon her, and perhaps have necessitated her remaining in jail for several months longer. The President, however, responded to the woman's appeal for immediate release, and she will thus be given the opportunity to gather the necessary food and fuel required for the preservation of life during the severe Alaskan winter.

Surgeon Major Christan of the Italian battleship Verite displayed rare heroism on the occasion of the destruction of the war vessel Liberte.

Surgeon Major Christan was ordered to proceed to the Liberte when the smoke was first noticed. Just as he reached the deck of the battleship the explosions started. The officer's clothing was torn to shreds, his saber broken into three pieces, his beard and eyebrows burned and he was hurled far from the battleship into the sea.

He did not lose consciousness, however, and after swimming about for several minutes was picked up. He insisted on returning to the Liberte and, without having his own injuries attended to, joined the other surgeons in caring for the wounded sailors.

In the after turret the searchers heard a sailor calling weakly for help. He said he was only slightly wounded, but was imprisoned by tons of steel. Food and water were given to him through a small aperture and after several hours' work he was rescued.

"Lose no time," he cried to the workers outside, "but do not give up hope. You can count on my endurance."

The late Samuel C. Lawrence of Cambridge, Mass., recently deceased, was an enthusiastic Free Mason, and at his death he made several Masonic organizations beneficiaries under his will to the amount of $100,000. Other institutions, including $50,000 to Harvard University, were given a total of $130,000.

Mrs. Helen Hartley Lewis has given $125,000 toward the $1,000,000 fund needed to complete the new polyclinic hospital of New York.

I. J. Soper, a baggage man, employed by the Kansas City Terminal Company, recently sacrificed his life in the humane endeavor to rescue a lean, scraggly, stray kitten from being crushed under the wheels of a locomotive. He dashed in front of an Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe train and was caught by the locomotive, receiving injuries from which he died.

Daniel G. Reid of New York has given $25,000 to the Y.M.C. Association of Richmond, Ind., his old home, on condition that the citizens of Richmond raise a like sum. Mr. Reid's gift will be used as an endowment for the $100,000 building now up. Mr. Reid has erected a $22,000 church and a $100,000 hospital at Richmond as a memorial to his parents.

Announcement is made in New York of a gift of $50,000 by a retired army officer, whose identity has not been revealed, to start a fund of $500,000 to be used in the erection in Washington of a national memorial to the "women of the Civil War." The fund will be raised by the New York Commandery of the Loyal Legion, and the announcement of the initial subscription was made at a meeting of the organization at Delmonico's.

Although the condition named by the anonymous donor of the $50,000 that his gift was contingent upon the raising of a fund of only $300,000 for the purpose of erecting the monument, those who attended the dinner immediately adopted a resolution accepting the gift and binding themselves to make the total amount half a million dollars. It must be raised within a year.

Until Morning.

Here let him rest; the day is done;
The battle that he fought is won;
The race is run.

The cool and calm of evening now
Drive fever from his pulsing brow;
Why weepest thou?

The twilight peace is over all;
The thrushes in the woodland call;
The shadows fall.

But when another sun shall rise,
And all its dawning glory lies
Upon his eyes.

For him a fairer day will break,
Which night shall never overtake;
And he will wake.

—[John C. Minot, in Youth's Companion.

A Modest Witness.

The lawyer had a somewhat difficult witness, says a writer in the Milwaukee Journal, and finally asked if he was acquainted with any of the men on the jury.

"Yes, sir," replied the witness, "more than half of them."

"Are you willing to swear that you know more than half of them?" demanded the lawyer.

"Why, if it comes to that, I'm willing to swear that I know more than all of them put together."

Go Without Music.

[Answers:] Paddy Doyle's wife became ill and died. Paddy went to the sexton to make arrangements for interment. Having all complete, as he thought, he started to go home, when the sexton called him back.

"I say, Paddy, what about getting the bell tolled?"

"How much would that cost?"

"Two dollars," said the sexton.

"Begor," said Paddy, "she'll have to march without music this time."

IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Columbus Day was observed in all the schools on Thursday with appropriate exercises.

Down at Amelia-street school, where Russians predominate, they didn't know whether Columbus was a new disinfectant or the latest baseball hero. Said one of the teachers: "At Christmas, when we had Santa Claus, the children thought he was a bad man come to catch them, so what can we hope to do with Columbus? They sit and listen very respectfully, with their big, soulful eyes fixed on us, and their little hands folded demurely, but just how much they take in it is impossible to tell. But we hope in some way, through these national holidays, to teach them patriotism."

At Thirty-sixth-street school the first-graders cut, folded and pasted Columbus ships, while they were told how Columbus sailed on to success, and in the higher grades history, language and even arithmetic were pressed into the service to inculcate the virtues of courage and fortitude. One youngster was industriously fitting sails to an Indian canoe. When his teacher remonstrated that sails were not placed on canoes the small boy went stolidly on, only replying: "I'll bet this Indian did when he saw Columbus's ship; I bet he did!"

At Grand-avenue school the kindergarten and first-grade children made canoes, wigwams, bows and arrows, etc., from paper, and the older children studied Miller's "Columbus" and extracts from Cooper's "Anxious Hour."

At Castelar-street school the children of the lower grades constructed an Indian village—the wigwams of paper, the Indians of clothespins, with Columbus sailing over a peaceful mirror ocean in a flat-bottomed ship. The Spanish and Italian children were fired by tales of their ancestors in relation to the discoverer, and their patriotism as American citizens was aroused by the story of the country's battles and victories since Columbus's time. In the upper grades history and literature were correlated with the study of civics.

At Solano-avenue school Assistant Superintendent Dozier spoke on the privileges and responsibilities of parenthood and of the teacher's office, before a gathering of the Parent-Teacher Association, with Mrs. Curley in the chair. The following programme was given: Recitations by Irene Wernett, Hazel Bickerdike, Lucile Cook, May Hays, Mabel Cook, Frances Kloer, Evelyn Martinez and William O'Connor; songs by Ella Fiedler, Hazel Bickerdike, Louisa Small and Gracie Mossman; while the fourth-grade pupils gave the flag salute. The following officers were present: Mmes. Bengal, Stusey, McCarn and Hays.

At Fremont-avenue school a handsome new flag was displayed, and the pupils gave appropriate patriotic essays, recitations and songs.

Washington-street school observed the day with songs, recitations and essays on Columbus. A phonograph entertainment concluded the exercises.

Polytechnic High.

At the urgent request of many of the boys, Mrs. Parsons is assisting in organizing a band. This is an innovation in school music, and as many of the boys are fairly proficient in toodle-oodle-ooting and bum-bumming on various instruments, success is looked for.

At an Aud call on Tuesday, Dr. Carter gave an interesting account of his trip up the Nile. On Thursday the orchestra presented to the school the following programme: March from "Faust," Hungarian dance and selections from "The Arcadians."

Next week Harry Clifford Lott will give a concert for the pupils of the school. The numbers will be Kipling songs and negro and Irish melodies. This is the first of the concerts to be given this year.

The tryout for the debate with Los Angeles High was held Friday. Polytechnic is a member of the new league, the Southern California Debating Association, and expects to do a great deal in debating this year.

The Debating Club is organized with Leonard Wilson as president. Judge McCormack will address the Economics Club next Tuesday evening on "Crime."

The girls' self-government committee has been very successful. The hall committee has been withdrawn, throwing the girls more than ever on their own responsibility for good behavior, and loitering is a thing of the past. Officers for this semester are: Jennie Bloom, president; Hazel Sylvis, vice-president; Helen Naismith, secretary.

During the week Mr. Brewer told the post-graduates of his recent trip to Europe, and Miss Jordan, head of the history department, addressed them on Tripoli and affairs in northern Africa.

Gardena High School.

Mr. Hall's class in soils and fertilizers is collecting and testing soils, to determine their relative capacities for absorbing and holding moisture. His class in rural law and economics is just at present studying legal and economic problems of the fruit growers' exchanges and organizations of like sort.

Mr. Curtis is reported by enthusiastic students to have organized the biggest and best orchestra ever, and that the boys' and girls' glee clubs and the faculty women's and faculty men's quartettes are fairly launched, with much study and work ahead of them in order to furnish the music for the many entertainments planned.

Mr. Teall's boys are building a bicycle rack and covered shed to protect machines on rainy days.

On Columbus Day the following programme was given:

"America," by the school; "The Closing of the Trade Routes to the East," essay by Will Moore; Reading of Joaquin Miller's "Sail On and On," Gardner Kane; "Columbus and Columbia," by Luch Powers; song, "The Purple and the Gold," by the school.

Manual Arts High School.

Last week was a busy one at Manual Arts, not only in the accomplishment of big things, but also in the setting afoot of momentous projects.

A fluke in the arrangements brought about the disappointment in respect to the Rugby game with San Pedro, which was planned for last Saturday; but the game of Wednesday with the U.S.C. "Preps" came near to making up for that disappointment. The boys looked and acted like a winning team from the moment they first appeared on the field, and they still seemed fresh and ready for more when the game was ended and they had piled up a score of 19-0. The visitors were plucky and full of spirit, but appeared to be wholly unprepared for the smothering concentrated play which their team met.

Said a senior: "The game served to remind us anew of two old regrets. In the first place it seems a pity that there should be so many students in the school who don't know how to appreciate the advantages of the bleachers and are willing to line up on the side of the field, obstructing the view of the more orderly and more appreciative, and actually hindering the outside plays in that part of the field. It is regrettable in the second place that the football field is only partially covered with sawdust and remains unfit and unsafe for play."

The school council has been working at the problem of permanent student body organization. The Constitution Committee has reached a point where it realizes the scope and complexity of its task. They consider, however, that the election of a number of members of the new Self-Government Committee is a long step toward order and system in student affairs, provided the new committee is able and ready to meet its responsibilities.

A question of considerable importance to Manual Arts has come to a decision during the week, subject to the approval of the student body at large. Mr. Bailey, acting for the school and especially for those who are interested in debating, has provisionally agreed to enter the newly formed Southern California Debating Association, which will include a number of the leading schools of the South. The effect of this action, say the students, providing the schools as a whole approve, will be to put debating on a par with the other forms of interscholastic competition. The first match will be with Long Beach some time about the middle of December.

The history department reported that five classes which are delving in the archeology of Greece and the Orient were especially interested in the illuminating lecture delivered last Thursday by Dr. Edgar L. Hewett, director of the American School of Archeology. The department is very grateful both to Dr. Hewett and to the Archeology Society for the privilege of listing to this exceptionally find illustrated address on Aztec architecture. The English history class who side-tripped into Mexico during independence week were also most interested listeners at the Aztec lecture.

Los Angeles High School.

A decided political atmosphere has pervaded the classic halls of Los Angeles High, during the past week, and class politics have agitated the usually smooth current of school life—which may be a mixing of metaphors, but expresses the situation, anyhow.

Star and Crescent officers are as follows: Robert Emmert, president; Mildred Doyette, vice-president; Elizabeth Dimitry, secretary; Herman Salzman, treasurer. The first meeting will be held next Friday, when the installation of officers will be the order of the day, and the senior B class will make its first appearance with class colors and pennants. Immediately after the meeting, the Senior A's will give a reception to the Senior B's in the gymnasium.

Senior B's held their election of officers, and Harland Graham was elected president, Polly Fellows vice-president, Ruth Larimer, secretary, and John Besselo, treasurer.

For a number of years, the senior classes have had both ribbons and class pins to express their standing and loyalty, but under the advice of Principal House, they have decided to eliminate one of these, and they voted to retain the pins and pennant and do away with the ribbons.

Senior A officials were elected as follows: William Weekly, president; Emily Houser, vice-president; Lucian Railsback, secretary, and John Dorrington, treasurer.

The "Blue and White" also took a whirl at politics, and in line with the last word, elected a girl editor—Miss Muriel Cottenham—with Miss M. Landraff as assistant. That the boys might not feel their inferiority too keenly, Joseph Chapman was elected business manager.

Debaters for the first interscholastic debate of the league have been appointed, in the persons of Byron McFayden and Clarence Burns, who will prepare to do wordy battle with Hollywood at an early date, subject not yet selected

Hollywood High School.

Columbus Day was observed at Hollywood High, at the regular assembly hour. The programme was as follows:

Song, "Red, White and Blue" by the school; "The Progress of Five Hundred Years," essay, by George Hill; "Spirit of Columbus," Vernon Gibbs; "Star Spangled Banner," song by the school; recitation, "Columbus," Barbara Gurney; song "America," by the school. The pupils did great credit to their school. Dr. Snyder concluded the programme with a few remarks revealing interesting sidelights on the character of Columbus.

Mr. Van Vliet was last week elected by the faculty as representative of the Executive Committee of the High School Teachers' Association.

Teachers' Courses.

Changes in teachers' courses have been arranged as follows: Mr. James McBurney's class in drawing technique has been changed from Wednesday, to Tuesday, enrollment to take place October 17; Miss Ada Blanchard's course in wood sloyd had been changed from Wednesday, to Tuesday, enrollment to take place October 17; Prof. Miller's class in American economic history, changed from Wednesday to Thursday, enrollment, October 19. Miss Anna Lemos will also give a class in Spanish, at room No. 142 Polytechnic High Schol, enrollment Tuesday, October 17.

Committee on Musical Festival.

The May Musical Festival Committee connected with the schools has been appointed by Superintendent Francis, and will begin work at once, looking forward to an even greater success than last May's. The personnel of the committee is as follows: Mrs. Gertrude Parsons and Misses Kathryn Stone, Verna Blythe, Carrie V. Truslow, Mary L. Groves, Hugo Kirchofer and Alma L. Stickel.

Continuation Work at Second-street.

At Second-street school, great freedom is to be allowed the boys in doing continuation work. They are to be allowed to follow out their own ideas, and to build coasters, boats, electrical apparatus, but are to furnish their own tools for the work.

Unification of High School Course.

Work on the unification of courses of study, text books, and methods of teaching in the various city high schools has been going forward, and committees have been appointed with chairmen as follows: English literature and oral English, Kate Smith; foreign languages, Albert Wilson; domestic arts, Lillian Watson; physics, chemistry, physical geography, Dr. William H. Snyder; mathematics, E. W. Oliver; biology, J. B. Lillard; history, civics, economics, Burt Kinney; commercial course, W. L. Richer; music, Jessie Tritt; physical training, Mary P. Putnam, Ralph Daniels; manuel training, mechanical arts and mechanical drawing, W. A. Dunn; fine and applied arts, W. H. Housh; morals and manners, Mrs. Susan Dorsey; libraries and traveling cabinet of picture slides, W. A. Thompson.

Compliments Veteran Educator.

"Generations yet unborn shall rise up and call him blessed." So spake E. J. Lickley, supervisor of compulsory education, concerning Assistant Superintendent Bettinger, to whom he gave the credit of installing the good work being done in the schools of this city for irregular and delinquent children. Mr. Lickley so addressed the Federation of Clubs at the regular weekly luncheon, last Wednesday, and said further: "One of the purposes of the special schools is to prevent any failures of any kind in the public school system, and if a boy is a misfit in one place, some other place should be prepared for him where he would fit, but he should never be put out of school."

GOSSIP OF THE FOREIGN STAGE.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Already the autumn theatrical leaves are beginning to drop. For two, at least, of recent productions there is to be but a short, and, I fear, not particularly merry life. For Charles Hawtrey's new piece, "The Great Name" there is, as I intimated last week, no hope, and the question of an immediate successor will be settled before many hours are over. That probably will be the adaptation of a French farce called "Second Marriage," which Hawtrey tells me contains an excellent part for himself. He only wants Frank Curzon's concurrence in order to put the piece into rehearsal Let us hope he will have better luck with it than with the present one.

At the St. James', also, a provisional notice has gone up in connection with "The Ogre." This means that should business improve during the coming fortnight the run will be prolonged, but should the public persist in holding aloof it must necessarily be brought to an abrupt termination. In the latter event Alexander contemplates a revival of one of his old successes—"Lady Windermere's Fan," which may prove sufficiently popular to carry him until the end of the year, when in all likelihood he will present J. B. Fagan's stage version of Robert Hichens's interesting novel, "Bella Donna."

By the time this letter reaches your side of the Atlantic, the fate of "The Concert" at the Duke of York's will also have been determined. Even so hardened an optimist as Charles Frohman cannot close his eyes to facts and there is no getting away from the truth that "The Concert" has failed to attract London playgoers to any large extent. I am told that the audiences roar over it at every performance; the worst of it is the roaring is done by a meagre handful of people who contribute but scantily to the exchequer. Charles Frohman, I'm afraid, will have to harden his heart and give us something new at the Duke of York's.

I have been turning over some old papers and among them I happened upon a copy of the letter which Bernard Shaw wrote on the occasion of the original performance of "Man and Superman" in New York. It comes rather pat with Robert Loraine's revival of the piece next week at the Criterion. The question was put to Shaw, "What do you think of the action of the public libraries in New York in placing your piece in its published form upon the restricted list." Shaw's answer was characteristic. "Everybody knows," he declared, "that I know better than your public library officials what is proper for people to read, whether they are young or old. Everybody knows, also, that if I had the misfortune to be a citizen of the United States I probably should have my property confiscated by some postal official and be myself imprisoned as a writer of obscene literature. These things do not matter. What does matter is that this incident is only a symptom of what is really a moral horror both in America and elsewhere, and that is the secret and intense resolve of the petty domesticity of the world to tolerate no criticism and suffer no invasion."

His final stroke is of sledge-hammer force. "I do not say," he winds up, "that my books and plays cannot do harm to weak or dishonest people. They can and probably do. But if the American character cannot stand that fire even at the early stage at which it is readable or intelligible, there is no future for America." Fortunately for himself, America justified Bernard Shaw's hopes regarding her by setting the seal of her approval on "Man and Superman" and securing for the piece a long and prosperous career.

Something over a year ago I told you of a new Christmas piece entitled "The Forest of Wild Thyme" which Tree had acquired from Alfred Noyes, one of the mast distinguished and talented of the younger school of poets. For weeks and weeks Noyes, poor fellow, had to dance attendance on Tree both in London and the provinces in order that he might be at hand whenever he was wanted to write in a new scene or to alter an old one. And now he finds that all his efforts are wasted, Tree having come to the conclusion that his play is too sad and mournful to attract pleasure-seekers during the coming Christmas holidays. He has a great scheme, on the other hand, for the revival of Offenbach's "Orphie Ausc Enfers." "Macbeth," by the bye, goes stronger and stronger every day and looks like holding its place in the programme easily until the close of the year. Early in January Arthur Bourchier would in any case, have to go out of the cast in order to resume management of the Garrick. As Macduff he is on the stage exactly nineteen minutes. "I really feel ashamed," he said to me the other night, "to take my salary for so short a performance." I gather from what he said that the result worked out at something like five dollars a minute. Even a Rockefeller or a Vanderbilt might be glad to accept a contract on such terms provided eight working hours a day were stipulated.

Talking of salaries, I have had a note from the management of the London Hippodrome stating that next week they will be paying their two principal artists no less a sum than $9000. Of that amount Leoncavallo receives $5000 for conducting his opera, "Pagliacci," and Madame Rejane, the famous French actress $4000.

How in such circumstances even a slender profit is to be made for the shareholders I can't conceive, seeing that the house is by no means a big one and is rarely if ever full. I hear that the Lieblers, also, are going in for big figures on your side in regard to their production, "The Garden of Allah." I have already noted that Lewis Waller receives $2000 a week for playing the leading part and I now learn that Mary Mannering is to have $1250 weekly for appearing as the heroine, Domini. Of course if the piece really catches on all this is little more than a fleabite, but should it fail to do so, the drain upon the Lieblers' banking account will be enormous. Waller sails for America next Wednesday and I shall await New York's criticism on his acting with the keenest curiosity.

There has been serious trouble at the Haymarket over "Bunty Pulls the Strings." Graham Moffat, author of the piece, who also plays a leading part in it, warned the management some time back that he had one or two vaudeville engagements to fulfill which would necessitate his dropping out of the bill for a week or two. But as these engagements were for remote towns the fact of his momentary disappearance from the programme was hardly likely, it was felt on all sides, to attract attention. But suddenly there comes an offer from Alfred Butt of the Palace, one of the most important vaudeville houses in the West End, of so extremely attractive a nature that Moffat could not find it in his heart to refuse it. So he succeeded in canceling one of his provincial dates, and behold him now, prominently starred to appear at the Palace next week. Not without reason Frederick Harrison, manager of the Haymarket, is furious and first thought of taking legal measures to prevent Moffat from carrying out his design. But second thoughts have prevailed and he has decided to let sleeping dogs lie. Moffat, however, will not be seen again at the Haymarket, where his part in "Bunty" is henceforward to be played by H. R. Morand, a very capable actor. Apropos, the members of the company recruited to play the piece in America have just sailed under the charge of Ben Nathan, who now writes that in spite of his name he is as Scotch as Graham Moffat himself.

Prolific Virginia.

[Brooklyn Eagle:] The late Fitzhugh Lee was a loyal Virginian and would see this prolific mother of Presidents deposed by no one, so the choice of him to introduce Grover Cleveland, who was to make an address at the historic University of Virginia, resulted in some mirth.

"Mr. President," he began, graciously, "we are honored in welcoming you to Virginia today, both as a loyal Democrat and as the President of these United States. 'Tis long since we have had a President with us."

Then, fearing such adulation might turn Mr. Cleveland's head, he warmed to his real subject and added, to the delight of his audience:

"But the time has been, suh, when we could go out on this very old rotunda porch and holler, 'Mr. President,' and the woods would be full of them!"

An American Savior.

[Success:] A school teacher in a foreign tenement district was coaching his pupils concerning the father of his country, and discovered considerable ignorance. "And what did Washington do for the American people?" he asked, and a shrill-voiced girl cried, "He died for us."

Dangerous Circus Moments.

[McClures Magazine:] The well known elephant act where five young women get on the backs of the elephants, each elephant politely holding out his foot for his fair rider to mount, contains many dangers that the public does not even think of, says Ellen Velvin. The huge foot is likely to be put down suddenly at any moment—for there is never any knowing what an elephant will do—which would mean an ugly fall, with the possibility of being stepped on by the elephant; or the huge beast might calmly put up his trunk and lift his rider off. This is a pretty, graceful act, but most uncomfortable in many ways for the girl performers. The rough hair of the elephant cuts their hands and ankles; they come in contact with the dirt and grease of the animal's skin; and the few moments that they stand on the elephant's back while they give their little salute are very insecure.

It Makes a Difference.

[Tit Bits:] Young Hopeful: Father, what is a traitor in politics?

Veteran Politician: A traitor is a man who leaves our party and goes over to the other one.

Young Hopeful: Well, then, what is a man who leaves his party and comes over to yours?

Veteran Politician: A convert, my son.

FRESH LITERATURE—BOOK REVIEWS.

By Willard Huntington Wright.

A WOMAN'S LETTERS.

THE DRIFT. By Marguerite M. Marshall. D. Appleton & Co., New York. (Price [illegible])

A BOOK which well exemplifies the fact that women, when they become authors, refuse to tell the truth, is "The Drift," by Marguerite M. Marshall.

It is an almost unheard-of and unseen thing for a woman writer, no matter how clever or how brilliant she may be, to betray the freemasonry of her sex. Whether this reticence, this refusal to paint the emotions as they really are, or to present the true attitude of the sexes toward each other, is conscious or premeditated would be difficult to say. Probably it is instinctive. One is led to this conclusion by the obvious sincerity with which women depict themselves as they are not. In analyzing themselves or their emotions they become imbued with their own dramatic instincts, and they are apt to become over-theatrical.

As a matter of fact, a woman, in her love, is a hundred percent. more practical than a man. With all her sentimentalism and seemingly blind impulsiveness, she is nevertheless far saner, and her judgments are far more judicious and dependable than those of the man. A man, thwarted in his love, crazed by disappointment, may go calmly into a hardware store, take down a Smith & Wesson, take deliberate aim and kill two or three people who he thinks have stood between him and his desire, and then blow his own brains out. A woman, on the other hand, under the same stress of despondent emotion as the man, would probably have violent hysterics, race through the streets in a dishevelled condition, rush into the nearest store, smash the showcase, seize a large knife, flourish it madly, threaten every one in the neighborhood—and then calmly let some one take the knife away from her. The next week will find her peacefully going about her business. Inevitably, however, she has acquired a reputation for being wildly hysterical, unreliable and impractical. Whereas, as a matter of fact, her inherent practicality keeps her from indulging in absurd and useless [illegible]

That is why Hedda Gabler is a [illegible] unreality — an abortive [illegible] of the drama. When [illegible] Tesman drops into his armchair and exclaims "Good God, people don't do such things!" he gives a genuine criticism of Ibsen's theatricalism [illegible] theatricalism from which he never emerged.

Tragedies in real life don't end with [illegible] in dark waters, or the crack of a pistol, or the imbibition of carbolic acid. Most tragedies in life [illegible] go on existing until the sufferer dies of old age or consumption or some other natural cause; or else [illegible] simply peters out.

That is why "The Drift," in spite of occasional merit, doesn't grip. The real tragedy of the book—perhaps the inevitable tragedy—would have been for the girl, a writer of many beautiful letters, to have gone on living, to have gone on suffering [illegible] even sacrificing herself to the memory of the man she [illegible] not possess.

The man is drawn more consistently, even though his portraiture is by indirection. He is more typical of the male that one actually encounters—rebelling against the drudgery of a loveless marriage, preparing [illegible] and then, through a stupid sense of chivalry, backing down and [illegible] with his unimaginative and [illegible] existence.

THE HOLY YHIORDES.

THE CARPET FROM BAGDAD. By Harold MacGrath. Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis. (Price $1.25.)

HAROLD M'GRATH is what one might call a willing novelist. He is willing to write anything, and seems to care little into just what [illegible] his disposition may lead him. His latest adventure is literary [illegible] on the Lockean trail.

It is an interesting fact that many writers of popular fiction have tried to pattern their plots, as well as their characters, after the fashion of the creator of Simon, the Jester, [illegible] Septimus, the Beloved Vagabond and Marcus Ordeyne, and, what [illegible] these imitators are fairly [illegible]. One instance of this kind [illegible] a story which Locke might have written—a long [illegible]

MacGrath seeks honors by the [illegible]. But honor is one thing [illegible] is quite another. Henry [illegible] Harrison and MacGrath will [illegible] reap success. But Locke [illegible] more than mere success. For [illegible] is an analyst, an observer, a [illegible] artisan. One feels that beneath the fantastic exterior of his [illegible] there are vital organs — a [illegible] apparatus, viscera and bone. [illegible] clowns of many of Locke's [illegible] are merely grotesque dolls, [illegible] with sawdust, and manipulated [illegible] buttons.

It is true, likewise, with the [illegible] of Locke's novels and those of [illegible] followers. No matter how [illegible] may be one of Locke's situations, no matter how incredible the [illegible] of thought, no matter how [illegible] or bizarre the climaxes, his [illegible] have verisimilitude because [illegible] full of the humanities, and [illegible] are prepared with finished [illegible] artistry.

"The Carpet From Bagdad," [illegible] has not dared go to the [illegible] extremes to which Locke has [illegible] in many of his books. Yet, [illegible] this story is without [illegible]. This romance of a [illegible] however, is, in a sense, [illegible] because it is different. But [illegible] that I must withhold praise. [illegible] holy Yhiordes in question is [illegible] from the palace of the pasha [illegible] by an American scamp, [illegible] to the millionaire hero, [illegible] into New York by other [illegible] the cause of murder, kidnapping and vengeance, ending its [illegible] as the wedding carpet [illegible]

[illegible] in the setting of the [illegible] we feel at all the verity [illegible] Cairo, the desert, [illegible] they are merely so many [illegible] backgrounds, like the backdrops of a stage.

INTO THE FOLD.

THE GREAT OFFENDER. By Vincent Brown. [illegible], New York. (Price $1.25.)

A BOOK over which hangs that [illegible] righteousness so characteristic of a certain class of [illegible] novelists, is "The Great Offender," imported by Brentano's. [illegible] regeneration of woman (even [illegible]) is not a convincing thing. [illegible] woman of what the [illegible] race is pleased to call [illegible] is a temperamental [illegible] economic thing. And temperament—especially feminine—is not over susceptible to environment. When a young rake looks into the eyes of a pure young virgin and becomes immediately conscious of his "better nature" or awakens to "the nobler things in life," it is hard enough to swallow; but when a woman with the worst kind of past gazes into a noble widower's eyes and sees there "the better things in life," it nearly always turns out to be an ephemeral emotion. Resolutions to be noble, superinduced by the subtle pangs of a "pure" love, must not be taken too seriously. How ruthlessly true is that episode where the immortal Emma Bovary resolves to break with her lover and writes him a letter to that effect! On her way to post it she meets him and they enter a fiacre. Then, says Flaubert, a small hand, secretly inserted through the carriage window, scattered the torn bits of a letter along the street.

In spite of Vincent Brown's sincere, and at times, womanlike writing, "The Great Offender" does not convince. Its plot obviously founded on Pinero's "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" relates the story of a demimondaine's regeneration, partly through the honorable love of a widower with a grown daughter (as in "Mrs. Tanqueray") and partly through the intervention of a kindhearted old lady who enacts the role of the great offender's mother.

Vincent Brown endeavors to paint the difficulties in the life of a woman with a past who has married into "respectability." One of her chief sources of unpleasantness is the stepdaughter, a disagreeable girl who never once forgets the step-mother's previous life. Then there are the social barriers and the somewhat inadequate attitude of the husband. Let it be said that Brown has depicted these phases of his narrative with skill. In the superficial aspects of his story he is convincing—almost to the degree of Pinero; but when he attempts the analyzation of motives, he strains not only the probabilities, but the facts.

DIVORCE VICTIMS.

ORPHANS. By Helen Dawes Brown. Houghton-Mifflin Company, Boston. (Price $1.20.)

A DEPRESSING tale with obvious ambitions to be what the lady reviewers of the literary monthlies will call a "profound and thoughtful problem novel," is encountered in "Orphans," by Helen Dawes Brown. To write a "profound" novel in this day, it is only necessary for a conventional and proper person to take a superficial aspect of some of our social evils, to temporarily divest himself of all sense of humor, to become sentimental, and deal only with effects and ignore causes.

This is what Helen Dawes Brown has done in "Orphans," a "problem" novel which more than once spills over from the romantic into the dialectic. That the author is earnest no one could deny. She is thoroughly impressed with the seriousness of her theme, and she loses no opportunity to "impress" the reader with the great "lessons" she is endeavoring to teach.

The "problem" in "Orphans" is that one of beloved of lady authors—the divorce problem. We are shown here two children, orphans, not by the death, but the separation of the parents. A boarding school for the boy and an aunt for the girl. The details of their upbringing are not essential. We leave them at the beginning of their maturity.

If the assumption of the reformer that the divorce question was one of post-nuptial consideration entirely, was true, such books as "Orphans" might aid in the solution. But divorce is due to inherent causes outside of matrimony. It is temperamental—not economic. Its cause lies largely in the narrowness of the Saxon mind. The almost vulgar intimacy of American married life would spoil for the most well-meaning of young people whatever romance they might expect to find in the marriage bond. The offensive Puritanism on the part of both husband and wife—the demands of conduct which each makes on the other, the almost total lack of individual freedom—these things must inevitably bring about a reaction, a revulsion, an "incompatibility of temperament."

A woman wants her husband to have a degree of savoir faire, to be a man of the world. But the moment she discovers he was once guilty of an ante-nuptial indiscretion, she becomes miserable, and either leaves him, or taunts him with his past until he leaves her. On the other hand, a man wants his wife to be a genuinely feminine woman. But note his wrath when he finds her out in a deception. Most marital discord—no matter what form it takes—is traceable to lack of proper training before marriage. Children are taught false ideas; the truth is assiduously kept from them. Adults have entered into a gigantic conspiracy of silence so far as the growing child is concerned. The result is that when two people marry they are ignorant of each other's characteristics. Their knowledge is superficial and false. And because they do not understand each other, they are unable to take each other philosophically. This is the basic cause of divorces. On the surface it may appear to be disloyalty on the wife's part, or cruelty on the husband's part, or other specific offenses; but these are all merely secondary manifestations. The real divorce problem presents itself before marriage. Whether or not a man or woman should eke out a hellish existence so that their children may be brought up in ignorance and in turn go forth to an unhappy marriage—is not a problem of deep significance, because it misses the very heart of the matter. Perhaps the very knowledge which a child would acquire by the honest separation of its parents would be the thing which would insure it a happy marriage.

BOOK NEWS.

One of the most difficult problems that conscientious publishers have to deal with is that of translation. It has been said that the works of many foreign authors of renown have failed here because of the inadequacy of the English renderings. Only rarely does one see such a masterpiece as Hearn's version of Gautier's "Une Nuit de Cleoatre." An exceptionally fine piece of work was Thomas Saltzer's translation of Sudermann's "Song of Songs," in which the task was not only to reproduce the marvelous style but to be faithful to the text without too greatly shocking Puritan sensibilities. The announcement of Sudermann's new book, "The Indian Lily," has been productive of some inquiry as to why Mr. Seltzer has not translated it. The answer is simple, from early last spring until late this summer he has been working on the English of Hauptmann's monumental novel, "The Fool in Christ"—no small task, for the book will run to perhaps six hundred pages of poetic prose. Mr. Heubsch counts himself fortunate in having secured the services of Ludwig Lewisohn to translate "The Indian Lily." A master of German, French and English, a poet of high rank, and the author of a successful novel, there is none in America who can reproduce Sudermann's stories more effectively. Lewisohn left the University of Wisconsin to join the department of German literature at the Ohio State University.

"A Princess of Adventure: Marie Caroline, Duchessee de Berry," is the title of a new book by H. Noel Williams, author of "The Fascinating Duc de Richelieu," "The Rose of Savoy," "Queen Margot," and "Henri II: His Court and His Times." He is just the writer to recount the career of this romantic figure. The Princess was the daughter of Francesco I, King of the Two Sicilies, and wife of Charles Ferdinand, Duc de Berry, second son of the Comte d'Artois, afterward Charles X of France. Her life was full of adventure. Twice as a child, and once in maturity, she was the victim of a revolution; her first husband was murdered before her eyes; she contracted a clandestine morganatic marriage; she excited an insurrection; she lived the life of camp and battlefield; made one escape disguised as a peasant woman; was imprisoned in the citadel of Blaze for a year.

The Putnams recently published "The Complete Poems of Lord Macaulay," comprising "The Lays of Ancient Rome," and his occasional verse. The fame of Macaulay rests, of course, on his work as a historian and as an essayist. There are, doubtless, however, thousands of readers, young and old, on both sides of the Atlantic, to whom Macaulay's name is familiar only in connection with the ringing melody and the national spirit of the "Lays of Ancient Rome."

Houghton Mifflin are to publish next month a book entitled "The Musical Amateur," by Robert Haven Schauffler, which should make a strong appeal to the large public of intelligent music-lovers. The author considers that the listener is a most important factor in musical creation—not as important, perhaps, as the composer or the performer, but still indispensable. Mr. Schauffler, who is a well known performer on the 'cello, has been spending the summer at Seal Harbor, Mount Desert.

The Putnams will publish in October a handsomely printed and tastefully bound edition of "The Chimes," by Charles Dickens. The volume will contain four illustrations in colors, twelve half-tones in black and white, and numerous text illustrations and decorations by Frederick Simpson Coburn. "The Chimes," is a delightful fabric of humor and pathos, of fancy and reality, one of the masterpieces of a master of laughter and tears.

"Golf for Girls" is a little, paper-bound volume in which Cecil Leitch, the English player, tells all her long and successful experience and her sharp observation have taught her of the game. Her language is clear, and the many full-page photographic illustrations make it still clearer. The book will be valuable to the most proficient woman player, and to the beginner as well.

Houghton Mifflin Company report that the demand for Henry S. Harrison's novel, "Queed," continues unabated, and the editions have now reached a total of 83,000 copies.

To music-lovers at least, the most important book of the fall season will be the "Memoirs of Theodore Thomas" prepared by Rose Fay Thomas, wife of the great orchestra leader.

All who have enjoyed George Fitch's "Siwash" stories in the magazines will rejoice in the announcement that they have just appeared in book form, under the title, "At Good Old Siwash."

Richard Washburn Child, who "struck twelve" last year with his novel, "Jim Hands," has nearly ready for publication a volume of new short stories.

Ian Hay, the young Scotchman who made a name for himself two years ago with "The Right Stuff," has written a new novel for fall publication, to be entitled "The Safety Match."

Volumes on William Lloyd Garrison and Ulysses S. Grant, written respectively by Lindsay Swift and Franklin S. Edmonds, will soon be added to the "American Crisis Biographies."

LITERARY GOSSIP.

Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin, whose new story, "Mother Carey's Chickens," is one of the leading books of the season, returned to New York for the winter, last week from her country place at Hollis, Me., in order to attend the rehearsals of her play, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," which two companies are to take on the road during the coming season.

Kin Hubbard, author of "Abe Martin's Almanac," one of the fall publications of Doubleday, Page and Company, is an Indianapolis newspaper editor, but he declares that some of his most valuable experience was gained while an advance agent for a "ten, twent,' thirt,' thriller"—Hubbard forgets whether it was "Uncle Tom's Cabin" or "East Lynne."

Miss Mary Johnston, the author of "The Long Roll," arrived in New York last week on the Cincinnatti, after spending the summer travelling in Europe. She has returned to Richmond, where she will continue work on her new book, the title of which is to be "Cease Firing." This is to complete the story of the Civil War whch she left with the death of Stonewall Jackson in "The Long Roll."

Robert Alexander Wason, whose new novel, "The Knight Errant," has just been published, has his own ideas about reformed spelling. "Spelling," he says, "I never could learn, but I now know that this proved me to possess a logical mind. Over twenty million years are wasted every generation in the vain endeavor to teach innocent and trusting children how to spell a language which cannot be spelled.

"It can be memorized. We had to stay in school and write each missed word a hundred times, which kept my revolutionary spirit in training, but utterly ruined my penmanship. For I soon discovered that no teacher would go into the bother of reading a thousand or so words, and I formulated a near writing which I used on all but the first ten words. In the end near writing became a fixed habit, and now no one, not even myself, can read my script."

To be a star reporter as well as a star sporting writer, to be six feet and something tall and more or less broad, to be an all round good fellow, to say nothing of being the author of the best baseball stories ever written, would seem to be enough for any man, but to all the aforesaid accomplishments, Charles E. Van Loan, the author of "The Big League," adds the presidency of the Flatbush Domino League. Recently Van Loan spent a few weeks with his friend, the genial Bob Davis of Munsey Magazine fame, at the latter's summer camp in Maine and according to trustworthy reports, the editor and the author fished all day and played dominoes all night, all of which reminds us of the fable by the late Eugene Field, about a printer who, according to Field, set type all night and played pinochle for the beer all day. "We should like to be a printer," added Field, "if it were not for the night work." The sporting records have been thus far silent as to the relative standing in dominoes of Davis and Van Loan.

Frances Hodgson Burnett had a charming model for the description of English country life in her latest novel "The Secret Garden." For fifteen years, she leased Maytham Hall, Kent, and got the impressions from the hall's antique rose gardens, surrounded by brick walls dating clear back to 1000 A. D. In the hall grounds stands the ancient Norman Church of the Hundreds of Rolvenden, mentioned in the Domesday Book. The adjacent villages are full of quaint old gaffers and gammers, who wait in the gardens of their thatched cottages to salute the hall carriage as it passes. Among them persist the customs of "Merrie England"—the bearing of the Yule log, the singing of Waits, and the Guy Fawkes celebration. The towns surrounding have favorsome names — Peasemarsh, Smallhive, Benenden. Through all the countryside are seen children in funny little red cloaks given by Mrs. Burnett's neighbor, the Earl of Cranbrook.

Robert Hichens is making his first visit to America, to oversee the production of his "Garden of Allah" at the Century Theater, New York, and the publication of his latest novel "The Fruitful Vine." It is an important visit for Hichens, as the production of "The Garden of Allah" is highly elaborate, Hichens having traveled through the Sahara with the theatrical manager to get the local color right. Hichens proves to be a slightly built, quiet man, with iron-gray hair, looking like a musician. On his arrival, he declared that the skyline of New York impressed him as much vaster than anything in London. He expects to use New York scenes in a future novel.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE.

Chatty Paragraphs About Persons Places and Events at the National Capital.

BY MARGARET WADE.

WASHINGTON (D. C.) Oct. 9.—When the President and Mrs. Taft resume their residence in the White House they will find the major part of the official world already established for the winter.

Whatever the political barometer may show, the glass reads fair for the social season, and year by year the social season becomes more interesting and more important. Interesting not only to the few favored men and women who participate in the round of functions, of which the multitude only read, but to that multitude as well, for every winter tells a new story, points a moral, and shows the why and wherefor of what the world calls social success.

Society in Washington is like society everywhere else, only more so. Because of its intensity and the accepted forms which a century of usage has made into unwritten laws, the mistress of the White House, the Cabinet ladies, the hostesses of the Supreme Court, the wives of Senators and Representatives come into a stronger limelight than is possible to even the most ambitious woman of a more contracted sphere.

The difference is the sphere of influence, not the individual leader. Mr. Kipling truly remarks that "Judy O'Grady and the Colonel's Lady are the same under the skin." Applying this psycological fact to all human relationship as to affairs of the heart, Mrs. Taft doing the honors of the White House to all Congress, the Diplomatic Corps and general society of the capital, is in relatively the same position as the minister's wife presiding over the weekly meeting of the Sewing Society, or the judge's wife who entertains the Century Club, or the members of the Daughters of the American Revolution at an afternoon tea.

There must be leaders everywhere, and in Washington, as at the other capitals of the world, this leadership is along definite lines.

Mrs. Taft came into the White House better equipped for her high position than the great majority of her predecessors, having lived close to two administrations. Observing their defects and profiting by their mistakes, she has made the past two years the most brilliant of half a century, and restored the hospitality of the Chief Executive to a dignity compatible with that position, yet democratic and far-reaching as a republican form of government demands.

Associated with the First Lady in setting the pace for the coming winter will be Mrs. Sherman, wife of the Vice-President, and the wives of the Cabinet officers.

Mrs. Edward Douglas White, wife of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court will lead another distinguished body of women, the wives of the Associate Justices of the highest tribunal in the land, Mrs. Champ Clark, wife of the Speaker, has a tremendous following by reason of her husband's position which in actual power far outweighs that of any Cabinet officer unless the Secretary of State. Mrs. Leonard Wood, wife of the chief of staff of the army, and Mrs. Dewey, wife of the admiral of the navy, are other women of great importance in forming and governing society.

This half-score of specially distinguished American women come from every part of the country, representing widely different schools of thought and education. Mrs. Taft, like her husband, was born in Ohio and grew up in the atmosphere of a comfortable, refined home in Cincinnati. Her accomplishments range from the playing of Chopin to the making of a salad, or if need be, of a loaf of bread. Mrs. Champ Clark proudly proclaims herself of Missouri, a woman of the greatest breadth of view, caring little for society but loving humanity and all womankind. Mrs. White, who was a Miss Montgomery of Louisiana, is typical of the best and most exclusive element of the South. Of the southern city, not the free, broad country life of the plantation, but of the old-time drawing-rooms of New Orleans, Mobile or Charleston.

Mrs. Dewey, like Mrs. Taft, was born in Cincinnati, the daughter of wealthy parents, and great advantages of travel and education. She has passed most of her life in Washington, always until failing health made it impossible, a prominent hostess and much feted guest in the smartest set. Mrs. Leonard Wood, the youngest woman ever to achieve the important position she holds, was born in Western New York, but came to Washington as a child, and with her three sisters, grew up under the guardianship of the late Justice Field of the Supreme Court. She was a great belle, and married the young army surgeon of twenty years ago only after great family protest. Of the Cabinet hostesses two come from New York City, two from Chicago, one from St. Louis, one from Pittsburgh, and one from Boston. In the Supreme Court circle Boston and New York are again represented, as are San Francisco, Canton, O., Atlanta, Ga., Knoxville, Tenn., and Louisville, Ky.

The coming of the newly-appointed Ambassador from Russia, M. George Bahkmeteff, and his wife, the former Miss Mary Beale of Washington, will again place the Russian Embassy in a place of first importance in social as well as official circles. The departing Ambassador and his wife, Baron and Baroness Rosen, spent comparatively little time in Washington during their six years' service. The Baroness especially disliked America, and with her young daughter, who is now a maid of honor to the Empress of Russia, passed much time in St. Petersburg. The new mistress of the Czar's embassy is a charming woman of middle life, with a world-wide experience and a genuine love for her native land. She is a daughter of the late Gen. Edward Beale of Washington, a sister of Mrs. John R. McLean and of Thuxton Beale, former Minister to Greece.

With the arrival of Mme. Bahkmeteff, three of the great European powers will be represented by men with American wives, Mme. Jusserand, wife of the French Ambassador, and the Countess Von Bernstorff, wife of the German Ambassador, being natives of Boston and New York, respectively.

Among the Ministers there is even a greater proportion of American hostesses, the Countess de Moltke of Denmark, Mme. Riano of Spain, Mme. Louden of the Netherlands, the Countess de Buisseret of Belgium, Mme. Ekengren of Switzerland, are a few of the many young women who have married attaches or secretaries, each to return to preside over the official residence of her adopted country.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wallace of Washington, who have leased the residence at No. 1800 Massachusetts avenue, for the coming winter, will be returning to Mrs. Wallace's girlhood home, she being one of the daughters of the late Chief Justice Fuller of the Supreme Court, who occupied this house through the greater part of his distinguished career. In the coming winter a grand-daughter of the late Chief Justice will be presented to society from this home, Miss Mildred Aubrey, a niece and namesake of Mrs. Wallace, being the prospective debutante.

ONE of the most interesting articles in The Times Magazine the coming Sunday will describe the picture-show business in which Uncle Sam is engaging.

Walking Alone.

These are the ways of one who walks alone,
Sweet, silent ways that lead toward twilight skies,
Bees softly winging where a low wind sighs
Through the hills' hollow cool and clover blown.

These are the ways that call one back again
To old forgotten things in faded years,
Swift on a moment of remembered tears
They stand from out the dust where they have lain.

These are the ways life's simple secrets bless.
Keen homely scents, borne by each haunted wind—
Here in the silence one may ever find
That last strange peace whose name is loneliness.

—[Thomas S. Jones, Jr., in Scribner's Magazine.

Maj. Forsythe (U.S.A.,) in command of the troops that guard the Yosemite Valley, has issued a ukase against cats and dogs, and if there are many of them within his jurisdiction his men must be having fine target practice.

POLITICAL TIPS.

At 11 o'clock a.m., December 12 next, in Washington, the Republican party will open the Presidential campaign of 1912. The first actual and practical step will be taken on that day in the great series of political events that will culminate at the polls in the succeeding November. Besides issuing the call for the national convention, methods will be prescribed for choosing delegates thereto, as well as fixing representation in the convention.

The Republican State platform convention of New Jersey framed a platform which is characterized by its sponsors as "conservatively progressive." It eulogizes the actions of the Republican party in national affairs and indorses the "calm, judicial attitude of President Taft in the face of unreasonable clamor for hasty action and ill-advised remedies" and approves "his determination to apply business principles in the treatment of the policies of the day." It adds: "The reforms wrought by the Republicans have no parallel in history and constitute it the most progressive agency for public good among political organizations."

It is said that Congressman Hobson has abandoned an idea of becoming a candidate for Governor of Alabama, and will try for the succession to Senator Johnston in the other end of the national Capitol.

The political situation in Ohio is said to be so mixed that Senator Cullom is understood to be indifferent as to his own candidacy for renomination. He will have to vote on the Lorimer case again at the next session of Congress, and he will be condemned either way he votes. He voted for Lorimer before and has been condemned for it from one end of the State to the other by ministers' meetings. Lorimer has been at work organizing his forces throughout the State and will round them up here on Lincoln's birthday. If he should vote against Lorimer he would have all the Lorimer members of the Legislature against him, and it is a force that is not to be sneered at, for there is no better organizer in Illinois than Lorimer.

Gov. Dineen of Illinois has announced his candidacy for a third gubernatorial term. He will have as contestants for the renomination, ex-Gov. Yates, who has been considered a Lorimer supporter.

Twenty-five thousand dollars per annum is given by Mr. Fels to exploit the single tax in Oregon. It is a lot of money. It is not so much, to be sure, as $100,000, which it is said to have cost Mr. Bourne in his great campaign of education for the Senatorship. But in four years it will reach $100,000, while Mr. Bourne's $100,000 was an investment in a six-year job. Twenty-five thousand dollars annually will care for a lot of people and accomplish many things.

In formally accepting the Republican nomination for Governor at the convention in Massachusetts, the Hon. Louis A. Frothingham made a great point of the failure of Gov. Foss's experts to disclose corruption in the conduct of the State departments and institutions. It is this appeal to the pride of the people upon which the Lieutenant-Governor must base his hopes of election. "Dear old Massachusetts," as he called her, is sensitive about the integrity of her public men and the excellence of her State institutions. Gov. Foss may be able to prove a waste of money here and there such as would not be allowed in a private business by a frugal management, but his experts utterly failed to show that money was corruptly employed or wantonly squandered.

Col. Rienzi M. Johnson, president and editor-in-chief of the Houston Daily Post and Democratic national committeeman from Texas, says that it is his opinion that however active Woodrow Wilson's supporters may be in cultivating public sentiment in Texas when convention time comes, the Lone Star State will either be found in another column or in none. Col. Johnson intimated that he believed the Texas delegation would go to the next Democratic convention uninstructed.

"Fusion of the Democrats and the progressive Republicans" seems to be a settled proposition at the Ohio Democratic State convention.

The defeat of reciprocity in Canada may mean the election of a Republican United States Senator in Nebraska. Although a new Senator is not to be chosen until a year from the coming winter, the candidates are already "out" and the fight started several weeks ago. In Nebraska a preferential vote for Senator is taken and the Legislature, regardless of its political complexion, must then select the candidate with the highest vote. In order that the voters of the State may have an opportunity to become thoroughly familiar with their names, the candidates are already out in the open waging their war.

The present Legislature is Democratic, but a new one is to be elected next year and a new Senator, to succeed Senator Norris Brown, Republican, will be selected by that body. There are two Republican candidates, Senator Brown and Congressman George W. Norris, insurgent House leader. Each of these candidates is waging a bitter war against his opponent. Senator Brown is an ardent Taft man, while Congressman Norris, his opponent for the Senatorial toga, is committed to the candidacy of La Follette. Brown's appeal for a second term has been based upon his advocacy of the Taft reciprocity programme. On the other hand, as a follower of La Follette, Congressman Norris has stood against reciprocity and has made that position his campaign cry.

W. D. Vandiver, former Congressman, who was insurance commissioner during the Folk administration, will become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Missouri, but will make no formal announcement for several months. Vandiver's decision to become a candidate promises to result in a lively three-cornered squabble for the Democratic nomination. His opponents will be Atty.-Gen. Major and Dave Ball, both from Pike county. Vandiver will run as a Folk man, but will probably receive support from old guard sources.

George Fred Williams of Boston is busier than a bee in Democratic circles once more. In fact so busy was he with a committee meeting at the Quincy House that he forgot to keep watch of his overcoat, umbrella and glossy silk tile, and some low-lived Democrat, or perhaps a miserable Republican made a get-away with all three articles.

Much of the necessity for expending in Wisconsin an amount as great as $107,793 to get the nomination for Mr. Stephenson at the primaries in 1908, has been declared by witnesses to be due to opposition exerted by Senator La Follette's followers and to organize each of the 2200 precincts in the State.

Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas has got down to the real business of his campaign for re-election to the United States Senate. Senator Curtis will have the old guard solid behind his candidacy and all the forces that have fought Governor Stubbs in the past, and all the Federal appointees, and the Presidential influence, for Curtis is a Taft man and a regular to the core. Stubbs will have his State administration forces and the prohibitionists and the progressives and the advantage of a primary election. In a convention he would not have a look in.

Thomas Richardson, who recently resigned as postmaster at Port Gibson, Miss., is a negro Republican. He voluntarily resigned the office. His resignation is due to the fact that a strong sentiment developed in favor of having a white postmaster at Port Gibson. No complaint was made of his manner of discharging his official duties. He was efficient, and he was never involved in any financial trouble with the government. After his resignation was received a post-office inspector made a thorough examination of his office and found everything in perfect order.

Thomas Richardson was first appointed postmaster at Port Gibson in 1870 by President Grant, and has held the office ever since, with the exception of President Cleveland's two administrations, and Cleveland refused to remove him until his term as postmaster expired, although requested to do so. Richardson served for one year under Cleveland, making thirty-three years in all he actually served.

"Coin" Harvey, who made the campaign of 1896 before it was made by Mr. Bryan, is trying to get to Congress through the Arkansas district in which Monte Ne is located. His platform now is good roads.

The prominence of Gov. Harmon of Ohio as a Democratic Presidential possibility has called attention to the fact that as a member of Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet he bolted the Democratic national ticket in 1896.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Col. Roosevelt says he is not going hunting any more because of the newspapers. He says he cannot move around without being followed by the newspapers in a way that takes all the pleasure out of a hunt. "When I was President I could protect myself; now I cannot, and I have just made up my mind that I would have to give up trying."

Jan Kubelik, the Hungarian violinist, has come to New York with a Stradivarius violin, which he says he bought in London for $30,000, and would not sell for twice that amount. He also said he has had the insurance on his fingers increased to $225,000.

Rear-Admiral Reginald F. Nicholson, one of Washington's representatives in the United States navy, is to hold next to the highest sea command. The post of chief of the Bureau of Navigation, which he now holds, he will abandon to succeed Rear-Admiral Murdock as commander-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet. Admiral Nicholson will take command at the end of next February, when Admiral Murdock's two-year term of sea service comes to an end.

Manuel K. Silva, a native of Portugal, who has been a watchman and track-walker in the snowsheds of the Southern Pacific Railroad in the Sierra Nevadas for thirty-one years, has just been retired and placed on the company's pension roll. During his long term of employment, Silva walked eighteen miles a day, a total for the thirty-one years of about 203,670 miles.

"Wife-beaters ought to be whipped in the public square where everybody could witness it, and I myself would like to have the job of chief whipper," said Judge James McInerny of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) children's court. "We ought to give them a taste of their own medicine. While in prison I would have the wife-beater do real hard labor. If I had my way I would have those fellows drill holes in cold steel with hammer and chisel. As it is now, their stay in jail is more of a picnic than anything else. Have you ever been through any of our prisons? Have you ever been in the prison on Blackwell's Island? In olden days a prison was a dungeon deep, but times have changed. Now a man has a nice bed to sleep on, a shower bath, a physician to dance attendance on him, is well fed and well clothed and has a better time than he has at home."

J. Walter Wilson, a young entomologist of East Manchester, N. H., caught in that town last week a specimen of moth that is rarely found in New England. The moth, which is known to scientific men as Erubus Odora, is a native of Mexico, and is not known to breed north of that country.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Mrs. Caroline M. Severance, known as the Julia Ward Howe of the Pacific Coast, is leading the movement to erect a colossal statue of Peace at the entrance of the Panama Canal. The proposed statue is to show a beautiful American woman with a lion and a lamb lying down together at her feet.

Mrs. Belle M. Fowler has been appointed food inspector at Spokane, Wash. It is her business to visit regularly some 200 cafes, bakeries and candy kitchens to see that they are kept in a sanitary condition. She is said to have received the appointment because of her reputation as a faultless housekeeper in her own home.

Dr. Maud E. Abbott is a clever Canadian woman who has established an international association of musical museums. As usual the idea was conceived by a man, but Dr. Abbott made it a reality. She was not allowed to take her medical degree at McGill University, which does not admit women to that course, but was graduated at Bishop's College.

Mrs. Leona Wells is the highest paid woman in the government service. She works for the Senate Committee on Military Affairs and draws a total of $4500 a year.

Mrs. Nancy Hill, a negress living at Jackson, Miss., is believed to have cared for and reared 108 dependent children. She began to care for other people's children in 1872, when a motherless white child was left in her charge by the father, who afterwards disappeared. She cared for the child until she was able to place it in a good home with people of its own color.

A woman's zeal to obey the law caused her arrest for breaking it. Mrs. Rose Benjamin of New York took to a police station a revolver which her husband had owned for a year and said that, having heard that there was a law against keeping revolvers at home, she thought it better to give it to the police. The lieutenant on the desk at once told her she was under arrest for violating the law in having the weapon in her possession. Then Mrs. Benjamin was furious. She shrieked like a mad woman, but the lieutenant was obdurate, and the woman went to a cell.

SPECIAL NOTICES—

SOMETHING REALLY NEW AND OF PROVEN MERIT.

A rigid facemask, made to fit each face in every detail and therefor made individually for each case, also medicated to suit the individual skin, will positively remove all lines, crows-feet and wrinkles.

To prove its merits, it will be sold during a short period of time on installments. By its medicinal properties tan, freckles, moth and liverspots, pimples, blackheads, enlarged pores, etc., are permanently removed in a short time. This mask is guaranteed in every respect. U. S. patent 887,482, (agents wanted.)

Why undergo surgical operations with doubtful result or suffer the torturer of the old-fashioned and unsatisfactory barbarous peeling methods or still worse face the dangers of the parafin filling treatment, when this mask is guaranteed as to its beneficial results or the money will be refunded?

I also remove superfious hair, painlessly, and forever, stop falling of the hair, grow new hair, restore premature grey hair (not guaranteed,) remove dandruff and do all other work of a cosmetic therapeutic nature like the removal of birth marks, moles, warts, scars, angiomata, etc. G. GOOD LUCK AND PROSPERITY TO THOSE WHO DESIRE IT.
MAJJI RAJJI.

Dr. R. C. Pondexter, Ps.D., the greatest psychologist and psychic reader known upon the face of the globe. He can read your life—past, present and future—like an open book. He can also read your character over the telephone, if you do not believe it, call him up and if he is not busy he will give you a free test of what he can do. If you want luck and prosperity, call and get one of his Hindoo mascots or good luck charms. They are being worn by many prominent men and women in various parts of the world, the virtue of them is something wonderful. They guard you against serious accidents, ward off evil influence, make you prosperous and happy in life. Thousands can testify to the good they have received through the aid of the mascots.

NOTICE!

Dr. Pondexter is the talk of the town, and is loved by all for his noble ability, good work and square dealing. His mascots are going very fast. It brings you good luck, peace and happiness to all who have them.

HE

reunites the separated, even though thousands of miles apart. He can make speedy marriages with the one of your choice. If you make lots of money and have no luck in saving it. Consult the Doctor. He knows your exact cause and trouble. He is the champion of the world. He wears the Gold Medal of Honor.

BURIED TREASURES DISCOVERED.
I Can Help You

Locating buried treasures, oil and gas wells are other feats performed by this wonderful man. His SPIRIT POWERS aid him wonderfully in discovering the valuable treasures of the earth. A short time ago a resident of Los Angeles county consulted DR. PONDEXTER with regard to buried treasure which he thought was hidden on his little ranch. He paid the doctor for the necessary instructions. As a result, he obtained two treasures instead of one! ONE CONTAINED $16,000 AND THE OTHER $5000.

Another party had a small mining ledge he had worked on unsuccessfully and became discouraged. He was about ready to sell it out for most any price, but he was advised to consult DR. PONDEXTER, and the doctor told him he was about to make the biggest mistake of his life. He advised him not to sell, but to go back and get busy, for there was plenty of gold there. So after one week's further experience, in obedience to the doctor's advice, he came in contact with a long ledge of gold, which will make him a rich man. And now the party has gone East, to secure money for the necessary equipment to commence mining development.

The large number of certificates and diplomas he has on exhibition gives him an official standing and places him in such a position where he can at once justly claim the confidence of the people. Consult him at once, for this wonder of knowledge can tell you what you wish to know. All business strictly confidential. Office hours, 1 to 5 p.m., 7 to 8:30 p.m. In forenoons by appointment. Permanently located in Pasadena, Calif. 12 S. FAIR OAKS AVE., in the heart of the city. Phone Sunset Main 4689. Home Phone 3254. Reserve this ad as it does not appear daily and bring it with you

THE WORLD'S GREATEST PSYCHICS,
BYRON STANLEY,
247 S. HILL ST.
READINGS FOR THE NEXT 7 DAYS ONLY
50c. $1.00. 50c. $1.00.
Cut this adv. out for reference.

DO YOU WANT TO KNOW ABOUT YOUR BUSINESS, HEALTH, MARRIAGE, LOVE AFFAIRS, OR HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR CONDITION FINANCIALLY AND SOCIALLY?

ALWAYS CONSULT THE BEST. IT IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END. IT IS BETTER TO CONSULT NO CLAIRVOYANT THAN ONE WHO IS NOT ABLE TO HELP YOU.

If you want the truth, with reliable advice, you will consult Stanley on past, present and future.

BYRON STANLEY

fully appreciates that in this day of sensational advertising there are more false claims and misrepresentations chaperoned through the columns of the daily press than the most hypential tongue could utter in a lifetime, until one cannot be blamed for doubting almost everything they read. Therefore, he says to you—come to him this very day and let him give you a complete reading, telling you every hope, fear or ambition, better than you could explain yourself. He will tell you the bad as well as the good, keeping nothing hidden from you. He will tell you everything upon matters of love, marriage, divorce, business, health; in fact, he will read your life like an open book.

NO NEED TO TELL HIM.

There is no need to tell Byron Stanley your story. There will be no "quizzing" or asking of questions. His talent enables him to instinctively know your wants and troubles. Without any attempt at mystification, but with unerring sight into the inner nature of things, he reveals that which you most want to know.

To whom it may concern: We take great pleasure in recommending our brother, PROF. BYRON STANLEY, as a life reader of good standing, having to our knowledge been fully developed in all the various phases of mental mediumship. We cordially recommend him to any individual or society that may need his advice.

DR. JOHN WESTERFIELD,
President Indiana State Association of Spiritualists.
Chesterfield, Ind., Sept. 4, 1896.

Don't struggle with a burden you can divide. A troubled mind begets a morbid conscience. Sympathy, consolation and timely advice heal the worst of wounds. Be advised and relieved of anxiety.

Readings, 10 to 8, daily and Sundays.

Byron Stanley does not read by mail and has no time to wait on people who call through curiosity.

MRS. MASSON,
the noted palmist of London, Eng., may be consulted at 322 S. SPRING ST., (over Owl Drug Store) by those desiring CAREFUL CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigation along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY, HONESTLY PRACTICED, WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions, and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity can all be told you through scientific palmistry WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

PERSONAL—
PROF. C. IRVIN ALTHOUSE,
NOTED ASTROLOGER AND PALMIST OF NATIONAL FAME AND REPUTATION.
305½ S. SPRING, NEAR THIRD ST.
A RESIDENT OF LOS ANGELES 28 YEARS.

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an experienced practitioner in the science of modern ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The horoscope shows the powerful influence of the planets in all affairs of life. It shows diseases, deaths, love and marriage, financial affairs, talents, environments, about children, relatives, when and where to travel, what to seek or to avoid, when in danger of losses, troubles, etc., etc.; also your good periods coming—GIVING DATES OF THESE EVENTS FOR THE FUTURE.

Your Horoscope is also a key to the character of others, and in this respect can be of the utmost use to you.

PROF. ALTHOUSE read E. H. Sothern, Nat Goodwin, Mary Mannering, Gadski, Admiral Schley, David Starr Jordan, ex-Gov. Pardee, ex-Senator Clark, Gen. Chaffee, Edison, Sousa, Modjeska, Julia Marlowe, Anna Held, Jefferson, Capt. Hobson, Lillian Russell, Calve, Admiral Evans, H. E. Huntington, De Wolf Hopper, Maxine Elliott, Ethel Barrymore, etc.

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S SKILLED WORK, with his trained judgment, must in no wise be classed with that of other readers. Therefore, do not waste your money on the idiotic advice and warning of HUMBUG astrologers, palmists, psychics—those doing dishonest work.

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an expert PALMIST, and WITH EACH PALM READING gives also an ASTROLOGICAL READING.

DR. J. A. LARSON writes: "I want to say that your reading was the most satisfactory thing I have ever had in my life. I know a great deal about these sciences, and I consider your work as the most THOROUGH and reliable of any reader in the United States."

LOUIS JAMES says: "I wish to say that your reading was entirely SATISFACTORY."

FREDERICK WARDE says: "Your reading was most SATISFACTORY. Your knowledge and skill is REMARKABLE."

MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK says: "I was greatly surprised to find how many of your warnings were well founded. YOUR READING WAS MOST MARVELOUS."

MME. BALDWIN writes: "The Horoscope you wrote for me is absolutely CORRECT. My friend, MME. NORDICA, the singer, first showed me her Horoscope, and recommended your work to me. Inclosed find check for four more Horoscopes—all friends of mine."

The interpretation of a horoscope is a fine art; the percentage of "GENUINE" astrologers is exceedingly small. To know a little of astrology out of books, and to be a skilfully trained, EXPERIENCED ASTROLOGER, are two entirely different things. Therefore, in this work, it depends largely WHO it is that reads you, as to the RESULTS obtained.

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S wonderful proficiency in the casting of HOROSCOPES and hand reading has brought him a LARGE AND SUCCESSFUL PRACTICE. The most private confidences are reposed in him, and his advice is sought in the most difficult and critical circumstances. Personal attention. Strict privacy. HIGHEST GRADE OF WORK that skill and many years of experience can produce; therefore HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

Daily and evenings; Sunday, 10 to 2.

WANTED—THE U. S. NAVY IS TODAY composed of the finest body of picked men in the world. It has no place for the ne'er-do-well or the failure.

More than 1000 men apply for positions in the navy each week. Only about 20 per cent. of these pass the examination and are accepted. This shows that the navy picks its men with rigorous care and pains.

The navy does not urge any man to enlist. But it does urge both parents and sons to investigate the opportunities the navy offers young men (17 to 35,) either as a four-years' training or as a life's work.

The life is healthful, the work agreeable, environment wholesome and healthful, and the man who wishes to learn by study and travel or to learn a trade will find ample opportunity as will the man who desires to save money and win promotion and retirement on three-fourths pay.

The nearest Navy Recruiting Station is at San Fernando Bldg., Fourth and Main sts., Los Angeles, Cal. The officer in charge will be glad to see parents and sons, and explain everything you wish to know about work, pay, promotion, retirement, recreation, etc. Or send for "The Making of a Man-O-Warsman." It is free. Address BUREAU OF NAVIGATION, box 225, Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

Cincinnati did only about half as much building up to October 1 as this city and Milwaukee and Minneapolis but little better. Pittsburgh, St. Paul and Newark are far behind Los Angeles. Other cities of similar importance may be said only to have "also run."

The Star of Empire.

The "Star of Empire" has betaken itself westward to the natural barrier of the Pacific Ocean, and there has camped to stay. Destiny has selected this Coast for her own. The present-day activity on this slope is but a part and parcel of a continuous material advance which is without a parallel in history and which will not abate until the mighty cities which must be built at this end of the continent have been reared for the admiration of the world. The West Coast, with all its dizzying progress, is really as yet only in the making.

In fifty years or less the Pacific Coast has experienced a development comparable from every point of view with that which crowns a civilization over three hundred years old on the Atlantic seaboard. It is hardly exaggeration to say that the real West Coast of today is a bare quarter of a century old. This end of the continent has been as a strong, young land, inviting and attracting the best blood of the country. Resources untouched and opportunities unfathomed have been the lodes that have drawn the best and bravest of the East and Middle West to these shores. The miracle of Pacific Coast development is no miracle at all, for they have not been raw, untrained immigrants made stupid by centuries of oppresion who have made this western empire, but sturdy, enterprising and intelligent American citizens.

The West Coast has been literally a mighty empire to itself up to this time, a new, reliant and self-sufficient country, independent almost of the rest of the world. The impetus that must follow the perfection of communication with the trading ports of the entire globe baffles conjecture and staggers even the statistician. The world will soon discover what the United States now realizes, that this is the real land of opportunity. The new era bids fair to be greater even than the present.

Los Angeles will be the metropolis of the West Coast of the future. With all its wealth of material resource and business opportunity this city can go the other cities of the Pacific Coast one better and offer the lure of a perfect climate. Well may the builders of Los Angeles hasten to invest their capital in preparation for the mighty population of the fu-

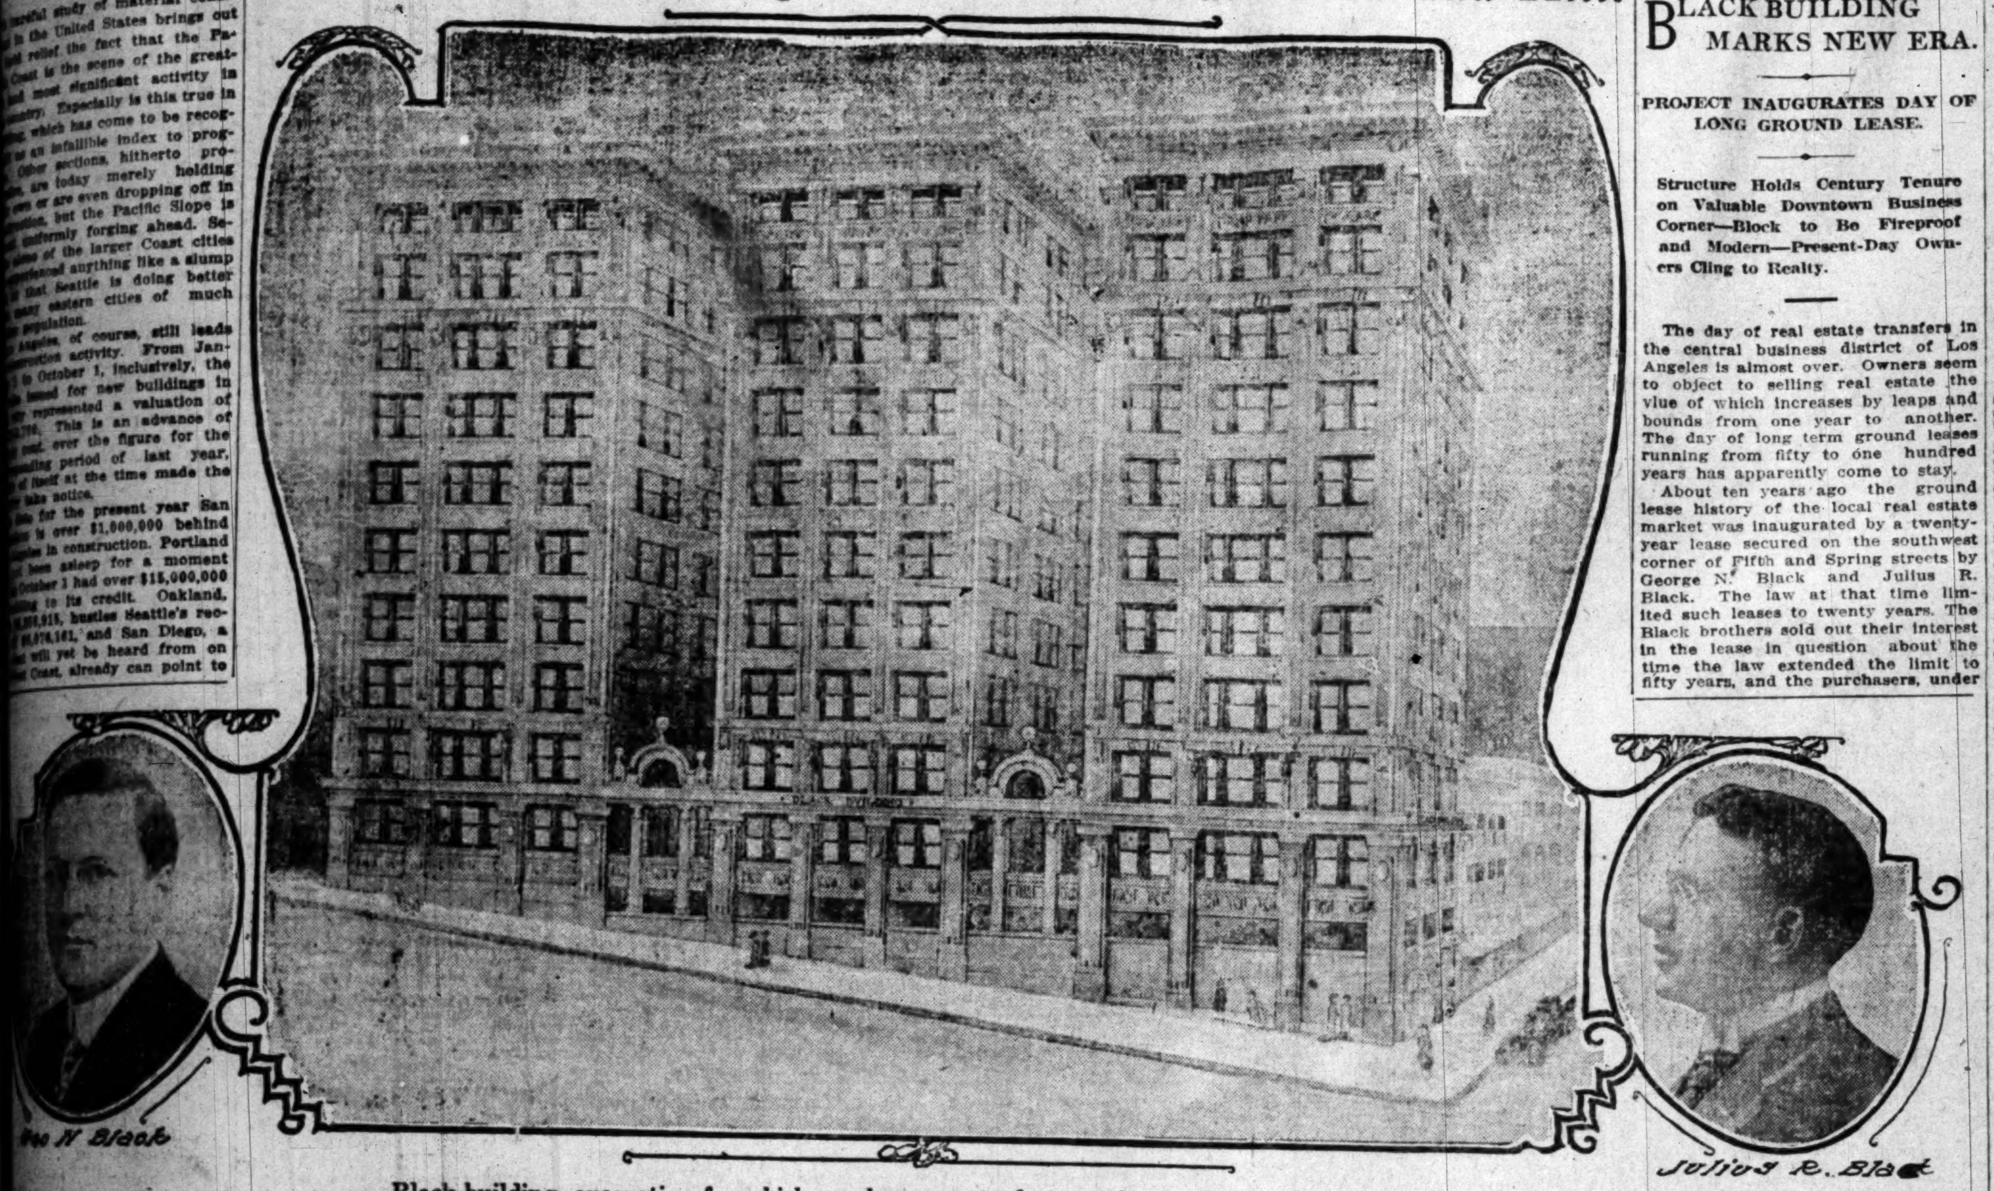
Imposing Structure to Replace Frame Shack at Fourth and Hill.



Black building, excavation for which was begun yesterday morning, and two principal owners.

Epoch-Making.

BLACK BUILDING MARKS NEW ERA.

PROJECT INAUGURATES DAY OF LONG GROUND LEASE.

Structure Holds Century Tenure on Valuable Downtown Business Corner—Block to Be Fireproof and Modern—Present-Day Owners Cling to Realty.

The day of real estate transfers in the central business district of Los Angeles is almost over. Owners seem to object to selling real estate the value of which increases by leaps and bounds from one year to another. The day of long term ground leases running from fifty to one hundred years has apparently come to stay.

About ten years ago the ground lease history of the local real estate market was inaugurated by a twenty-year lease secured on the southwest corner of Fifth and Spring streets by George N. Black and Julius R. Black. The law at that time limited such leases to twenty years. The Black brothers sold out their interest in the lease in question about the time the law extended the limit to fifty years, and the purchasers, under the fifty-year leeway, financed the Alexandria Hotel upon the new contract.

In rapid succession followed fifty-year leases on the southeast corner of Fifth and Spring, on which the Security building was erected, on the northwest corner of Seventh and Broadway, the site of the Bullock building, on the northeast corner of Fifth and Spring, where the Title Insurance building is nearing completion, and on the northwest corner of Seventh and Spring, the site of the Union Oil building. In addition, there are a number of other fifty-year leases in the central business district which are dormant for the present, awaiting proper development.

During the current year the law was again changed, extending the limit of time of ground leases to ninety-nine years. The first leasehold obtained and recorded under the latest law, in the State of California, was secured by Black Bros., on the old Cowper homestead property at the northwest corner of Hill and Fourth streets, on which the Black building, an eleven-story class A office structure, is now under construction, the excavation for the basement having been begun yesterday morning.

The Black building will be rushed to completion and probably will be ready for tenancy within a year. It will be architecturally one of the handsomest office buildings in the city. The architects are Edelman & Barnett. The division of the Fourth street elevation into three wings, offset at their bases by columnar details of a pleasing effect, gives a graceful appearance to the building without sacrificing its utility in the slightest degree. The exterior is to be of glazed tile, the interior trim of mahogany.

The building will be lighted throughout with tungsten lamps. Three large elevators of the plunger type, for passengers, are provided, and a broad, handsome entrance, which will be either in Mexican onyx or one of the colored marbles. The structure will cost about $400,000.

The Black building will be an important improvement in the development of Fourth street as a financial and brokerage center. For several years past the tendency has been for the large brokerage houses handling either Wall street or local stock exchange business, to center on or near Fourth street in the vicinity of the Stock Exchange in the I. W. Hellman building. The Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank, the California National Bank, the Central National Bank, the Commercial National Bank, the German American Savings Bank and the Southern Trust Company are all located on Fourth street, which as a financial thoroughfare and brokerage center is to Los Angeles what Montgomery street is to San Francisco and Wall street to New York.

The Black building will be owned by the Black Fireproof Building Company, which is composed of George N. Black, president; Roland Baruch and E. D. Chapman, vice-presidents, and Julius R. Black, treasurer. The owners of the site are Mary A. Saunders, R. S. Saunders, Mary J. Cowper and Julia M. Brown.

The site was for thirty years occupied by the dwelling of the Cowper family, pioneers in Southern California. The splendid building to be erected will replace a small frame shack which took the place of the former homestead many years ago and which had long constituted an eyesore on an otherwise imposing thoroughfare.

Plan American Ostend.

GREAT TOURIST HOSTELRY ON SANDS OF NORTH BEACH.

Historic Ocean Frontage at Foot of the Palisades Has Been Purchased by Local Capitalists and Will Be Improved as a High-Class Resort—Plans of Most Ambitious Character.

THE revivifying of the old historic "North Beach" section of the Santa Monica into the Ostend of America is made a probability the next few years as the result of a realty transfer concluded yesterday between the Santa Monica Land and Water Company, as sellers, and Col. J. B. Lankershim and John W. Mitchell as buyers, and involving over a half-mile of shore frontage at the base of the Santa Monica Palisades. The $250,000 paid for this property was declared by Mitchell yesterday afternoon to be but the initial and by far the small end of the expenditure to be made in connection with the project. The transaction came as the climax to negatiations extending over many months.

The plan for the future improvement and developing of the frontage involved includes the erection of a magnificent fire-proof tourist hotel of mammoth proportions on the northern 400 feet of the purchase. The cement walk from Venice to the old North Beach bath-house site is to be continued northward through the entire property, being set above a sea wall which will be a marvel of engineering and lined on the ocean side with a handsome ornamental balustrade.

A similar walk is to be laid along the front of a shelf of land which will be carved into the contour of the Palisades, and upon which are to be built scores of picturesque villa homes. An automobile roadway twenty feet wide and extending through the property from end to end will complete the general scheme, which will include also a wholesale landscaping and terracing of the entire holding.

Col. Lankershim recently returned from an extended trip through Europe, during the course of which he inspected and made a careful study of the principal resort centers of Europe, paying especial attention to Ostend, Trouville and Vichy, with the view to adopting many of the ideas gleaned in the development of the Santa Monica frontage. In the spring Mitchell will pay a visit to Europe with a similar end in view.

GROUND IS HISTORIC.

The entire holding is intimately associated with the early history of Southern California, the frontage having been a part of the great San Jacinto rancho, which a generation ago passed into the hands of Mrs. Arcadia de Baker and former Senator John P. Jones, who in turn transferred it to the Santa Monica Land and Water Company.

In the days of the glory of old Santa Monica the property was looked upon as promising, but following the departure of this prestige to other and newer beach centers and due to the abandonment of the Southern Pacific's great scheme of making an important port of entry at its expensive long wharf, interest in the frontage lapsed until it was for a time almost nil. Of recent years, however, prediction has been freely made that North Beach would again come into its own.

The piece bought by Col. Lankershim and Mitchell begins in front of Arizona avenue, about 1000 feet north of the site of the old North Beach bath-house and exactly 100 feet north of the former bath-house, the latter from Linda Vista Park to the foot of the Palisades, and extends for 2918 feet, to a point about 400 feet north of Idaho avenue. Between the property on the south and the site of the former bathhouse, the latter of which properties recently changed hands at $100 a foot, stands a row of shore houses, together with quite a stretch of vacant frontage. The frontage just transferred has been lying unimproved for twenty years, a private bath-house erected by its original owner having long ago been razed.

IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED.

It is the intention of the present owners of the great frontage to create a dignified resort, which will be free from the ordinary amusement features of the Coney Island type. The plans throughout, although many definite details are as yet necessarily lacking, are o a most ambitious character and are for a water front that will compare favorably with the most famous in this country and Europe.

A casino will be one of the first of the more pretentious buildings to be erected, which will include, beside the monster tourist hotel mentioned, a large and well-appointed bath-house. The ground just inside the ocean front walk, will be subdivided much after the fashion of Seaside and Vicente Terraces just to the south, which have within the past year become Santa Monica show places.

The villas to be erected on the shelf at the base of the bluffs which are crowned by Linda Vista Park, will stand at the roof level of the houses closer to the tide line. All lots are to be sold subject to building restrictions which will define not only the cost limit but the architectural character of the houses built. The right-of-way at both sides of the Pacific Electric's line to the long wharf are to be parked in keeping with the general character of the landscape treatment.

THREE BECOME VOTERS.

Santa Ana Women Put Themselves On Records and Are Now Qualified to Exercise Franchise.

SANTA ANA, Oct. 14.—Three women were registered by County Clerk Williams this morning, and a supply of affidavits was sent to Registration Clerk G. W. Finch at Fullerton, where women are waiting to register that they may vote on November 25 in the election to determine whether or not Fullerton will go "wet."

The first woman registered was Ellen F. Smith, aged 72, wife of D. Edson Smith. She said she was head of the house and a Socialist. Others registered were Miss Nellie Bacon, deputy in Sheriff Ruddock's office, aged 25, a Republican, and Mrs. Margaret D. Taylor, 54, housekeeper, a Socialist.

ORANGE.

ORANGE, Oct. 14.—A. G. Lentz, for a number of years a storekeeper east of Orange, died suddenly last night. He had been suffering with Bright's disease, and yesterday afternoon had a stroke of paralysis.

CORONADO.

CORONADO, Oct. 14.—At the request of Coronado residents Postal Inspector C. D. Lowe has completed investigation of conditions pertaining to free delivery of mail. His report to be forwarded to Washington, is believed to be favorable. Petitions heretofore have been turned down. Within the last two years many miles of streets have been graded and sidewalks laid, while the population has almost doubled.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT.

OUR idea of a home is one both PRACTICAL and ARTISTIC. By careful thought, we manage to instill certain INDIVIDUALITY in each home.

It quite frequently happens that the PROSPECTIVE BUILDER'S IDEAS and PURSE do not correspond. In such cases our PRACTICAL knowledge comes to the rescue, and often where others have hopelessly FAILED, WE SUCCEED.

We build homes from the modest five-room cottage, at $900, to the most elaborate dwelling. It rests with the INDIVIDUAL, entirely, what his home will cost. By concentrating our PURCHASING POWER, combined with our PRACTICAL knowledge, and being in a position to DISCOUNT our BILLS, we can, for a given quality of work, discount our competitors' prices.

We build either by contract or on a fixed fee of 10 per cent. of estimated cost of work, or on our own lots in Los Angeles, Redondo and San Pedro, on easy terms.

We make no additional charges for our Architectural services, if we build, or if we fail to satisfy you both as to price and design.

Our REFERENCES are PEOPLE for whom we HAVE BUILT, who FREELY indorse us.

We make liberal building loans.

FOR SALE—

EAGLE ROCK.
EAGLE ROCK.
EAGLE ROCK.

The most beautiful and "closest in" foothill suburb of Los Angeles.

The ONLY foothill suburb reached by the local street cars of the Los Angeles Railway Company.

Eagle Rock has doubled in population every year for five years, and is just now on the eve of wonderful development.

Colorado st. runs directly through Eagle Rock to Pasadena; it is 120 feet wide and is being rock-paved as part of the Good Roads system.

Eagle Rock will soon be connected to Pasadena (3¼ miles away) by a $225,000 bridge across the Arroyo Seco, at its most picturesque point.

Eagle Rock is to be the home of the Greater Occidental College, with its magnificent new buildings and its 92-acre campus.

Eagle Rock has an altitude of 650 to 800 feet; it is practically free from frost and fog.

Eagle Rock presents unusual opportunities just now to both the homeseeker and the speculator.

Just think of beautiful lots, 50x140, improved with petrolithic paved streets, cement sidewalks and curbs, for $225!

Think of ACRE lots, covered with orange trees, and fronting on well-improved streets, with irrigation water stock, and supplied with gas and electricity, for $1750.

These properties are NOT away off, but are one block from street car and boulevard, and surrounded by beautiful homes.

We have been closely identified with the upbuilding of Eagle Rock and cheerfully refer you to hundreds of satisfied customers there.

Two branch offices in Eagle Rock with automobiles to show property. Take Eagle Rock cars on Spring st.

BIG LOT, SMALL PRICE.
72x300 FEET, $375.
$10 CASH AND $10 MONTHLY.
CERTAIN profit in this lot; when you see this property and learn all the facts concerning it, you'll agree with me. It's desirable—VERY DESIRABLE—and when you buy at this price you will soon be able to pocket a nice gain. This lot is only 17 minutes from Sixth and Main sts., near the best car line; it's in a good neighborhood, perfectly level, with water delivered absolutely free in large steel mains, under natural pressure; with this frontage of 72 feet, and a depth of 300, do you realize what a perfect home place could be established here? With a nice bungalow, garden, chickens and fruit trees, you are absolutely independent of high rents, and high cost of living; this lot will be taken quickly, so when you come to investigate, bring ten dollars with you and be prepared to buy. FOR SALE—
On account of peculiar conditions a number of very fine lots lying between Washington street, and West Adams, on high ground, will be closed out at a very low figure. These lots are unquestionably in as fine a location as any that can be found in this fashionable district. The present offer will hold good on them for ten days. At the price quoted they are as low as adjoining acreage. This is certainly an exceptional opportunity for those desiring an investment or those wanting to build, to secure a lot at wholesale cost with all improvements, in, in addition. For particulars address V, box 122, TIMES OFFICE.

FOR SALE—
A BARGAIN IN ACREAGE.
WHERE AN ACRE LOT SUBDIVISION IS REALLY NEEDED.

There is a big demand in the harbor district for acre lots, REALLY CLOSE-IN and on a car line. There are NO SUCH LOTS FOR SALE. Yet wage earners ALWAYS PREFER such acres for their homes and the harbor district will grow faster in wage-earning population than any other district we have.

There is ONLY ONE piece of REALLY CLOSE-IN car line acreage, in the ENTIRE HARBOR DISTRICT, available for an acre lot subdivision at a price that will double your money. LITERALLY ONLY ONE SUCH PIECE. Therefore it offers AN ACTUAL MONOPOLY of the acre-lot business right where the biggest acre-lot demand MUST come.

320 acres in all. Part can be sold separately. You can buy it for $500 an acre, on easy subdivider's terms, and retail it to average $1000 an acre. Remember, it is ONLY 10 MINUTES by car from the business heart of San Pedro.

If you want THE BEST subdivision opportunity there is, let us tell you more about this. And DON'T WAIT. Come NOW.

FOR SALE—
SPECULATION, ACREAGE. SUBDIVISION.

Follow the eye of an expert. Note the wonderful growth of our city. Answer yourself, where is the best speculation acreage near our city that will produce profit in the shortest time?

OUR ANSWER IS

Between the ocean and our prosperous city. Fortunately we can deliver for a very short time 30 acres on Washington Blvd., with all city conveniences, such as car lines with 5c fare, electric lights, water, etc.

Lots adjoining are selling for $1250 to $2500. We will deliver acres for the price of lots a stone's throw from the property.

EXPERT OPINION IS BEST.

We back our reputation on this buy. Seeing is believing. Let us show you. Our autos at your service.

WITH MINES & FARISH,
353 S. HILL ST.

WANTED—
We want three men with $5000 each to help us buy thirteen acres of land on yellow car line that will return 100 per cent. profit. No firm in the city can claim a greater or more successful experience in subdividing than ourselves and we unqualifiedly state that this piece of land is a certain money-maker. It will cut into 78 lots and costs $28,000; improvements and selling expenses will amount to $15,500 more, or a total of $43,500. At an extremely conservative estimate the lots will sell for $58,000, or a net profit of $14,500 on an original investment of $14,500, divided as follows: $8000 payment on land, $5000 street work, $1500 general expense. This is a sure and safe little investment, every dollar of which will be properly safeguarded. Immense opportunity for building company. Inquire of

FOR SALE—

HAVE YOU FORESIGHT?

If you believe in the future of Los Angeles

—And if you recognize what the Panama canal will do for us —And if you appreciate the value of our Owens River proposition

—And if you see the great benefits to be derived from the San Francisco Exposition

—And if you believe that Los Angeles will grow in the next 10 years as rapidly as in the last decade

WE'RE READY TO TALK!

You know that you can't go wrong on any land around Los Angeles—

—But—You want the best—

THEN INVESTIGATE MONTE VISTA.

You could have bought acreage in Hollywood for from $300 to $500 per acre a few years ago.

You can secure Monte Vista acreage for this price today.

It is exactly as good and as sure to increase in value as rapidly as has Hollywood.

BECAUSE—

Monte Vista isn't low flat valley lands—hot in summer and cold in winter.

Monte Vista is dry balmy foothill valley land—without a peer as far as climate and scenic charm go.

Called by many "The little Yosemite of Southern California."

Only to be compared to Altadena and Sierra Madre, where it costs you four times what we ask.

Monte Vista is absolutely your last opportunity to buy frostless, balmy foothill land, with plenty of water and transportation assured, at anything under a thousand dollars an acre.

There is only a very limited amount of the choicest land left.

We are selling every day.

So get busy and investigate!

Get our booklet.

Arrange to go out in auto—$1 for round trip.

But—Investigate!

FOR SALE—

20 ACRES

$5500.

THIS IS WORTH READING

20 acres of that beautiful foothill property just north of Glendale, containing all the features most desired for a fine country home, or a good investment; elevation about 1400 feet. No better soil anywhere; about one-half of this land is tillable, and has been set out to a variety of fruits. Plenty of water already developed on the property; new cement reservoir with capacity of 5000 cubic feet, and windmill just installed; about one-half of the property consists of different levels, embracing grand building sites, canyons, hillsides, and commanding the grandest scenery to be found in Southern California. One of the best country roads being built right there; a fine townsite to be soon started, almost adjoining and great development coming all around that district. This is decidedly a bargain.

FIVE ACRES OF RICH LAND NEAR THE OCEAN
$300 DOWN.

Only $350 per acre, and five years to pay for your home. Where else in the vicinity of Los Angeles can you secure five acres of rich sandy loam soil, located near a beach with a view of ocean and mountains—a home place which is high and sightly and close to a school, postoffice and store, and in the neighborhood of attractive homes surrounded by thrifty walnut and apple groves—at this price, or EVEN DOUBLE THE PRICE?

OUR PRICE INCLUDES THE PIPING OF WATER TO YOUR TRACT.

In an artesian district, where water is cheap. Soil easily worked, and adapted to walnuts, lemons, apples, peaches and all of the deciduous fruits, vegetables, etc. We challenge a comparison of soil conditions here with other communities. The homeseeker cannot fail to be pleased. All we ask is the privilege of showing you this near-to-the-ocean acreage. Excursions daily.

FOR SALE—
MONTE VISTA IS DISCOVERED.

We have been telling you of the little Mountain Hidden Valley of Monte Vista only 15 to 17 miles from the Chamber of Commerce building, where the Sierra Madres rise 6000 feet high on one side and the perpetually green Verdugo Mountains rise 4000 feet on other sides—forming a tabernacle among the hills.

We have told you that the floor of this valley ranges from 1500 to 2000 feet above sea level—and that in the 15 miles from the Chamber of Commerce building the road is only a gentle rise—without hills or grades of more than 5 per cent.

We have told you that we, as owners of the Glendale local trolley system, are going to extend the line to the old original vale of Monte Vista.

—BUT NOW WE ARE DISCOVERED—

The Pasadena Board of Trade and the Southern California State Highway Committee has recommended that the inland route of the new State highway be directed east from Fernando—"Through the Monte Vista Valley—Crescenta and Cauyoda to Pasadena, etc." The Express said: "The proposed route will open a little-known region of great beauty."

Your opportunity to get single five or ten-acre tracts at $300 to $500 an acre (none higher—no extras) is just about gone.

Come, investigate at once. Round-trip auto excursions $1. A ride amid scenes equalling Switzerland and a return to the heart of the city in a few hours. Booklet free.

HAVE YOU INVESTIGATED
BALMY MONTE VISTA YET?
This is NOT an immense valley of thousands of acres. It is a little gem located in the foothills at an elevation of 1700 feet.
This valley is limited. The choicest property will be gone now inside of the next few weeks.
You stand a better chance Monday or Tuesday than you do Friday or Saturday. You will get a far better choice this week than next. So investigate quickly.

CHOICE BUILDING LOTS.

IRVING PARK.

HOLLYWOOD.

Thirty-six choice building lots in the foothill subdivision facing the mountains and fronting Hollywood boulevard, ranging in size fifty feet front to 190 feet deep.

This subdivision located in a handsomely built up neighborhood, two blocks from the entrance of Griffith Park; two car lines to the property. The prices we make on the different lots above them to be a most excellent buy for investment, being much lower than any of the surrounding properties. Very easy payments and full building restrictions.

We emphasize the fact that this is the last and best subdivision on Hollywood boulevard.

We would be pleased to have you visit the tract personally and inspect the different lots. Take the Hollywood car, get off at Garfield place and walk one-half block west to the office of the tract, corner of Jackson Way and Hollywood boulevard.

RANCHO EL SOBRANTE

NOW BEING SUBDIVIDED.

The Rancho El Sobrante, consisting of about 43,000 acres, lying in the heart of Riverside county, is now being surveyed and classified into subdivisions, showing which of the standard crops should be grown on each subdivision.

One of these subdivisions is a large area of undeveloped country, but wonderfully rich with possibilities, only waiting for the enterprise and thrift of the sturdy pioneer to transform this land, now so rich in its natural state, into many times over their original cost.

This land lies almost due west from the town of Perris, in a valley generally referred to as the "Gavilan Valley," comprising about 5000 acres; each acre in the experienced hands of a practical farmer is destined to produce bumper crops.

THE SOIL, WATER, CROPS THAT CAN BE GROWN, INCREASE IN LAND VALUES, LOW COST OF LAND, are here unsurpassed.

The El Sobrante Land Company proposes to turn this undeveloped portion of the ranch into a typical California rural garden spot. As a first start to that end, they propose to make a most liberal offer to ten pioneers, men who will be first to begin clearing, building and planting crops.

THE FREE LAND OFFER.

To these ten men, men that will be carefully selected, we propose to make a straight clean gift of twenty (20) of the best acres in California; this with the purchase at a low price on easy terms of twenty more.

For full particulars regarding this free land offering, call on or address as below.

Immediate action, however, must be taken if you desire to be one of these ten men, as the list is almost complete.

FOR SALE—
THE BEST LAND FOR YOU, MR. HOMESEEKER. CROPS MATURE EVERY MONTH IN THE YEAR. $40 AN ACRE UP, EASY TERMS. NO INTEREST OR TAXES.

You don't have to be a "specialist" or an expert to make money and build up a fine home place in my Fresno Valley tract; the soil here and climate conditions are such that you can have some crop coming to maturity almost every month in the year. Water conditions are all that you could ask. Ditch water costs but 75c per acre per year; water from pumps already installed can be had at actual cost; and it's cheap; perfect conditions for alfalfa; six to eight cuttings per year. Fine for many other crops; including corn, oranges, walnuts, figs, apricots, peaches, vegetables and berries; good markets right at hand; with the city of Fresno only a few minutes' ride by train; plenty of neighbors here and many improved properties now paying a handsome profit; with soil and water conditions the same as those on the land I offer. Good town close by, with schools, stores, telephones, and free rural delivery. Come in and see my interesting exhibit of products; it will give you the best idea of the productiveness of this soil. My free booklet states the facts; be sure and get one and to learn about my free excursions. No interest or taxes for two years.

FOR A BIG MAN WHO KNOWS VALUES.

I have 623 acres land in the alfalfa belt of Kings county near Corcoran that I must dispose of at once. 240 acres alfalfa; 8 flowing wells with enough water to irrigate the entire property; 12 good horses, 90 good cows, 100 head hogs, 60 head young stock, 150 tons hay, grain and alfalfa, buildings, separator and other equipment; certainly a lot to consider. Property exclusive of any improvements is worth $125 per acre. Live stock worth at least $12,000—making property figure at $100,000 value. As it stands now this place pays about $12,000 per year and is not being worked to anywhere near its capacity. This is an income property with an immediate INCOME and a hustler can make it pay all of 28 per cent. or better. The price I ask is only $130 per acre. Terms, $40,000 down and balance 4 years at 7 per cent.

5-ACRE FARMS. 5-ACRE FARMS.
Our new subdivision of the famous Lucky Baldwin Ranch, containing is now open for inspection by prospective home-seekers and investors.
—— 2000 ACRES ——

This beautiful tract is situated 18 miles east of Los Angeles, in the San Gabriel Valley, and between the thriving towns of El Monte and Puente, and north of Whittier and is on the main line of the Salt Lake and Southern Pacific. The new valley boulevard to Los Angeles bounds the subdivision on the north.

The soil is a deep sediment loam, of exceptional fertility and there is no better land for Oranges,
Lemons,
Walnuts,
Alfalfa,
or for any kind of vegetables or small fruits.

It is also an ideal spot for chicken ranches. Owing to the excellent transportation facilities, good roads, best high and public schools in the county, banks, churches and stores of all kinds, it leaves nothing more to be desired for a home, and it's sure to be a profitable investment.

THE WATER QUESTION.

With each acre of land one share of fully paid up water stock will be issued, entitling the owner to a perpetual right to an abundant and never failing supply of water for irrigation, at cost of pumping. We have sold thousands of acres of land, adjoining this tract, where soil and water conditions are equal, and if you want to see thrifty walnut and alfalfa ranches and dairy farms, let us show you this favored region. We have satisfied hundreds of discriminating land buyers, simply because we offer nothing but good land, at right prices. See it and be convinced. We want every person seeking a home or profitable investment to see this land before buying elsewhere. The location will appeal to you, the soil and water conditions will satisfy you, and the location is right in the march of progress through the great San Gabriel Valley, where fortunes are being made yearly from the orchards, and vines, and from the increased valuation of the land.

FOR SALE—
ARIZONA LANDS.
Under the Roosevelt dam I have an option on 160 acres, about 12 miles from Phoenix, at $150 an acre; payments 1-4 down, and balance in 4 years; this land will grow anything grown here, and is especially good for lemons, navel oranges and dates, or vegetables; and this year adjoining farms produced $800 to $1200 per acre, in tomatoes, sweet potatoes and onions. I want six to eight parties to join me in buying the place, each taking 20 to 40 acres, thus saving a selling agent's commission, and making for themselves $300 to $500 an acre on the investment, besides what we produce off the ground; also own 160 acres near Denver, Colo., which will trade for property here or near Phoenix. Address M, box 124, TIMES OFFICE.

FOR SALE—

FOR SALE—

MEXICAN LAND.

Now is the very best time to go to Sinaloa and look up the piece of land.

The farmer and settler should go because he will find the finest lands on earth, with transporation by rail and water, selling at prices below what the actual net profits on a single crop are.

Irrigation unnecessary for one crop.

Shallow pumping water for a second and third crop.

The investor should take advantage of this exceptional opportunity for safe and profitable investment.

Isn't it worth something to you to know that you are buying adjoining land to a man who is actually farming?

Don't you suppose they investigated carefully before they bought?

Don't you think you had better give this matter attention before the best of locations are gone?

If you want to know something of the wonderful richness and opportunities of Sinaloa, ask for out State of Sinaloa Booklet. It's free.

BEN W. McCLOSKEY & CO.,
305-306 Union Trust Bldg.

FOR SALE—

We still have some land left in the choicest tract on the west coast of Mexico, in a district where wonderful results are being obtained from the unbelievably rich soil, cheap labor and excellent transportation facilities, etc.

Sinaloa has been proven and developed by Americans. It is the new land of opportunity and investment. Values are increasing rapidly. The beautiful "SABINOS" Valley is the finest piece of land on the whole west coast. We are still selling land, $1.00 per acre down, and $1.00 per acre per month, and will farm the land for you while you are paying for it; but—GET BUSY.

FOR SALE—
FROSTLESS, BALMY.

MONTE VISTA VALLEY.
If it is frostless lemon, sub-tropical fruit or winter vegetable land that you desire, act now or forever lose your opportunity.
This land is 1500 to 1900 feet above the sea.
It is 15 miles from the business center.
LISTEN TO THIS:
Philip Begire, one of the best known vineyardists, and widely known in the Government Forest Service, has lived on these lands for many years. He reports as follows:
"I have had tomato wines and chili peppers live through for three years without being cut down by frosts."
How many spots are there like this within 15 miles of the city, with ample water and electric line assured?
We offer a very limited amount of this land for $200 to $300 per acre. Nothing higher.
Get our booklet and arrange to see it.
Don't miss this!

BIGGEST SNAPS

IN

LOS ANGELES.

One of the swellest 60-room rooming houses on the east side; 3 minutes from Broadway; fireproof building, steam heat, hot and cold water and as clean as time and money can make it. This house has only been furnished about one year, and furniture cost $7000 at Pease Bros. Rent is less than $5 per room for over 8 years. Lady must go East at once, so has instructed me to sacrifice it. Price only $5500, on easy terms.

A LIVE PROPOSITION

FOR A LIVE PARTY.

A 50-room apartment house on the west side in the very best locality and handles only high-class trade. Is always full and a money maker. Hot and cold water and heat. Everything clean. The lease is for over 2 years and is only $4.50 per room. This house netted $175 last month, but owner is sick and must sell. $4000; $2800 cash down and balance easy.

THE SWELLEST

LITTLE PLACE

IN THE CITY.

An exclusive little apartment of 25 rooms in a fashionable neighborhood, on easy terms. Hot and cold water, private baths, automatic heaters, all outside rooms and has all the built-in features to make it a classy little proposition. Building is of cement, only 3 months old. Elegantly furnished. Nets $150 per month and owner's apartment and living. If you are in the market act quick, as it is bound to go soon. Price is cost. Easy terms.

A LITTLE HOME.

A beautiful little house of 20 rooms, located close in; is full all year 'round of good business people. If any one wants a nice home and income of $65 net per month, and has $1200 to invest, come in and see me at once.

TO BE BUILT.

SWELLEST FAMILY

HOTEL IN CITY.

I have plans for the most exclusive hotel in the swellest location in Los Angeles. It is on a corner, all outside rooms, pressed brick building. Has 50 guest rooms, each one with a private bath and dressing and sleeping rooms in connection. It will also have one of the finest dining rooms and lobby of its kind in the city. If you are in the market for a high-grade proposition see me at once on this.

FOR SALE

AT INVOICE.

One of the best 40-room family hotels in the city; is clearing at the present time over $300 per month; owner of furniture also owns building and will sell the furniture at invoice and give a 5-year lease on hotel at a moderate rental. If you are looking for a dandy hotel, get busy.

HOTEL, CENTRAL LOCATION.
66 rooms, all light, large, cheerful rooms, some private baths, furnishings all good; this is one of the best money makers in the city, and always has been; will show up better than $5000 per year or no sale; has long lease that is $100 per month under price; for terms and particulars call at our office.

ANOTHER ONE, AND IS RIGHT.
75 rooms, very close-in hotel that is always doing a good profitable business, furnishings all clean and in first-class condition; has some private baths, steam heat, hot and cold water in all rooms; this has a long lease and the rent is under the price of anything in this locality; don't delay looking into anything that is close in; terms may be had; see us.

HIGH-CLASS APARTMENT-HOUSE.
76 rooms, in one of the very best locations; the house is new and was only recently furnished with very fine furnishings; is now doing a very profitable business; the very best of reasons for offering it for sale; has 10-year lease and the rent is right; call and see us for particulars; very easy terms may be had.

SMALLER ONE, BUT GOOD.
40 rooms, walking distance, mostly 2-room apartments, modern in every way; furnishings all in splendid condition, and house is full all the time, had scarcely any vacancies during the summer; nearly 5-year lease at less than $6 per room; terms may be had; this is a gilt-edge buy and a nice home for some one, and a net income of over $250 per month.

ONE OF THE VERY BEST,
5 MINUTES FROM THIS OFFICE.
54 rooms, everyone wants house on this street; we consider the very best proposition that has been put on the market for a long time; seeing and knowing the particulars means buying at once; furnishings all in the best of condition; has 5-year lease at reasonable rental; price is right and terms may be had.

HERE IS ANOTHER THAT IS RIGHT.
63 rooms, modern in every way, furnishings all good, surroundings all right; lease at $5 per room; price is low and can be had on terms; see us for a bargain very soon.

BARGAIN, EASY TO HANDLE.
34 rooms, in the very best part of the city, furnishings all good; rent less than $6 per room, with 4-year lease; this house can be had on a very small amount of cash, and is now doing a nice business.

NEW ONES IN COURSE OF CONSTRUCTION, AND READY TO MOVE IN.
176 rooms, apartments, beautiful view, all outside rooms; all the built-in effects that can be found in any house in this city; this is a good one.
80 rooms, close-in location, walking distance, look into this one at once.
51 rooms, beautiful location, now about ready to move into; is right up to the minute in every respect.
42 rooms, location right for good steady trade; modern in every way; see us about this one quick, as it will soon go.
33 rooms, on one of the very best streets in the city; ready to move right into; steam heat, brick building, large hallways, and the rent is only $5 per room for a 5-year lease.

WILL BUILD ON THE FOLLOWING LOCATIONS:
73 rooms, West 11th, very choice lot, near two car lines, investigate.
75 rooms, on Figueroa, the very best part; come in today; don't fail to look into this one at once, as here is one that will not last any time at all; call for the full particulars.
Ingraham st., very choice, high-class house to be built, plans now ready; see us about this one.
Grand ave. location, will build to suit tenant; very choice lot, and the rent only $6.50 per room.

FOR SALE — A BEAUTIFUL AND MASSIVELY constructed apartment building, right on the ocean front in Santa Monica; every modern improvement; steam heated and expensively furnished; seventeen 3-room suites, each apartment consists of hall, bathroom and toilet, up-to-date kitchen with every convenience, and commodious living room. This is a 45-foot triple frontage lot. Close to the municipal pier, in fact, this is the most desirable hotel site in all Santa Monica. I can deliver this property and its furnishings at a price away under its present conservative value, for the reason that the owner is advancing in years and is in poor health, and wishes to turn his property into cash. I am positive a discriminating investor, will see in this a rare opportunity to get a new up-to-date building, and an established business, away below its real worth; part of purchase price can remain on mortgage; the most rigid investigation is invited. For particulars write or see W. H. DOWSING (Exclusive Agent for owner,) with Santa Monica Realty Co., 217-18 Merchants Trust Bldg., Los Angeles. Phone A1361. Usual courtesy to agents.

FOR EXCHANGE—COUNTRY PROPERTY—
Have a grand ranch of 680 acres, sub-irrigated and with large river running right through property. Will raise alfalfa, Lima beans, sugar beets, garden truck, etc. Close to small town and only seven miles to railroad, and ten miles to ocean. Only four hours to Los Angeles by fine auto road. Such a property seldom offered. Price $30,000. Will take good residence or other city property to $10,000; $7500 cash and balance of $12,500 back on mortgage.

— ALSO —

One of the grandest ranches in Southern California, which means in the world. 12,000 acres. Think of it! with living water the year round; trout in the streams right now. Seven thousand acres tillable, of which five thousand have been under plow. Two thousand acres frostless citrus land, as fine as any in California. Water in excess. From the reservoir site to the land is a drop of two thousand feet, where electrical power and light can be generated for the whole ranch. Nothing equal to this can be bought. 2½ hours by train and only five hours by auto over fine road from Los Angeles. Railroad within fourteen miles and good town. Price is very low, and terms can be arranged. A reasonable amount of good city property will be taken as part payment; small amount cash and balance on mortgage. For all details of both these properties see

A COMMERCIAL INDUSTRY WHICH IS highly successful in the east has an open field on the Pacific Coast.

In the east any line of commercialism has hundreds of competitors and the industrial concerns of that part of the country are supplying wares of all kinds to the great territory west of the Rocky Mountains, comprising the States of California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Idaho, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona and Nevada with a population of six million people. I am a business man of moderate means. My home formerly in the east is now here. I know of an opportunity and a basis for an industry that has no representation on the Pacific Coast. Consequently there is no competition. I would like to meet four or five young or middle aged men who are familiar with business conditions in the east and who have come here to make their homes, with a view to organizing a company or close corporation to take over several lines to manufacture and market. The properties can be acquired without a money consideration, the owners agreeing to accept stock for their several interests. Such properties will form a nucleus for a large Commercial Industry which in a short space of time can be as important in the Pacific Coast business world as any one of the great industrial plants is to the eastern field. There is no good reason why the articles referred to cannot be manufactured here and the coast trade supplied by home industry. The opportunity is splendid for a successful business. For a business talk, address P, box 268, TIMES BRANCH OFFICE.

TO THOSE INTERESTED IN THE MERcantile business. If at any time that you are looking for an established business or stock of merchandise in California, Arizona, New Mexico or Nevada, we can always suit you. We have stocks and businesses ranging in prices from $5000 to $125,000. Many of these owners are compelled for various reasons to dispose of at a sacrifice. We shall be glad if any parties interested in the above will kindly call and see us as we are in a better position than any other firm in Los Angeles to supply your wants. It costs you absolutely nothing to find out what we have to offer. Call 507 DELTA BLDG.

$24,000 FOR $9500. THIS STOCK OF HIGH grade groceries, hardware and furnishing goods has to be disposed of at once. This is the reason we are making this remarkable offer. $24,000 for $9500. Call 507 DELTA BLDG.

ALFALFA MILLS.
A milling concern has reached a point where they must establish several additional mills and for that purpose offers a small block of treasury shares at par, $1 per share. The type of mills this company is installing is the same as those now operating in Kansas, Oklahoma and the Middle West, and which are earning for their shareholders from 50 to 100 per cent. on their investment. There is no reason why our mills will not do as well or if anything better, as we have more and better alfalfa hay and a greater market for the output. If you have idle money or money that is earning less than 25 per cent., it is a duty you owe yourself to investigate this proposition, particularly as stockholders desiring employment will be given preference as mill managers, foremen, etc. If you will call or send to the company's executive offices the general manager will be glad to give or send you full particulars of this profitable industry. READ THIS, THINK IT OVER AND IF YOU feel interested let me hear from you. On every page of typewritten matter in the present system of typewriting machines the loss motion is from 240 to 720 inches. I have invented a machine that has reduced such loss motion to 24 inches, or in speed and efficiency I have more than doubled. My expert model mechanic who was for years connected with the Underwood and Remington factories says I have accomplished what all of the typewriting concerns have overlooked and that my invention is a revelation in writing machinery.

To a satisfactory party who will back me in development or sale of the rights, I will transfer a liberal interest. The principle is as basic as was Bell telephone or Brush electric light. An interest in either might have been had for nominal assistance. Both have made their owners millions. Please do not reply unless you mean business. Address for interview, C, box 69, TIMES OFFICE.

"HOME BUILDERS" GUARANTY SHARES have many privileges which distinguish them from the shares sold without the guaranty. They are convertible into cash under the written terms of the Guaranty and are assured an earning of at least 8 per cent. per annum. They may also be used in the purchase of property or other securities held by the company, and have a standing loan value of 50 per cent. of the current selling price. The Guaranty is given only to original purchasers by "HOME BUILDERS GENERAL AGENCY," who issue it. Assets amounting to over $150,000 are held to assure the fulfillment of this Guaranty.

"HOME BUILDERS" stock, whether Guaranty shares or not, is the best investment in the local market today. If you can buy "HOME BUILDERS" shares without the Guaranty for less than the price of Guaranty shares it is a fortunate purchase, and will yield you a good dividend, but when you buy Guaranty shares you have an added protection and will participate in the profits of the GENERAL AGENCY which the other shareholders do not possess. Guaranty shares are sold only by "HOME BUILDERS GENERAL AGENCY," 129 South Broadway. Correspondence and inquiry solicited. 'Phones Home 10962, Main 496.

RELIABLE INVESTMENTS—

Jade Oil is the best purchase for a turn in the oils on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. The Penn. Midway lease is pumping 500 barrels a day, and others of the company's similar holdings are on the eve of coming in with producing wells. With no debt, honest management and its small capitalization, the stock is intrinsically worth much more than present market prices.

Want 50 shares L. A. Investment, 10 shares National Bank of California, 10 Traders' Bank, 10 California Savings Bank.

Have money to loan on L. A. Stock Exchange collateral in sums to suit at reasonable rates.

The Difference

Only a few more notes tone,
And lo! the world bows
the singer's throne.

Only the same old thought with a sweeter sound
And lo! a poet's brow wreaths is crowned.

Only a keener ear,
skill,
And lo! the artist plays hearts at will.

Only a tint or line,
grace,
And lo! the world goes woman's face.

Yet though so slight the which men call us great
This shade the more an earthly fate.

For few may wield the spells uplift and thrill
The barrier, fine yet not pass at will.

NOW RANKS AS PALATE TEASER.

Lobster Is Served in Many Classy Dishes.

Cafe Patrons Should First Be Shown It Alive.

Succulency Preserved When Prepared Green.

Los Angeles is rapidly developing the lobster palate. There was a time when lobster was an occasional dish in the average household. Now it is a staple. It is no longer a luxury since the trust was smashed, and the many ways in which it can be served solves a perplexing question of the housewife who seeks pretty and dainty dishes.

Herr Reichl of the Alexandria says that lobster can be served in more than 300 styles. He invented a new one last week—stuffed with champignons, otherwise mushrooms. It was a dish for a gourmet. Another invention which has become popular because of its aristocratic name is filet of lobster papillotti. When lobster is served with a foreign appellation it gets into the sweetbread and truffles class. Broiled lobster sounds rather commonplace, but filet of lobster papillotti is classy.

Herr Reichl dropped a hint about preparing the lobster. He said never cook a dead lobster. They should be taken what is professionally known as green. The average housewife does not know this. When she buys a lobster it has been boiled and of course after she has prepared it the delicate flavor has been destroyed. The meat loses somewhat of its succulency.

SALES BY THE TON.

Gustaf Zaiser, the fish expert, says the lobster has come into its own. During the season an average of three tons of lobster are sold a day. The two biggest days in the week are Friday and Saturday. Salads are prepared on Saturday for Sunday. It is a pretty appetizing dish, and if an euphonious name is devised for it, makes quite an impression on the guests.

Fishermen gather in the crustaceans along the coast from twenty-five miles north of Santa Barbara to Lower California and their catch finds a ready market in Los Angeles. When the trust was operating lobsters cost thirty-five cents a pound. They were Mexican lobsters and the concession had been sold to a Los Angeles marketman. This was during the two-year period when by act of the Legislature lobster fishing was prohibited in Southern California waters. When the ban was lifted the catch was so plentiful that the price went as low as twelve and one-half cents, placing the "bird" within the reach of the average household. The size was also reduced from eleven inches to nine and one-half.

Zaiser, like Herr Reichl, believes that the lobster, which is a synonym in the large Eastern cities of high life, is little understood and therefore despised in some quarters, but that few articles of food are so susceptible of being converted into dainty dishes. Witness the more than 300 varieties Herr Reichl has referred to. Both advise that when ordering lobster at a cafe the lobster be brought in. If it is dead, it should be rejected and a live or green one substituted. In this way the full benefit of the flavor will be preserved and a dish fit for a king served.

REASON FOR POPULARITY.

Next in popularity to the lobster is the barracuda. The best fishing ground is at Port Harford, which was accidentally discovered. The halibut is also a good seller and smelts find many buyers. As this is the spawning season for salmon, this fish is not obtainable.

The growing popularity of the lobster is no doubt due to the Eastern tourist who frequents the lobster palaces of New York and Chicago, but these are the cafe diners. In the homes of citizens the lobster from a show dish has become a staple, capable of infinite diversity of style. It can be so disguised as to fool those who profess to dislike it, and it can be served in such tempting forms under such high-sounding appellations, as to receive the encomiums of all true lovers of the culinary art.

HOW IT IS WORKED.

Immigration Officers Obtain Information About Smuggling Methods of Chinese Syndicate Through Arrest at Oceanside.

The arrest of Lin Yon, a Chinaman, at Oceanside, by the immigration officers led to the discovery of sensational evidence yesterday touching the operations of the syndicate handling Chinese laborers. From the information obtained important arrests may be made in this city and San Francisco.

Agents of the syndicate are operating continually at the leading ports of Lower California and Mexico on the Pacific side, where contracts are signed for conveying Chinese laborers either to this city or to San Francisco. These contracts or notes are binding in the minds of the Chinese, and a defalcation in the payment has never been known. The signer is not only absolutely bound, but every member of his tongue or family.

The laborers are marched across the line and into United States territory. Some get through safely, but others are caught and it is with the latter that the most interesting features are disclosed.

A Chinese is arrested on his way to freedom, and, having no "chuck-chee" or certificate of residence, is, after several postponements of the hearing, ordered deported. If this order was allowed to be executed the "syndicate" would be out the money it had paid to have the man brought into this country, so an appeal is taken, and the Chinese is admitted to bail. The amount usually fixed in such cases is about $2500, some times as low as $1500, and the bond is furnished, the syndicate depositing the amount to the credit of friends or relatives.

The case goes on the calendar. Under ordinary circumstances at least six months pass before the appeal can be heard by the court, and sometimes it is a year before the argument on appeal is disposed of.

Meantime, the Chinese has been working for the syndicate and a big share is taken out of his wages as a refund for the money that has been advanced to get him across the line. With the debts discharged, the syndicate has no further interest in the man.

VETERANS KEEP STEP TO THE FIFE AND DRUM.

HANFORD, Oct. 14.—The weather man was on his best behavior today for the benefit of the San Joaquin Valley Veterans Association G.A.R. and a perfect day greeted the veterans. The feature of the day was the parade, of which L. S. Chittenden was grand marshal. It was composed of the veterans, the Sons of Veterans, National Guard of California, civic and fraternal organizations and public school children. There were over 600 school children in line and they presented a very fine appearance.

Over 100 of the "old boys in blue" kept step to a fife and drum corps and hey were repeatedly cheered along the line of march. Nearly as many more were in automobiles. The parade was over half a mile long. The veterans were the guests of the city and county at a reception in the Operahouse last night. Hon. H. P. Brown presided and welcomed them to the city. The freedom of the city was tendered them by Mayor Gamble and Judge Covert delivered an address. Rev. McConnell, chaplain of the association, responded in behalf of the veterans.

Tomorrow the veterans will be given an automobile excursion through the orchards and vineyards and a banquet in the afternoon. The election of officers for the ensuing year and the selection of the meeting place of the next encampment will be the principal order of business tomorrow.

WOMAN'S DEATH DEFYING RIDE.

Clinging to the Shaft of a Carriage Porterville Woman Has a Narrow Escape.

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 14.—Clinging with grim determination to the shafts of a carriage, and whirled at a dead run by a runaway horse through the crowded business district of Porterville, at a busy hour of the day today, Mrs. Raymond Winter bottom of San Bernardino was finally flung to the pavement in Mill street, covered with bruises and cuts from head to foot seriously injured and prostrated with fright.

She and her husband were visiting with friends in Lindsay and today hired a horse and carriage for a ride through the Poterville orange distret. While watering their horse at a public trough in Hockett street, Winterbottom stepped from the rig to remove the animal's bridle. Hardly had that portion of the harness been removed than the horse started on a wild rush down the crowded Mill street.

At Main and Mill streets a pile of street-construction material had been left in the street and when the carriage struck this pile it was with such force that Mrs. Winterbottom was thrown out over the dashboard and upon the shafts of the carriage, where she clung with desperate determination while her horse carried her for more than a block down the street. At Mill and Second streets her hold relaxed and she was dashed to the pavement.

Nearly unconscious from fright and from the effects of the injury she was carried to the Price house in Main street where she was placed under a physician's care.

ORANGE PACKING.

Reports from the Upper Tule district are to the effect that the early orange packing will start at the usual time about October 28, this year, in spite of the pessimistic reports of the earlier season that the crop would be from ten days to two weeks late.

Cold nights and warm days following have made an ideal combination for the rapid ripening of the fruit. Color has set well in the past few days and the oranges have sized up well.

Oranges promise to carry a heavy percentage of desirable sizes this year. Last season the larger oranges ran in the pack to the extent that they in many cases were the cause of penalty.

DAMAGED BY RAINS.

Dinuba Raisin Men Were Hard Hit By an Unexpected Light Shower, Total Loss Not Fixed.

DINUBA, Oct. 14.—The first cars of raisins will leave this station early in the coming week, and it is reported that some of the lots which leave will go East at a price of 5 cents. Futures are now being signed up for early goods at four and one-quarter and four and one-half.

Unexpected rains yesterday caught many of the growers with trays on the ground and considerable grumbling has been heard against the weather station for their imperfect work this season. Earlier in the season when there was a continued season of clouds and repeated warnings of rains were sent out, trays were stacked several times and not a sprinkle of rain fell.

When the rains came early yesterday there was but a portion of the raisin crop protected. Fortunately the rain was light and for that reason but little damage was done, comparatively speaking.

Total damage done to the trays is not as yet determined, although it is believed that it will be heavy.

TUBERCULOSIS IN HOGS.

Twenty-two Rejected Out of Four Carloads Shipped by a Porterville Man—Virulent Type.

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 14.—Several reports have been made to the county veterinary officers of the prevalence of tuberculosis in the droves of hogs in the Porterville and Springville district, this disease being so common and so deadly as to occasion in the past few weeks a number of especially heavy losses.

Shipments made from the Bill ranch early in the week resulted in the rejection of twenty-two head from four carloads, upon their arrival at the market center, and single carloads sent in the past few days have resulted in the rejection of from five to seven head from each load.

It is stated that the tuberculosis appears to be of a particularly virulent type, attacking the glands of the head and neck and then spreading to other portions of the body, giving rise to the condition which is called "measly pork."

So rapidly does the disease act that any attempt at alleviation appears to be little better than useless. Veterinaries advise the isolation of suspected animals and immediately the disease is established beyond question their destruction and the burning of the carcasses. It is probable that the aid of the State officials will be asked in putting a check to the epidemic.

BOND SALES.

From the Los Angeles bond houses that purchased the recent issue of $65,000 public improvement bonds was received today the proceeds of the sale, totaling about $70,000, and the money was thereupon apportioned to the various funds. During the period while the bonds were being prepared by the lithographers the street work, for which part of the money is to be used, has been practically completed. Forty thousand dollars of the amount is to be devoted to the extensions of the water works, construction upon which will not be started until the new freight rates from the East go into effect.

AN ACTOR BUYS.

Maurice Jourdaine, an actor, whose home has heretofore been in Los Angeles, has purchased a ten-acre orange grove in the Hermosa Colony and will make his home with Mrs. Jourdaine in this district during his vacations in the future.

This tract, which was formerly the property of Edward McKinney, a Porterville business man, was sold at a price aggregating about $1500 per acre. The tract is in 6-year-old trees, in full bearing and in an excellent state of cultivation.

THREE INJURED IN AUTO CRASH.

Machine on Way to Races is Smashed by Trolley.

Alhambra Banker, an Occupant, Seriously Hurt.

Son and Friend Escape With Numerous Bruises.

H. D. McDonald, president of the First National Bank of Alhambra, was seriously injured, and his son, H. A. McDonald, and his friend, H. T. Graham, were badly bruised about 6:45 o'clock yesterday morning when the automobile in which they were hurrying to the races at Santa Monica collided with a street car at North Broadway and Savoy, and was demolished. Mrs. H. T. Graham, also a passenger, was thrown out but escaped injury. The father and son and Graham were taken to the Receiving Hospital by Miss Julia Brunner, a friend, who was following in another machine.

H. D. McDonald, who is 54 years old and not in very good health, was found to be in a serious condition by Dr. Gage, police surgeon, and his immediate removal to another hospital was advised. He was taken to the Sisters' Hospital and Bert McDonald and Graham decided to go with him.

Late yesterday afternoon it was planned to examine the elder McDonald with the X-ray, but his condition was such it was postponed until this morning. It is feared that he has received a fracture of the right shoulder and possibly internal injuries. He was deeply cut and bruised in a dozen places and was bleeding slightly from the mouth when he reached the Receiving Hospital.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

The machine was being driven by Bert McDonald, who owns and conducts the Acme garage at Alhambra. Graham is associated with him in the automobile business. They left the home of the banker, which is in San Gabriel, about 6 o'clock yesterday morning. Upon reaching North Broadway in Los Angeles they overtook a street car. While trying to pass it, McDonald turned to the left, thinking the second track was clear, and plunged into a Garvanza car.

The occupants of the machine were hurled from it, the driver being lifted by the force of the impact from behind his wheel and dropped over the windshield. His father, who was in the front seat with him, was thrown against the street car and stunned. Mr. and Mrs. Graham were thrown out of the side when the door of the tonneau burst open.

Miss Julia Brunner, who was driving in the rear with Mrs. H. D. McDonald, Miss Florence McDonald and Miss Louise Brunner, was at the scene in a moment and Mrs. McDonald and the others helped the injured men into the machine, making a quick run to the hospital.

INJURIES SERIOUS.

Dr. Gage was of the opinion that Graham and Bert McDonald will be in condition to return to work within a day or two, but about the elder McDonald he said it would probably take a week to determine the extent of his injuries.

The remains of the automobile were gathered up by police officers from the East Side Station. The machine appeared to have been broken beyond repair. The front vestibule of the street car was smashed, but no one on the car was injured.

MACHINIST IS BURNED.

Tulare Man is the Victim of a Peculiar Accident—Oppose the Bond Project.

TULARE, Oct. 14.—Oliver Ray, a machinist in a local garage, was seriously burned this afternoon when a fellow-employee kicked over a pailful of blazing gasoline, scattering the contents over his hands, face and body and inflicting a score of painful wounds.

COMBAT PROPOSAL.

Tulare people are organizing to combat the proposal of the east side property owners to bond the county for $1,000,000 for the purpose of building a road to connect with the proposed State highway and through the medium of this second road to connect the State road with the west side.

In all the proposals which come from the west side there is no suggestion of giving the road to the Tulare district. As the Tulare route is the direct route through this county, and as the Visalia district can be considered as having a place on either route, the west siders will be content with nothing but the direct road from north to south end of the county.

LOOKING FOR IDEAS.

F. W. Griffin, the architect of the High School board, has returned from a visit to the southern portion of the State, particularly in Hollywood and Pasadena, to secure new ideas for the additions to the High School equipment, for which bonds are to be voted next month.

In his report, which is being prepared for submission to the board of education, Mr. Griffin will state that as regards the equipment already available, the local high school is equal to the very best in California. This is true of the kitchens of the domestic science classes and the shops in the manual training department.

It is understood that the plans as sketched by Architect Griffin, as a result of his southern journey, will be followed with little, if any changes. Two large buildings, of advanced Mission design will be added at the Grand Avenue entrance to the campus, one of which will be devoted to the school offices and domestic science rooms, with a large auditorium in the second floor, while at the opposite corner of the grounds will be the buildings devoted to the shops, agricultural courses and other practical work.

Provision is also to be made for the two college year courses which are to be added, with a view to making a junior college of the school, provided sufficient applications are made for the work.

H. D. McDonald,

Seriously injured yesterday in a collision between his automobile and a street car.

PRESBYTERIAN MEETINGS.

Will Be Held in This City on Next Tuesday and Wednesday, Preliminary to the California Synod.

Preliminary to the meeting of the Presbyterian Synod of California, the Synodical Society of Foreign Missions will hold a meeting at the Y.M.C.A., this city, on next Tuesday morning and afternoon, and in Immanuel Presbyterian Church in the evening. The meetings in the latter place will also continue through Wednesday, and on Wednesday evening the annual meeting of the Synod will open in Long Beach Presbyterian Church. The opening sermon will be preached by the moderator of the Synod, Rev. Thomas Boyd of Fresno. Ministers and laymen from all parts of the State will attend the Synod, which will continue in session until next Sunday night.

On Thursday night Dr. John Willis Baer will deliver an address on "The College: Its Mission," and Dr. William Rader will speak on "Social Service." One of the addresses on Friday afternoon will be by Rev. Henry C. Minton, special representative of the General Assembly Evangelistic Committee, on the subject of the Panama-Pacific Exposition. Sunday morning at 9:30, Prof. E. J. Lickley of this city will deliver an address on "The Relation of the Sunday-school to the Public School." "Evanlegism" will be the theme of the Sunday afternoon and evening meetings.

CHICAGO MAN DEAD HERE.

C. A. Orcutt, aged 84 years, died in this city yesterday morning. He had been sick for five years and confined to his bed for the past year. He was a well known furniture man and undertaker of Chicago. The deceased is the father-in-law of W. H. Frost. Beside his widow Orcutt leaves two daughters and one son. He was a member of the Temple Baptist Church.

INDIANA STATE SOCIETY.

The Indiana State Society will hold a meeting in Fraternal Brotherhood Hall on Tuesday evening, at which a programme of reading, music and whistling will be given by the Benjamin Scoville Dramatic Club, assisted by Miss Bryant.

KENDIS IS ATTRACTIVE.

Westlake Apartment House, Just Opened, Follows Spanish Renaissance Style.

The Kendis apartments, recently completed at No. 1710 West Sixth street for Mrs. L. B. Cohn, have been occupied by the lessee, Mrs. A. P. Kendis, since October 1. The structure, the first published perspective of which appeared in The Times about a year ago, is one of the most attractive and modern buildings of its type in the Westlake section.

The building is three stories in height and of brick and cement construction. In style it follows the Spanish Renaissance architecture. Being of the shape of a letter "H," every room has outside air and ventilation. The place contains forty-six two and three-room suites, each with buffet and kitchen.

The apartment house occupies a large and attractive site, the grounds being beautifully laid out. At the present time a ballroom and sun room are being added to the building.

(Established 31 Years. Copyrighted.)

I publish my true photograph, correct name and personally conduct my office. I am the longest established, most successful and reliable, as medical credentials and press records prove. Imitation of my copyrighted announcement is an evidence that I am a bona fide Specialist. I make this statement that you will know you consult a Specialist who sees and treats patients personally. I possess skill and experience acquired in such a way that no other can share. Experience is the safe standard by which judgment may be valued and results obtained.

A thorough investigation should be made by every ailing person as to the specialist he consults. Duty and destiny to self and those who depend upon you demand the best medical attention. I have the ability and can give you this service. I have always charged a very reasonable fee, so that my services may be obtained by any man who sincerely desires to be cured. I make no misleading statements or unbusinesslike propositions; neither do I desire to be particularly independent, and I would like to have you for a patient, if you will come to me on a strictly professional basis, and the inducements that I offer, which are my ability and thirty-one years' successful experience. Time-saving treatment and guarantee of cure of certain diseases.

NO MONEY REQUIRED TO COMMENCE TREATMENT. Many patients have no confidence in their doctor, because he demands pay before a cure has been effected, and there are many who have been misinformed about their condition, or through unsuccessful treatment have become skeptical and think there is no cure for them. I want an opportunity to treat such cases. It makes no difference about the financial part; as I accept pay for my services as benefits are derived, when I am satisfied the patient is reliable. Health is capital at interest. I will prove my ability to cure you before asking pay for my services.

WRITTEN GUARANTEE.

Dr. Tillotson's written guarantee means a cure or no pay for services. I guarantee to cure certain diseases or refund every dollar you have paid me for my services. My services cost you nothing unless I cure your Varicose Veins, Hernia, Piles, Fissures, Fistula or any disease I guarantee to cure. My terms are reasonable and no more than you are willing and able to pay.

LIFE SAVED BY FINGER HOLDS.

SWINGING SCAFFOLD LETS GO AND DUMPS PAINTER.

Man Holds to Window Sill and Hangs On Until Rope Is Drawn Within Reach—Policeman Alarms Hotel Officials by Dashing Through Building to Rescue.

A thrilling rescue and a scene which brought to a standstill traffic at Fourth and Main streets, yesterday afternoon, was afforded by the sudden unfastening of the rope of a swinging scaffold, suspended from the roof of the Westminster Hotel.

Jack Smithee, employed by Fred Stewart, was seated on the scaffold turning the color of the hotel from a dusty brown to a mouse gray. He had his buckets of paint sitting at his side and the farthest thing from his thoughts was a precipitation to the ground.

Suddenly something gave way, the scaffold pitched downward on one side, and Smithee started with it. He grasped at the curtains which were blowing through the open window and through a supreme effort managed to hold onto the ledge of the fourth floor window.

There, suspended fifty feet above the street on merely his finger tips he started to yell. The corner policeman saw his predicament and came tearing into the lobby. He dashed toward the elevator where F. O. Johnson, owner of the house, and Manager Larritt were standing. He cast them aside like straws and had the boy start the elevator but not before Johnson had managed to jump in. Larritt shot out of the elevator, dashed up the stairway followed by Clerk Dougherty, who took time to wrench a fire extinguisher from the wall, and half a dozen bell hops and guests.

Arriving on the top floor the policeman bucked the door in with a crash that sounded like a football plunge and arrived at the window still just in time to see Smithee catch hold of a rope that had been deftly maneuvered by one of the spectators to a place where it touched the man suspended in mid-air.

Smithee climbed down the rope, little the worse for his scare, while the policeman and his followers smiled because the situation had evolved itself in such a happy manner. He was complimented later as being one real live policeman.

Pico Heights Meeti[illegible]

to secure Carnegie library. Quit[illegible] enthusiastic meeting was held at Smock's Hall, evening October 13. Mr. W. S. Lang, president Pico Heights Improvement Association, called the meeting to order and, in a very forceful speech, urged the importance of quick action if the people of the Heights were to secure the munificent gift. On his suggestion the following committee was selected to secure site and solicit funds: Messrs. Baker, Triggs, Coffee, Cooper, Cross, Delavan, Dukes, Foster, Miller, Schaefle and Spiegel; also Mrs. Bunker, Rushfeldt and Smock. After the naming of the committees it was decided to call another public meeting for next Friday evening, October 20, at which we hope to see all the territory represented. Come, we urgently urge you, as we only have till the first of November to secure the donation and $25,000 gifts are not often obtained.

No less interest than the Santa Monica road race yesterday was the race in The Times Greater Contest. Scott, Nikrent and the balance of the speed artists needs must go some to hit the gait and hold it, that was shown by the contestants in The Times enterprise.

That everyone was not at the road race was demonstrated early in the day Saturday when Burns shot up to nearly 800,000, and Lewis Black, of Monrovia, passed the 200,000 mark he had set to reach.

Mrs. Carlin of Long Beach, also made work for the bookkeepers with about 10,000.

Alys Sweet had a mortgage on fourth place for a long time, and there have been a dozen attempts to take it by various contestants. Alys held on for a time, but had to give way to Woodworth; then Lillian Blood also took a place away from her only to have her regain it the following day. Yesterday Miss Sweet again came to the front with enough to get a 5000 lead. This is a pretty little struggle between two attractive young ladies. May the best win.

SIX WEEKS MORE.

In just six weeks and the Greater Contest—greater in every sense of the word—will have reached its conclusion.

Starting in a modest way with only a small list of some thirty thousand dollars' worth of prizes and a few additions, the increases in the list of capital prizes, and the oft-repeated statement by The Times that there was absolutely no inflation in the published valuation of these prizes and that each contestant would get all that he or she qualified for at the finish—has developed this contest into perhaps the largest enterprise of its character that has been conducted by any newspaper up to this time.

Not only are the prizes intrinsically the most desirable that have ever been offered, but the results accomplished by our little army of contestants have probably reached a total in excess of anything hitherto attempted.

It is a difficult matter to predict what the finish has in store, but it will be something enormous from the fact that contestants, who usually have been active and frequent in their visits to this office, are now keeping away. Judging by past experiences, some sort of an idea can be gained of what has been accomplished without being reported, but even this is difficult of computation for the reason that every contestant has a great number of prospects and promises in view for the closing days.

It seems unnecessary to say to the contestants that they should use every effort for every remaining day until the close, for they have demonstrated such a spirit of energy and determination in the past that there is reason to believe that no lack of effort will be noticeable now.

A number of contestants have made inquiries as to the method of awarding when all returns are in. It is a question whether each contestant should receive the prize that happened to fall opposite his or her name or have a choice of anything he wanted when the time for choosing came.

Therefore a rule has been formulated, which will be lived up to to the letter, and is as follows:

METHOD OF AWARDING PRIZES.

The Times Greater Contest will close on the stroke of midnight, Saturday, November 25.

It is well for contestants to understand that this does not mean five minutes after twelve or any time after midnight.

You are given this warning six weeks ahead in order that every one may be on hand with final scores before the close.

Out of town contestants, who mail points in before the hour of midnight on Saturday, November 25, must furnish postmark or other evidence that the letter was mailed before the close.

All communications mailed to The Times in the territory now covered by contestants should reach The Times office on Monday following the close of the contest.

Telephone messages from contestants that they have a certain number of points and asking an extension of time to reach the office after midnight will not be entertained.

Subscriptions are not likely to be gotten after 9 or 10 o'clock at night, and there is positively no reason for a contestant to make a report later than midnight.

The method of awarding the prizes will be as follows:

The contestant receiving the highest total score will have first choice of all the prizes. The second, second choice and so on down the line.

It will probably be two or three days after the close of the contest before definite results can be announced. When these results are announced, a certain time will be set aside for awarding the prizes either at The Times office or in some suitable building large enough to accommodate the contestants and their friends. When this announcement is made, sufficient time will be allowed to contestants to reach the meeting from any point in the territory covered by them.

At this meeting the contestants will be allowed to choose and, should a contestant not be on hand to make a choice when his or her turn comes, that contestant will have to take the prize that falls to that number.

Should a contestant desire to choose any prize lower in the list than the score calls for, that is purely a matter of option upon the part of the contestant. When your turn comes, you will have the choice of anything that has not been already selected up to that time; but, should you fail to appear when your name is called, then the next prize in rotation will be assigned to you.

Contestants are requested to cut out these rules and preserve them in order that no error may occur and no misunderstanding be had.

THE PRIZES.

There are more than a hundred prizes.

The first prize is a magnificent orange grove—an income-producing grove upon which will be built a $2000 bungalow for the winner to live in. It is just possible that the winner of this first prize may be so situated in Los Angeles or some other city, that it would be inconvenient to move into the country and conduct an orange grove. In that event a provision has been made for your convenience which will allow you to have your choice of the orange grove or its value, $12,000 in cash.

This was the first proposition of this character ever made by a daily newspaper in a contest of this kind. It was made for two reasons: First, for the convenience of the winner; second, to illustrate what The Times has been repeating from day to day—that there is absolutely no inflation in the published valuation of any prize in the entire list.

Now, as only one can win the first prize, and as there are more than one hundred of you competing, it is well that all should look down the line a little and see what other good things there are besides the orange grove.

First, there is a house and lot valued at $7500. Those of you who have ever built a house or bought one, will know that any house and lot you purchase for $7500 is sold to you at a profit. This, of course, is absolutely legitimate and is business. As a matter of fact, everything that you buy should be sold to you at a profit.

But in the offer of a $7500 house and lot as second prize we have adopted a sensational idea and one entirely new to those familiar with contests.

There are a number of houses and lots offered here, and for reasons which are explained, none of the houses have yet been built.

There has been so much inflation in public valuations in newspaper contests all over the country that it was determined in The Times Greater Contest that those participating should be convinced beyond any question that everything they might win would be just exactly what it was represented to be.

For this reason those who win the houses and lots are to be allowed to superintend the building of their own homes.

There is considerable difference between a house and a home. One is a place to sleep in; the other is a place to live in.

These prizes are going to be homes as well as houses. You are going to tell the architect and builder just what you want, and you are going to see that he gives you what you want; you are going to be there to see your home built, and inspect and look at the material that goes into it.

Do yiu not think this privilege worth working for? Do you not think that a home, even one of the modest ones at $2500, built after your own ideas, worth more to you than a $3000 or $4000 prize consisting of something that you do not want and cannot use?

We think so, and for that reason have adopted this plan of prize giving.

Well, you cannot all win houses, for the number is too small to go 'round. But there are other things. Automobiles, lots, player pianos, pianos, furniture in various amounts, watches, jewelry, motorcycles, and in all more than 100 prizes, all of legitimate value and all desirable.

With the exception of some of the automobiles, pianos and motorcycles, etc., which are of particular make, nearly all of the other prizes are to be of your own selection.

If you win a $500 furniture prize you will be allowed to select the kind of furniture you desire; and the same rule will apply to watches, jewelry, etc.

BALBOA ISLAND.

A cut will be seen here of Balboa Island with a black arrow indicating the lot on this island which has been purchased by The Times and offered as a prize in this Contest. It will be noticed that this lot is in the most desirable location on the island and a beautiful site for a summer home, and costs exactly $1000.

That was the cost early last spring when the lot was purchased. Since that time Balboa has come into its own. The past summer showed a wonderful increase both in the number of permanent residents and temporary summer visitors.

Balboa Island is ideally located in a land-locked bay and is surrounded by a quiet body of water without danger of storm and without surf. Canoeing, yachting and boating, as well as fishing and bathing, all respond to the conditions that prevail there, and it is not at all improbable that the winner of this prize will have a lot that will be worth a good deal more money next summer than when it was purchased.

Los Angeles as a winter resort has long been famous throughout the world. For the last several years, however, a systematic campaign has been on to convince the eastern people that the summer climate is even more desirable in this section than the winter weather. As a result the beaches and ocean resorts have become very popular with those living in the warmer parts of California and in Arizona and New Mexico. This lot is well located near the end of the island and in the midst of building activities. Balboa is located just sufficiently far away from Los Angeles to be removed from the one-day visitors that throng the near-by beaches. It is really a place for summer homes and as such is becoming more important and better each season.

CONTESTANTS' BULLETIN.

Traffic Record.

USE OF PASSES IS RESTRICTED.

COMMERCE COMMISSION ISSUES NEW REGULATIONS.

Complete Books to Be Kept on Every Bit of Transportation Issued to Be Accessible at All Times for Inspection—Colonist Movement Ending—Traffic Notes.

The latest set of rules and regulations issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission governing the issuance, use and recording of passes have been received by railroad officials in Los Angeles. The new regulations will become effective January 1 and supersede all previous orders. It is in reality, however, the first set of regulations on the subject, as previous issues were merely compilations of rulings made by the commission.

The new regulations provide not only for four classes of passes, but require the keeping of records by the conductors who honor them. The four kinds of passes that can be issued are annuals, trip, suburban and telegraph passes. Each carrier is required to file with the Commission once a year a list of the officials who are empowered to issue passes and a list of the names and titles of officials having the authority to request passes from other roads.

There must be a written request for every pass issued unless the case is exceptional, and in that event the carrier must set forth the facts that made it exceptional and include it in the record sent to the commission. All users of passes must sign their names and the conductors must record them and the train upon which it was used. The only persons that can be carried free or without passes are train crews, sleeping car, dining car, chair car employees, newsboys and baggage agents. A complete record of passes must be kept either in books or the car system so that the record will be accessible to inspectors of the commission at any time. The use of passes must be restricted to the minimum.

Colonist Rush Yesterday.

More colonists arrived in Los Angeles on the one-way cheap rates yesterday than on any day since the movement started September 15. The Santa Fe, Salt Lake and Southern Pacific had extra trains on to accommodate the rush. The Santa Fe had four trains, the Salt Lake and the Southern Pacific two each. The number of arrivals aggregated 2000. The Salt Lake received 25 of 65 extra cars due to arrive yesterday, today and tomorrow. The sale of tickets on the reduced rates ended today and the last of the colonists moving on the rates will arrive in Los Angeles Wednesday and Thursday. Passenger officials say that all previous colonist movement records have been beaten and that the total to the Pacific Coast for the month will aggregate 66,000.

Kick Bureau Started.

If passengers on the Southern Pacific should by accident lose their baggage and subsequently put in their claim to the railroad, they will have the pleasure of knowing that a vice-president of the system will pass on their contentions. Also if a shipper should report that a car of fruit had gone astray, or been mishandled by employees of the company, his claim will appear before Vice-President McCormick in San Francisco. Such in the future will be the case, for McCormick has established a miniature court of commerce in his office under his own supervision, where all complaints, kicks, claims and business of a similar nature will be transacted.

Shoup as an Orator.

Vice-President Shoup of the Pacific Electric will be the speaker at the semi-monthly luncheon of the Los Angeles Traffic Association at the Angelus Hotel tomorrow. Arrangements will be completed and the list closed for the excursion of the traffic men to San Francisco Friday. About 125 will go and the Pullman space on the Southern Pacific special train that will carry the party is rapidly being taken up.

Warm Weather Route.

The Hamburg-American Steamship Company has established a warm-weather route all the way from Los Angeles to Europe. The steamship line has started a first-class service from Vera Cruz to Europe at the same cost as from New York, thus avoiding the disagreeable feature of a trip by the rail gateways to New York in the cold of winter. The route is by rail to El Paso and Mexico City to Vera Cruz and thence by way of the West Indies, avoiding the northern route all of the way.

Four Nationalities in a Tangle.

[The Docket:] Policeman Kiernan appeared before Magistrate Freschi in the Harlem Court on Tuesday with David MacLean. MacLean desired to complain against Bernard Levy for keeping a goose in his apartment.

"Why do you keep the goose?" inquired the magistrate.

"It is to fatten, your honor," explained Levy, "to fatten for the great feast next Tuesday."

"Ahem," said Magistrate Freschi, "It seems to me this is a very complicated case. Here is an Irish policeman, with a Scotch complainant, who wants to make information against a Jew before an Italian magistrate. The only thing I can see to do in this case is to postpone it for one week, and in the meantime we will allow the defendant to eat the evidence."

Arizona.

RATES SCHOOLS HALF EFFICIENT.

Professor Says Many Teachers Lack Aptitude.

Normal Principal Disagrees With Tombstone Man.

Los Angeles Company Buys Land in Sonora.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) Oct. 13.—Instead of forming a part of the Arizona Educational Association at Phoenix in November, the school teachers of Cochise county have been called together in an institute at Bisbee. Fifty-five of the districts were represented by 148 teachers. While the discussions covered a broad range, possibly the most important feature was a debate upon the question of the efficiency of the public schools.

Prof. H. E. Berner of Tombstone led the opposition in an argument in which he declared that the schools of today are not 50 per cent. efficient that many of the public school teachers are young women of no especial aptitude and that many of the school graduates are merely "stuffed geese."

THE OPPOSITE VIEW.

The opposite view was taken by Dr. R. H. H. Blome, principal of the Northern Arizona Normal School, who contended at length, citing many cases in point, that the schools of Arizona are among the best. Several who debated the question agreed that boys above 14 years of age should be taught by men.

In Bisbee has just been concluded the first exhibition of poultry and pet stock ever made in this county. It proved a drawing feature for local attendance and by the exhibitors was declared to have been successful to a degree that had not been expected. At its close was formed the Cochise County Poultry and Pet Stock Association, whereof M. S. Krebs was elected president and A. H. Davis, local secretary of the Y.M.C.A., was chosen secretary-treasurer.

Two tracts of land in Sonora, aggregating an area of 52,500 acres have been sold for $118,165 to F. H. Hillaker and the Sonora Valley Land Company of Los Angeles, through the agency of Hoval A. Smith. The land, which lies around Noria will be subdivided for settlement by American farmers.

HEAVY RAINS.

Heavy rains during the past week have done much damage in Sonora and have proven more than uncomfortable along the international border. At Douglas the storm rainfall amounted to nearly two inches. The streets were veritable rivers, fully knee-deep at the crossings. Several streets were cut up badly by rushing waters and it is probable that a large storm ditch will be constructed by the municipality to guard against any such future contingencies. In Bisbee the main damage was the heaping of a couple of low-lying thoroughfares with dirt and rock, rolled down from the higher ground.

Grasshoppers have wrought destruction to bean crops in the Sulphur Springs Valley, where hundreds of homesteaders are testing dry-farming methods, assisted by the advice of experts of the University of Arizona.

More candidates have appeared for office in Cochise county than anywhere else in Arizona. An actual count of the names for which primary papers have been filed in Tombstone shows nearly 130 applicants for county offices.

PERSONALS.

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Furst, accompanied by Miss Agnes Schenck, are the only guests registered from abroad at the Alexandria yesterday. They are here from Amsterdam and are on a pleasure trip.

L. S. Scofield and C. B. Doyle, connected with the Department of Agriculture, are staying at the Hayward. They are registered from Washington. Paul Bennett is a land operator of Phoenix who is at the same hotel.

Dr. W. S. Steward and wife are passing a few days at the Lankershim. Dr. Steward is a practitioner of Braddock, Pa. Lloyd Shannon and his brother, C. M. Shannon, are mining men of Clifton, Ariz., who are at the hotel.

I. A. Tomasini, H. E. Pyzoni and W. Tognazzini are registered at the Van Nuys. They are not from Italy as their names might indicate, but from Guadalupe, this State. Tomasini is in the automobile business while his two friends are ranchers. Dr. and Mrs. F. S. Gould and G. H. Gould are guests at the hotel. They are returning to Santa Barbara.

B. W. Bidwell, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Elberta Bidwell, arrived at the Angelus yesterday from a long tour of the United States and Canada. Bidwell is a wealthy land owner of Red Bluff and is an old schoolmate of the Loomis Bros. of the Angelus. T. R. Budrow, a mining man of Mexico City, is at the same hotel.

C. R. Radetzki of Cincinnati is a guest at the Auditorium. Radetzki is an eminent astronomer and scientist of Ohio. He is inventor of several machines which measure air currents and vibrations and which are widely known among scientists. His father was a Polish nobleman.

William J. Klauss, secretary of the Master Bakers' Association of San Francisco, is registered at the Hollenbeck. He is here on private business pertaining to a large flour mill in which he is interested. M. Manassee, a manufacturer of art novelties of Coshocton, O., and C. B. Va Deeman, a mining man of Kingman, are at the hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Haas of San Francisco are at the Alexandria. Haas is president of the local Haas-Baruch & Co. He was host at a dinner at the Alexandria yesterday evening to a few very intimate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Heggerty, society people of San Francisco, are also guests at the hotel.

Few, if any, medicines, have met with the uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The remarkable cures of colic and diarrhoea which it has effected in almost every neighborhood have given it a wide reputation. For sale by all dealers.—[Adv.

FACT AND COMMENT.

ture for the charm of living in the Southland is coming to be the most thoroughly advertised fact in the world.

The Ragged Skyline.

Having devoted several paragraphs to boosting, the Fact and Comment man is now of a mind to do a little knocking. The editor of this department, alive ever to the manifold advantages which make Los Angeles stand out so conspicuously among the cities of the United States, has never hesitated to criticise when criticism seemed justifiable. The city's achievements have invariably been hailed with the most genuine kind of enthusiasm, but the writer has also on occasion resorted to heartfelt roasting. This criticism has been directed at times against the methods of the city government, but more often against individuals conspicuously lacking in civic pride.

This time it isn't the owner of the weed-grown lot, or the man who rents his frontage to the bill-board company who is slated for chastisement. The fellow the Fact and Comment man is after is no less a personage than the important and lucky individual who owns business frontage in the cream of the downtown district of Los Angeles.

You have seen an old comb with three-fourths of the teeth broken off and a shag sticking up intact at either end. It is a sad but true commentary upon some of the principal business streets of this city that they possess block after block which have the general aspect of such a comb. Los Angeles has as many big buildings as any city of its size, but most of them stand sentinel-like on corners and over an area which would suffice, once traffic conditions had been properly adjusted, for a city of twice the population of this. The business streets of Los Angeles are ragged.

Owners Too Cautious.

As one visitor to the city recently expressed it, it is necessary for one who would see the big modern buildings of Los Angeles to walk mile after mile "picking 'em out." Inside business property here is practically neglected, the result being the impossible skyline which so astonishes the tourist from the Eastern city. Second avenue, Seattle, is an example of what every principal street in Los Angeles might be and ought to be. Seattle has bunched its imposing buildings onto this and one or two other metropolitan thoroughfares, and although boasting fewer fine business and office blocks than Los Angeles, actually makes a much more impressive showing. The new business center of San Francisco might well be taken as a pattern by Los Angeles, and such cities as Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Detroit and Kansas City could be studied with profit.

Why are the owners of inside business property in this city so averse to improving it with modern buildings? Can it be that they are so faint-hearted and of so little faith that they believe their silly policy of retrenchment to be part of caution? Is there the slightest excuse from a purely business and financial consideration for leaving inside property on the busy downtown streets the site only of old, dilapidated one and two-story frame and brick rookeries? There is most certainly no justification from an esthetic point of view for the ragged appearance of the streets.

Every piece of inside property in the business section which is adequately improved is paying a good interest on the investment. There is no reason to doubt that every unsightly, ramshackle building in downtown Los Angeles might profitably be replaced by a modern office or business structure. This statement, broad as it is, is not made without advisement, as the writer feels certain that the impetus to be given Los Angeles by the opening of the Panama canal next year will of itself bring business enough here to fill up all the space that can be offered. It is a fact, too, that new office buildings are being filled up today as fast as they can be erected.

In the Same Boat.

All this being true, it may be said without reservation that the owners of unimproved inside business frontage in this city are to be classified along with the man who permits his vacant residence property to become a jungle of weeds and the fellow who, for a paltry consideration, permits his lot to be defaced by a hideous double-deck billboard, as one flagrantly lacking in civic pride. If the owners of such inside business property really want to do their part toward making Los Angeles the "City Beautiful," let them at once consult architects and have plans drawn for buildings which will come somewhere near conforming to the skyline of metropolitan Los Angeles.

Such a procedure will be starting the reform where it ought to be started, right at home. The city can be jumped on later for its deficiencies; for, once the privately owned buildings of the heart of Los Angeles shall have been made to conform to metropolitan ideas, the city can be shamed into doing its part towards carrying out the civic center plan so long held in abeyance.

Verily there should be more rejoicing over the improvement of one disgraceful inside lot with a respectable six or seven-story loft building than over the rearing of a monumental pile at one of the few remaining unimproved corners. The corners will take care of themselves; and in fact there are very few sites possessing the advantage of double frontage which are even now not slated for early improvement. Some of the wealthy property holders of this city would do well to make a few observations looking both to their own financial advantage and to the credit of the city abroad.

Why the Prairies Are Treeless.

[Scientific American:] Prof. B. Shimek of the State University of Iowa has been studying this question in Iowa, where the treeless prairie originally covered more than seven-eighths of the total area of the State. He finds that the absence of trees is not due primarily to the soil or the topography, not to such causes as prairie fires, the former abundance of the bison, etc., but is an effect of climate. Moreover, it is not due to a deficient rainfall so much as to an excessive rate of evaporation. "The prairie areas are uniformly so situated that they are fully exposed to the factors which cause evaporation, namely, the sun and the wind. During much of the year the conditions are quite favorable to plant growth, but there are seasons and there are portions of the year, especially in midsummer, when evaporation and consequent desiccation become so extreme that only those plants that are especially adapted to dry regions can survive."

Expectations Shattered.

[Washington Star:] Senator Sutherland of Utah, said at a luncheon in Washington of a bill that had been defeated:

"It deserved defeat, for it was full of graft. The grafters, in their disappointment over it, reminded me of the heirs of old George Smith.

"Old George Smith was a millionaire, and his nephews and nieces had done nothing for him since his childhood because they expected to inherit all his money.

"Well, old Smith died in due course, and a short time after his death I met one of the nephews.

"'So your uncle is no more,' I said. 'What did he leave?'

"The nephew answered with a bitter sneer:

"'A golden-haired young widow of whose existence we had never dreamed.'"

FOOTBALL PLAYER HURT.

SAN LUIS OBISPO (Cal.) Oct. 14.—Adolph Carty, aged 18, of Santa Barbara, suffered a fracture of the skull while playing Rugby today. Carty was in the scrimmage line of the State Polytechnic school, playing against Santa Barbara High School. His condition is critical. Polytechnic won the game, 3 to 0.

Supercedes Massage
As Wrinkle Remover
(The Woman Beautiful)
Many women regularly visit the beauty specialist to have their wrinkles ironed out with the help of hot applications, cold creams and massage. Most of us realize that there comes a time when no amount of persuasion of this sort will avail. This process of "wrinkle removing" is wrong in principle. Both the hot water and the massaging tend to expand and loosen the skin, besides softening the muscular foundation.
The very opposite result should be aimed at. The tissue should be strengthened, the skin tightened, so there'll be no room for wrinkles. The best known preparation for the purpose can be made at home by dissolving 1 ounce saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel. Use as a wash lotion. The effect is really marvelous. Tell the druggist you want the powdered saxolite, which dissolves immediately.

This great book tells how you can cure yourself without drugs. It is written in plain language and beautifully illustrated with pictures of well-built, strong men and women. It explains many things you should know, and shows how men become strong and vigorous after a few applications of Electra-Vita.
Electra-Vita is a dry-cell electric body battery, worn around the waist while you sleep. It needs no charging like the old-style batteries in vinegar or acids.
If you suffer from weakness of any kind—rheumatism, indigestion, lost strength, nervous debility or any trouble that causes you to suffer, you can't afford to fail to get this book. Remember, it is absolutely free. Don't wait a minute. Cut out and mail this ad, or send your name and address. Consultation free.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

The local markets were entirely devoid of interest yesterday morning and were so quiet that all business seemed at a standstill. The merchants who did not go to Watsonville to the Apple Show were down at the beach watching the auto races, consequently trading was very light. There were not sufficient members on the Produce Exchange to hold a call and prices on all staples remained unchanged.

Receipts of different commodities were very light, with the one exception of apples. Only sixty-three cases of eggs were reported in. Butter arrivals totaled 2129 pounds; cheese, 25 pounds; potatoes, 331 sacks; onions, 2 sacks; no beans, and 270 sacks of sweet potatoes. Apple arrivals were 14,922 boxes.

SAN FRANCISCO EXCHANGE.

Belmont Drops Back Several Points and Goldfield Consolidated Recovers to Some Extent.

[Special Service to The Times by B. F. Taylor, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—It was a short session today, exchange adjourning at 11 o'clock on account of breaking ground for the world's fair. Belmont which has been the strongest stock all the week lost 20 points closing 8½ bid. This is natural in the face of the rapid advance. Tonopah mining was up 12½, Montana 1, West End 1, while Midway dropped back 2. Goldfields were unchanged except Consolidated which was up 10 points. Sales in New York today were at 4 5-8 and 4¾, closing 4½ bid in that market.

Stocks in the outlying camps were unchanged and sluggish. Trading in the Comstocks were of small volume and they closed practically unchanged.

The report of the Tonopah Mining Company for last week shows 2350 tons of ore average value of $17, with a ninety per cent. extraction. The total value of the output was $64,500.

The Ohpir Company, took out last week $23,127 while the output of the Ophir Mexican and Crown points amounted to $38,197.

The quarterly report of the Round Mountain Company ending August 31 shows net profits of $34,762. The company has cash on hand and bullion on transit valued at $97,067. The capacity of the mill has been increased from 100 to 175 tons a day.

WHEAT MARKET IS INELASTIC.

CLOSE IS ALMOST AT LOWEST FIGURE OF DAY.

Official Prediction of Fair Weather Leads Many Longs to Reduce Their Holdings of Corn—Oats Rule a Trifle Steadier—Pork Is Dearer. Other Provisions Unchanged.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—The wheat market at no time today displayed any sign of being elastic, and the close was at almost the lowest level of the day. December during the session ranged from 98 7-8 to 99 1-8@99 1-4, with last sales 98 7-8, a net loss of 3-8. Official predictions of fair weather led many longs to reduce their holdings of corn. December ranged from 64 1-8 to 64 3-4, closing 1-2 net lower at 64 1-8@64 1-4; cash grades were only in fair demand. No. 2 yellow finished at 72@72 1-4. Oats ruled a trifle steadier than other grain. Top and bottom figures for December were 47 7-8@48 and 47 5-8, with the close 1-4 off at 47 5-8. The last gong found pork 2 1-2 to 5c dearer and the remainder of the list provisions unchanged or at an advance of not to exceed a nickel.

Cash quotations were as follows: Flour, steady; winter patents, 4.15@4.25; straights, 3.80@4.50; straights, 4.50@4.75; baker's, 3.70@5.00; No. 2 rye, 96½; feed or mixing barley, 80@1.00; fair to choice malting, 1.10@1.22; Timothy seed, 13.00@15.20; clover, 14.00@19.50; mess pork, per bbl., 15.37½@15.50; lard, per 100 lbs., 8.77½@8.80; short ribs, sides (loose,) 7.75@8.50; short clear sides (boxed,) 8.25@8.75.

Grain Statistics.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Total clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 230,000 bushels; primary receipts were 1,199,000 bushels, compared with 1,054,000 bushels the corresponding day a year ago. Estimated receipts for Monday: Wheat, 48 cars; corn, 267 cars; oats, 158 cars; hogs, 28,000 head.

New York Cotton Market.

[Furnished by Logan & Bryan, Members New York and Boston Stock Exchanges, Bradbury building.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—South was heavy seller this morning and while comparatively few reports were coming in from the interior spot markets the heavy hedge selling created an impression and the market declined 18 points. Short covering was on a large scale and spinners were said to be buying moderately on a scale down, but this demand was insufficient to absorb the enormous offerings. The weather was favorable with no prospects for unduly cold or frost over Sunday and many are predicting lower prices next week.

Logan & Bryan's letter says:

"Liverpool was influenced by favorable weather in the cotton belt and free offerings from the South and from an opening that was about in line with our close yesterday, declined sharply at the close, losing 7 to 8 points, all the deferred options in the foreign markets selling below five pence. Forecast over Sunday promised no radical change in weather conditions to scare shorts to cover, and as a result American markets continued to work into new low levels. Present values are equivalent to around 8¼ cents at the farm and if producers are compelled to accept this price, they will have realized not a penny profit, if in fact, they do not have an actual loss for the time and money spent in producing the crop. Having received about one and three-quarters billions of dollars for the two preceding crops, which yielded handsome profits, they are showing reluctance and a spirit of resistance to unmunerative prices, which the late converts to the bear side, who are selling the cotton that is the principal source of pressure now, will have to contend with."

THE COPPER INDUSTRY.

[Special Service to The Times by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members N. Y. Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

We are advised that a report by Dr. Ricketts on the general condition of the Arizona Copper Company's mines and reduction plants has been forwarded to Scotland and that in all probability some decision will be reached soon regarding the location of the new smelter. Up to the present time there has been a considerable difference of opinion as to the site for this plant, some being in favor of placing it at Clifton, which would necessitate building it upon a plateau above the town. While another plan and probably the more logical would be a location below the town near the Shannon smelter. The latter location would permit of operations being carried on continuously pending the completion of the new plant. It will be recalled that in mid-summer a deputation which included some of the officers made the journey from Edinburgh to the mines for the purpose of ascertaining the existing conditions. Their report was very satisfactory and this is now being followed by a technical report by Dr. Ricketts, general manager of Greene Cananea. The Arizona Copper Company has long been in need of a modern and more efficient smelter, the present plant having been in operation more than thirteen years, and it is for the purpose of making these changes that the recent inspections of the properties have been made. It is estimated that the necessary construction work will call for from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000, which, according to advices from abroad, should be raised with little difficulty.

The question as to whether North Butte is earning its present rate of dividends is being continuously raised, but there is no official utterance on the subject beyond the action of the directors in recently declaring the regular quarterly dividend at the rate of $1.20 per share per annum. On the basis of present production, if North Butte can produce its copper for 10 cents per pound, it is just about earning its present rate of dividends. North Butte's development cost at the present time is extraordinarily large, owing to the aggressive policy now being pursued of adding to reserves, which now amount to about a two years' supply.

The most important recent development beyond the opening of the narrow, rich veins in the northern section of the property, is the ore body cut in the Speculator shaft several months ago at a depth of 2740 feet. Unofficial but trustworthy information from Butte is that the vein cut by the shaft is 40 feet thick and that it averages 12 per cent. copper, with about 26 oz. silver per ton.

This is a large and valuable ore body, but the stockholders of North Butte are most interested in the prospective cutting of the Jessie and Edith May veins on the 2800 foot level between the fault planes. The Jessie vein approaches the shaft on the 2800 foot level within 25 feet, so that when the station is completed, a matter of probably about three weeks, it should take but a week or ten days to reach the Jessie vein, and indications on the 2200 and 2400 foot levels between the fault planes, certainly give reason to anticipate a favorable showing on the 2800 foot level.

For the first time in many weeks the United Metals Selling Company appears openly as a willing seller of copper. Two prices have been named in London this week by C. S. Henry & Co., representing this agency abroad. The Monday price was £57 2s 6d, while on Tuesday afternoon the trade was notified of a reduction to £57 flat, the equivalent of about 12⅜ cents, 30 days on this side. To the domestic trade United Metals has maintained the 12¾-cent level, although some customers have been able to secure electrolytic from it at 12⅝ cents, and rather substantial sales are understood to have been made. The action of the Amalgamated agency in openly cutting its price, after having apparently refrained for such a long time from entering the market, was disliked particularly since prices for electrolytic by active sellers had commenced to show an improvement from the low level of a week or ten days ago. Nominally the market for electrolytic may be quoted at 12⅝ cents, but this price will be shaded different degrees by various sellers. The Guggenheims have been free sellers abroad, and shipments from their Baltimore refinery continue on a large scale. Last month their exports totaled 20,142,080 pounds, while their Perth Amboy shipments further augmented this tonnage. December copper has been sold at prevailing prices, but thus far nothing for January delivery has been booked. Owing to the distance from German delivery points, sales covering January requirements for German manufacturers will soon be effected.

TO REGULATE ORPHANAGE.

South Pasadena Trustees Adopt Measure to Prevent Establishing An Orphans' Home—News Briefs.

SOUTH PASADENA, Oct. 14.—A special meeting of the Board of Trustees was held last evening to pass an order restricting the place where an orphans' home may be in this city. It provides that a permit must first be obtained from the Board of Trustees, and that one can not be established within 100 feet of any residence, and nowhere within the city except in a district bounded by El Centro street, Mission street, Orange Grove avenue and Meridian, so as not to affect the present home of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society, which is located within these boundaries.

This ordinance was aimed at the proposed negro orphanage on the Gunston property in Lincoln Park. A representative of the property owner was present at the meeting and stated that the property could be purchased at $6500, possibly at $6000, which it is claimed to be twice as much as the property is worth.

The Board of Trustees appointed E. S. Williams as deputy to City Clerk William Cox, believing the time has arrived when it is necessary for the City Clerk to have an assistant.

The funeral services of Clair Barborough, aged 25, who died Tuesday of tuberculosis, was held yesterday from the chapel of Turner, Stevens and Berry on Mission street, at 2 o'clock, Rev. Booker Smith, pastor of the Christian Church, officiating, with interment at Mountain View Cemetery, Pasadena. The deceased was a native of Michigan, having lived in this city the past seven years, four of which he has been in poor health. He leaves a mother, Mrs. Ella Throop, one sister, Mrs. Hazel Terry, of this city, and two brothers, Fred, of this city, and Claude, who is a resident of Long Beach.

W. R. Newton of Anaheim was brought before Recorder Soper yesterday by the motorcycle policeman and fined $20 for speeding at a rate of forty miles an hour on Huntington drive.

UPLAND BUILDING NOTES.

UPLAND, Oct. 14.—The Palmer & Brooks Realty Co., has just finished a couple of attractive cottage homes, located on the Arbol-Verde tract, lying between this city and Claremont. It is the purpose of the company to continue as rapidly as possible the building of this type of homes, as the ones completed are already occupied. Lying as it does, directly in connection with the electric line, this tract is popular with the seeker of a home in a district where he will be in touch with such splendid educational advantages.

The W. B. Stewart home, on the southeast corner of D street and First avenue, and just completed at a cost of some $6000, is now occupied by the Stewart family. The home is one of the finest thus far constructed in the city. On upper Euclid, L. B. Baldwin has just completed an $8000 residence on the orange grove which he recently purchased. Mr. Baldwin has now gone East, where he is to be married to a daughter of the "Cracker-Jack King," in Chicago, and they will return, later, to make their home on the ranch in the northern part of this city. The "Cracker-Jack King," himself, has recently bought the Bohland ranch of twenty acres, adjoining the Baldwin holdings, and the latter sale was accompanied by a payment of $40,000, spot cash. Orange groves in the upper section of this colony are rapidly enhancing in value, owing to splendid returns shown on the investment.

What is known as the new Bodenhamer well, located on Twentieth street and Mountain avenue, has now passed into the hands of a company, headed by Messrs. Hanson & Seares of Upland. The well is a fine one, with something like 100 inches of water, which is to be used, for the most part, by owners of new land, just planted, or to be set within the coming year.

BIGGEST RALLY FOR SOME TIME.

New York Stock Market Has Much Better Tone.

Present Price of Cotton Is Bad for Raisers.

New Presidents Elected for Los Angeles Banks.

The New York stock market closed yesterday at the top of the most substantial rally it has seen since the big decline started. The present rally followed a period of quiet and there is every evidence that it will go on higher. The situation for the time being seems somewhat clearer, and bankers and brokers in Wall street appear to feel better over the situation. In fact, the general market sentiment is of a more hopeful tone.

It is felt that the present situation may lead to quite a substantial upward movement in security values. These movements frequently occur in big bear markets. At the lowest point reached by stocks two weeks ago, the average of twenty active railroad securities showed a decline of a fraction over thirteen points from the high of the year.

In 1907 this average showed a decline of 50½ points, and in 1903 of over thirty points. And even in 1910 a decline in this average of eighteen points was registered. These figures of the past, while they can in no the present or future, are still very interesting comparisons, and it would seem that with the many unsettling way be taken as sure indications of conditions still ahead, before the Presidential election, matters are not yet fully discounted.

Cotton is now selling lower than it has in three years, and is at a point where the southern farmer, with few exceptions, cannot raise it at a profit. This means that the banking interests of the South will have to stand a very heavy strain, which will necessarily be reflected to a greater or less degree in other parts of the country. The railroads and all other large industrial corporations are still practicing economy. Mercantile establishments are feeling the slight improvement in business due to the usual fall requirements.

Some of the government investigations will soon be under way again, and when Congress again meets, there will be more tariff agitation. For these reasons many people will wait before investing their money on a large scale.

NEW BANK PRESIDENTS. IMPORTANT HAPPENINGS.

Important happenings to the financial interests of the city during the week just closed were the election of Arthur J. Waters as president of the Citizens' National Bank to fill the vacancy caused by the death of his father, the late Hon. Russell J. Waters, and the election of O. J. Wigdal as president of the Home Savings Bank, also to succeed the late R. J. Waters.

R. J. Waters was also president of the Citizens' Bank and Trust Company, the control of which was recently taken over by the Citizens' National, but the directors of the new concern have not yet taken action.

CITY'S BANK CLEARINGS. ALL RECORDS ARE BROKEN.

Bank clearings constitute the barometer of a city's business. The clearings of the Los Angeles banks for Friday reached the enormous total of $5,460,785.73, almost $2,000,000 in excess of the clearings for the corresponding day of 1910, and over $3,000,000 ahead of the clearings for the same day of 1909.

The past week was notable for having two holidays, yet for the four bankings days the total is more than $15,000,000. Business men generally, when they want to get a line out on a particular city, look up its record of bank clearings. That is one reason for the call Los Angeles has on money and business the country over.

Kindergarten and First Grade Course.

Miss Ida Leonard will give a course of lectures on "Education of the Voice," to the kindergarten and first grade teachers, the first to be delivered on October 26, at Olive street auditorium. Registration for these classes will begin on October 16 and close October 25, at her office, 806 Y.W.C.A. building.

WARNING.

In a futile effort to revenge themselves upon The Times for its effective advocacy of Industrial Freedom, paid labor-union emissaries — obviously sympathizers with the accused prisoners—are persistently engaged, in different parts of the city, in trying to induce people not to continue to patronize or read this journal.

These hired agitators deserve to be ignored and repelled, and Times patrons and readers are advised to refuse their impudent demands.

Any misconduct on the part of these paid emissaries of monopolistic organized labor should immediately be reported to the police.

The hysterical shrieks of union bosses and the cowardly tactics of their hirelings will not stop the onward and upward march of The Times, or abate its zeal to promote the true material welfare of Los Angeles and the State, protect the cause of the independent workingman and advance the best interests of all the patrons of this steadfast journal. The Times is and will continue to be the champion of all honest, independent workingmen who mean to be free, true and law-abiding.

WILL EXPLOIT THE VALLEY.

Covina Chamber of Commerce Will Point Out Merits of Its Section to An Admiring World.

COVINA, Oct. 14.—A vigorous directorate elected by the Covina Chamber of Commerce is discussing a number of ideas for the betterment of conditions in the Covina Valley, and for its exploitation to the outside world. At a meeting this week, the directors decided to form a "Hustle Committee," which will go out after the membership dues, and a part of this money will be expended in a big booklet, which will embrace the entire valley as a prospectus including a history of what has already been accomplished.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Hobos effected an entrance to the Covina public library some time during the early hours of Friday morning. The place was left in indescribable confusion, but the thieves, in their hunt for money, got less than $2.

Three square miles lying south of Covina city have been annexed to the Covina Union High School district. The petition was allowed on Wednesday by Superintendent Mark Keppel. Other petitions, praying for admittance, are being considered.

Evangelical services, which have been held at the Baptist Church for two weeks, with large crowds attending each night, will terminate Sunday with a song service led by Prof. B. P. Stout of Pasadena.

A. J. Ball and J. Baker, two socialist speakers, were arrested here for violating the ordinance prohibiting speaking on the street without a permit. J. C. Walters, City Street Inspector, testified that the men used coarse language. Justice Wells found the men guilty, but suspended sentence, allowing the men to leave town. When arrested, one of them was about to sing a song entitled: "Hoist the Red Flag." Justice Wells informed them that the city had no objections against socialist speaking, but that the law must be obeyed regarding gentlemanly conduct on the street.

SOUTH PASADENANS TROUBLED.

New Ordinance Passed Last Night, However, it is Believed Will Solve the Vexed Question.

SOUT HPASADENA, Oct. 14.—The City Trustees passed an ordinance tonight relating to the location of homes for negro children. Its provisions are most strict and will prevent the location of a home in the fashionable Monterey road district. The ordinance provides that there shall be no home of the character proposed within one hundred feet of any residence and septic tanks and proper sanitary equipment must be maintained. A fine of $25 to $100 may be imposed for each violation of the ordinance and each day of its continuance is construed as a separate violation.

It is hinted that certain real estate men are trying to reduce the value of real estate in that vicinity and an investigation is being made by citizens.

ALHAMBRA.

ALHAMBRA, Oct. 14.—Active work for the enlargement of the First Presbyterian Church of this city is well under way. The improvement will consist of an addition on the south side of the present structure, about seventy feet long. This will be known as the Sunday-school room and will be about 50 by 60 feet, being of irregular dimensions. The seating capacity of this room will be 450 and will accommodate twenty-five classes. A large arch will connect this room with the present intermediate room. The partition separating the ladies' parlor from the north side of the present auditorium will be removed, and this alteration will add 125 to the seating capacity of the room. The present rooms will all be redecorated and a new roof will be put on the old structure, and while the present building will be an integral part of the larger church, it will really be a new church so far as appearance is concerned. The improvements are made necessary by the rapid increase in membership of both the church and Sunday-school, the present membership of the church being 267 and of the Sunday-school 350.

A petition from the property owners in the immediate vicinity asking for the opening of Grand avenue from Almansar street to Granada street has been presented to the Board of City Trustees.

Securities of the American Tobacco Company Again Engage Attention—The Pressure of Idle Money Awaiting Investment Is Felt in Wall Street.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Prices of virtually all the active stocks rose from 1 to 2 points today. The list advanced steadily, under the influence of an active demand from the opening of trading to the close. The several securities of the American Tobacco Company again were active, and the bonds developed some heaviness. The recent marked rise in the 4 per cent. bonds is accepted as proof that the original reorganization plans of the company have undergone modifications. Additional details of the plan as it stands at present were made known, and had much to do with bringing in buying orders. Bond dealers said that the pressure of idle funds awaiting investment was making itself felt in the heavier sales and rising prices, this activity extending to the more conservative investment stocks. London bought stocks in this market, its purchases being estimated at 10,000 shares. The bond market was irregular. Prices generally showed an improvement in tendency. Total sales, par value, $2,760,000. United States 2s advanced ¼ on call for the week.

Boston Copper Market.

[Furnished by Logan & Bryan, Members New York and Boston Stock Exchanges, Bradbury Building, Los Angeles.]

BOSTON, Oct. 14.—Both markets continued strong all through the session. Very little pressure appeared and prices advanced slightly. The short interest is so large that covering rather than further selling from this quarter, is most likely. Liquidation has also been pretty thorough and in case of any favorable turn in general business outlook a further good rally would be brought about very easily. Think the coppers especially are about on rock bottom.

[Special Service to The Times by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members N. Y. Stock Exchange, 119 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The curb market was more active today with the general list holding steady. The coppers looked as though they might go some higher. The market closed steady and fairly active.

There were no developments in the Boston coppers today. Some strength caused by short covering, the market closed dull.

TWENTY CLERKS APPOINTED.

More Than Sixty Women Register To Vote at the Coming City Election.

More than twenty women registration clerks were appointed by the County Clerk, yesterday, and more than sixty women went to Choral Hall to register in order that they may vote at the city election.

Miss Helen Wisler and Mrs. Berthold Baruch, who were appointed some time ago to take registrations for the recent election, went early yesterday morning to the old Political Equality headquarters and they were the first women in this city to register future women voters of Los Angeles. Mrs. Baruch was at her station by 10 o'clock and instead of handing woman suffrage literature to the visitors, she asked them if they had come to register.

In the 230 precincts, for each of which a registration clerk will be appointed, only three places so far have been selected. Registrations will be taken Monday morning at the County Clerk's office, at Choral Hall and at No. 520 South Broadway.

URGES ECHO PARK SITE.

Northwest Association Passes Resolution Asking That Normal School Be Not Erected in Certain District.

Resolutions were adopted by the Northwest Association yesterday urging the acceptance of the property lying between Echo Park and Sunset boulevard and Lakeshore and Echo Park avenues for a Normal School site.

The resolution further sets forth that the association protests against the selection of a site for the school "that can be approached only by passing over dangerous bridges and railway lines, or through the congested part of the city, or within the industrial belt where the noise of passing railway traffic will paralyze the usefulness of the Normal School, or that is being sought solely as an adjunct to great real estate schemes."

CHARACTER AND WEALTH.

Men and Fortunes Made in Imperial Valley.

Courage the Essential Which Removes All Obstacles.

Marvelous Possibilities of Section Not Yet Known.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

HEBER (Cal.) Oct. 14.—The Imperial Valley farmer is a study. Yesterday The Times representative attended an auction sale near Heber and saw in one body about 300 farmers, some of whom had their women folk and children along. The occasion for the auction was the desire of a dairyman and stock owner to go out of business. The sale had been advertised by large posters all over the valley and brought out the great concourse of people.

They came by spanking team, honking automobile and lumbering wagon from all directions, some walking over from the little railroad station after the arrival of the trains, three of which run each direction over the branch every day.

The majority of the men wore light blue shirts, wide-brimmed Stetson or Panama hats, and trousers of no especial pattern. But never did I see such a predominance of blue shirts and Stetsons. It seems to be the badge of the well-to-do rancher, this blue shirt attire. The neck is open a couple of buttons at the top, for it is still quite warm in the middle of the day down here, the sleeves are rolled to the elbows, leaving the brawny, brown arms and hands protruding in emphatic, if mute, boastfulness of strength and self-reliance.

A slim, blue-shirted man was approached who had crow's feet behind his eyes that told me he laughed often, and he was asked about several of the men who stood in the front row and were bidding $80 for dairy cows, keeping notes of the numbers in little books so they would know how much they were spending.

"That man came here two years ago," said the smiling farmer, "with a total of $250. He rented that forty across the ditch last year and took on another forty this year. He bought some cows and hogs on six months' and a year's time, went to work like a trooper, paid out for his stock, took care of the increase, got his cream check every month and here he is getting a bargain of three fine milkers because he has three or four hundrd dollars saved up."

The bidder looked self-reliant and masterful. True enough, his brown skin could be seen through worn places in his blue shirt and his shoes told of oft-repeated trips to the cow yard. His little success had been his own and had changed him from a dependent weakling to an independent man of strength.

A big, rotund, keen-looking man chewing a straw and gazing over the fence where the unsold cows were corralled was noted. His eyes were searching the herd with eagerness from under his broad hat brim. He watched the cowboy on horseback come for a new bunch of five cows and asked him to include three certain cows in the five. He then leisurely followed his selections over to the auctioneer who was hoarsely orating on the values that were going for a song!

"Here's a bunch of milkers, boys," shouted the auctioneer, "worth any man's money. I'll take this five and smother any other five cows in Imperial conuty in three days and choke them to death in butter fat. What am I bid?" And he pointed his broken whip stock swiftly at every buyer in the crowd. They started at $60 a head, "take your choice or any part." The rotund rancher walked slowly around to one end of the crowd and nodded his head every time anyone else made a raise. They went to $80, $85, $90, $100. Calmly chewing his straw, the rotund gentleman secured his three Jerseys for $110 each, and remarked that at that price they were better than poor cows at any price.

Asked who the rotund gentleman was, the slim man told me that the buyer had been here one year; came with $6000 capital and was slowly selecting stock for one of the finest all-'round stock and dairy ranches in the Southwest. He will turn his capital over every year, enjoy living in a healthy country, owns an auto, sends his children to the country school, is making friends of all his neighbors by his geniality and has already assumed a place in the community that the ordinary man with $6000 in a city would not attain in a life time.

Another bidder, so said the well informed friend, had been here six years, had been working hard on 320 acres of land but tried to do too much. His size was an eighty or a forty acre farm. He looked worn out and worried but was heroically trying to get things on a footing that did not take every cent he got in for running expenses, paying for ditching, land leveling and other costly preliminaries. He will come out all right.

They were all there, every class, at that auction. They bought the pigs, turkeys, hens and roosters; they purchased the horses, cows, calves and mules. Nothing was left. As we went out the gate of the corral we saw the motherless family watching the filing crowd without interest. Things they had worked hard for were gone. True enough the father had come here with absolutely nothing and was now selling out for thousands of dollars—but it was the home place and they loved it.

The great Imperial valley is peopled with a self reliant class of farmers. They have to be self reliant. If they are not so, the immensity of things conquers them and they flee from the imaginary obstacles that others laugh at and overcome.

The great thing needed here is a five fold increase in the number of this same class of farmer. There is plenty of room, just as good opportunities as ever and a grand chance to get free from a narrow life, wherever it may be, and get close to nature, that teacher of life that makes men and women real.

NATIONAL CITY.

NATIONAL CITY, Oct. 14.—The Postoffice Department has designated November 8 as the date for a postal savings bank to open for business. To accommodate this new department and the increased business of his office, Postmaster S. S. Johnson will arrange for the erection of an addition to the building, thereby doubling the floor space. He will then install 200 lock boxes.

AWARDED PILOT'S LICENSE.

Los Angeles Amateur Qualifies As Aviator and Performs in Flights at Santa Ana.

Flying under the official observation of observers from both the Aero Club of California and the Aero Club of America, Fred De Kor of this city qualified for an aviator's pilot license yesterday morning at Santa Ana. This makes the fourth aviator who has qualified for an international license in Southern California, no others having succeeded west of St. Louis, Mo.

The test was principally two separate flights, making a series of figures of eight. Two posts were set 500 meters apart around which the aviator circled, alternately turning to the right and left. Landings were made on a designated spot of fifty meters in length. An altitude of fifty meters, equal to about 165 feet, is required, and he carried a barograph which recorded the maximum height attained, as nearly 500 feet.

De Kor was issued aviator license No. 8 of the Aero Club of California last evening. He is planning to rebuild his machine and will possibly enter the exhibition field within the near future.

The aeroplane used in the test was a Curtiss type biplane equipped with an eight-cylinder sixty-horse-power Hall-Scott motor. A speed of approximately thirty-five miles an hour was maintained throughout the test.

TWO NEW MINISTERS.

Redlands Methodists and Christians Engage Pastors For the Coming Year—News in Brief.

REDLANDS, Oct. 14.—Two of Redlands' prominent churches will this year be in charge of new pastors. Yesterday Rev. Frank M. Lucas, the new pastor of Grace M. E. Church, arrived from Banning, accompanied by his wife and young daughter, and they are now established in the cosy little parsonage. A reception will probably be tendered them by the church members next week. Rev. Mr. Lucas is a graduate of the University of Illinois, where he took a law course, later entering the ministry. He served several churches in Southern Illinois and was then transferred to the Southern California conference, where he is one of the most popular of the younger preachers.

Word has been received from Rev. William Bryant Craig of New York, that he will leave shortly for Redlands to assume his duties as pastor of the First Christian Church, to which he was recently elected. Mr. Craig has resigned the pastorate of one of the large Christian churches in the metropolis to come to Redlands. Rev. Mr. Craig has served several of the important churches of the East and Middle West and is at present editor of The Disciple, a church paper.

The funeral of Percy D. Stanley was held yesterday afternoon with Dr. J. H. Williams officiating. The services at the grave were in charge of the local lodge of Elks of which Mr. Stanley was a prominent member. He is survived by a widow and two children and a mother.

The Schubert Club, the men's singing club, began its work for the season, last night, with the first regular rehearsal, G. Haydn Jones of Los Angeles, conducting. The club numbers thirty of the leading male musicians of the city. Two concerts will be given this season, with the assistance of an out-of-town artist. The first will will be given about December 15.

In view of the victory of the woman suffrage amendment, Miss Mary Hamilton, head of the local branch of the Political Equality League, today announced that a class would be formed for the study of social and industrial conditions in order that the women may vote intelligently. A programme for the course of study is now being worked out.

Mayor J. H. Strait and City Engineer George Hinckley left today in the latter's automobile for a tour of a number of Southern California towns for the purpose of acquainting themselves with the municipal water systems of the Coast. Among the cities to be visited are Monrovia, Ontario, Long Beach, Los Angeles and Whittier. This data is being gathered with a view to launching a campaign for municipal ownership of water at the next meeting of the city trustees. The city will ask for $750,000 for the purchase of a municipal plant.

COLORADO CALMING DOWN.

Eccentric and Variable Stream Shows Signs of Reduced Flow and Satisfaction Follows.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 14.—The flooded Colorado River continued to subside today, and the danger of further damage is now thought past.

The damage on the Arizona side, caused by the breaking of the dyke, north of Needles, is now known not to be as extensive as was at first supposed. A breach of fifty feet was torn through the dyke, and the water flowed out over the low lands, but later entered the dyke and passed on down the river.

The railroad bridge at Parker is not now endangered.

NO "OFF" SEASON IN REDLANDS.

Lively Inland City Reports Constant Activity.

Past Summer Banner Period In Realty and Building.

Fine Groves Involved in Two Recent Transfers.

REDLANDS, Oct. 14.—The summer months, which are usually considered the "off" season in a business way in the inland towns, have in reality been busy in realty and building circles in Redlands, many large deals in acreage having been made and many homes begun. Real estate men consider this one of their banner summers and all report many inquiries from the north and east from people who are either coming here to live or to spend the winter. From the latter class many of the most substantial residents are each year secured.

One of the large deals of recent date was that in which K. C. Wells, the president of the Home Telephone Company, exchanged a sixty-acre tract in the eastern section of the city for a grove on Nevada street, the property of G. S. Turrill. The property secured by Mr. Turrill is a part of the old Stillman ranch and has been planted to grapes. It faces on Brockton, Lugonia and Judson streets. It will be cleared and will be platted to plats of five and ten acres. A well will be sunk and orange trees will be planted on a part of the tract.

As part payment Mr. Wells takes a ten-acre tract on Nevada street, near Park avenue. It has double water rights and fine buildings, and the trees have on a fine crop of oranges. The total consideration of the deal was $50,000.

W. E. Grigsby has sold to G. S. Turrill a ten-room house on the west side of Orange street between High and Pearl avenues, taking in part payment twenty-three acres of land on Alabama street. The house is considered a valuable piece of property and will be improved by Mr. Turrill. The lot has a frontage of forty feet and extends back over 300 feet to the alley.

The land taken by Grigsby is half planted to eight-year-old eucalyptus trees. The total consideration of the deal was $14,000. Mr. Grigsby has also purchased five acres of land in the Mentone section, turning in as part payment a house and two lots on Columbia street and a lot on Alvarado street. The consideration was $5000. Mr. Grigsby will plant his property to oranges.

Parr and Gaertner have sold what is known as the W. G. Williams place to Mrs. A. Royers, taking as part payment the French Laundry property on East Citrus avenue. The Williams property is a large house and two lots at No. 511 Cajon street. The total consideration of the deal was $18,000.

W. E. Boden has sold his home at the corner of Colton avenue and Webster street to Robert Bedeau for $5500. The house is a modern one of six rooms.

Mrs. Dorothy Wicke has sold her residence at the corner of Colton avenue and Ohio street to Don Rosa. The consideration was $1400.

Alex Frye of Highland, who recently purchased the J. R. Baird mansion on the Heights for a consideration of $30,000, has already taken possession of the place, which is one of the finest in the city. A large house of modified Spanish architecture surmounts the knoll of several acres all set to oranges and rare shrubs and flowers. Mr. Baird and his family have gone to Los Angeles to reside.

W. J. Temple has sold to A. J. Wilson three acres set to oranges at the corner of Highland avenue and Redlands street, the consideration being $8000. The place is improved with full bearing oranges, six-room house and double water rights. Mr. Wilson gives in part payment a lot on West Citrus avenue on which he is erecting a brick building. Mr. Wilson has also bought from Frank Taylor four and a half acres on West Lugonia avenue paying therefor $7500. He gave in part payment two apartments at No. 503 Cajon street. Mr. Wilson has sold to Marshall Rugg the apartment house at Nos. 224 and 226 West Olive avenue for $13,000.

TO MARKET FINE TRACT.

Part of Historic Rancho La Puente Subdivided by Local Syndicate. Sixteen Miles From Los Angeles.

A tract of 2066 acres of land in the Rancho La Puente has been placed upon the market by Purcell, Grey and Gale. The tract is owned by the Cross Land Company, the directors of which are Marco Hellman, Lewis M. Cole, S. N. Clark, J. Fred Gale, Irving H. Hellman and Walter G. Chanslor of this city, together with William Ootout of Santa Barbara. S. P. Rowland, one of the heirs and descendants of the original owners of the historic La Puente ranch, is associated with the Cross Land Company as special agent.

This rancho, originally consisting of 48,000 acres of land, was secured by John Rowland and William Workman in 1843 from Pio Pico, then Governor of California. About 1876 E. J. Baldwin obtained from Workman a deed to approximately 20,000 acres of the rancho. This tract proved to be one of the most productive of all the vast holdings of the late "Lucky." The 2066 acres now being placed upon the market was purchased for a consideratio nreported at approximately $70,000. The land will be divided into units of five acres each.

The property is sixteen miles due east from the center of Los Angeles and is served by the Southern Pacific and the Salt Lake Railroads. It possesses a frontage of two and a quarter miles on the Los Angeles-Riverside boulevard, a part of the "good roads" system.

PLANS FINE APARTMENTS.

Buyer of Valuable Lot on South Flower to Handsomely Improve Site—Other Noteworthy Deals.

The sale of a vacant lot on the west side of Flower street, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, for Mrs. L. C. Rand to Mrs. A. R. Mackie is reported by W. B. Merwin & Co. The site is 50 by 165 feet in size and the consideration paid is reported at $22,500. It is the intention of the purchaser to erect a three-story brick apartment-house on the lot.

Through the same agency D. A. Dalugge, owner of the northwest corner of Central avenue and First street, has purchased from D. A. Daniles a lot adjoining his corner on Central avenue. Dalugge paid $10,000 for the site, which is 64 by 100 feet in size and which is improved with a one-story brick store building.

The transfer from T. E. Gibbon to W. W. Neuer of the no. heast corner of Eighth street and Grand avenue, through the same agency, was reported in yesterday's Times. The site, fronting 60 feet on Grand by 160 feet on Eighth, was sold for a reported consideration of $95,000. The new owner, it is said, will improve the corner with a four-story brick apartment-house.

THE SEAWARD TREND.

Leading Firm Pays Thousand an Acre for Washington Boulevard Acreage—To be Subdivided.

A tract of eighty-six acres of land on Washington boulevard, near the intersection of Adams street and opposite what is known as the "Feather Farm," has been purchased by H. G. Holabird & Co. This land has a frontage on Washington boulevard of about 1400 feet, and a frontage on the "Air Line" from which the Pacific Electric will soon divert all its Venice and Ocean Park traffic to the .cade depot, of 20.. feet. The consideration involved is reported at $86,000.

The property was formerly a part of the Keating estate which sold it for about $500 an acre about a year ago. It was sold again by W. I. Hollingsworth at $800 an acre and is now sold at $1000 an acre.

"Bob" Sherman, the son of Gen. M. H. Sherman, is preparing to subdivide a 140-acre tract of land which fronts on Washington boulevard and the Venice Short Line. The Sherman syndicate is arranging to have gas piped from Los Angeles. The lots will have $5000 building restrictions.

Gus Bower, local capitalist, will probably soon subdivide sixty acres at the corner of Washington boulevard, motordrome road and Englewood road.

BUILDING A MONSTER.

On this page is pictured an unusual perspective showing the Fifth street and alley elevations of the mammoth Title Insurance building, now nearing completion at the northeast corner of Fifth and Spring streets. The perspective, prepared in the offices of Parkinson & Bergstrom, architects of the structure, probably suggests better than any other cut hitherto published, the truly magnificent proportions of the new office building. The building has a frontage of 120 feet on Fifth and of over 200 feet along the alley between Spring street and Main. Taken with the new Rosslyn Hotel, a perspective of which appeared exclusively in last Sunday's Times, the Title Insurance building will make the north side of Fifth from Spring to Main the most metropolitan appearing block in Los Angeles.

WILL BUILD SHOW PLACE.

A beautiful building site at No. 61 Fremont place was yesterday purchased by H. Jevne, of the H. Jevne Company, through the agency of David Barry & Co., who are handling that fashionable new subdivision at the western edge of Los Angeles. The lot is 246 feet by 190 feet in size and is situated on the west side of Easterly drive, between Wilshire boulevard and Country Club drive. It is the intention of Mr. Jevne to build a home which will be one of the show places of the city. David Barry & Co., Charles B. Ingram & Co., and George H. Briggs are the agents for Fremont place, where already it is assured several fine homes are to be erected.

EXPECTS BIG POTATO YIELD.

Thomas M. Lambert, known as the "potato king" and who is president of the Produce Association, has taken through the Janss Investment Company 315 acres of Van Nuys-Lankershim lands on which to raise Irish potatoes. Lambert now has thousands of acres of potatoes near El Monte and is going to branch out with a big yield in the north valley. Large yields of Burbank and Peachblow Irish potatoes as well as big crops of sweet potatoes were taken from the Van Nuys-Lankershim lands this season by men who planted them.

JEWELRY HOUSES CONSOLIDATE.

Brock & Feagans and Whitley Jewelry Company Unite Into One Greater Concern to be Known as "Brock & Co."

[AUTHORIZED ANNOUNCEMENT.]

AN IMPORTANT business transaction that comes as a surprise has just been effected through the agency of C. E. Woodside & Co. in the consolidation of two of the leading jewelry concerns of this city, Brock & Feagans and the Whitley Jewelry Company, under the name "Brock & Co."

Both of the houses have long enjoyed a liberal patronage and have for years maintained here institutions which have been a credit to our city. Their combination into one greater institution should give to Los Angeles one of the most important jewelry establishments in the country.

The Whitley Jewelry Company was founded in 1893—eighteen years ago—by H. J. Whitley, who is a prominent local factor in banking interests and well known as the developer of Hollywood, and more recently as the manager of and one of the principal owners in the Van Nuys-Lankershim project, as well as in other large enterprises.

For eleven years Mr. Whitley conducted the business at No. 111 North Spring street in connection with his other extensive and varied interests, and under his management it rapidly developed into one of the best appointed jewelry establishments on the Coast. In 1904 the business was moved to splendidly furnished quarters at No. 345 South Broadway, and in 1905 Mr. Whitley disposed of his entire stock in the company and retired to give the required attention to his other personal interests and to projects controlled and managed by him. In 1908 the business graduated to its present magnificently equipped quarters.

The Brock & Feagans business was established eight years ago at Fourth and Broadway. The business, however, soon outgrew its quarters, and four years ago the splendid home now occupied by this firm was opened. It is said, and widely acknowledged, that no jewelry house in the country has ever built in so short a time a business of such magnitude as the Brock & Feagans store enjoys today.

The recent consolidation of the two stores was preceded some months ago by the retirement from the Brock and Feagans concern of Mr. Feagans, who will not in any way be associated with the new establishment. While the consolidation is virtually established now, the two stores will not unite as one until after the first of the year, when the present Whitley location will be given up and the greater institution will have its home in the magnificent Brock & Co. building at Nos. 437-39-41 South Broadway, which is known for its elegance from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The new concern has a paid-up capital of $400,000. The officers are G. A. Brock, president; Jacob Sepsen, first vice-president; Clem S. Glass, second vice-president, and C. T. Dunsmoor, secretary.

Mr. Brock has been the moving spirit in the Brock & Feagans business since its inception, and Messrs. Jespen, Glass and Dunsmoor have been the live wires back of the continued success of the Whitley store during the past few years since Mr. Whitley's retirement.

To Farmers Investors Colonizers

There is no branch of real estate that today offers such opportunities for profit for the farmer, the subdivider, the colonizer and the investor—as good agricultural lands. Such lands offer the maximum stability and the minimum uncertainties.

With business property there is always a possibility of the center shifting, or of certain streets becoming popular or unpopular. The same conditions exist in the residence sections. But, with FIRST-CLASS AGRICULTURAL LANDS, with good transportation, and the assurance of water, it is an accepted fact that the uncertainties are fewer than in any other class of securities.

History proves that in periods of financial depression, the sales of farm lands are at their highest. Southern California has probably never seen more activity in farm lands than during the fall of 1907 and the year of 1908. At such times, farmers run for the banks, get their money, and put it in LAND. FARM LAND IS THE BACKBONE OF THE COUNTRY.

But, while choice farm lands offer the greatest opportunities for profit today, there is no other branch of real estate in which the opportunities are being so rapidly taken up. Today, one can invest in good agricultural lands with the opportunity of making several times the amount of the investment in profits.

It is to the Colonizer that we particularly appeal, for it is his opportunities that are passing most rapidly. Within a few years, he will be compelled to go into Nevada, New Mexico, or Old Mexico, in order to get lands at such prices as he must have in order to retail them at a profit to the great foreign element coming into this country.

The real serious farmer, who knows good land when he sees it, will never have a better opportunity of buying farms than today. Next year, the price will be increased, or he will have to go a greater distance from the centers of population to get lands at today's prices.

Our business is farm lands. We specialize in farm lands, for it is only by specializing that one can find where the real bargains are found. The properties we offer have been personally investigated by us and have been called out of hundreds of listings.

We can show the most attractive purchases on the market, to the Farmer, the Subdivider, the Colonizer and the Investor. We have a retail selling force that enables us to subdivide large farms for investors and sell them for them.

If you want to buy farm lands—come to us.

If you want to sell farm lands—come to us.

We seek correspondence with every farm land owner in the State. We want descriptions of the property. If they sound attractive, we will make a special trip and go over the property regardless of distance. If you must sell your land, we can sell it—but you must put a bargain price on it. It is only BARGAINS we offer.

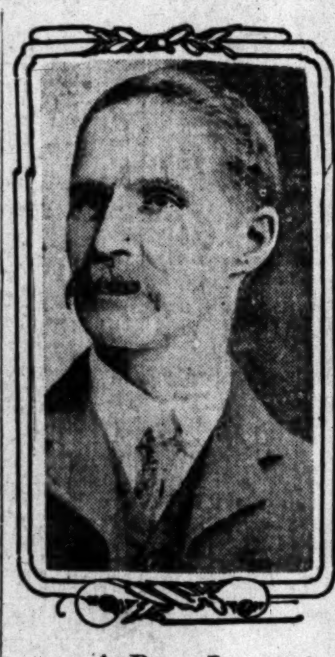
"MAN OF NO FAMILY" MAY BE BRITISH PRIME MINISTER.

F. E. Smith, Son of a Private Soldier and Most Interesting of a Trio of Commoners Who Are in Line to Succeed Arthur Balfour as Leader of the Tory Party.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

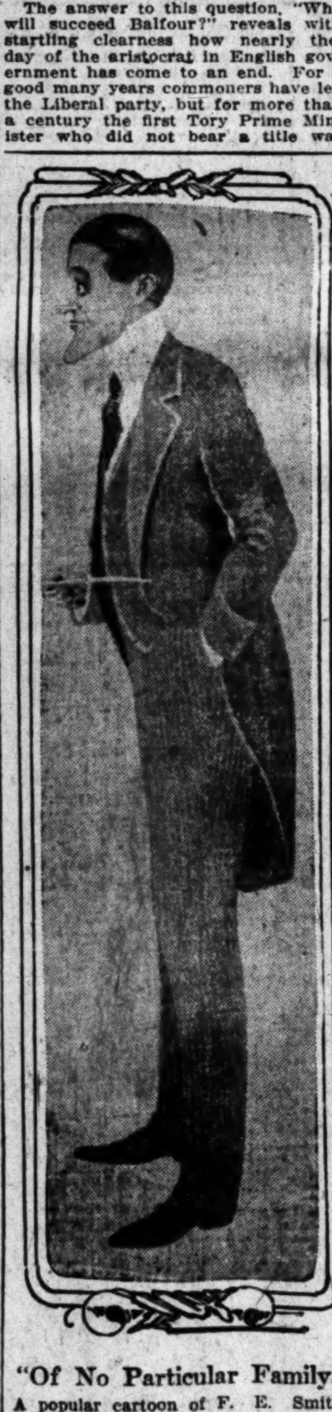
LONDON, Oct. 1.—When Parliament meets for the autumn session on the 24th of this month the question "Who will succeed Balfour?" will be heard more insistently than ever.

It is no secret that Arthur James Balfour's days as leader of the Old Tory party are numbered. Not only was he confronted with his 63rd birthday last July, but his health is not good, and for years he has been getting more and more out of touch with the rank and file of his party. This estrangement began when Joseph Chamberlain launched his policy of protection for British industry. Balfour never fully accepted it, and when he did render it lip service he did it so equivocally that he inspired its opponents rather than its friends with fighting fervor. But he never has been more hopelessly out of touch with the young and vigorous fighting element in his party than during the recent struggle over the abolition of the Lords' veto. The young Tories belonged hotly to the faction known as the "ditchers" from their shouted readiness to die in the last ditch rather than sacrifice the House of Lords. Balfour threw in his lot with the "hedgers," who allowed and even actively helped the Liberals to pass the veto bill for fear they would flood the House of Lords with new Liberal peers.



A. Bonar Law.

A "safe" man who may step into Balfour's shoes as Tory leader, because the party can't decide between F. E. Smith and Austen Chamberlain, the popular candidates.



"Of No Particular Family."

A popular cartoon of F. E. Smith, the brilliant young lawyer who is the brains of the English Tory party and is the popular candidate for Balfour's shoes as leader.

The answer to this question, "Who will succeed Balfour?" reveals with startling clearness how nearly the day of the aristocrat in English government has come to an end. For a good many years commoners have led the Liberal party, but for more than a century the first Tory Prime Minister who did not bear a title was Balfour himself, and Balfour is an aristocrat of aristocrats. He is a member of the great house of Cecil and a nephew of his predecessor in the Tory leadership, the Marquis of Salisbury. Today only three names are mentioned as those of his possible successors and each one of them, to use a phrase which I heard the other day from Justin McCarthy, the famous Irish historian, is "a man of no particular family."

First of the trio, because most interesting, and most of all a self-made man, is F. E. Smith, whose rise to prominence is one of the romances of English public life. Smith may not be the next Tory Prime Minister. There are two strong arguments against him. One is that Austen Chamberlain, son of Joseph, has a sort of hereditary claim to the reversion of Balfour's political estate, and the other is that Smith may be considered too young—he is only 39 years old now. Whether he becomes Prime Minister or not, Smith is today the real leader of the new Tory party. His brains and his enthusiasm inspire it and he is chiefly responsible for switching it from a party of traditions to a party which advocates conservative social reform and a larger part in the comforts and decencies of life for the working class. With marvelous skill he has grafted his social reform policy on to the older policy of protection, and he proposes to devote the money raised by taxes on imported merchandise to financing his schemes for social betterment.

F. E. Smith is pre-eminently the "man of no particular family." The British public doesn't know—and doesn't care, either—who his father was, and few even of his friends know anything about his grandfather. Smith, pere, appears to have received a fair education, for he ran away and joined the army and rose to be a sergeant-major, and after he left the army was able to become a lawyer. He never accumulated any money, however, for when he died, his son, F. E., found that if he were to continue his education he must win a scholarship. He was at school at Birkenhead, in the North of England then, and he made up his mind to get that scholarship. He won it and in 1890 went to Oxford. There he soon attracted attention, and before the end of his term he was president of the Oxford Union, that famous debating society where so many of England's statesmen have won their spurs.

At that time, however, Smith's ambitions were scholastic rather than political. He took all sorts of college honors and when he graduated he became a "don," which means that he took up the work of lecturing and teaching at the university, and he might have continued this useful but rather humdrum round all his life if he hadn't happened to fall in love with the daughter of a country clergyman who had no more money than he had. Smith made up his mind that he had to get into some more lucrative profession, so he started reading law, and he was called to the bar in 1899. Today he is the youngest man entitled to wear the silk gown of a King's Counsel.

He never was a briefless barrister. His fame at the university brought him clients as soon as he hung out his shingle in his native city of Liverpool, and in a few years he was earning a big income. Today no important law case is complete without "F. E." on one side or the other. I have heard all sorts of estimates of his income from his practice. Some of his legal associates put it at $50,000 a year; others at $100,000. Probably it is somewhere between the two figures.

Law in England, as in the United States, often leads to politics. F. E. Smith made up his mind to enter Parliament and he fixed on T. P. O'Connor's "Scotland" division of Liverpool as the constituency he would like to represent. He "nursed" it for a year or two, but never fought an election in it, for he was offered the chance to contest the neighboring Walton division in 1906, and he won.

He found himself in a Parliament where his party didn't count for much. The Tories had been hopelessly beaten and were not only few in numbers, but discouraged and disgusted. Even Balfour had been beaten at the polls and was looking for another seat. "F. E." watched things for a week or two and then he made his maiden speech. It was on a rather dull financial subject, and most of the members were in the smoking-room. They are not over-polite to new members or bores in the House of Commons. When the new man had been speaking for five minutes the news reached the smoking-room that something was happening, and members came trooping in. "F. E." finished to a crowded house. The listless Tories chortled in their joy. Here was a man who evidently was a match and more for the Winston Churchills and Lloyd Georges and other able young men on the Liberal side. Even the Liberals couldn't help cheering him.

Perhaps because he is a "man of no particular family" F. E. Smith doesn't trouble much about the traditional "House of Commons tone." He is a master of invective and he never hesitates to hit brutally if he thinks the brutal blow good ring tactics. In spite of that he is popular with his opponents, who forgive his most stinging attacks because they are clever. One night he was speaking on the protective tariff program when a Liberal member called out: "What about our food?"

"Don't you worry my friend," said F. E. Smith. "Your food will be all right. Neither Mr. Chamberlain nor myself ever proposed to put a tax on thistles."

His friends wonder how Smith keeps going, and how long he will be able to keep going. Every morning when the courts are sitting he is in court before 11 o'clock and often remains there till 5 p. m. Then he goes down to the House of Commons as fresh as a daisy, and often stays there till midnight or even later. When he gets home he must spend some time studying his cases for the next day and his speeches for the House of Commons, as you never find him unprepared in debate. His method shows that he must have gone over the subject carefully in advance. He has a wonderful system of classified pockets for reference clippings. He quotes from an opponent's speech for instance. "I never said that," shouts the man on the gridiron. "Oh, yes you did on February 2, 1908," says F. E. Smith and his hand goes unerringly to the right pocket and hauls out the clipping which he reads.

Perhaps one secret of Smith's physical fitness is his devotion to fox hunting. He keeps a big stable of hunters and every week-end finds him in the saddle. He is also a lieutenant in the Oxfordshire Imperial Yeomanry, of which Winston Churchill, the rising young man of the Liberal party, is major. The two men by the way are inseparable friends in private life, although in Parliament each is the other's bitterest opponent. Often after a night spent in slanging each other across the green benches they may be seen leaving Westminster arm in arm to sup together.

Mrs. F. E. Smith.

It was for her sake that her husband, who may be the next Tory Prime Minister of England, gave up the life of an Oxford don and went in for law and politics.

In appearance Smith is a dandy. At first glance you would set him down for one of the gilded youths who loll along the sunny side of Piccadilly during the London season. With another look, however, you note the firm jaw, the long pale face betokening years of study and the clear intelligent eye. The carefully brushed and pomaded hair, the immaculate collar and fashionably cut clothes all are typical in their way of the man's orderly mind. He hates personal no less than mental slovenliness.

It is this orderliness of mind that has given him his power. He found his party cut loose from its old moorings and with only part of a new program. With a group of the younger members he worked out a complete plan of social reform which will be presented to the electors at the next general election.

As I have indicated already F. E. Smith may not be the next Tory leader because there are two other men in the running, Austen Chamberlain and Andrew Bonar Law. Chamberlain, although the son of Joseph Chamberlain, is also a "man of no particular family" in the English sense for the Chamberlains are "middle-class" people. Austen really is handicapped by being the son of his father, for while he has great ability, it isn't the same kind as his father's and that is what people are looking for. He is a plodding, steady going politician who masters all his subjects and devotes all his life to politics. He made an excellent if uninspiring Chancellor of the Exchequer in Balfour's government, and by the way it may not be generally known that it is to Austen that Balfour probably owes the fact that he still is leader of the Tory party. When Joseph Chamberlain resigned his post in the Cabinet to start his protective tariff agitation, he was urged by his friends to depose Balfour, and it is believed he could have done so. He refused because his son had just been appointed Chancellor of the Exchequer and he wanted to "give the boy a chance." To attack Balfour would have meant an immediate general election and a possible defeat for his party.

Bonar Law, the third of the trio of aspirants for Balfour's shoes, is the least inspiring of all to the man in the street. He is a Canadian by birth, who made a fortune as an ironmaster in Glasgow and then went into politics. He is, as one would expect from his training, an animated reference book. Facts and figures are always at his finger ends and he is an authority on all matters connected with trade. The politicians look on him as a "safe man," and no doubt many of them would prefer him to either Smith or Chamberlain, but something more than "safeness" is wanted to win England back to Toryism. Bonar Law is much more likely to be Chancellor of the Exchequer in Smith's or Chamberlain's government than to take the head of the table in the famous Cabinet room at No. 10 Downing street.

OUR PRESIDENT.

T. HOWARD WILSON.

Throw wide the golden gates of Hesperus!
The topmost man among a race of kings
Stands there without and from our flower vales
Breathes nectared essences; throw wide the gates
And let him in! He well deserves the best
To that high eminence uplift by men
In whom the tide of life runs high, not serfs
Whose petty minds scarce live in dormant brains,
Who know but how to eke out barren lives
In sullen shifts and tragic mockeries.

Here men are men, big-souled, whose dreams leap out
Unfearful toward the brink of things unseen,
Whose thoughts, like pharos gleams, shine o'er the world
And keep in haggard hearts a little hope
Still burning red. No idle boast of blood
Is fostered here to nourish pampered kings;
The dead reign not; no servile backs bend 'neath
Blind usages that prop a trembling throne;
No shackled slaves wake from their bitter sleep
To mourn the sodden hand of tyranny;
No famine, leaden-eyed, stalks through our marts
To stuff the maw of death with infants' cries.

Here is the honey hive where hapless men,
All broken on the wheel of circumstance,
May come and drain the dew from Hybla's veins;
Here is the world's fair nectary, the land
Where freedom trips o'er meads with feet unbound;
Tip-toe upon the world's great deeds we stand,
A race previsioned in the scheme of things
To place love's crown above a world of thorns.
So, like a tide that sets toward boundless shores,
Its spirit glimpsing sheen from God's dear face,
The Anglo-Saxon host rolls on its way.
Throw wide the golden gates of Hesperus!
Our chieftan stands without—all hail! all hail!

Calexico.

FIVE CITIES OFFER CHARMS.

IMPERIAL VALLEY ONE OF THE EDENS OF CALIFORNIA.

Presents More Opportunities for the Man of Moderate Means Than Any Other Section of the Globe. Forty Acres Is a Principality for Any Man.

CALEVICO, Oct. 12.—To the average visitor who arrives from the East at this time of the year, the wonders of one section of the country remain practically unknown and that is of the Imperial Valley.

In the old bed of the Colorado River, a section twenty-five miles wide and forty miles long, comprising a half-million acres, there has been developed the very richest of all agricultural sections of this State. As a place for one with limited capital to come and build a home, it is unexcelled. Good farm lands, with water, can be had as low as $60 per acre. Prices range upward to $250 per acre and the results in crops would justify every acre being held at twice the amount that is asked.

Ten years ago this was a desert plain without enough attractiveness to invite the denizens of the desert. Water was placed on the land by years of arduous labor and now twenty-five thousand people enjoy the fruits of this effort. But the vast expanse of land still invites the home builder. There is room in Imperial Valley for a hundred thousand people without the least crowding. Forty acres of land here will support a family by raising alfalfa, keeping a sleek herd of dairy cows, with a few hogs, chickens and turkeys. It means independence to the man who is tired of the limitations of city life and who has saved enough to make a payment on the land and has the persistence to work hard.

It has often been said that a man with $1000 can come here and set up his own home in a small way, buying the land on contract, his cows on payments and working to pay off the indebtedness in a conscientous manner. In no other section of the country can a man start so easily.

The valley enjoys every convenience of advanced civilization. Schools abound; churches of every denomination are represented; five towns are incorporated and have electricity for lights and power, gas for fuel in some towns, etc. The drinking water is, under analysis, as pure as the best water in California, and Holtville has artesian water. Daily newspapers, banks, railroad conveniences and mercantile establishments offer features that interest the home seeker.

In each town a Commercial Club or Chamber of Commerce is in active existence and only asks that those interested apply for literature and written information about Imperial Valley. These towns are: Calexico, situated on the border line and styled "the Imperial Crown," because of being the highest in elevation and the "Gateway into Old Mexico," as her gates are open to the vast commerce offered by the sister republic to the south, which is being invaded by American capital; El Centro, the county seat, the wonder of young towns, having grown more rapidly than any city in the State during the last four years; Imperial, the oldest, keeping pace with the rest of the valley under the caption, "The Heart of Imperial Valley;" Brawley, the northermost, where expert gardeners have invaded and brought out the best that there is in the soil, so that "corn, cotton, cantaloupes and climate," form four big "C's" in her efforts to become know nas the "Gem City;" Holtville, the "Athens of Imperial Valley" lies in aristocratic beauty on the east side of the Alamo and is growing as rapidly as any section.

There is an air of progress and prosperity pervading the entire valley. The Times representative finds that every man is enthusiastic about his particular section. Along the rural free mail routes can be found prosperous ranchers who own automobiles and fine driving stock and take pride in showing the visitor his line of blooded hogs, poultry and cattle.

Cotton is going up in price and live stock advancing as well. he prices paid to the farmer are very satisfactory.

One cannot traverse this great country without becoming a convert. With half an eye one can see that the future points to the establishment of thousands of new homes; the improvement of miles upon miles of good roads and the content that will come to thousands of new comers from the eastern States who are daily arriving, seeking for land upon which to establish themselves.

A BIG FRUIT AUCTION.

New York City the Greatest Market for the Southern California Product.

[New York Sun:] Picture a room 150 feet deep by 50 feet wide, arranged with seats similar to those in a theater, seats and aisles filled with eager men, representing nearly every nation, shouting almost unintelligible sentences at the top of their voices, and you have a conception of a New York fruit auction.

A man on a high stand, coatless, collarless, usually with perspiration running down his face in rivulets, trying to bring some semblance of order out of the confusion, completes the picture. It is in such a room and under these conditions that the vast quantities of California fruit that roll into New York every day of the year are disposed of.

This public auction is held on Pier 20 on lower West street. Here are gathered all classes and kinds, from the small buyer who ekes out a livelihood from his pushcart and buys one or two boxes at a time, to the big jobber who buys as many carloads at a time as the other does boxes. It is a democratic gathering too, says Harper's Weekly.

During the California deciduous season, which is chiefly in July, August and September, during which months the majority of the pears, peaches, grapes, cherries and plums are received, these sales tart promptly at 9 a.m. and usually keep up without intermission until 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon and often later. During this time from sixty to seventy-five cars, each averaging 750 or more boxes of fruit, are sold daily. The work is so strenuous that often five or six auctioneers working at different times are necessary to complete the task.

All the fruit coming to New York arrives in Jersey City. The cars are loaded on floats which hold twelve cars each and are landed at Pier 20, North River, at the foot of Duane street. The cars are unloaded at night and sample boxes of fruit are arranged ready for the inspection of the buyers early in the morning. This display is in conformity with a catalogue which shows the car number, point of shipment, variety of fruit and the name of the grower, as well as the quantity of each particular variety.

The fruit begins to arrive at the pier at 10 o'clock at night and it takes a small army of stevedores to unload and sort it according to the descriptions in the catalogue. The first is ready for inspection by 6 a.m. Each buyer before going to the auction marks on a catalogue the prices he is willing to bid. Fruit that is purchased early in the sale is often in the hands of the consumer before the sale is concluded.

New York is the greatest consuming market for California fruits in the world, and the consumer there gets it at a more reasonable rate than the same fruit can be had at Los Angeles or San Francisco. California uses an infinitesimal amount of its fruit products.

SOUTHWEST BUILDING.

The Southwest Land Company reports nine bungalows and one two-story pressed brick store building, started the past week by ten different owners in Vermont Square, New Vermont Square and Vermont Avenue Square. These follow: E. K. Finch, north side of Fiftieth between Budlong and Kansas; A. O. Johnson, north side of Forty-fifth between Harvard and Denker; M. R. Dennett, north side of Forty-seventh, between Normandie and Raymond; R. C. O'Haven, east side of Normandie between Fiftieth and Fifty-first; A. D. Carpenter, north side of Forty-seventh between Denker and Halldale; Gottlieb Dombroski, north side of Forty-sixth, between Denker and Halldale; D. W. McClean northwest corner of Forty-first place and St. Andrews: the Misses Dryden, two-story pressed brick business block, southwest corner Santa Barbara and Western, and Swan Nelson, house on south side of Forty-fifth between Harvard and Denker.

LANKERSHIM ACTIVITIES.

Patton & Longley Company report the following sales of Lankershim acreage: William F. O'Brien, five acres on Cortez avenue south of Ninth street, $1750; J. S. Johnson, five acres on Ethel avenue, north of the electric car line, $1625; R. G. Dunham, five acres on Marie avenue south of the Southern Pacific Railroad, $1000; C. L. Hamblin, two and one-half acres on Encino avenue, north of the macadamized boulevard, $562; F. A. Kelsey, five acres, on Ethel avenue, northeast of Van Nuys, $1750; L. C. Hoffman, two and one-half acres, on Diaz avenue, north of Eighth street, $1000.

BUYS IN WINDSOR SQUARE.

James F. Martin of James H. Adams & Company, purchased the past week two large lots in Windsor Square, the new residence park projected by R. A. Rowan & Company, for a price reported to have been $20,000. Adams will at once build a home to cost approximately $30,000. Martin selected lots on Windson boulevard between Fifth and Lindon. Both have 100 feet frontage and the site is one that gives a sweeping view both toward city and sea and foothill and mountains. Plans for the house have not as yet been adopted, but will be decided upon as speedily as possible. Martin will build a home that will harmonize with the splendid places being constructed by other wealthy buyers in the same neighborhood.

SHIP HOUSES TO HAWAII.

Harry D. Rodgers, auditor of the Los Angeles Investment Company, has just returned from a month's vacation in Hawaii. He stated yesterday that he brought back with him an order for four six-room bungalows to be placed on the immense sugar plantation of Gustave Jahnke. The houses were shipped in crates, sectionally, going complete except for brick, cobblestones and such other materials. Rodgers was a guest of Jahnke. The bungalows will be occupied by a plantation manager and three assistants.

NEW TOWN LAID OUT.

The town of Kinloss is the latest addition to the Escondido Valley. Anderson Brothers, owners of the Homestead Estate, have subdivided 700 acres into five and ten-acre lots. Eighty acres have been reserved for the new town. This property is situated seven miles southeast of Escondido, just off the main boulevard leading to San Diego. D. A. Marshall, No. 409 Lissner building, is the special agent for the tract.

LA SIERRA HEIGHTS.

The late sales of the Ganss company at La Sierra Heights are reported as follows: Cornelius Farris, eight acres, $3300; A. J. Gilbert, twenty acres, $6000; Charles Wade, ten acres, $2990; Lulu B. V. Flach, ten acres, $2925; W. F. Calahan, forty acres, $12,000 and D. F. Bowe, eight acres, $2400.

Yorba Linda sales follow: G. W. Jones, twenty acres, $6000; E. W. Gillett, eight acres, $4000; P. S. Humphrey, eight acres, $4000; William Caskey, ten acres, $3000; W. A. Walker, ten acres, $3500 and John Harms, eight acres, $2990.

TO BUILD SECOND HOUSE.

John Albert Campbell, who recently started construction on a fine home in Brentwook Park, has completed plans for a second house to be built on the adjacent lot and to which he hopes to lure one of his eastern friends. Mr. Campbell is a Chicago man and was formerly identified with the Federal Construction Company. The designs for the second home, which is to be erected at once, disclose an unique type of architecture that suggests the semi-tropics in every exterior feature. The purchase of the two large lots was made through the Braly-Janss Investment Company.

EL SEGUNDO SALES.

Following is a list of recent purchasers at El Segundo: Miss A. Martindale, $500; C. C. and G. C. Cypert, $900; S. A. Stearns, $500; B. D. Krant, $600; Mary Johnson, $425; E. E. Mudge, $875; J. A. WITH THUNDERSTORM IN PRODUCING OZONE.

Los Angeles Inventor Perfects Machine for Purifying Air in Sick Chambers, Supplies Automobiles With Ignition System and Gold Mines With Dry Concentrators.

Working quietly in his little factory his home on the edge of the Seco at Avenue 66, a Los Angeles man is attracting the attention the scientific world by his electrical inventions. He is James E. Seeley. has devoted practically his entire to the study of special manifestations of electric phenomena and his contributions to that field of knowledge have been considerable.

ago Dr. Gradenwitz, of the University of Berlin, constructed a machine for producing ozone to be used purifying the air of assembly halls. was a cumbersome machine, about 5 per cent. of efficiency and therefore too expensive for ordinary sanitary purposes. Seeley has perfected a machine with a per cent. efficiency which thus requires comparatively little power to a given amount of ozone. accomplished this by the introduction of an auxiliary condensor between the terminals of the primary transformer, thereby producing an alternating current with millions of oscillations a second. His machine is of comparatively simple construction and he believes it will solve question of disinfecting the air of rooms and be especially beneficial or destroying tubercular some machines there is a ten to produce nitrous oxide, which not very deleterious, is objectionable. Seeley overcomes this by use of wires enclosed in glass which prevents the ionization of the air.

his electrical inventions is a concentrator for the segregation values from gold ores, whether milling or refractory. A large is now being installed in a mine Judge W. E. of the best known electrical appliances invented by Seeley is a device gas engines and known as Seeley Ignition System. It has extensively adopted by automobile manufacturers under the name of high frequency magneto. Occupying very small space, it produces a spark of great efficiency securing an unfailing explosion of the cylinders in rapid succession.

The week sales had dropped to nine and three towels.

President, what will not an honorable citizen do to save the cash and reputation of his town? If it was put up to you, what would you do? Just the same as I did, I think?

I did not act impulsively. I took a whole day to think the matter over. I consulted Mrs. Pinkham, whose great holt, as you know, is reading symptoms. She said there were more than forty symptoms whirling around in the air, and that two or three of them pointed to the fact that if I struck the trail of the stranger would get him. It was her advice that I hit his trail and keep going until I overhauled him, while she attended to postoffice matters and left my mind free. Mrs. Pinkham never makes a mistake. She even sat down and played a few hands of poker with me to refresh my memory. Later on, I went to the tavern and took a few lessons of a New York drummer, and then I felt myself prepared to battle for the honor of Jericho and the government.

In my instructions from the Postmaster-General there is nothing said of a postmaster playing poker for the honor of the United States, but I took it that he was expected to without printed instructions. Honor gone, what is left?

When I was fully armed and equipped for the fray I sought out the stranger and let him know that I had a yearning. It would have tickled you to see how he fell for it. He embraced me. He said I was a man after his own heart. He said he hoped I would retain the postmastership for ten years more. I may have deceived him when I hugged him to my bosom, but it is a part of the game to deceive an enemy.

We sat down in his room at the tavern at 9 o'clock in the morning, and the struggle lasted exactly twenty-five hours. He was no spring chicken, that man Thomas. He had me skinned a dozen times. There were times when I thought I should have to mortgage my home or raise money on a note of hand at 10 per cent.

Mr. President, for hours and hours I was a walloped man and in the hole. There was fourteen other men in the room, and when the stranger kept raking in pot after pot the groans and sighs were something sorrowful to hear.

But did my nerve give away? Did my determination fail? Did I forget for a moment what was at stake?

No, Mr. President. I was right on the spot all the time. All the time I was fighting for life and honor. At midnight I was a dead-broke man, but then luck changed. I began to get full houses and fours and straight flushes, and once I caught a royal flush and did the stranger out of $300 at one fell swoop. I am using poker terms here because I know that you are familiar with them.

Some of my friends assert that Providence came to my aid. I dunno. Providence, as you may have observed, is a strange critter. At any rate, Mr. Thomas arose from that game a wreck on the sands. I had to lend him a quarter to get up to New York with. I had averted a panic and restored the balance of trade. I had saved the honor of Jericho and that of the government. That night I was serenaded by the town band, and afterward the Mayor made an address in which I was referred to as a Casabianca, a Napoleon, a Washington and a Joe Cannon.

As to the petition that I be bounced, it emanated in the souls of the only three residents of the town who have not joined in the general rejoicing. Please see the Postmaster-General personally and explain matters. The same case may arise again, and tell him that I would like instructions.

The sales of stamps have been larger this week than for the month previous.

Trade at my grocery has jumped 33 per cent.

As I walk to and fro from my house I am cheered.

I have already been put in nomination for the mayoralty at the next election.

Improved Lands $150 Per Acre

On Chandler Ranch, Salt River Valley, Arizona

Covered With Heavy Stand of Alfalfa Ten Years' Time to Pay For It

THIS LAND is the very choicest alfalfa, fruit and vegetable land in Salt River Valley—irrigated under the Roosevelt Dam, the great Government irrigation project recently completed at a cost of over eight million dollars. It is actually covered with a luxuriant growth of alfalfa, waist deep. It comprises thousands of acres and could be held and farmed at tremendous profit, but for the Government ruling that water from the Roosevelt Dam will not be furnished to any one person for more than 160 acres. Hence this magnificent ranch is being cut up into farms of 10 to 160 acres, and is offered for sale at $150 per acre on a ten-year payment plan. Unimproved lands on Chandler Ranch, under the Roosevelt Dam, are offered at $100 per acre, on the same plan of payment. Nearly $100,000 worth of Chandler Ranch lands were sold during the summer, with practically no advertising at all. Now, a nation-wide advertising campaign is on in full swing. Practical deciduous and citrus fruit growers, scientific agriculturists and stockmen, from all parts of the United States are headed for Chandler Ranch. Land of this type at $100 and $150 per acre, with 10 years to pay for it, under a magnificent Government irrigation system, will certainly never be offered again in the history of the Southwest. This is the land of early sweet oranges — several weeks earlier than Southern California — the home of early cantaloupes—and where everything growable in a semi-tropic climate thrives to perfection. Special excursion rates from Los Angeles to Chandler Ranch are now on. Call or write at once for our series of booklets entitled—"The Roosevelt Dam"—"Deciduous Fruit Farming and Vegetable Gardening on Chandler Ranch"—"Fortunes in Early Melons"—"Alfalfa and Dairying"—"Fortunes in Ostrich Farming"—"Where Oranges Ripen Six Weeks Earlier." TRUST-HUNTER STANLEY TELLS OF HIS BIG PLANS

Will Call Important Railroad Managers to the Stand. Competition, He Says, Has Been Temporarily Suspended, but Law of Supply and Demand Is as Everlasting as the Law of Gravitation.

Augustus O. Stanley,
Chairman of the Steel Investigators.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—During one of the recent sessions of the steel investigators, Martin Littleton, an artful cross-examiner himself, remarked that Augustus Owsley Stanley, the chairman of the committee, could "pick a man's pocket with with his eyes." Gary, Schwab and Perkins had come upon and gone away from the stand. Under the courtesy and sorcery of Stanley, they seemed willingly to tell all they could.

The examination into the history and the practices of the steel corporation will be resumed in two weeks. Witnesses will be questioned for thirty days. A report will then be written and referred to Congress for such action as may be considered necessary. The managing officers of great railways will be asked if a monopoly of a product in general use can be maintained were the monopolist deprived of secret advantages in the vital matter of transportation. That will be an abstract inquiry. Concretely, the committee will attempt to ascertain if the steel corporation is receiving favors withheld from other shippers.

"The cure of the monopoly evil," Mr. Stanley said to me, "is, in my opinion, at least, very simple. Competition will be restored and will be successful the moment the so-called trusts are effectually prohibited from obtaining exclusive privileges from railroads. The little, technical violations of the rebate law have ceased. The big and highly profitable evasion of the law have begun.

"A corporation, for instance, may build a ten-mile railroad from its manufacturing establishment to the main line of a railroad 200 miles long. In the division of the money paid for carrying a carload of its own freight the corporation may receive one-half of the whole amount collected from the purchaser. Or, by reason of such payment or allowance, it may be enabled to undersell its competitor. The point is that in some manner it gets as much for hauling a car of merchandise ten miles, as the railway gets for hauling the car 200 miles.

THE LAW AGAINST REBATING.

"There are several known methods of defeating the law penalizing public carriers guilty of discriminations. If John Smith and John Brown, one at the head of a $10,000,000 corporation and the other at the head of a $10,000 corporation, each producing the same manufactured article, can ship exactly on the same terms there will be competition. The little concern, if well managed, will grow. Meanwhile it will exert some influence on prices, especially in its own zone. The railways are the key to the whole trust situation."

"When and how," I asked, "did you get interested in the business conduct of the steel corporation?"

"Coming to Congress eight years ago, I found that Speaker Cannon, Messrs. Payne and Dalzell, and Gen. Grosvenor ruled the House of Representatives. A new Republican had little if any chance. A new Democrat was utterly without opportunity. There was nothing for me to do, though I wanted to be useful. About that time there were grave troubles in Kentucky over tobacco. I was born and have always lived in that State. Naturally I was deeply concerned about a question that was of so much importance to my own people. So I began to investigate the American Tobacco Company. I read everything I could find.

"By and by I introduced a resolution calling on the Department of Justice for information as to the legal status of the corporation. I wanted to know if it violated the Sherman law. My experience with that resolution has no particular bearing on matters as they now stand. Anyway, I had found some work that I could do. I read and dug. Once started, I passed from tobacco to other things, not thinking of men or products, but of principles and conditions. Thus I got into iron and steel.

"I wrote another resolution. This time I asked the Department of Justice for facts relating to the legal status of the United States Steel Corporation. That was several years ago. There was no politics in my inquiry, no partisan purpose in my studies and activities. Thinking matters over, I saw that the bringing together of immense and scattered wealth into single combinations was the greatest economic question of the hour. And so it remains. The Presidency of the United States is of incidental importance when compared with it. The tariff almost becomes insignificant.

REMEMBERED THE MOUNTAINS.

"Two per cent. of the inhabitants of the country own 98 per cent. of our large productive industries and transportation lines. The directories of big corporations interlace with one another. There is coming not a limited monarchy of money, but an absolute monarchy, when combinations, not men, will rule our business. I had gone into the study confidently, but the question grew so tremendous that it began to get vague. The outlines only could be perceived and comprehended, and I was almost disheartened. Suddenly, however, I remembered the first mountains I had seen traveling toward them from the prairies. They were merely blurs, hanging, apparently in the clouds. Drawing nearer, corrugations appeared. Finally I could make out the rocks and trees. Thus it would be, I imagined, with the subject I was studying. And that is exactly what occurred.

"My resolution pertaining to steel was introduced in two Congresses. The last time it was sealed in a pigeonhole away from the air and light. This year I wrote it out again. It was adopted, and a committee was appointed to search for the facts. The campaign of next year was not in my mind. I venture to predict that inside of twenty-four months the Parliament of Great Britain, the Reichstag of Germany, and the Chamber of Deputies in France will be investigating the same matter. It touches directly every inhabitant of the United States. Moreover, it has crossed the sea, as we know, and is menacing the freedom and prosperity of Europe."

"What did you think of Judge Gary's theory that the national government may ultimately be required to regulate the prices of manufactured products?"

"I was appalled, entirely unprepared, to hear that the head of the United States Steel Corporation should be in perfect accord with Victor Berger, the Milwaukee Socialist. Furthermore, Berger unhesitatingly admits that such is the case. In a colloquy with me on the floor of the House of Representatives he declared that he was no more hostile to the creation of trusts than he was to the Atlantic Ocean, the Mississippi River, or to anything else, as he expressed, 'that is the natural outcome of conditions.' The fixing of prices by the government, he asserted, would be 'a first step' toward 'the national ownership of the trusts.' He went on to explain that if he had a right to say how much I should be paid for my house, that he would share in the house, and he was logically sound.

WOULD CONTROL THE PRICES OF LABOR.

"Whenever the government establishes prices for the products of a corporation it will of necessity be compelled to limit the prices which the corporation pays for material and labor. Ownership would certainly follow. Instead of governmental management of the trusts—as monopolistic corporations are termed—for the benefit of the men who own the trusts, giving them the profits, etc., we should have, by the demand of the people, governmental ownership of the trusts and the distribution of the profits to the public, either in a reduction of prices or of taxes. The Socialists go no further.

"No one not within their cheerful circle will ever know how much. Some rough figures, however, have come out in the testimony regarding Mr. Carnegie's share. He is a phenomenal man, as gifted in his way as were Milton and Byron in literature, and Newton and Kepler in science. Besides, he had Napoleonic ability in choosing engineers, chemists, and manufacturers, telling those who proved their merit that he would sell them $1,000,000 of stock in his company, to be paid for out of the dividends to be declared in the future. If they failed afterward in any particular, he gave them the book value of their shares and brought their relations with him to a close. The staff he thus created was the ablest in the whole world, and, by the measures he adopted, was always under his finger.

THE MONEY CARNEGIE MADE.

"Our witnesses have shown that Mr. Carnegie meant to broaden his lines, to make almost everything in iron and steel. Competing with him and his seasoned captains were a lot of raw recruits. His purpose to extend his business in all directions occasioned great alarm. At about that time the actual worth of his physical property was $76,000,000. Henry C. Frick, one of his partners, obtained a limited option for its purchase on a valuation of $160,000,000. When Mr. Carnegie sold out to the United States Steel Corporation he received $600,000,000 in bonds and shares. Julius Caesar never conducted a more brilliant campaign."

Regardless of Martin Littleton's unique expression, Stanley's eyes are round and brown, and neither terrible nor foxy. He is an oval-faced man of forty-four, and bears a resemblance in some respects to Philander Chase Knox, Secretary of State. Sympathetic, insinuating, and harmless looking, he leads a witness gently along, and after getting all that he wants bids him a lingering farewell, which is pleasantly remembered because of its fascinating smile and hearty handshake. The Owsleys, his material ancestors, were famous people in Kentucky. His father, while practicing law, turned preacher, and is preaching now at the a (Portion of the E. J. "Lucky" Baldwin Estate

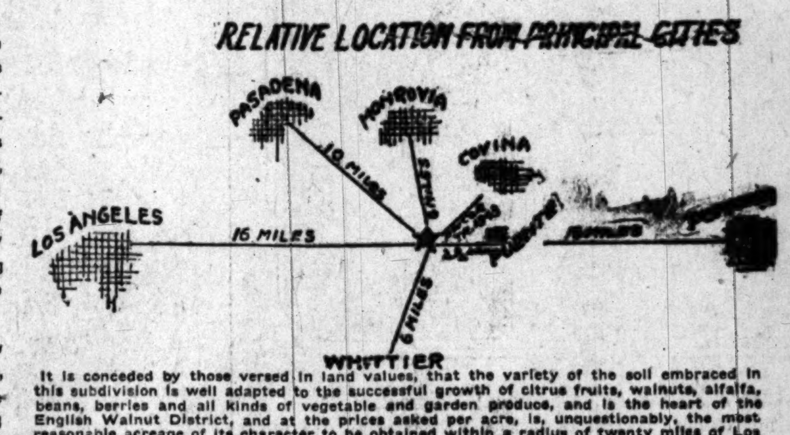
Now Subdivided into from 5 to 40 Acre Tract

This subdivision is located due east sixteen miles from the center of Los Angeles and lies between and is served by the Southern Pacific and Salt Lake Railroads and has a frontage of two and one-quarter miles on what is known as the Los Angeles-Riverside Boulevard, being a part of and embraced in the "Good Roads System." The boulevard in front of this subdivision, conceded to be equal to any highway in Southern California, is now being extended to El Monte, thus completing the boulevard from Los Angeles to Pomona.

Extensive and complete water system now being installed, guaranteeing ample water, piped to each five-acre tract. With each acre of land, one share of water stock is conveyed to the purchaser of the land.



It is conceded by those versed in land values, that the variety of the soil embraced in this subdivision is well adapted to the successful growth of citrus fruits, walnuts, alfalfa, beans, berries and all kinds of vegetable and garden produce, and is the heart of the English Walnut District, and at the prices asked per acre, is, unquestionably, the most reasonable acreage of its character to be obtained within a radius of twenty miles of Los Angeles. The ready and convenient market of Los Angeles assures the best prices obtainable for the above products.

A feature of tremendous value in connection with these lands is the splendid supply of odorless natural gas, suitable for light, heat, fuel and power. It is obtainable by boring a well at moderate cost. We will show you the many natural gas wells on the adjoining ranches. The supply of gas, so far as known, is inexhaustible. In twenty years the supply has not diminished in the slightest degree. The ranchers of the valley claim it is impossible to place a valuation upon their gas wells. They would not part with them at any cost.

This land is virgin soil—perfectly level, and requires no grading or fertilizer. Its extreme fertility is proven by the thick growth of tule plants upon it—the latter also showing its sedimentary origin. "At Shiloh," Stanley said, "the Sixth Kentucky, Confederate, my father in the ranks, met the Sixth Kentucky, Federal. They all knew it. Inside of ten minutes most of the men in both regiments were on the ground, dead or wounded."

GRANDMOTHER'S LEGACY.

"You, too," I said, "might have been a preacher?"

"I wasn't called; I believe in such matters. My father was called through my mother and Alexander Campbell, founder of the Disciples of Christ, to which church belonged James A. Garfield, and to which church now belongs Speaker Champ Clark of the House of Representatives. At my grandmother's death I came into a legacy of $250. I was counseled to spend it on my twenty-first birthday for a horse, saddle, and bridle that I might, as my grandmother told me previously, have some way of visiting my friends and relatives and of calling on the young ladies in the neighborhood. I used the money, however, for the freshman and sophomore years at the State College in Lexington, having made up my mind to be a lawyer.

"You may be sure that I lived most economically. I recollect that I broke the only chair at my lodgings and was compelled to sit on a soap box. But a boy on a soap box with his eyes on the stars is happier than the President of the United States with his eyes on a hostile Senate. I was graduated from Center College, at Danville, the home of my family. Then I taught school four years in the country, reading law in the meanwhile. After practicing some time at Flemingsburgh, I decided to settle at Henderson, on the Ohio River, where formerly there had been many great lawyers.

"I sailed into Henderson on a boat. I didn't know a man in the place and I had only $25 in my clothes. But I was about as well off then as I am now. An inventory of my present assets, subtracting my debts from the total, would leave a balance, I reckon, of say $200. I laughed to myself when I read not long ago that as soon as I started quizzing Judge Gary, John W. Gates, Schwab, and Perkins I sold steel shares 'short' in the stock market of New York. Still, I have always made money. Saving it is an entirely different proposition.

"Well, I reached Henderson, bringing along my library from Flemingsburg, consisting of a number of patent office reports, given me by my father, a thick volume on the diseases of horses, Hitchcock's 'Analysis of the Bible,' and the revised statutes of Kentucky. I had gone to school all my life, and I meant to be a regular lawyer. No taking of depositions by Attorney Stanley, no collections, no fire insurance, no real estate, sales, or rentals. Therefore, I sat and waited.

WOULD HAVE SUED ST. PAUL.

"My clothes became shiny, and the lady with whom I boarded grew importunate. One day a man came in, accompanied by his son. The boy had broken a ligament in his leg. The doctor, the richest in the community, had bungled the job, and the boy was lame for life.

"'I've gone to all the real lawyers in town,' the father said, 'and they have refused the case. Maybe you are afraid.'

"'Brother,' I replied, 'right now I'd sue the Apostle St. Paul if I were sure of the facts.'

"I got books, charts, and a skeleton, and spent some sickening hours in the dissecting room of a medical college. When I finished my studies I was a specialist in the anatomy of the human leg. Five lawyers were on the other side. The jury gave me $1500. I settled the case for $1000 in cash, getting one-half of it myself. The clouds had rolled by. Since then the sun has been reasonably bright.

"How did you break into Congress?"

"Two stump orators were making speeches in Henderson. I was talking to Miss Sue Soper down in the audience. She observed, rather pityingly, I thought, that I would feel very happy, no doubt, were I capable of lifting up my voice politically, or something to the same effect. 'I can,' I answered. She smiled. And I did, walking right on the stage and demanding a chance. Soon thereafter Miss Soper and I were engaged. She suggested Congress. 'I can get the nomination any day I please,' I replied. She smiled again.

"Two men of property were in the contest. I had no money. My enemies said I made the campaign with a soiled shirt, a copy of the Democratic textbook, and a quart of whiskey. They lied outrageously. Talking one of the candidates hoarse, I would ride to the other side of the district and talk the second candidate down to a croak. Joint debates, you understand. I was nominated and elected. That was in 19002. I am the only man in all the history of the State who has served more than three terms from the district.

"And Miss Soper?"

"She is now," and the answer came proudly, "Mrs. Augustus O. Stanley."

CAPITALIZATION INCREASED.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Los Angeles Investment Company held the past week, and at which practically every share was represented either in person or by proxy, it was voted to increase the capitalization of the company from 2,500,000 shares to 5,000,000 shares. The company has 9000 stockholders who were represented at the meeting whereby the capitalization was increased. The company reports that its undivided surplus amounts to $4,500,000.

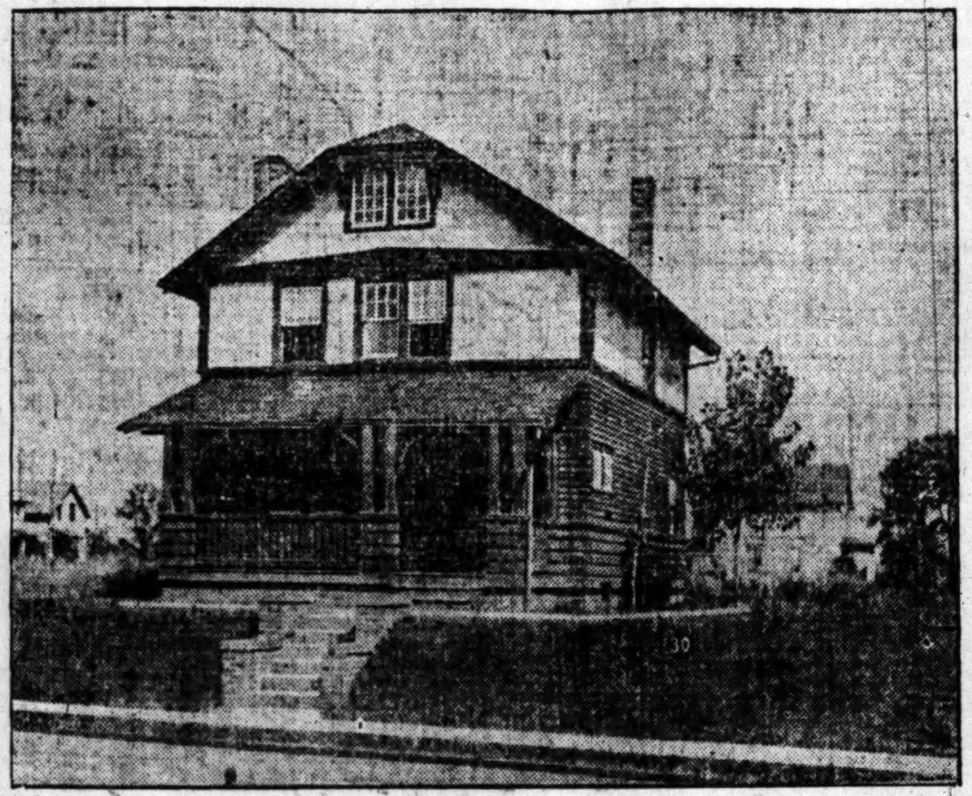
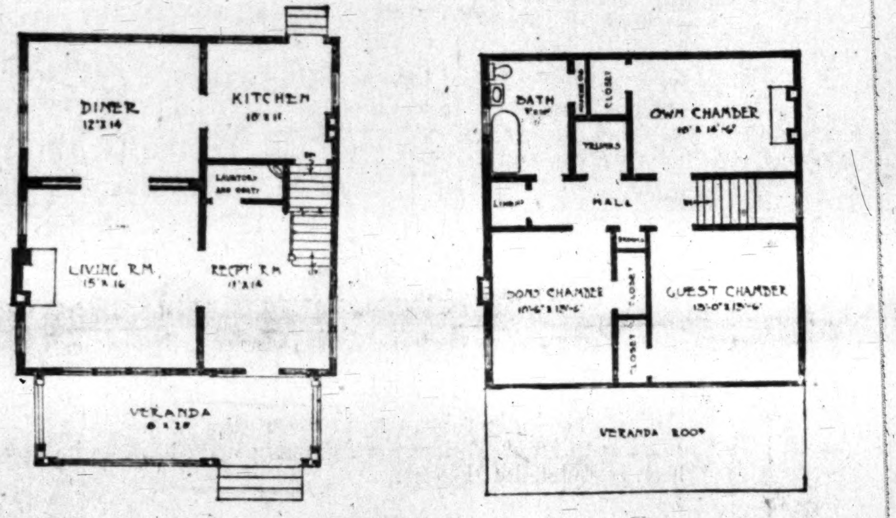
The Home Beautiful, No. 4

The combination of rough siding and stucco makes a very desirable and serviceable structure and at the same time is unusually attractive. In a home the design of our No. 4 this is especially noticeable. This and the practical arrangement of the interior makes this an ideal home for the family of ordinary means. Every necessary convenience is provided, the large reception room and lavatory adjoining, the roomy living room and the well lighted dining room are features that appeal to the prospective builder. No mistake will be made in the selection of this design for a family of three or four as ample room is provided. The large veranda is also a feature that adds much to the comfort and attractiveness, and surrounded by an ample lawn no more desired home could be found.





DESIGN No. 4

This is a very attractive, cozy little home, which should appeal to the prospective builder. Rough siding for the first story. Second story and gabbles stucco, and green stained shingles. Brick foundation with basement under the entire house. Size 28x30 feet with a veranda in the front 8 feet wide. Height of stories 9 feet and 8 feet 4 inches. Enamel wainscot in bath room and kitchen. Plastering, three coats. Good hardware and plumbing. Approximate cost to build in average locality $3,000.

Are you looking for the best that Los Angeles affords—at 50% less than the same residential advantages will cost you in other high-class sections? If you want this kind of a proposition, go out and see Angeles Mesa—the big, high-ground subdivision, in which over $700,000 worth of building lots have been sold since the comparatively recent opening of the tract.

Hundreds of people have said that the magnificent view alone was what sold most of the lots at Angeles Mesa. The unparalleled view may have had a great deal to do with the wonderful sales record—but there are nearly a dozen other big important selling features. Why, right at the present time, a number of commercial, educational and public utility projects, involving millions of dollars, are being established on and adjacent to Angeles Mesa. The new yellow car line will be running direct to the property this month. Just last week a large piece of acreage adjoining our property was sold for $3000 an acre—and we are selling the public, splendidly improved lots on a lower basis than this raw acreage sold for! Can you beat that for values? Pay cash now for a lot in Angeles Mesa, and we will loan you all the money necessary to build a fine home, and you can repay us in terms equal to a very moderate rent. If you are in a home-buying attitude, don't buy anything until you see Angeles Mesa. Here is the very property you wanted—at actually 50% lower than you expected you would have to pay. BOLAND GETS UNION HILL.

Eastern Capitalist Acquires Big Property.

Weaverville District to See Renewed Activity.

Report Kate Hardy Mine Has Been Sold.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

REDDING (Cal.) Oct. 12.—The Union Hill is the first of the hydraulic mines in the Weaverville district to be acquired by W. A. Boland and associates. The final payment has been made on the property, the total amount involved in the purchase approximating $500,000. An extension of the options held on the Douglas City, Testy, Hupp and other mines in the Weaverville Basin has been obtained, and it is expected that their purchases will be ratified within a few weeks. The plan to obtain the Fields property has been abandoned, owing to the unfavorable location of the property relative to its connection with the storage reservoir plans.

According to advices from Weaverville, many Los Angeles people are interested in the company that has gathered in the Weaverville properties. It is understood that stockholders of the Trinity Mining and Reduction Company, operating the Headlight mine at Carrville, are largely concerned; the Headlight comprising one of the best properties controlled by Angelenos in the North. The Guggenheims also appear to be back of the deals. The value of all the properties in the Weaverville field, exclusive of the noted La Grange, is placed at $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

It is understood that Boland and associates are endeavoring to gather in the La Grange, but the owners of this notable producer appear averse to selling. It is unlikely that any attempt will be made to commence the construction of the chain of reservoirs until next summer, as the winter storms in the Trinity Mountains prevent extensive surface activities. With the perfection of its ambitious plans, the new company will be the largest hydraulic operator in the world.

Mill at Fort Bidwell.

The Fort Bidwell Consolidated Mining Company, operating in the Hoag district, has decided to increase the capacity of its five-stamp mill. The present plant is operating steadily on ore of excellent grade. A third shift has been put on by the company and developments are being rushed. Both the Mountain View and Sugar Pine are producing, with some high-grade quartz coming from the former. The company is largely controlled by Los Angeles and other Southern California people.

Examines Iron Deposits.

The Demming iron properties, two miles from Gold Run, Placer county, were examined recently by Joseph Lewis, a Los Angeles mining engineer, reported to be acting for Angeleno capitalists. The property is owned by C. W. Demming of Chicago, represented at Los Angeles by L. D. Humphrey. The property has never been developed to any extent, but large bodies of high-grade iron ore are said to exist. According to reports the property will be developed if samples show sufficiently high-grade values. Lewis also examined another iron deposit near Colfax.

Work at Santa Ysabel.

The shaft at the Santa Ysabel is being repaired and retimbered, and will probably be sent deeper as soon as the adit cuts the big ore body. The adit from the western side of Quartz Mountain is rapidly nearing the vein and is expected to attain its goal within a short time. This ore body was accidentally discovered about a year ago and yielded excellent values, with every indication of persisting to depth. The mill has been placed in good condition and will resume as soon as underground developments reach a satisfactory point. The Santa Ysabel was formerly one of the best producers in Tuolumne, but of late years has only been worked in a small way. The property was taken under bond and option by Los Angeles people over a year ago, prior to the rich surface discovery.

Kate Hardy Reported Sold.

According to advices received at Forest, the Kate Hardy mine has been purchased by Dan McGonigal and associates for approximately $200,000. McGonigal and associates have operated the property under bond for several months, and are understood to have opened good ore in the lower workings. It is said that Los Angeles people are among the new owners. The Kate Hardy is located west of the Alleghany ore zone, on the Goodyear Bar belt. For several years it has been a producer of good-grade ore, and is equipped with a ten-stamp plant. Several months ago about $20,000 was extracted from surface workings in a short time, with only a small crew employed. It is reported the capacity of the mill will be increased next spring.

Elks Form Strong Company.

The Elks Gold Mining and Milling Company has been incorporated to operate in the Indian ranch district, Yuba county. The company is capitalized at $1,250,000 and is composed entirely of eastern Elks. The Haggin and Merrian claims have been secured and developments will be vigorously pushed. The holdings are near the Dobbins section, where several strikes of fabulously rich ore have been recently reported. Otto C. Wollwebber of Chicago is president and treasurer. H. A. Brucet is secretary.

New Dredging Enterprise.

The Northern California Gold Mining Company plans to start its dredger about November 1 at a point ten miles north of Red Bluff. The dredge is sixty feet long and twenty-five feet wide, with a rated capacity of 2000 cubic yards of gravel per day. The company controls 270 acres of dredgable land, with the deposits said to be forty feet deep. For ages gravel has been washed into the Sacramento River at this point from the Sierras by storms, and tests indicate the deposits carry high gold values, some samplings revealing forty cents per cubic yard in gold and platinum. Electricity will be employed for motive power. F. H. Mack is general manager.

Machinery at Dutch Mine.

Concrete blocks for twenty additional stamps to the Dutch mill near Tuolumne, have been laid. Twenty stamps are at present dropping, and it is expected to have forty in action before the end of fall. An electric hoist and compressor are also planned and the shaft will be sent from the 900-foot level to further depth. This property adjoins the celebrated App mine on the south.

Golden Rod Activities.

The Golden Rod Mining Company of Los Angeles is arranging for the resumption of activities at their property in the Panamint Mountains, eleven miles south of Ballarat. It is asserted that 100,000 tons of $4 ore and nearly 1000 tons of $10 ore are blocked out, with the vein ranging three to fifty feet wide. Equipment consists of a five-stamp mill, fifteen-ton cyanide plant and a thirty-horse-power distillate engine.

New Oil Venture in Glenn.

The Northern California Oil Company has been formed with a capital of $500,000 to bore for oil at a point fifteen miles from Orland. A lease has been secured on 7000 acres, and a standard rig has been ordered from Los Angeles. Oil indications are said to be good, and the promoters are confident of striking productive sands. Glenn county people are principally interested. The incorporators are Lloyd Gay, W. B. Gay, Edward Ready, Thomas Griffith, F. A. Colman. Other capitalists are understood to be interested, and the officers state ample funds are assured for vigorous work. Lloyd Gay has been chosen president. Some of the interested people are stockholders in companies operating in the San Joaquin Valley oil fields.

Searchlight.

DUPLEX MINE IS IN ACTION.

WHISTLE BLOWS FIRST TIME IN MORE THAN YEAR.

G. F. Colton, Owner of the Property, Makes Good His Promise. Belief Among Some Mining Men that Searchlight Will Become a Copper Camp—Hurt's Find.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SEARCHLIGHT (Nev.) Oct. 13.—The first of the week the whistle on the Fraction engine-house on the Duplex property was heard to blow its first blast, after a silence of over a year and a half. This denotes an actual resumption of activities on this property. It has been necessary to do a great deal of repair work as the machinery was in a bad shape through neglect on the part of the former operators. The past week the force has been busy getting the compressor into running order, and the sound of the whistle is evidence of the fact that they have accomplished a good part of their task. There will remains to be done some work to get the machinery into good order.

True to his promise made a month ago, G. F. Colton, the owner of the property, has started underground development work. At present he is working but one shift. The machine drills were put to work yesterday and Mr. Colton will put on another shift in a few days.

Work is being carried forward at two points from the Fraction shaft. Drifting to the west is in progress on the New Year's Gift lead from the crosscut that was run through from the Fraction by the Homestead people, and at which point they left off work. The present work has already been productive of very gratifying results, there having been encountered some excellent ore carrying a high percentage of native copepr. This it is Colton's intention to ship to the smelter. Colton, in common with many others, is very strongly of the opinion that Searchlight will eventually develop into a copper camp. It is expected that the industry will either develop into a shipping proposition or that a smelter will be erected on the ground.

The other point at which active work is being done is to the south of the Fraction shaft, where a crosscut is being run to catch the I. X. L. lead, from which some very fine ore has been taken nearer the surface. This crosscut is now in some 600 feet, and it is expected that 300 feet further work will be required to catch the vein, although at the present time there are some good indications that the goal may be reached sooner than expected. There is also a possibility that the work may encounter a new vein, or may strike into the Searchlight vein, there being a possibility that the latter may have tipped over in this direction.

The new pump for the Searchlight shaft, on the same property, has arrived and will be installed immediately. It is a Gould triplex, electrically driven, and has a capacity of 2200 gallons an hour. As soon as this is installed, work will be resumed on the retimbering of the shaft, water level having been reached some time ago.

It is reported that a new body of ore has been struck on the Daylight group, about two miles northeast of the town. The new lead is about sixty feet distant from the ledge from which such good samples were taken at the surface last winter. The lead was found in the course of surface prospecting, and samples have been taken from the grass roots that are reported by W. W. Hurt, the manager of the company owning the property, to run over $100 in the pan.

ACTIVITY GENERAL IN MEXICAN MINES.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) Oct. 13.—With stoppage of hostilities across the border, there has come an increase in the amount of bullion and ore passing the custom houses bound northward. At Agua Prieta during the month past the exports of minerals was valued at 1,500,000 pesos, the values mainly being in ore shipments of about 10,000 tons. In all there were 245 carloads. In addition, the Tiger mine shipped twenty bars of silver bullion and 5333 pounds of silver precipitates to the smelter at Monterey, Mex.

The output of the Cananea smelter last month was the greatest ever known to the plant, with a record of 5,500,000 pounds of bullion. With seven furnaces in operation, as much as 116 tons of bullion was poured in a single day. Much of this came, however, direct from the converters, into which the Miami concentrates are dumped without introductory treatment. It is understood that by reason of the improvements that have been made in the handling and smelting of the ore the cost of bullion has been decreased to 9 cents a pound.

TWENTY STAMP MILL. CORONADO COMPANY.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Oct. 13.—A twenty-stamp mill is to be built this winter on the property of the Coronado Gold Mining Company, near Congress, in the southern part of this country. This decision has just been reached, after a close investigation of the property, made by members of the board of directors and a couple of mining experts. The mill will be erected upon the Pipe claim, where a large vein of free-milling ore is now being developed. On the older workings the ore is baser. Much work is being done on a half-dozen mines around Congress and it is believed that the once productive camp will soon have a new season of prosperity.

The ten-stamp mill of the Mint Gold Mining Company is to be completed and is to be ready for operation within a month. New buildings are to be erected on the mine for the accommodation of a force of thirty miners. There has been a change in the company's organization, though Robert Mitchell remains as president and general manager, with T. A. McCullough as superintendent.

Over 5000 feet of boring has been done of late on the Zonia and McMahon groups, with 900 feet, the greatest depth reached. The work

WILL APPEAL TO THE COUNCIL.

Union Strikers in Burnside Denounce Mayor.

Want Police Protecting Property Ordered Off.

Complain Chicago Is Infested With Gamblers.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Two thousand union strikers in the Burnside shops of the Illinois Central Railroad are preparing to storm the council chamber Monday night to protest against a force of 400 policemen being kept on duty inside the yards of the railroad company.

At a mass meeting of the union strikers yesterday, speakers attacked the city administration and a motion was passed that all the strikers go in a body to the city hall and lay their grievance before the council.

John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, made an attack on Mayor Harrison in a speech to the strikers and cited a list of cases where, under his former administration, the police force had been used to defeat strikes of union working men.

COMPLAINS OF GAMBLING.

"Gambling is flourishing in every part of the city," said Fitzpatrick, "and the homes of the taxpayers are being robbed while the police force is being used to help a corporation to steal the Lake front from the people. I am opposed to violence in strikes, but there has not been a single act of violence at Burnside since the trouble began. The police are not being used to preserve the peace, but to intimidate the men who are fighting for better wages and conditions of labor."

W. F. Kramer, secretary of the Brotherhood of Blacksmiths and Helpers also denounced the quartering of the police inside the works of the company and said that steps should be taken to call the attention of the city council to the matter. The strikers have not yet selected an alderman who will be asked to introduce resolutions on the subject, but it was said that probably the alderman from the eighth ward would be requested to do so, as most of the strikers live in that ward.

ANOTHER MOVE.

Another move against the railroad company is being planned on a charge that it is violating the safety appliance laws. Under the law the railroads are required to have air brakes and other safety appliances properly inspected by experienced men. The men now doing the work are said by the union strikers, to have no experience and J. W. Kline, president of the blacksmiths organization, is now in Washington to complain to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

J. W. Gibson, secretary of the International Association of Union Carmen, which up to Thursday last had no part in the strike, said yesterday a large majority of the men had quit although no strike had been called.

"Most of our men have quit at all points along the system, according to the information we have received," said Gibson. "The unions [illegible] have not ordered any strike, but the men simply refuse to work, and of course, we cannot compel them to do so."

British Feeling.

SYMPATHETIC STRIKE ACTION.

CONDITION THAT CANNOT BE TOLERATED.

The Pall Mall Gazette Denounces the Modern Unionite Method of Punishing the Public for Things that Have Occurred at Some Remote Community.

The sympathetic strike movement on the Irish railways, leads the Pall Mall Gazette to take a similar position regarding strikes as does The Times. In a recent issue the Gazette said:

"The apprehensions that have arisen during the past week of a renewal of trouble upon English railways will not be allayed by the events which have suddenly thrown the traffic of Ireland into a state of disorganization. In these days of the 'sympathetic' strike, when men who have no grievances of their own are ready to throw up their work because some one else cannot obtain what he wants, it would be nothing out of the way for York or Peterborough to be thrown into paralysis by friction at Thurles or Limerick. For the time being the labor world appears to have given up everything except its emotions, and it is almost too much to look for reason or consistency in the manifestations of its behavior. One has heard of a body of harvesters who struck because the cider was bad, and resumed work in a couple of days on condition that they were to get double the quantity. There was scarcely a larger element of the preposterous in that episode than in the chain of circumstances which has 'held up' the main of the Irish lines and involved the public in the usual consequences of loss, delay, and general anxiety. The railway men have come out, they tell us, on 'a question of principle.' Two of their number refused to handle timber consigned by a firm whose workmen were on strike, and, as the railway company declined to recognize the merit of their objections, some hundreds, if not thousands, of their colleagues have accompanied them in the desertion of duty. A meeting held in Dublin after what those present describe as 'calm and careful consideration,' decided that it was 'degrading to their manhood' to deal with the incriminated timber and similar commodities, and summoned the rest of their 'fellow workers' to assist them in penalizing the public. The 'calm and careful consideration' of this attitude will show that it involves an extraordinary demand. There is no direct grievance advanced by the railway staff; there is no assertion even that the demands of the original strikers in the timber trade are just and deserving of sympathy. The 'principle' put forward is that any body of workmen who may go on strike, rightly or wrongly, are entitled to invoke excommunication upon their employers by withholding from them the ordinary rights of transportation. The 'principle,' of course, cannot stop at the point of railway facilities. The same reasoning would involve a veto upon their supply of gas and water, upon the delivery of letters and telegrams, and upon every service which is indispensable to modern life and business. It is a little late in the day for excommunication, even when exercised by the most august and authoritative hands. But, according to the 'calm and careful' judgment of the Dublin railway men, the portentous weapon is to be placed at the disposal of every man who wants an extra sixpence a week from his employer. The public or its representatives are to be called upon to apply the rigors of a boycott, and in the event of a refusal, the public itself is to be put to the ordeal of commercial paralysis and contingent starvation.

"The terms and the spirit of this insolent anarchism are deserving, obviously, but of one answer. The claim to put a veto upon public necessaries is one that the State cannot tolerate for an instant, and this second warning will give a renewed impetus to the voluntary organization of the community against those whose plan is to make capital out of its sufferings. But the Dublin strike will put the representatives of railway trade unionism to the test of a plain question which they have been extremely careful to evade during the concurrent inquiry. The Executive Committee of the Amalgamated Society appear to be on the way to Dublin, in response to an invitation from those who have deserted their work, and the nature of their intervention will bear very directly upon the claims which they advance to 'recognition' by the companies. If they uphold the theory that the railway system is to be paralyzed in the interests of any obscure dispute that may arise in an external industry, they stamp their whole policy as anarchical and anti-social, and themselves as declared enemies of the State. If they endeavor to suppress the strike and fail, the inference must be drawn that they are mere pretenders to authority, and that they have no title to participate in negotiations because they are powerless to execute responsibilities which they may assume. Public traffic must be carried on, and war against the State—whether it takes the form of breach of contract, boycott, or physical outrage—must be met with effective and, if necessary, exemplary resistance."

THE MASTER MECHANIC.

[Editorial.]

GOD is a laborer. The earth is the work of His hands. He dug the great canals—the Mississippi, the Amazon, the Danube, the Rhine, the Ganges, the Yang-tse-kiang, the Yukon, the Volga, the Parana, the Euphrates. He fashioned the necklace of stars with which the sky is jeweled. He built the dams, from Niagara to the cataracts of the Nile. He excavated and filled the reservoir of salt water which encircles the globe, and constructed the pumping machinery by which the moon keeps the pulses of the sea in motion. He built the mountain ramparts. The warp and woof of the carpets which cover the valleys were woven on His hand loom. All the landscape artists of the world are but copyists of the original pictures drawn by Him on the easel of His continents. All the sculptors of the world have but copied His models. He fashioned the optic nerve of which microscopists and telescopists are servants. He forested the mountains and taught the trees to furnish the motive machinery for His cloud factories. He constructed the quarries. He crystallized the atoms of the gems. He melted the metals and deposited them in the crevices of the rocks. He was the first alchemist, the first builder, the first architect. He was the first of laborers with the universe for His workshop. He was the first musician. He taught the birds to sing. He built the harp of the winds, and beat the thunder drum with whose mighty harmonies the Heavens resound when the tempest and the lightning sound their grand diapason. He was the master mechanic who gave the ants and the bees, and the beavers and the birds instruction in architecture.

It does not appear that He had much to do with the making of lawyers or doctors or politicians. God loves His workers.

"He holds most worthy who has labored best
The sceptre is less royal than the hoe,
The sword beneath whose rule whole nations writhe,
And curse the wearer, while they bear the blow,
Is far less noble than the plough and scythe.
The man, whate'er his work, wherever done,
If intellect and honor guide his hand,
Is peer to him who greatest state has won,
And rich as any Rothschild of the land.
Blow bright the forge—the sturdy anvil ring.
It sings the anthem of king labor courts,
And sweeter sounds the clattering hammers ring,
Than half a thousand thumped piano fortes.
Pride thee mechanic, on thine honest trade,
'Tis nobler than the snob's much vaunted pelf,
Man's soulless pride his test of worth has made
But thine is based on that of God Himself."

REPORTS ON WAGES AND CONDITIONS.

Timely Bulletins from All Parts of the World.

The greatest wages producer (both as to volume and rate) in the United States is the American factory. To disturb the American factory by hasty and ill-considered tariff legislation, or by equally hasty and ill-considered strikes, is more than foolish—it is suicidal. Either curtails production and curtailed production necessarily curtails exports. Since William McKinley by wise tariff legislation set the almost silent wheels of the American factory whirling in 1897, and as if by magic changed industrial poverty into industrial prosperity, we have done great things in the way of exporting the goods made under Republican high wages, as witness the Bureau of Statistics record of such exports year by year since:

1898	$324,000,000
1899	288,000,000
1900	484,000,000
1901	465,000,000
1902	453,000,000
1903	465,000,000
1904	523,000,000
1905	611,000,000
1906	686,000,000
1907	740,000,000
1908	750,000,000
1909 (world depression year)	671,000,000
1910	767,000,000
1911	910,000,000
Increase in only eleven years	586,000,000

The fiscal year 1911 was largely free from factory strikes. Note the increase in that year over 1909, of these high wages paying exports—a gain of $142,000,000, or practically $3,000,000 a week for each working week of the year and a gain to the American workman of at least $750,000 a week in wages. Compare that with our recollection of matters industrial and wages (when we got any) in the years '93 to '96, and keep on comparing till voting day in November, 1912.

Then note, by census years, the increases in the number of our high-wages beneficiaries, the wage-earners, and the increases in the total yearly pay rolls, as showing the area of possible suffering in our manufacturing world from hasty tariff legislation and always unnecessary and foolish strikes:

Census year.	Wage earners.	Pay roll.
1850	957,059	$ 236,755,464
1860	1,311,246	378,878,966
1870	2,053,996	775,584,343
1880	2,732,595	947,953,795
1890	4,251,613	1,891,228,321
1900	5,308,406	2,322,333,877
1910	7,500,000	4,500,000,000
Increase in 60 (bar four) high-wages-tariff years.		4,263,000,000

That wages increase of over four billion dollars a year is another and very vital fact to use as a "guider" when we vote in the national election of November, 1912. At that time, every man out of a job (except from illness, or by strikes, or of his own wish) and every man who has had his wages cut, should remember that it will be the Democrats and their allies, the Insurgent Republicans, who will have "done him up," and vote accordingly.

Wages in Great Britain.

The British linen mills (including Ireland) have 96,000 employees. The average weekly wage is less than $3 for men. The weekly wage for women runs from $1.64 to $2.78. Compare those rates with the rates paid in American textile mills (two and one-half times as much) and thank God you are living in high-wages, tariff-protected America.

Mining Wages in India.

The mines of India employ 144,680 workers, including 47,963 adult females and 5004 children under 12 years of age. The men are paid equal to from 10 to 14 cents, American, per day (the highest rate being in the ruby mines of Burma.) What do the 53,000 women and children get?

Iron Works Resumed.

On October 9 the Fall River (Mass.) Iron Works Company resumed work in all their seven mills, affording employment to 5000 operators. The mills have been shut down since August 5—two months and four days.

Big Cotton Mills Resumed.

Early in September in the New England textile industry 85,000 cotton mills operatives returned to work. Neither of these two big resumptions of work (and several others) would have occurred had not President Taft vetoed the wages-destroying Democratic woolen, cotton and iron schedules. That is another big fact to remember on election day in November, 1912.

Strike Notes.

Because the companies refused to reinstate the strikers, after they voted to return to work, the Irish railroad strike is still on by order of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants. Bread riots are on in Dublin.

The labor troubles in Spain have developed with extraordinary rapidity and have assumed a revolutionary character. The government has proclaimed martial law throughout the country, and in its resolve to maintain order is supported by the bulk of public opinion. A general strike has been decided upon by the General Labor Union; but the date has not been fixed, and it is doubtful whether it will take place at all.

Strikes and riots are reported from cities all over the country. The situation is aggravated by the fact that a large proportion of the army is away in Morocco. In extent the trouble is very much worse than that caused by the Barcelona riots of 1909, which in some respects it resembles.

By strikes the coal miners of Kansas lost 1,578,027 days' work and wages in 1910, affecting 10,246 of the 12,870 workers. Think of that big direct money loss to those least able to bear it. The production money loss was $2,168,765, or 21.5 per cent. Did it pay?

What is the sense of railroad strikes when railway systems like the Pennsylvania, are showing largely decreased earnings? The Pennsylvania decrease from January 1 to August 31, is $9,510,810.

[New York Sun:] The New York Building Trades Council, representing the unions in the building trades, it was reported yesterday, has instructed its secretary to write to President Taft and Secretary of War Stinson enclosing to each a table of what the council holds are the prevailing rates of wages in this city and asking that the prevailing rates of wages be paid to the mechanics employed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. It was also stated that representatives of the council will if so desired appear before the board of wages at the Brooklyn Navy Yard to show that the mechanics employed there are not getting the prevailing wages.

The board of wages fixes the wage rates on the average of the wages paid by the prominent firms in this city. The stand taken by the unions is that the union rates are the prevailing rates.

[Albany (N. Y.) Journal:] This strike of railroad employees, extending through several States, must have the effect, if it has any, of interfering with interstate commerce and placing a degree of restraint upon it. In fact, that must be its purpose, for only through seriously hampering the railroads in their business of transporting freight can the strikers hope to bring the railroads to their terms.

It has been surmised that the calling of this strike was against the better judgment of the men higher up in the organizations involved; that they were virtually coerced by the pressure brought to bear upon them by the impulsive element in the local unions which has been listening too attentively to appeals to "start something" made by petty leaders who have ambitions akin to those which are the motives of radicals in politics.

Following the lead of Tampa, Fla., 500 New York cigarmakers have struck for "free smokes" even though the firms have to pay internal revenue taxes thereon. The thing is utterly unreasonable.

Riot calls, arrests, bloody attacks on non-unionists, and general disorder mark the Illinois Central Railway strike in Chicago.

A state of anarchy exists along the line of the Georgia and Florida Railroad owing to the strike of the firemen. Passengers are terrorized. Both white and colored firemen are out, the latter in sympathy. The strike is for more wages for the whites. Some of the people along the lines are helping the strikers in their disorders and violence.

UNION SLUGGING WITH STRIKES.

CHICAGO PRINTERS PAID FOR KILLING A MAN.

Girl Strikers Beat One of Their Fellow Workers Who Refused to Remain Idle—Marble Workers Beat a Man Into Insensibility. Boy Also Beaten.

John Daly, known as "Chicago Jack," told in Judge Himes's court at the Maxwell-street station, his career as a hired slugger for Chicago Typographical Union No. 16, says the Chicago Tribune.

The witness gave testimony against William J. Boener, former organizer of the union, and Samuel Olson, a printer, who are accused of having hired Daly to slug Rush V. Denon, a non-union printer, on January 16, last. Samuel Cassidy, who was employed by Daly to assist him, also was in court, and admitted striking the blow that resulted in Denon's death.

Daly said he got $50 for the job and that he employed Cassidy, "Mumie" Wilson and John White, each of them receiving $5. Daly, as the leader of the slugging crew, said he arranged for the various "jobs" and that Boener and Olson had offered him $400 if he succeeded in closing the plant of the W. F. Hall Printing Company, where Denon was employed.

"I met Boener about the first of this year," Daily began when asked to tell his story, "and he made a proposition to me to slug non-union printers. They told me that Denon was the man that they would like to get and offered me $50.

"I hired Cassidy, Garrity, Wilson and White. As Denon emerged from the plant Cassidy followed him.

"I did not see him strike, but I did see Denon lying on the street. We then ran away. I gave Cassidy $10, while the others got $5 apiece. We planned first to keep on slugging the workmen until the place could be closed, but we did not slug anybody after the Denon affair."

Beaten Into Insensibility.

The executive committee of the Marble Industry Employers Association, against whose members the unions of marble workers are on strike, report at the Builders Exchange many acts of violence by strikers, says the New York Sun.

William K. Fertig, secretary of the association, said:

"For the first time probably in a strike in the building trades an employer has been attacked. On Thursday evening Peter Borgia, a member of our association, after leaving his shops in Long Island City crossed to Manhattan, where he lives, accompanied by an office boy. He had just left the ferry on this side when he was surrounded, struck from behind and beaten into insensibility. The boy was also beaten. Mr. Borgia had no chance to see his assailants and there were no arrests."

Mr. Fertig said that two employees of a member had been assaulted and robbed. He said that in the last week violence had increased. Special guards were at every shop, but in some cases the guards themselves were beaten after being overpowered.

Girl Strikers Beat a Girl.

There was a small riot in Newark, N. J., yesterday, near the Newark Embroidery Works, when a crowd of Italian girl strikers of that place set upon one of their number, who had refused to continue on strike with them. The victim is Mary Levance. She worked in the place and joined the other girls when they walked out, several days ago, but as there appeared to be no prospect of winning, Mary returned to work in the place yesterday, says the New York Tribune.

At noon time she started home for her luncheon, and then it was that she was attacked by the strikers and severely beaten. Her hair was pulled out in places and her clothing was torn. Mary resisted them. The police were notified and the reserves were called out to quell the disturbance, and when it was finally settled the police arrested Rosie Neri and Josephine Rego as two of the ringleaders.

No Mercy for Sluggers.

In denying a motion for a supersedeas today the Supreme Court at Springfield, Ill., declined to intervene in the fate of four labor war sluggers who were sentenced to the penitentiary by Judge Kavanagh several days ago for assaulting Morgan H. Bell, employed on the Hygienic Ice Company's building, in Chicago.

The defendants are William Red Connors, Edward Storgaard, Peter Gentleman and Arthur O'Connor. The sentence was an indeterminate one, ranging from one to fifteen years. As a result of the action by the Supreme Court, which also refused to release the four on bail pending argument, the convicted men will be taken to the penitentiary. Gentleman, who is a brother of William Gentleman, for whose alleged murder Maurice Moss Enright is under indictment, is also under conviction for attempted burglary.

"TRAVEL AND ITS COST" is the title of an article by George W. Burton which will appear in The Times Magazine the coming Sunday. It will be of especial value to those who are interested in traveling economically.

The Difference.

STRIKE CALLED INEXCUSABLE.

MEN HAVE BEEN WELL PAID AND TREATED.

Railroad Companies Are Obliged by Their Charters to Provide Accommodation for the Traveling Public, but the Unionites Recognize No Obligations.

Men caapable of operating trains cannot be employed upon a day's notice, says the New York Commercial. The strength of the unions lies in the fact that long experience is required to meet the conditions of railroad service. The companies are obliged by their charters to provide adequate facilities, but there is nothing in the law which prohibits engineers and other employees from refusing the work, and the employers in consequence are practically compelled to grant concessions. Under the leadership of men who have no realization of their duties to the public, it would be easy to put such undue burdens upon the common carriers that service would be impaired and dividends wiped out. The result in either case would be injury to the public. The questions put by the Railway World are very timely in this period of exceptional activity on the part of the unions.

"Is not this an intolerable situation, looking at it not from the standpoint of the railroads, but from that of the general welfare? Is it safe for the people of the United States to allow their business and the continuation of their orderly existence to be at the mercy of the leaders of organizd railway labor? Is it safe or sensible to leave the power to inflict enormous and irreparable disaster upon the country in the hands of a few men, no matter how conservative they may have shown themselves in the past?

There is but one answer—a general strike should not be tolerated under any circumstances. By this it is not meant that railroad managers should be left free to do as they please. They should be under legal as well as moral obligations not to overwork their men

An Inexcusable Strike.

The labor leaders representing the new federation have now called a strike involving 35,000 or more men. Most of them are settled workers, with families, and thus it is probable that 150,000 persons are affected. Winter is coming on, and these families must be fed and sheltered, strike or no etrike. Where will the food and clothing and fuel come from? asks the Washington Post.

If the railroad workers were up against oppression or injustice, the public would not turn a deaf ear to the cry for help, and labor unions everywhere would contribute to the needs of their brethren. But will the public, or even the labor unions of the country, go into their pockets to support men who admit that they have been well paid and well treated?

Public opinion does not exert its force perfectly in case of strikes, but usually the side supported by public opinion gets the better of the struggle. Without the aid of public sympathy a strike soon fails. For the sake of women and children who will suffer if this strike should continue, it is to be hoped that the workingmen involved will recognize the fact that their move at this time does not meet with popular smypathy or support.

Labor Unions Irresponsible.

Everybody wants peace in industry, and most employers and many workmen want peace on fair terms of mutual benefit, says the New York Journal of Commerce. A fundamental difficulty is lack of responsibility on the labor side, and that is why there is such strong objection to increasing the power of labor organization. It is irresponsible power, held to no legal obligation and no subjection to governmental authority. Such power is always dangerous and generally destructive.

Railroad corporations have their obligations to the public and to the investors in the property which they control, and their directors have responsibilities under the law and are compelled to observe requirements and restrictions affecting the cost of their service and the revenue to be derived from it. Within certain limits the same principle applies to other corporations, and all employers have to consider conditions of trade and the necessities of business. Labor unions in this country and federations of unions are wholly voluntary organizations, with no defined obligations, no responsibilities under the law except such as apply to members as individuals, and no relation to public authority other than that of any association of citizens. They are a law unto themselves and hake their own rules of conduct. Their responsibilities are only such as they prescribe for themselves. For this reason employers are quite right in resisting the consolidation of their power under the "principle" of the "closed shop," or a monopoly of labor. The only protection of employers lies in maintaining the "open shop" principle and the chance of competition. No organization can be safely permitted to be above the law and subject to no restraint but its own.

Peace Which Means Violence.

The usual proclamations of peace are made by the strike leaders who have involved the Harriman lines in a most unjustifiable quarrel with their employer, says the San Francisco Wasp. "No violence will be permitted," "the strikers are gentlemen, etc." If this were true there would have been no strike. Years of lawless coercion is what forces most honest toilers to go on a strike. Fear of being murdered is what keeps most of them from going back to work and saving their unfortunate families from distress. The average strike if conducted without violence to keep the strikers in line by fierce intimidation would be of short duration.

In this present railroad strike some terrorist was trying to set the ferryboat Solano on fire at Port Costa, even while the strike leaders were openly decrying lawlessness. This desperate act of incendiarism was the first serious demonstration of criminality.

The question of wages or hours is not the real cause of contention in the railroad strike. The question is whether the railroad people will turn over the entire management of their business to a handful of professional disturbers who call themselves a federation, but are really parasites, living without work on the body of honest labor.

LABOR'S DAY OF ATONEMENT.

Since the Crash of Four Years Ago, Workingmen Have Not Been Called Upon for Any Sacrifice.

Prior to 1907 the United States had built, whether wisely or not, the greatest commercial fabric known to man, says the New York Commercial. A perfection in manufacture obtained that challenged the admiration of the world. The best-paid labor recorded in the history of mankind resulted in bank accumulations, happy homes and a well-clothed, contented people. Railroads and industrial developments were at high tide, and the future was regarded only with the eye of optimism. Then came the crash. Since that time, the decreased earnings of corporate entities are familiar to every one. Capital has sacrificed more than ever before. Stockholders have been made to bear the brunt of battle. Labor alone has passed through this greatest of all commercial transitions without having been called upon to make any sacrifice whatever. The old fundamental principle of property rights seem to have been absolutely disregarded; and today we face a condition in which capital stands convicted by inference of all of the shameless sins imaginable. In the minds of those who are familiar with economic law, the question has already arisen as to when labor will be called upon to bear its share of the burden resultant from this wrongly-created and wrongful impression as to the sins of men in high corporate places. It is an elemental fact that when earnings are, because of one thing or another, reduced from a maximum to a minimum, either of two things must happen, namely: he cost of production must be decreased or a loss will naturally ensue; and in view of the fact that labor industrially speaking, represents the great bulk of the cost of manufacture, it will be the establishment of a new precedent and in absolute defiance of economic law were labor to escape a very material reduction all along the line. Take any page from the book of "commercial experience," and we find that when capital has been forced to concessions where profits reached the vanishing point, labor has been called upon automatically to either work for less money, or quit. In its final analysis capital can live; whereas labor cannot live unless there is a demand for it.

What would be the natural result on the assumption that a general reduction in the price of labor were to be brought about by the present insistent effort of the Federal administration to discredit business in general? Would it not be natural to assume that labor, having finally realized that the prosecution of corporate business and large individual enterprises was directly responsible for the reduction in its pay, in consequence feel strongly inclined to cry for a return to those conditions which existed prior to 1907 and which found their expression in the best-clothed, the best-housed and best-paid laboring man that the world ever knew?

TESTING LONDON AIR.

Want to Know the Result of Ozoning the Atmosphere of the Railway Tubes.

[London Daily Mail:] A series of scientific tests to determine the actual improvement in the atmosphere obtained in the Central London tube railway through the installation of the ozonar system of ventilation, have been begun by W. J. Didbin, analytical chemist of Howick Place, S. W. At present the system is in full working order at the Bank and Chancery lane stations only, the work of installing plants throughout the rest of the line having been delayed by the recent labor troubles. Samples of air have been taken both inside and outside Chancery lane station, and also at the platform level at Shepherd's Bush station, where the new ventilators have not yet been installed.

"Measures of the actual quantity of ozone in the outside air, and the air at the two stations, are not being made on account of the unstable character of ozone," Mr. Dibdin explained. "Within three or four minutes the ozone molecules, represented by the cemical symbol O3, are broken down into molecules of the ordinary oxygen of the air, O2. If ozone is present we hope to determine its measure of usefulness by the decreased amount of bacteria found in the air mixed with it."

Color tests to determine the actual presence of ozone at the Chancery lane platform level were also made by exposing to the atmosphere sheets of paper treated with starch and potassium iodide. Any free ozone present liberates free iodine from the potassium iodide, and this, acting on the starch, produces a blue color.

The Mule's Error.

[Case and Comment:] Recently, writes Attorney Earl B. Smith of Somerton, Yuma county, Ariz., I was obliged to remain at a primitive Southern Arizona ranch over night, and at about dusk I was given a quilt, a clean sheet, and a pillow, and told to take them to the top of a twenty-foot alfalfa stack and make up my bed. Knowing the conditions of the country I did not murmur, and climbed the pole ladder to spend the night. I never enjoyed a better night's rest at any hotel. At early dawn I raised my head and saw two yearling mule colts feeding at the edge of the stack. We exchanged glances for a few moments, while the mules' ears showed keen astonishment. Suddenly I rose to my feet, and in doing so the white sheet clung to my shoulders, whereupon the colts "lit out" down the lane as if the Angel Gabriel were descending to take them to celestial pasturage. While at the breakfast table I related the incident, which was much enjoyed, but no remarks were made at the time. As one of the ranch hands was passing out of the door he said in a subdued, but distinctly audible voice, that it was the first time he had ever heard of a lawyer being mistaken for an angel, and nobody but a mule would have made such an error.

has been with two churn drills, which have been shipped from Kirkland to Clifton.

A vast amount of rock work is to be done on the new forty-mile railroad to the new Jerome smelter site. The road, a broad-gauge, will necessarily follow the Verde River. Twenty-five miles will be through a rugged mountain country, much of the way through box canyons. There will be three long tunnels. Construction will be by the L. J. Smith Company of Kansas City, which for two years has been working about 3000 men on the double tracking of the Santa Fe, east of Ash Fork.

MURPHY OPTIMISTIC.
BELIEVES IN IMPERIAL.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Oct. 13.—President Frank M. Murphy of the Imperial Copper Company was in Tucson lately, conferring with M. P. Freeman, trustee in bankruptcy of the company's property in this county. Mr. Murphy spoke in optimistic tone concerning the future of the Imperial, stating that it will be a matter of only a few months till its affairs are straightened out and work resumed. great deal of work will have to be lieve that the work at Silver Bell will be started eventually on a bigger scale than ever before. The mine has great possibilities and when it is started again much more capital will be invested than there was previously. It will take more to run it, too, as a great deal of wrok will have to be done in opening the mine. The thing we are looking forward to is the bringing in of outside capital to develop the interests of the new State. The Imperial will be developed extensively before the actual taking out of ore begins and then about 1000 tons will be taken out each day. I fully believe the proposition is a great one."

Mr. Murphy referred also to the proposed construction of a railroad from Port Lobos on the Gulf of California, a project which has had the backing of the several corporations of which he is the head. The Port Lobos plans have been much favored by the election of Gen. Madero to the Mexican Presidency and now, with a stable government assured, he believed there would be little trouble in financing such an admirable proposition.

Remarkable assays are coming from the Southern Cross mine in Arivaca mining district, where a knife-blade seam has widened out to five feet that samples around $100 to the ton in gold. The ore is getting richer with depth, with much free gold.

NEW COPPER PRODUCTION.
AS SEEN BY EXPERTS.

Commenting on "new copper production," the current number of the Engineering and Mining Journal says:

"One factor, or supposed factor, in the present condition of the copper market has been the more or less general expectation of a large increase in production, supposed to be imminent. This was to come partly from Utah, but largely from the new mines of Arizona. In Utah it is true that there was an increase in August and a further gain is expected in September. Nevertheless we are convinced from a recent inspection of the new mines of the Southwest, that the total American production of copper in 1911 will show no material increase over that of 1910 and that the gain in 1912 will be much less than has been generally expected.

The three more important new mines from which a large output is looked for are Miami, Ray and Chino. Of these Miami is the most advanced, and is now producing at a little less than two-thirds of its ultimate capacity. Ray is not making more than three-eighths of its capacity; while Chino will begin working in October at about one-third of the rate which it is expected to reach in the future. Neither Miami nor Ray is making any special effort to hasten the completion of its mill construction. Chino at the best will attain only three-fifths of its projected capacity by the end of the present year.

"So much for 1911; in 1912 none of these companies will reach its expected maximum output. This has been placed at 170,000,000 pounds of copper; but the actual production in 1912 will probably fall far short of that quantity. This will not be because of any disappointment in the results so far obtained at these mines, but simply because mine-development work and mill construction are not sufficiently advanced to permit the maximum to be reached before the end of next year. Of the three mines Miami will probably come nearest to attaining its projected maximum in 1912; a point which neither Ray or Chino can be expected to attain next year."

KINGMAN DISTRICT.
WORK ON PROPERTIES.

In the Kingman, Ariz., mining district the Werden property west of Gold Road has been under active development for more than a year. Good bodies of milling ore have been opened up in the mine, and it is probable that a milling plant will soon be installed.

Assays from the Royal Flush mine, recently discovered by A. L. McKesson, near the Wallapaia Springs, showed high values in telluride. Miners are at work cross-cutting the vein and as soon as the machinery arrives a shaft will be started.

On all the other properties of the district, such as the Brighter Day, the Neglected, the London, the I.X.L. and Front Creek Mining and Power Company, active work is going on.

Movements of Mining Men.

J. E. White, manager of the Quartette Mining Company of Searchlight, Nev., has been spending a vacation in Pacific Coast cities for the past few weeks.

Charles Lysar, a mining engineer of San Francisco, recently paid a visit to the property of the National Mining Company near Winnemucca, Nev.

S. M. Levy, a mining engineer of Salt Lake City, has recently been inspecting mining properties in Toulumne county, California, for eastern clients.

Fred Simmons, superintendent of the Quartz King Mining Company at Parker, Ariz., has returned to his duties after a visit to Los Angeles on business and pleasure.

W. H. Blackburn, superintendent of the Tonopah Mining Company of Tonopah, Nev., has returned to the neighboring State after a brief stay in San Francisco.

A. Burch, consulting engineer for the Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company, recently made an inspection of the property of the famous mine and has returned to San Francisco.

D. D. Muir of Los Angeles, representing the United States Smelting and Refining Company, has returned from Skagway, Alaska, where he was sent to inspect copper properties.

W. A. Aldridge, managing director of the Inspiration copper property of Arizona, maintains an office in this city in the Central building. He makes frequent trips to the property.

W. W. Hurt, president and general manager of the New York-Searchlight Mines Company of Searchlight, Nev., is in New York on a business trip at this time.

D. C. Jackling of Salt Lake City, at the head of the Ray Consolidated Copper Company of Arizona and the Chino Copper Company of New Mexico, is making his regular monthly trip of inspection to the properties.

Dr. J. A. Holmes, director of the Bureau of Mines, recently returned to Washington after an extensive trip through the western mining districts.

Walter C. Lamb, general manager of the Manhattan War Eagle Mining and Milling Company of Manhattan, Nev., has returned to the property after an extended trip to eastern points.

T. B. Wilde, a mining engineer, and T. F. Freye, manager of the Nevada Constellation Mining Company operating properties near Searchlight, Nev., are at the property after a visit in this city.

J. N. Hinckley, foreman for the Calumet and Arizona Mining Company, died recently at the company's hospita at Bisbee after a short illness.

IN THE EARTH.

Rare Minerals, Metallurgy and Chemistry.

Not Rhodonite.

GRANT'S PASS (Or.) Sept. 18.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The dark rock enclosed is supposed to be manganese, and the pink Rhodonite. Both found in ledges near this city. Properly name them for me, please, in your "In the Earth."

Yours respectfully, C. L. M.

ANSWER: The dark sample is an altered rock on one side "slickenslide." it is a mixture of iron oxides with manganese and (altered) serpentine, and carrying, sparingly, microscopic pyrite. The pink sample is not a manganese silicate, it is chiefly pink calcite (carbonate of lime.)

Chromite.

GRANT'S PASS (Or.) Sept. 18.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Herewith in this box find a sample of ore from a claim on Trade Dollar Mountain, about thirty miles from Grant's Pass (west.) I take it as high-grade nickel ore. Please tell me in the "In the Earth" department what per cent. of nickel it carries. It comes from a nickel country.

Yours very truly, A. C. G.

ANSWER: The sample does not carry nickel. It represents a very pure and commercially valuable chromic-iron ore.

Calcite.

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 19.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I express two samples of lime rock; they both come from the same pile of lime rock, 400 feet apart. Will you kindly tell me in your "In the Earth" column if it is suitable for sugar refining, that is, the lime rock they use at all of the sugar factories.

I am told that sugar refineries call for lime rock free from flint and not more than 14 per cent. magnesia. I have claims of this rock with millions of tons in sight and would be thankful to know if it is any good; it is fifteen miles from San Bernardino and near the railroad. If not sugar rock, will it do for cement factory use? Thanking you in advance.

Yours respectfully, W. C. C.

ANSWER: You certainly have a big "pile" of lime rock. Both samples can be utilized in the cement industry. As for sugar: Why not offer samples to the refineries?

Not Patronite.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The sample I send you was taken from a small lead on a claim five miles from Mojave, Cal. I showed it to a mining man who said it is patronite, and he had a piece of patronite with him. Is it patronite? Please tell me something about patronite. Oblige.

Yours respectfully, H. M'L.

ANSWER: The sample carries no sulphur or vanadium, and therefore is not patronite; it is simply slate.

It requires probably two weeks more to get up our short story on patronite, but the mining boys in the hills and all other correspondents can depend on the fact that when given any one will be able to recognize the mineral.

Interesting Samples.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am leaving today at your business office five samples of ore from a locality twenty-five miles south and west of Reno, Nev. No. 1 sample, what variety of copper ore is this? What is the correct classification of No. 2 and its metal percentage? Is No. 3 electrum? What is the yellow coloring matter in No. 4? Does No. 5 carry platinum?

Thanking you for an answer expected shortly, yours very truly,

F. C. P.

ANSWER: Sample No. 1 is a reniform mass of tyrolite, with "a radiating foliated structure, and a drusy surface. Usually occurs in small aggregations, and diverging fibrous groups of a pale green color, and with a pearly luster. Color verdigris green to sky-blue. Translucent. Streak paler than the color. Very sectile. Thin laminae flexible." Hardness 2. Sp. gr., 3.02. Composition (approximately) arsenic 25; copper oxide 44; water 17; and lime carbonate 14, which, added together equals 100 per cent. Before the blow-pipe tyrolite decrepitates violently. "Fuses to a steel-gray globule, and it dissolves in acids with evolution of carbonic acid." Sample No. 2 is the remarkably high grade ore of mercury known as metacinnabarite, and it is rather odd to note the fact that in the year 1892 we received a sample similar to the one you submit from Dr. W. H. Patterson of Reno, Nev.

At that time part of the sample was forwarded to Prof. Dana and the name, with its publication, soon after followed. Metacinnabarite is of a black-gray color, black streak, metallic luster, hardness 3, brittle; "habit tetrahedral, faces rough, of massive-amorphous structure. Crystal system isometric. Of uneven subconchoidal fracture." Specific gravity of your sample 7.85. Composition mercury and sulphur. Mercury present over 80 per cent. No. 3 is not electrum, it is microscopical "wire-copper" imbedded throughout the mass of quartz. The yellow coloring matter in No. 4 is ferrous and ferric iron. No. 5 does not carry a trace of platinum.

The remaining samples of ore are as follows: No. 1 is feldspathic rock carrying native gold, iron-oxide, trace of iron disulphide and yellow scales of mica; No. 2, "blackrock," is iron-oxide, shaly gneiss, and carrying approximately same as No. 1; No. 3 gouge-matter, native gold present. No. 4 comprises many specimens, among which we find quartz with coarse gold, iron-disulphide present trace only. Samples of gneiss carrying gold, iron-disulphide and yellow mica are in the lot.

It appears from your letter that at 35 foot shaft, you have "a tunnel in 15 feet. . . immediately below the bedrock." The letter further shows

ANSWER: The rock carries copper carbonates and copper silicate very sparingly interspersed throughout the ..., and will not yield over 2 per cent. copper per ton ore with zinc .... Microscopical pyrite (iron disulphide) is also in the rock. Glad to hear from you.

Sulphides.

BOWIE (Ariz.) Sept. 23.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I send you a package of ore which I think runs fairly in gold, silver and lead. I got a prospect of four claims and all very well mineralized of the same character of samples in the bottom of the shaft, and look very promising.

I am getting so badly sick from the powder every time, and so I cannot stay any more in mining. . . . I would like to arrange to sink shaft to 100 foot depth, and I would give a half interest in the claims to get that depth, and can give the best of references.

If you want more ore, I have plenty of it. The lode runs easterly and westerly, and is white quartz with some lead on it on the surface; the outcropping is four feet thick, but where I am now working it is eighteen inches wide.

Alongside of hanging wall is a gray-looking dyke which runs with the lode a distance of the four claims. I am twenty feet down in the shaft, and the chance is good for any one.

I do not know how this letter will strike you, but if unfavorable, forgive me.

These claims are in Cochise county, Arizona, five miles south of the S.P. R.R., near the section house Luzena, and eight miles west of Bowie station.

Yours truly, CON. A.

ANSWER: The Times is now and always has been the true friend of honest labor. Your letter is but one of many such received by this department of The Times.

Naturally we are in no position to promote your claims, but nevertheless the question arises: Why not advertise in the Mining Column of The Times offering the claims as by you stated?

You submit four samples. The crystalized coating on the small, brown sample is chalcedony. The big quartz specimen carries a pocket of antimonial lead ore with iron oxides. One other sample carries pyrite (iron disulphide) with arsenic present low percentage. The white quartz carries oxides pseudomorphic after pyrite with antimonial-lead and silver present. No sample was tested for gold.

Porphyritic Rock.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Please find in this package three samples from west of Arlington, Cal. I would like to know if there is any value to same.

Yours truly, N. J. W.

ANSWER: The rock samples carry hematite (iron peroxide,) with magnetic iron ore. Commercial values are extremely doubtful.

Crystallized Calcite.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] This sample was found in Tulare county, Cal. Is there any tungsten in the same?

Yours truly, A. L.

ANSWER: Tungstic acid is not present in the sample.

Indian War Paint.

BLAKE (Cal.) Sept. 25.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Am sending you four samples of ore, which I wish to know the name of, and the kind of minerals they carry.

Sample No. 1 is from near Benson, Ariz., and is it anything more than red oxide of iron?

Sample No. 2 is from a fissure vein, in conglomerate, from the Plomosa mining district of Yuma county, Ariz.; and wish to know if it contains vanadium in any form, or any other mineral.

No. 3 is from a vein not far from where sample No. 2 came from, but the vein is in a different formation. Is it a lead ore or if not, then what is it? I first thought it was essonite, but have changed my mind.

No. 4 is from the same locality, and would like to know through your "In the Earth" column, what it, as well as the rest, contains.

Thanking you in advance for your trouble, I am,

Yours truly, E. O. G.

ANSWER: No. 1, iron oxides. No. 2 is made up of two samples; the bright red colored specimen is Indian war paint (iron peroxide with arsenic present.) The second sample, showing copper present, runs low in vanadic acid. No. 3 consists of two specimens, the big specimen is essonite (hessonite or cinnamon stone,) in a mechanical mixture of essonite with lime carbonate. The small sample carries traces of zinc, lead and antimony. No. 4 consists of two samples, and both of them are magnetite (magnetic iron ore.)

Salines.

PASADENA, Sept. 25.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Kindly tell us what this mineral deposit is and give us some idea of its commercial value, if any, in your columns. It was sent to us from Nevada.

Respectfully yours, W. M. C.

ANSWER: By qualitative test we find that sodium chloride; calcium carbonate, calcium sulphate and phosphoric acid, with nitrates are present in the sample.

To give you its commercil value we would have to make a quantitative analysis; this, gladly, would be given, but we are necessarily forced for time.

Yes.

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 25.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Sample from locality twenty-five miles southeast of San Bernardino. Is it fluorspar (fluorite?)

Please inform me through "In the Earth."

Yours truly, A. J.

Correspondents Note!

In submitting samples to this department of The Times please wrap them up carefully and in the container tag or mark them so that they can be identified.

We are in receipt of many specimens which, regretfully, are thrown "on the dump" for the reason that there is no posible way to locate them.

We would be glad to know the name of the correspondent, and the locality where the white-shell limestone came from.

As usual, many powdered samples received no attention.

NATURE STORIES.

Snakes Deceived.

[New York Herald:] Seeing things which were not real, but which they believed to be real, caused the death of two timber rattlesnakes in the Zoological Gardens, Bronx Park, yesterday. Dr. W. T. Hornady, curator, takes great pride in his collection of reptiles and for many months has intended to reward them with a new home. According to the story told yesterday, Dr. Hornady, several months ago, while in Sullivan county, saw a bit of scenery consisting of a rocky ledge which he thought would make an ideal home for the snakes in the gardens. Upon his return he directed that the rocky ledge be reproduced and the new snake den was built of great blocks of rough granite, on which the reptiles could take their daily sun bath. It was thought that more realism would be added if a background of hills were put in. A scenic artist was ordered to make a painting of a rocky background upon canvas.

He succeeded beyond Dr. Hornady's fondest hopes and when the canvas was stretched, it was hard for human beings to tell where the real rocks ended and the painted ones began. There were crevices and caverns that opened invitingly for the snakes. When the reptiles were placed in their new home yesterday they immediately crawled to the rocky edge. Two of them saw the crevices upon the painted background and tride to crawl in. Upon failure they became so irritated that they struck at the canvas with their heads breaking their necks.

Keepers rushed into the den and drove back the other snakes, fearing they might meet the same fate.

"Well, it serves them right," said one of the keepers as he came out. "Many a man has seen snakes when there weren't, and it is only just for a snake to see something when it isn't."

Horse Eats Ice.

[New York Herald:] Up in Harlem is a grocer with a horse that has one of the strangest appetites ever known to the equine species. He likes ice. He seems fairly to crave it. If the piece is too big for him to get into his mouth and crunch up, he will lick it until it is small enough, and then he will chew it as many horses chew sugar. When he sees his master coming toward him with some ice he will whinny for it like another horse for a meal of oats.

"He's been that way ever since he was born," said the horse's master. "He was born in midwinter, up in the northern part of the State, and I guess that's the reason. He doesn't care for crushed or shaven ice. He wants it in chunks, so he can chew on it. When he is in his stall we put it right in with his corn. He will take a big bite of ice, and after it is chewed up will eat corn for a while. It never seems to hurt him."

Dog Climbs a Tree.

[Baltimore American.] Perched in the top of a tree, 15 feet above the ground, at Washington and Eager streets, yesterday afternoon, was Duke, a large pointer dog, that belongs to Charles Kasik, of Washington and Eager streets. On the end of a limb, several feet away from Duke, was a big cat. The dog, in a spirit of play, had chased the cat up the tree and out to the end of the limb.

And this was not the first time tht Duke had climbed a tree. In fact, this is a feat that he does quite often. He and the cat, which belongs to someone in the neighborhood, are often to be seen at play, and the game invariably winds up by a chase up the tree. But Duke was never known to harm a cat or any other thing and, as usual, he finally allowed pussy to come down to the ground.

Duke is considered a remarkable dog by the people of the neighborhood, who declare they never before saw a dog that would climb a tree. But Duke, despite the fact that he weighs over 50 pounds, can get up the trunk of the tree as well as any cat that ever lived.

Several years ago, say the residents of the neighborhood, Duke saved a little girl from being run over by a street car by springing upon her and pulling her from the track just in time to escape being crushed under teh heavy iron wheels.

A DOLLAR BOOK FREE FOR THE ASKING

Co-Operation in All Countries

The author of this 64-page book has spent many months in study and research and as a result has given us a detailed history, with all the facts and figures of this greatest force in the world today—Co-operation—from its very beginning down to the present date. All should know of what has been accomplished through Co-operation in England, Scotland, Ireland, Germany, Denmark, Switzerland, France, Italy, Spain, Belgium, Holland, New Zealand and Australia, and this is all interestingly told in this book, which is full of helpful hints to men and women, ambitious to help themselves and their friends and neighbors.

Co-Operation Was Started by Necessity

The main reason for the existence of the different Co-operative bodies in Europe was the discovery that the middleman was, in most cases, getting the lion's share of the profits. The pioneers of this great movement believed that by uniting the people themselves, buying their own supplies, manufacturing their own goods that they could and would save money and also make money. Co-operative societies and bodies as we see them today in civilized Europe have proven the pioneers were right, and their success has far exceeded the ideas and thoughts of the originators. You can read all the facts concerning this great movement in this extremely interesting book.

Doings in California Oil Fields.

McKittrick.

ANOTHER WELL ON THE FRONT.

Oakland-M'Kittrick Strikes Good Oil Sand.

Heaving Sands in Well of Kern Petroleum.

Mahoney Brothers Prepare for New Work.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

M'KITTRICK (Cal.) Oct. 13.—The Oakland-McKittrick Oil Company, which is drilling its first well on the southeast quarter of section 25, 29-21, on the North McKittrick front, six miles from McKittrick, has struck a large body of oil sand at a depth of 1440 feet. The company has been at work several months in the new field, under the supervision of B. E. Rice, and it is expected that the well will be a good producer. Considerable Honolulu capital is invested in the Oakland-McKittrick Company, which was controlled by prominent men of Oakland and San Francisco before it passed into the hands of the present owners.

The Kern Petroleum Company, after reaching a depth of more than 1800 feet, has had some trouble with heaving sand. This obstacle is now being overcome, and the company hopes to meet with success in striking very good oil sand in a short time. The Kern Petroleum lease is located about fourteen miles northwest of McKittrick.

The Jewett Oil Company, in the north end of the McKittrick field, has added a 100-horse-power boiler to its plant. There are nine wells on this lease. The plant of the company is now one of the best on the smaller leases in this portion of the McKittrick district.

The State Consolidated Oil Company has spudded in on well No. 12 and is now more than 200 feet deep, and in brown shale. This company has done much development work since the beginning of the year, and anticipates considerable more before the spring opens. The State Consolidated also has property in the Midway field.

Mahoney Bros., having finished a contract for laying pipe on the North McKittrick front, have moved their camp to the Midway field, where they are now engaged in digging a ditch twenty miles in length, and will lay six-inch water pipe for the Western Water Company. These contractors on September 15 finished the work of laying six-inch pipe from the property of the Belridge Oil Company, on the North McKittrick front, to the Caneros pumping station and the junction, a total of twenty miles in length. The digging of the ditch began on July 16, and was pushed as rapidly as possible. Quite a large number of men were employed in the work. The contract in the Midway field will require about two months for its completion.

O. C. Heck, whose lease is on section 6, 29-22, has drilled in his first oil well and plugged it. He has just finished the second rig, and is to erect more. The lease has a plentiful supply of water, the well recently brought in being credited with a production of 1000 barrels per day.

The Speedwell Oil Company secured a good water well on its property on the North McKittrick front, the pump being put to work this week. The daily production is estimated at from 800 to 1000 barrels, and insures an ample supply for the needs of the lease. The well is 200 feet deep.

The King George Oil Company's water well, on the North McKittrick front, is down seventy feet and drilling is progressing steadily. The indications for a large yield of water are very satisfactory.

D. A. Jackson, superintendent of the San Francisco and McKittrick Oil Company, has returned from a visit to California Hot Springs, Visalia and other points.

Robert Miller, with the Associated Oil Company, spent the week in Bakersfield with friends.

B. G. Granville of Los Angeles, general manager of the I. X. L. of Midway Oil Company, has been here in the interest of his company.

D. McPhee of San Francisco, who is interested in oil property on the North McKittrick front, was in the city this week.

E. D. Jones, formerly with the San Francisco and McKittrick Oil Company, is now permanently located at Round Lake, Fla., where he has purchased property. B. F. Gesstle, who accompanied Mr. Jones to the South, is engaged in business at Gay, Fla. Both are well known in the West Side oil fields.

Orderliness Is a Big Asset.

[Success Magazine:] To teach children habits of neatness, system and order is to insure some degree, at least, of success. Yet they are often brought up amid disorder and confusion, allowed to throw things down just where they use them, and to form slovenly and slipshod habits. They are not taught to put things where they belong, and consequently they grow up shackled with handicaps which they can rarely throw off.

If there is any delusion in the world, it is that doing "things just for now," dropping things wherever one may happen to be temporarily saves time. On the contrary, this is a great time waster and a great demoralizer of character. A bad habit not only tends to repeat itself, but to increase the tendency in that direction.

If you were not taught the beautiful lesson of orderliness in your youth, teach it to yourself now.

A Superior Hen.

A White Leghorn hen owned by John Graham of Glenville, N. Y., which has on various occasions shown superior intelligence, has recently performed several more remarkable feats, says the New York Sun. Mr. and Mrs. Graham went to Brooklyn last night to attend a wedding, and did not return home until today. Their son was alone all night and would have overslept had not the hen tapped on his window with her beak and awakened him. While the boy was dressing the hen laid a fresh egg for his breakfast. When the boy was ready for school he locked the door and gave the key to the hen, who placed it under her wing and hid it there until Mr. and Mrs. Graham returned.

The letter carrier, grocer and butcher tried to get into the house, but the hen flew at them and drove them off.

—PIPE LINE PROFITS. COMMISSION GETS NEWS.

It is reported that all departments of the Guaranty Pipe Line Company's work have been moving forward satisfactorily during the past few days. Several strong men have been added to the ranks, including the president of a national bank and the cashier of a big trust company, as well as several prominent oil operators and business men. The placing of the bonds is progressing nicely.

The recent investigation by the Interstate Commerce Commission has developed several features in pipe line matters that are not generally known to the public. In Oklahoma Charles H. Merillat, attorney for the Osage Indians, caused the producers assembled at the hearing, to sit up and take notice when he declared that the low price of oil had been caused by the obstacles thrown in the way of the completion of pipe lines Upon their completion, he said, the price of oil had risen from 34 cents to 50 cents a barrel. The testimony of others developed the fact that such big profits were being made by the pipe line companies that the Commissioner requested documentary evidence to support the claims made orally.

Fullerton.

SANTA FE GETS TWO GOOD WELLS.

COMPANY HAS GOOD FORTUNE IN SOUTHERN FIELD.

In Bringing in These Producers the Company Secures a Better Gravity of Oil Than Usual—Activities of the Standard, the Amalgamated and Others.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

ANAHEIM, Oct. 13.—The Santa Fe Oil Company has just brought in two new producers, Nos. 63 and 67. The first is not finished, but is so far in the oil sand as to determine it to be a good well. No. 67 has been finished and is producing around 250 barrels a day on the pump. There is every reason to believe that this well will be one of the steadiest of the Santa Fe's long-lived producers. No. 63 is away above the best that the company has ever had in the matter of gravity. Also this well is the center of very important interest because of proving something that was not previously believed with reference to Santa Fe territory that high gravity sand is there as well as in the Brea Canyon and the La Habra Valley fields.

The new well adjoins the Columbia holdings and is on the west side of the Santa Fe properties. It is now down 3200 feet, and has about 100 feet of high gravity sand. There is not a large amount of gas attending the oil and it is not believed that the sand will produce a gusher, but a good well is expected, better than the average of the field. Near No. 63 are wells 65 and 66, and should reach the 63 sand. At any rate the company will not stop in the low gravity stratum.

A general deepening of the Santa Fe wells in the territory where later development may determine that it is reasonable to look for the high gravity sand will be but a repetition of history for this company.

The Fischer Company has changed from the rotary to a standard rig and is now getting through the broken rotary equipment that is in the hole at a depth of 700 feet. This hard luck of the company promises to be overcome in good shape.

The Standard is getting along nicely with its development work. On the Yriarte lease it is down 2350 feet and on the Leffingwell 2100 feet. On both these deep holes good progress is being made. The rotary rigs are used while drilling. The Toler well of the same company is reported to be making excellent progress. No 4 has been spudded in.

The Amalgamated has changed its rotary to a standard rig at well No. 3 at a depth of 2250 feet. It had been intending to carry the hole down with the rotary to 2600 feet, but the drilling became too heavy. No. 2 is down 2400 feet and is still going with a rotary. Neither of these wells has cut oil sand and the company expects to have to go to a depth of 3500 feet.

The Murphy Company's well No. 4 has been brought in and is making 150 barrels a day. No. 5 has been cemented and is now waiting for the cement to dry before work can be resumed.

In the La Habra Valley the Keystone Oil Company has material on its lease in the northern slope of the valley, where it will soon begin drilling. This will be the first well to be drilled in this locality. The Standard is completing its rigging on the William's lease in this valley.

On the Brea Canyon Oil Company's lease development continues active and well No. 12A will be spudded in within the next week. No. 3A, which is situated near No. 12A, is said to be over 1400 feet. All of this company's wells are progressing rapidly.

On the old Menges lease—now known as the Birch lease—the derrick is completed for well No. 9 and it is understood that the derrick will be rigged up and the hole started as soon as possible. The site of this well is not far from the Menges well No. 5, the biggest well on the lease and undoubtedly one of the best in the field, and it is thought by the officials that the same gravity oil sand will be found in No. 9.

In the Coyote Hills the Union is making excellent progress and a good producer is expected within a short time. This company has a larger number of wells drilling in the Coyote Hills fields than any other company.

Knew the Reason Why.

[Success:] After staring at the minister straight through the fish course, Adeline inquired: "Mamma, why is that man's hair so black when his beard is white?"

She was hushed by the stricken family, and stayed hushed until the salad was brought in.

Then she saw her chance. "I know," she said, "it's 'cause he uses SCHOOL LAND IS WORTH $80 AN ACRE his jaw more'n he does his head."

Could Anything be Worse.

[Success.] Marie M., was visiting when she saw a neighbor go past. "There goes Mr. W——," she said, "I wouldn't speak to him for anything. He chased us out of his sand pile and talked awful to us."

"Why, Marie, what did he say?" asked the hostess.

"Oh, I wouldn't dare repeat the things he said. He talked just awful. He scolded us like a mother."

Universal to Have Bungalow in Lost Hills.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

COALINGA, Oct. 13.—The report of R. W. Dallas, manager of the Coalinga branch of the Independent Producers' Agency, is in for September and shows that the storage oil from the field has been reduced nearly 80,000 barrels more, leaving only little more than 550,000 barrels in field storage on October 1. The shipments fell a little below the previous month, but the production was almost as great as in August, and was in reality greater when the extra day of the month is taken into consideration. The production in August was 1,574,476, and in September was 1,566,630. As there was one day more in August than in September, 52,000 barrels for the day would make the production larger than in the previous month.

The tabulated report is as follows:

	Total September.
Wells suspended	53
Wells drilling	120
Wells producing suspended.	212
Wells producing	736
New rigs	9
New rigs suspended	52
Storage	569,978
Shipments	1,644,947
Production	1,566,630

Contractor Peter H. Anderson of this city sent six men to the Lost Hills on the 5:30 o'clock train last night to start work on a $5000 bungalow for the Universal Oil Company. The bungalow will be for the use of the officials of the company and will be the first building of a camp that will equal the camp of the California Oilfield, Ltd. Superintendent McLaine's house is already nearing completion. Anderson will leave tomorrow morning for the Hills to personally oversee the work.

H. C. McConnell, manager of the Speed & Fraser offices in Coalinga, received word this morning from the Bakersfield offices of the firm to notify all of their patrons that the office here will be closed on the first of the coming month. The number of companies, whose accounts have been kept by the accounting firm, have been notified to elect secretaries of their respective companies, as the order to close the office carries with it the resignation of D. M. Speed of the secretaryship of the various companies. The reason given for closing is that the business does not justify trying to maintain offices in this field.

The companies which were handled by the accounting firm acting as secretaries are the Six Acres Oil Company, Boychester Oil Company, Crescent Iron Works, Amy Oil Company, Valley Oil Company, Walker Oil Company, Coalinga Blue Moon Oil Company, Growlers' Club, P. V. Investment Company, P. V. Hotel Company and S. R. Bowen Co. McConnell will be attached to the Bakersfield office when the business of the firm is closed here.

The adjourned annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pluto Oil Company was held last night. The following directors were elected: H. S. Davis, T. J. Whaley, C. C. Hanford, Charles Henslick and W. H. Danne. Immediately after the stockholders' meeting the directors called a meeting and elected H. S. Davis, president; T. J. Whaley, vice-president, and C. C. Hanford, secretary. The report of Superintendent Whaley showed that the well is 2765 feet deep and cemented off in 8¼-inch casing. The bit had gone into what is believed to be a productive oil sand, and the casing pulled up and cemented off above it. Drilling operations will be resumed immediately, and success is looked for.

The Turner No. 1 well, which has been giving trouble ever since it was drilled into the sand, was put on the pump yesterday after the casing had been split, and showed a production of about 250 barrels in twenty-four hours. The well was finished up at about 3400 feet, but no regular production could be had from it on account of sand trouble. The splitting of the casing allowed the oil to come in, and it may be the means of placing it in the producing class.

Max W. Ball, J. D. Northrup and R. W. Pack of the United States Geological Survey, and L. E. Eddy, S. L. Gillian and F. Oskar Martin of the General Land Office were in the Coalinga district from Saturday until today. The party was under the guidance of R. W. Pack, who has been engaged in geological work in this district, and of F. Oskar Martin, mineral inspector of the General Land Office of the second division, which covers the oil fields from Maricopa on the north.

Official Oath in Siam.

If any form of oath is calculated to impress one, that which is prescribed to the State officials of Siam is likely to do so, says the Nebraska Legal News. Each official has to say: "May the blood flow from my veins, may crocodiles devour me, may I be condemned to carry water to the flames of hell in vessels without bottoms. After death may I enter the body of a slave. May I suffer the harshest treatments during all time in years as numerous as the sands of all the seas. May I be reborn deaf, dumb, blind, and afflicted with dire maladies. May I also be thrown into Narok—the lower regions—and tortured by Prea Yam if I break this oath."

What Does She Do?

[Cleveland Plain Dealer:] Really modern couples are just as apt to be truly mated as the old-fashioned sort, of which we read about in the romances. A young Clevelander, who is often described as a "man about town," became engaged not long ago, and he spoke as follows to the lady who had honored him:

"I don't want to have anything that I must hide after we are married, dear. So I may as well tell you that I play poker, I smoke cigarettes, I drink, I stay out late and I bet on the races."

"I'm glad to hear you say so," said the up-to-date girl, brightly. "I was so afraid that you and I wouldn't be perfect companions!"

OUR NATIONAL GROWTH.

Statistical Record Shows the Changes that Have Occurred Since United States Began Business.

"Statistical Record of the Progress of the United States, 1800-1911," is the title of a small document just issued by the Bureau of Statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor.

The book pictures in statistical form conditions in the commercial, financial, industrial and transportation systems of the United States at brief intervals since the year 1880, down to and in many instances including the year 1911. In those cases in which the subjects considered are measured by governmental fiscal year periods, the figures for the fiscal year 1911 are included; in those in which calendar year periods are used, of course, statements can only terminate with the calendar year 1910.

Among the interesting facts shown are that the area of continental United States was 843,255 square miles in 1800, advancing to 1,734,630 square miles in 1810; to 2,995,536 square miles in 1850, and 3,026,789 square miles in 1853, since which date no change in area is shown.

The population, which was 5,330,000 in 1800, was 93,750,000 in 1911. Public debt, which was $83,000,000 in 1800, reached $2,675,000,000, less cash in Treasury in 1865, the figures of 1911 being $1,015,000,000. The per capita debt, which was $15.63 in 1800, and in 1865 $76.98, is in 1911 $10.83. The interest charge per capita, which amounted to 64 cents in 1800, and $4.12 in 1866, was in 1911 23 cents, and the total annual interest charge, which was in 1866 $146,000,000, was in 1911 $21,330,000. Money in circulation, stated as $26,500,000 in 1800, was in 1911 $3,228,627,002, and the per capita circulation, which was in 1800 $4.99, was in 1911 $34.35.

Deposits in all banks in the country cannot be shown earlier than in 1875, at which rate they are set down as a little more than $2,000,000,000, and in 1910 more than $15,000,000,000. The number of depositors in savings banks in 1820, the earliest year for which the figures can be shown, was a little less than 9000; and in 1910 over 9,000,000. Government receipts, which amounted to $2.04 per capita in 1800, were in 1866 $14.65 and in 1911 $7.45, or about one-half what they were in 1866. Exports of domestic merchandise, which amounted to $32,000,000 in value in 1800, were over $2,000,000,000 in 1911; and imports, which amounted to $91,000,000 in 1800, were $1,500,000,000 in 1911.

Many other subjects of this character stated by the document in question include details of imports and exports by great groups and grand divisions, and principal ports through which shipped; the production of principal articles, such as wheat, corn, cotton, coal, sugar, copper, etc., from 1800 to 1910, the attendance in public schools and sums expended for that work; postal receipts and expenditures, and a few pages devoted to monetary and commercial conditions in the principal countries of the world.

The Better Part.

[Puck:] A certain woman went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and it chanced that her gown was not fully buttoned up in the back.

Now, a priest and a Levite, meeting the woman and perceiving her plight, passed by on the other side, without saying a word.

But a certain Samaritan, journeying that way, was touched with compassion.

"Madam," quoth he, "your ha—hum——"

"Sir!" the woman thereupon exclaimed, and gave him a look which froze him on the spot.

Whence it appears that discretion is the better part of valor.

Felt Thankful.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer:] "Great luck, old man!" exclaimed a newly-made South Side benedict to his former chum, yesterday. "I've been married only three weeks, and burglars broke into my house last night."

"Do you call that luck?"

"I sure do. Why, man, they stole all the wedding presents."

PLAN CONCRETE LOFT BUILDING.

Leading Firm to Be Housed in Modern Structure.

Block Will Be Five Stories High and Fireproof.

Local Architects Have Fine Projects on Boards.

The largest single building project launched during the past week in this city was that calling for the erection of a modern five-story reinforced concrete loft building for E. J. Connell at the southeast corner of Los Angeles and Seventh streets. Plans for this structure, the probable cost of which will be about $25,000, are now nearing completion in the office of A. W. Angell. George [illegible] will be the engineer of the building.

The property will in all probability be occupied by the Cooper, Coate & Casey Dry Goods Company. The building will be one of the finest of its type on the Coast, being fireproof and thoroughly modern, as well as an attractive addition to Los Angeles street.

Architect A. S. Heineman is preparing plans for a three-story brick apartment-house to be known as the [illegible] Apartments. It will be erected on Ninth street west of Hoover, and will contain twelve suites, each of three rooms and bath. The structure will be 50x90 feet in size.

Plans have been completed by S. Tilden Norton for a three-story brick apartment building to be erected on Pico street near Valencia for Joseph Maidenberg. The structure will contain sixty rooms divided into two and three-room suites. It will be [illegible] feet in size.

Charles S. Shattuck is preparing plans for a three-story frame apartment building to be erected on Winfield street near Union avenue for Samuel H. Pardue. The building will contain thirty-nine rooms, divided into two and three-room suites.

The U. S. Investment Company is preparing plans and will build a three-story, fifty-room brick apartment-house for Mrs. Shell on La Salle street, near Washington.

The contract has been let for a three-story brick apartment-house to be built by Mrs. E. Johnson at the southeast corner of Pico and Wright streets. The building will be 60x125 feet in size and will have pressed brick facing on both street fronts. It will contain eighty-five rooms divided into thirty-five suites and will cost about $40,000. J. T. Zeller drew the plans.

Construction will be started early next month upon a three-story brick store and rooming building to be erected by S. C. Dodge on Fifth street, between Wall and San Julian. The structure will contain two stores and sixty-seven rooms. Garrett & [illegible] drew the plans.

[illegible] Stone is having plans prepared for a two-story brick store and apartment building to be erected at [illegible] street and Vernon avenue. It will contain four store rooms, four [illegible]-room and two three-room apartments.

The Weston Building Company is preparing plans for a two-story frame apartment building to be erected at Thirty-first and Orchard streets for D. W. Hare. It will contain forty-[illegible] rooms in suites of two and three rooms.

O. M. Warner is preparing plans for a two-story frame flat building, to be erected at No. 410 Centennial street for Mrs. S. Schon. There will be twenty-two rooms, divided into four flats.

Dennis & Farwell are preparing plans for a one-story brick store building to be erected at Second and San Pedro streets for W. S. Collins.

Charles E Shattuck has prepared plans for a two-story and basement brick store and loft building to be erected in San Pedro for Virgil Wallace.

NEW RESIDENCES.

The Southeast Contractor and Manufacturer reports the following new residence projects:

A. S. Heineman is preparing plans for a two-story, eight-room bungalow to be built on the east side of Irolo street, between Seventh and Eighth streets for Mrs. Cornelia Masters; for an eight-room bungalow to be erected on the west side of Irolo street, between Eighth and Ninth streets for P. H. McMasters; for an eight-room bungalow to be built on the east side of Irolo street, between Eighth and Ninth streets, A. S. [illegible]; for a seven-room bungalow to be erected on Coronado, near [illegible] for R. T. Martin; for a nine-room house to be built by H. W. Techentin on Portland street, Hollywood; for an eight-room house to be built by Dr. H. H. Smith on Fourth avenue near Adams; for a nine-room residence to be erected by M. C. Smith on Ardmore near Sixth, and for a nine-room dwelling to be built by E. J. Grant on Gramercy place, near Whilshire.

The Weston Building Company has prepared plans and will erect four bungalows as follows: Seven-room bungalow for Mrs. George H. Cravens, Cahuenga boulevard, near Temple; six-room bungalow for Mrs. A. Miller on Vista avenue, Hollywood, and two five-room bungalows on Western avenue near Maplewood for Miss Florence Thornburg.

Elmer Grey has prepared plans for a two-story, seven-room residence to be built on El Molino avenue south of Pinehurst drive, Oak Knoll, for himself. It will be an "L" shaped structure with extreme dimensions of 68x57 feet.

The Allen Building Company has completed plans for a five-room bungalow to be erected at Terminal Island for Thomas Spellman.

H. H. James has had plans drawn for an eight-room house of the English type, to be erected on Martel avenue, Hollywood.

E. C. Taylor is preparing plans for a six-room bungalow to be erected in Wilshire Heights for Carlton Bainbridge.

A. R. Kelly has completed plans for a two-story, twelve-room frame residence to be erected in Berkeley Square for George A. Rogres.

HOMES ARE ATTRACTIVE.

Building Company Constructing Dwellings on Harvard Boulevard and Mt. Washington.

Perspectives of two attractive residences designed and now being erected by the Milwaukee Building Company are reproduced on this page. The larger of the two places is that for Frank E. Walsh, which is being built at No. 635 Harvard boulevard.

This house will follow Italian lines and will cost about $16,000. It will occupy about 95x150 feet in size, and will contain twelve rooms. The foundations will be of reinforced concrete and the exterior of cement plaster.

The other place is of Swiss chalet type and is being erected for Robert Marsh & Co. on Mt. Washington. This house occupies a site 93x160 feet in size, and commands a splendid view of the city and of the mountains. The residence will contain eleven rooms with two large sleeping balconies.

BANKER LIKES SOUTHLAND.

Iowa Capitalist Acquires Two Fine Ranch Properties in San Fernando Valley—Other Sales Reported.

Prominent among the buyers of Van Nuys-Lankershim acreage the past week was J. M. FINE BLOCK PLANNED.

Many Substantial Additions to Business Section of Pomona—Street Improvement Work Extensive.

POMONA, Oct. 14.—Plans are being prepared for a brick business block to be erected on the lot at Second and Gordon streets which A. H. Tufts recently sold for $13,000 to E. E. Gillen as agent acting for local investors. The two-story brick building of the Capitol Grocery on the opposite corner is rapidly nearing completion and work is progressing well upon the two-story concrete building being erected for the Pomona Grocery Company.

The one-story brick building on East Second street, just finished by Dewey & Stokes, has been leased for a general store. Fred R. Lewis, who is building four brick stores on Second street, east of Gibbs street, has decided to add a second story to the structure in which will be six living apartments.

The Consolidated Water Company is proceeding with its plans to erect a brick building 65x120 feet in size on South Garey avenue between Third and Fourth streets and W. M. Avis is getting bids for work on the new Hotel Avis, to be built by a local syndicate at Third street and Garey avenue

The City Council has awarded the contract for the street improvement of North Park avenue from Orange Grove to Garey avenues to the Johnson-Shea Company of Riverside.

G. T. McIntyre of Riverside has been given the contract for grading and macadamizing East Holt avenue from San Antonio to Mills avenues. The contract for paving East Second street with standard pavement will soon be let. Much street improvement work is being done in all parts of the city.

HOMES

Mr. and Mrs. Homemaker

Before buying a home educate yourself in up-to-the-minute bungalow home construction. No better examples of this can be found than in College Tract. Go out today and learn.

College Tract

—College Tract cannot be equalled in beauty and homelike surroundings. The tract was fully improved by the Company before it was opened—good streets, cement walks and curbs, gas, electricity, both telephones, postoffice, churches, assembly hall, model stores and endowed parks are complete. A three-minute car service links the tract to the down-town section.

The homes themselves are as perfect as 46 years of building experience can make them. Lawns, fences, walks, palms and trees are in—even the window shades are in place. Every purchaser is given free a two-year option on and use of the adjoining vacant lot, which is also improved by the Company.

These homes are sold on easy terms. Make a small cash payment and move in. Then pay the balance in small monthly installments like rent. The payments include all taxes, interest and insurance.

Take a Grand Avenue-West Forty-eighth Street car to Gramercy Place, or Denker Avenue, or ask for one of our automobiles.

A small payment makes any of these homes yours.

Van Nuys and Lankershim Lands

N. E. KAY

Nowhere else in the world will you find a large body of magnificent land, immediately adjacent to a city of over 400,000 population, that can be purchased at farming land prices.

Anywhere else than Southern California the Van Nuys and Lankershim lands would be considered suburban home property and subdivided and sold for that purpose at prices ranging from $1000 to $5000 per acre.

The electric road will soon be completed and it will take no longer to reach the center of Los Angeles from Van Nuys and Lankershim lands than it does from any of the new city subdivisions. Yet, in face of all these advantages, an acre of Van Nuys and Lankershim lands can be purchased at half the price you pay for a stuffy city lot.

Sacramento has less than one-eighth the population of Los Angeles, but the El Paso Rancho—located in relation to Sacramento, about as Van Nuys and Lankershim lands are to Los Angeles—has been subdivided and sold in the last year or two at prices ranging from $250 to $1000 per acre.

In Ventura County they get $500 and $600 per acre—for no better land—to raise beans and beets on.

Think of it, the finest land in the world with the best trolley transportation, right at the gates of a city of 400,000 inhabitants—that will soon have a million population—selling at less per acre than comparable land brings in Ventura for farming purposes.

Any man is blind who cannot see the future outcome of this property.

Anyone is foolish who has money to invest and passes up an opportunity of this sort.

I have carefully looked over the unsold lands of the company. As a result of a careful investigation, particularly recommend the following as sure money-makers, and particularly attractive buys.

No. 1.

$1125.

2½ acres located two miles from Lankershim.
Just the place to start that poultry farm.
Can be had on the following terms:
¼ down, balance 1-2-3 years, 6%.

No. 2.

$2250.

5 acres located three miles from town of Van Nuys.
Short walk to boulevard and speedway.
This is an exceptionally good piece of Land and can be had on the following Terms:
¼ down, balance 1-2-3 years at 6%.

No. 3.

$6000.

10 acres almost adjoining the new town of Owens Mouth and located on boulevard and car line.
Considering location, there is an attractive speculative feature. Investigate!
Terms—¼ cash, balance 1-2-3 years at 6%.

No. 4.

$7500.

10 acres near town of Van Nuys.
Improved with modern 5-room bungalow, barn, chicken corrals, pumping plant, 2000-gallon tank, variety of fruit trees. Improvements cost $3500. Land worth $5000. This is worth investigation.
Terms can be arranged.

No. 5.

$7500.

30 acres located one mile North from town of Van Nuys and close to boulevard and speedway.
At price quoted this is a sure money-maker.
Increase in value will pay big interest on the investment.

No. 6.

$12.000.

20 acres.
Location—On new boulevard and car line.
¼ mile east of new town of Owens Mouth.
Owing to location, etc., it will advance rapidly in value,
And is unusually attractive from an investment or speculative standpoint.
Terms—¼ cash, balance 1-2-3 years at 6%.

No. 7.

$10,000.

40 acres adjoining the new town of Marion,
Which is soon to be put on sale.
Take advantage of the low price on this acreage
And have a subdivision of your own later.

Terms ¼ cash, balance 1, 2 and 3 years at 6%.

No. 8.

$32,000.

40 acres located on a main thoroughfare,
¾ mile from town of Lankershim,
¼ mile from car line.
10 acres full bearing walnuts and peaches,
10 acres 3-year-old peach, apricot and plums,
10 acres 5-year-old walnuts,
10 acres vines.
This is a fine piece of land,
And the trees are in good condition.
Adjoining land held at $1000 to $1200 per acre.
Remember, the Van Nuys and Lankershim lands have been, and are, selling fast. In fact, the sales to date total such a large amount as to be considered sensational.
The longer you wait, the more you will pay.

Orange, Lemon and Walnut Groves

W. A. HUDSON

No. 1.

A 20% Investment.

$14,000.

10 acres 15-year-old Washington-Navels, Arlington Heights, Riverside.
Gage canal water.
Terms—One-half cash, balance mortgage at 7%.
This grove is in first-class condition. Very good crop now on trees and will undoubtedly net better than 20% on asking price. The kind you ordinarily pay $1500 to $2000 per acre for.

No. 2.

A 12½% Investment.

$16,000.

10½ acres 8-year-old orange orchard.
½ Washington Navels—½ Valencies.
Gage canal water.
In first-class condition, absolutely frostless; lying high above Victoria Avenue, Riverside.
Terms—One-third cash, balance 1-2-3 years. 7%.
This is a paying grove with good crop now on trees, and will net 12½% on asking price. Trees are young and income will increase each year.

No. 3.

A 12½% Investment.

$18,640.

18.64 acres Santa Barbara soft-shell walnut grove in El Monte district.
6 acres 22 years old—12.64 acres 16 years old.
$2500 crop now on trees, which goes to buyer if bought at once. Grove in first-class condition.
Terms—$10,000 cash, balance mortgage back at 7%.
One-half mile from P.E.R.R.
S.P.R.R. passes on South.
If bought immediately, crop goes with the property, which means that the buyer will be paying less than $875 per acre. Asking price of adjacent groves is $1500 per acre.

No. 4.

A 30% Investment

$22,473.

13.62 acres 14-year old Washington-Navels. Located above Victoria Avenue, Riverside. Gage canal water.
This is the only grove with a Southerly exposure in all the Arlington Heights district, and has been one of the best producers in this famous district for some years. As estimated by conservative men, the present crop will run over 7000 boxes, which would mean a net income of over 30% on asking price.
The grove has just been heavily fertilized and is in first-class condition in every way. According to my judgment, this would be one of the most profitable and substantial investment a man could possibly make.
Terms—One-half cash, balance 1-2-3 years at 7%.

No. 5.

A 23% Investment

$25,720.

12.86 acres full bearing Washington-Navels.
⅓ Valencias—150 Citron and grapefruit trees.
Gage canal water.
Terms—One-half cash, balance 1-2-3 years at 7%.
This grove has produced $30,000 net to owner in the last five years. Is absolutely frostless, lying above Victoria Avenue, Riverside. The 150 citron and grape fruit trees have been bringing in $1000 per year.
Based on actual returns, this is an income property of established earning capacity offered at a price that will net the buyer 28% per acre on his investment.

No. 6.

A 25% Investment.

$40,000.

20 acres full bearing lemon orchard,
Above Victoria Avenue, Riverside.
Gage canal water—one of the best rights in So. Cal.
This grove is absolutely frostless, lying on the foothill slopes. Last year paid 25% on present asking price. Good crop now on trees.
The lemon groves in this district are considered by experts to be the finest in Southern California, and they have certainly proved this by the returns they have been and are paying.

No. 7.

A 29% Investment.

$42,500.

18⅓ acres Washington-Navels in Duarte district.
1478 trees 22 years old—300 trees 8 and 9 years old.
Good house, barn, etc.
20 shares of Duarte water. Cost $120.00 last year.
Terms—$25,000 cash, balance 1-2-3 years at 7%.
This is probably the best and finest grove in the whole foothill district. Paid $12,600 net to owner last year—over 29% on asking price—and has averaged $10,000 net for the past five years. The water right is first-class, and in a few years, when the bonds are taken up, the water will cost virtually nothing. Anyone looking for a beautiful foothill residence, combined with a first-class income property could not do better.

No. 8.

$100,000.

104 acres young navel and Valencia orchard.
54 acres 3 and 4-year old Valencita,
40 acres 4-year old Navels.
10 acres 3-year old lemons.
On high lying foothill slopes.
Southerly exposure—absolutely frostless.
Terms—$20,000 cash, balance terms.
This is the finest young orchard I know of. And will pay handsomely as an investment. In addition, any man with sufficient money looking for the one spot where he could create a home impossible to duplicate anywhere else, would buy on sight.

There are some high hills immediately in the rear of the orchard which could be acquired at a low price, and which would lend themselves readily to scenic landscape gardening effects.

Taking everything—including view and location—into consideration, it is a property of endless possibilities, and should be seen to be appreciated. Once bought by the right man, it will never be resold.

While I would hate to do it, would subdivide and sell in 10 and 20-acre tracts.

Marmon; driver, Dawson, third. Time, 2h. 47m. 54.53s.

Average speed, 74.93 miles per hour, beating world record of Felix Nazzarro in Fiat.

HARVEY HERRICK in the National won the free-for-all at Santa Monica yesterday, lowering the world record of Felix Nazarro. He averaged 74.93 miles for the 200-mile race and made almost 100 miles an hour on the straightaways. Herrick won against the greatest drivers of the East. It was a battle of a Los Angeles boy against the stars of the automobile racing game and the local lad won.

For 100 miles the two Marmons and two Nationals were less than thirty seconds apart with Cyrus Patschke on the Marmon leading the field. The National was fourth until the big race was almost over and Herrick then jumped into the lead with only twenty more miles to go and won with Patschke a close second and Dawson racing into third. It was the greatest speed duel ever witnessed on the fastest road race course in the world.

Establishing a new world mark for a road race Herrick lowered the former mark of Nazarro, which was 74.3 miles made on the Targo Florio course in Italy. The Pope-Hartford led the field during the early part of the race and Dingley looked like a winner for many laps. The pace was terrific.

Giant cars crowded to the line for the start of the big race, and the immense crowd almost went wild as the National, with Howard Wilcox, first wit the Pope-Hartford, just behind.

Joe Dawson, who won third place in the Marmon, was the fourth to leave, and the crowd waited for Teddy Tetzlaff in the Fiat.

With a cheer from 200,000 throats Tetzlaff and the fiery red Fiat left the line. It was the most sensational start ever witnessed in a big road race.

Wilcox turned the first lap far in the lead of all other cars, hitting a world record breaking clip.

FIERCE CLIP.

The blue devil made ninety-five miles an hour in front of the grand stand.

Tetzlaff passed the Mercer, Midland and the Stutz on the first lap and came into the "S" turn at 100 miles an hour. Teddy almost ended his race here. The Fiat bounced into the turn and skidded to the railroad tracks almost into the crowd.

Only the cool head of the Fiat driver prevented a terrible accident. Tetzlaff straightened the car out just in time to avoid a crash and came into the stretch like a thunderbolt.

Twenty thousand spectators in the grandstand, who had expected the first terrible accident at Santa Monica, yelled their praise for the plucky pilot who had fought his way from

OXY'S VARSITY AND LONG BEACH.

SEVERAL HUNDRED ROOTERS AT BAER FIELD.

Occidental Second Team Hooked Up With Ontario High School and Were Beaten—Beach Boys Gave Collegians a Surprise Early in the Game.

Occidental Scrubs, 3; Ontario High, 5.

Occidental 'Varsity, 11; Long Beach High, 0.

The several hundred rooters who journeyed out to Baer Field yesterday afternoon were amply repaid by seeing the two best contested games of the season.

In the 'varsity contest the Tigers were surprised by the beach boys, who started off with a rush, taking the ball fifty yards in two downs on fast accurate forward passes.

McNary kicked off for Occidental and Lenz was downed by Dill. On the first down the Beach lads pulled off the time-honored shoestring play by which Marshall made about twenty yards. On the next down a forward pass to Holloway netted thirty more. Several more fast plays put the ball on Occidental's twenty-five, where the Tigers held for downs.

From this time the collegians woke up and had it not been for several costly fumbles a score would have resulted during the first half. As it was the game was very even during the first two quarters.

With the beginning of the second half the Tigers woke up and after a couple of forward passes had failed to connect they resorted to straight line-bucking tactics with the result that they promenaded the entire length of the field without once being held for downs, Drury Wieman plunging over for the touchdown. Bradbeer kicked an easy goal.

The last quarter the Long Beach lads held better and the Tigers' second score was the result of a pretty dodging run by Duffy Seay, who got away for a gain of thirty yards. Wieman missed an easy goal.

As a preliminary to the big game the Tiger second team hooked up with Ontario High, the late conquerors of Redlands University, and went down to a game defeat by the close score of 5 to 3.

The Tiger Scrubs were handicapped by the absence of Foster and Clapp, their regular halves and their attack was much weakened. Their only score came at the end of the second quarter when Tubby Wieman kicked a beautiful goal from the forty-five yard line.

In the beginning of the last quarter Vance, right end of the High School team, got away with a forward pass and scored. The goal was not kicked. The line-up was:

HOW GREAT RACE LOOKED AS SPEED MONSTERS ROARED

How the National Speed Captain Craftily Set Aside One Car to Go After and Tire Out the Fiat—Then Won the Race With Herrick—Race Conditions Were Ideal—A Vivid Description.

BY R. A. WYNNE.

JUST as the sun was sinking into the arms of Old Mother Ocean off Santa Monica and the land mists were slowly rising, a great blue monster burst roaring through the evening mists and with a blast of defiance to the hundred thousand spectators hurled itself blindly across the tape, winning first place in the classic free-for-all of the third Santa Monica road race.

The hundred thousand spectators knew by a perfect system of information what was going on at all parts of the great course and as the National, driven by Herrick, hurled itself screaming around Dead Man's Curve and fled at full speed into the dangerous "S" curve at the Soldiers' Home, the great throng knew instinctively that one of the greatest automobile races in American racing history was being won by one of the most terrific and relentless drives ever made by man.

They were all standing when the end came. The great grand stand fronting the placid Pacific was a seething mob of frantic men and women. The National had crept up from eleventh place to third place, and then relentlessly moved up and took second place. It was running as sweet as a family car on a boulevard and its dark blue sides seemed to slither through the mists like an arrow.

As the flag dropped, announcing the last lap, with the National just a trifle in the lead of the roaring Marmon, driven by Patschke, the great throng went mad. One great cheer arose when the flag dropped and it seemed to follow the fleeting car around the eight-mile course. The sides were packed with humanity and the great chorus of approval at the wonderful drive came faintly into the ears of the watchers at the head of the home stretch, and then was given a tremendous new lease of life when the great machine burst into the home stretch and squared away for a meteorlike flash down the stretch and by the judges' stand.

It was a fitting ending to one of the greatest road races ever held in America, or anywhere else.

IDEAL CONDITIONS.

Conditions were ideal for the race. The sky was flawless and the sun shone brilliantly, but not too ardently. The great grand stand faced the blue Pacific and the coast steamers could be seen passing at a distance.

The crowd began to come early, and in fact, probably ten thousand people went down to the beach Friday night and remained over night to secure points of vantage. Early yesterday morning a trip down Nevada avenue displayed numerous little bonfires where coffee was being heated, and bacon and eggs fried, and by the side of the lowly camp fire generally stood a magnificent $5000 automobile which had been the sleeping place for the owners and their friends.

The course was patrolled early and at 7:30 o'clock all vehicles were put off.

The grand stand had practically filled up at 9 o'clock, when the medium and heavy car races were on, and by 11 o'clock there was not a vacant seat to be found anywhere. The crowds stretched around the entire eight-mile course and down the sides of Ocean Front boulevard as far as the eye could see.

The morning races were excellent and brought out some superb driving and racing, but the heart of the people was not in these races. They liked them very well, and applauded them heartily, but where the interest of the crowd centered was shown when, about 12 o'clock, Teddy Tetzlaff drove his big Fiat out onto the course and was followed shortly by Wilcox in the giant National.

The crowd simply went mad. They yelled themselves hoarse every time the big machines turned over their motors. As the other monsters of speed and endurance rolled out onto the course they were welcomed with that wild enthusiasm that a great holiday crowd reserves for something which it specially admires.

The wonderful speed of the Fiat made it a favorite and the popularity of Tetzlaff personally added to the appreciation with which the crowd looked upon this entry.

There was a peculiar appearance about the three powerful Nationals that were entered in the race. One of the automobiles was a giant ninety horse-power affair and a fair match for the Fiat in power and speed.

It was expected that there would be a duel to the death between these two great machines and in this the crowd was not disappointed.

THEY'RE OFF.

At the word to go, the two big machines seemed to single out each other and leap away with an angry roar in the long race. The speed was simply terrific. The other machines were not contenders in this spectacular speed contest and there were wise ones who shook their heads at the phenomenal sped shown by both the Fiat and the National. It was feared that the Fiat would run itself off its wheels and that the National would do likewise.

Ater several terrific laps had been turned and the Fiat was in the lead, out of the melee of flying monsters came the first glimmer of a wonderfully deep laid scheme whereby the National camp had deliberately taken the pride of their great racing motors and had sent it out to do nothing but "tear the heart" out of the Fiat.

It became evident that the great National cared little for any other car in the race. It singled out the Fiat and was continually teasing Tetzlaff into sensational drives which are so racking on a machine.

Time and time again it would clear itself from the flock of motors and rush roaring up to the side of the Fiat and dare it to try conclusions once again.

Tetzlaff and his Fiat were like a thoroughbred racing horse. They would not be passed, and the big National settled itself down to keeping Tetzlaff and the Fiat smashing out laps that were establishing world's records.

DUEL OF GIANTS.

The other two Nationals were slipping quietly around the course at terrific speed, but not caring whether they entered into sensational brushes with other cars or not. They were satisfied to be passed now and then and afterwards return the favor. But the one National "ninety" kept after the Fiat and would not let go.

The pace began to tell. Tires were ripped into ribbons and many stops were necessary. Both the Fiat and

RICH PRIZE IN SAVANNAH RACE

Moskovics Tells of the Purse Offered Racers.

Remy Man Is in the Racing Game to Stay.

Fast Average Made by Brown May Be Beaten.

Twenty-five hundred dollars in gold is the rich prize that will be awarded the winner of the international grand prize race at Savannah, November 30, by the Remy Electric Company, makers of Remy magnetos, according to the announcement made today by F. E. Moskovics, sales manager of the Remy company.

Aside from the small fortune to go to the grand prize victor, the Remy company will offer cash prizes to the winners of the other events in the fall speed carnival on the Savannah course, according to Moskovics. Remy prizes aggregating $1200 will go to the winners of the Vanderbilt cup, Savannah challenge trophy and Tiedemann trophy races, November 27. In each of these events, the Remy prize to the winner will be $250; for second place, $100; and for third place, $50. The only condition governing these prizes is that the successful drivers must pilot cars equipped with Remy magneto ignition.

"We offer the $2500 in gold to the winner of the grand prize to do our part in making it the greatest event in the history of automobile racing," said Moskovics, yesterday. "We believe the best way to encourage good clean racing is to offer cash prizes to the winning drivers. The Remy grand prize award is the largest cash prize ever offered by an accessory manufacturer to the winner of any race event.

"We believe that a big list will bring in the greatest pilots in the world to compete for the international honors. The driver is the one who should receive the prizes, we believe, for it is the 'human equation' that is two-thirds of the task of winning an automobile race.

"The Vanderbilt cup race and other events that will mark the opening of the great speed meeting, will, no doubt, outstrip the performances of former years and we desire to see the victors well rewarded.

HARD TASK.

"It will be mighty hard to pick the winner of the 1911 grand prize. Bruce Brown, who took the first place in the great international classic in 1910, set a high mark when he covered the 415.2 miles in 5h., 53m., 5.35s.—an average of seventy and fifty-five hundredths miles an hour. It is very likely that this mark will be bettered slightly, although I doubt if many minutes are cut from Bruce Brown's time. The course has been banked and improved, and should be better and faster. A great list of entries is expected, and there should be a repetition of the thrills of last year, when Hemery finished second, in the dust of the winner, with Bob Murman a heroic third."

Moskovics is one of the pioneers of the automobile business and has been closely allied with racing from its inception. He is vice-president of the Los Angeles Motordrome Company, was affiliated with the New York Motor Racing Association for years, and in the early days of racing participated in a number of contests.

OLDSMOBILE AUTOCRAT.

Handsome Car on Long Tour Makes Remarkable Demonstration Over Fierce Roads.

Among the better-known makes of cars which will compete in the Glidden tour this fall, are two Oldsmobiles, which have been entered by L. M. Powell of Cordele, Ga. Mr. Powell is proprietor of one of Georgia's best-equipped garages and is thoroughly conversant with affairs pertaining to the motor car in the South.

The citizens of Cordele are much interested in this tour and no doubt will keep very close watch of the performance of the two Oldsmobile autocrats which Powell has selected to make the run.

Incidentally, Powell expects a royal reception when the tourists reach Cordele, and this is assured because of the fact that the more prominent citizens in that section of the country have urged him to make the entries and are doing everything in their power to further the interests of motorists in Cordele and surrounding territory.

FARMERS HELP AUTOISTS.

Enthusiasm is making the building of roads in the West an easy matter. Once the farmers along a projected road get started, they turn out by the hundreds, work the road, keep it properly dragged and, in fact, construct it without cost to any one else. In certain instances, however, the farmers have voted a heavy road tax upon themselves, and have then gotten out and built a new road with the funds so raised. Sapulpa county, Okla., recently voted a tax of $1,000,000 for the construction, within the county, of a link of the "Meridian Road."

Leaves Again.

KNIGHT PAYS SHORT VISIT.

SAILS FOR EUROPE AFTER LOOKING US OVER.

Inventor of Sleeve Valve Motor Has Something to Say About His Great Engine Which Has Made the Motor World Listen to Its Almost Noiseless Revolutions.

After a ten days' visit to this country, Charles Y. Knight, inventor of the sleeve-valve type of motor, sailed recently for his home in Coventry, England. During his short stay here he addressed a number of gatherings of the well-known automobile engineers and was royally received at the great automobile centers of the United States.

While visiting in Indianapolis, which is his native city, Knight closed a deal with the Atlas Engine Works of that city making it possible that all Knight engine users in this country, except the complete motor car builders of the Stearns, the Columbia and the Stoddard-Dayton automobiles may obtain these types of engines from the Atlas concern.

Knight's development of the sleeve-valve type of engine, his exploitation of the mechanical marvel in one of the early national shows at the First Regiment Armory in Chicago and his subsequent experiences in equipping the Silent-Knight car with his invention, and his failure to obtain the recognition due the wonderful engine in his own country, his journey to the Daimler works, in Coventry, England, where the greatest engineers of Great Britain for more than a year subjected the Knight sleeve-valve motors to unparalleled tests in an effort to demonstrate that the inventor's ideas were unsound and his final triumph by the adoption of the Knight engine for the regular equipment of some of the greatest automobile companies of the old world, is considered remarkable.

Immediately after the Daimler's adoption of the engine came the same strenous tests at the Mercedes factory in Germany. The Panhard-Levasser works in France, the Minerva plant in Belgium, the Italian Daimler works, the English Rover factory and the Sigma of Switzerland, and the signing of contracts as licenses for the American's revolutionary type of engine in their respective countries.

The Knight type of engine, which had been so ignored by the American makers, because of the immense amount of business being transacted and under the existing circumstances and the apparant ascendency of the poppet valve motor, suddenly became quite popular and Inventor Knight was surrounded by pleas from our American manufacturers for licenses. A contract had been entered into by Knight with the European builders to confine his licenses to one for each country and had also accepted a policy of the sparing issuance of licenses to makers in the United States.

As the demand for licenses still continued Knight decided to make a quick trip over to this country to make plans whereby some company might be given the right to build the Knight engines and the Atlas Engine Works was designated. During his short stay in the United States Knight was the guest of honor at several banquets in New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Indianapolis and other cities and received the congratulations of the greatest engineering factors in the industry. He accepted the assurance of the automobile fraternity that his invention has made the biggest impression upon the industry of making automobiles, more than anything that has marked the progress of the internal combustion engine from its inception to the present day.

RECIPROCITY MAY HELP.

Prophet Says It Will Have Much to Do With Motor Industry This Year.

The recent defeat of reciprocity in the Canadian general election will have considerable effect on the American automobile industry, according to Sales Manager W. D. Myers of the Ideal Motor Car Company of Indianapolis.

The present duty on Canadian-made cars is 35 per cent. of the selling price, and on parts 25 per cent. to 30 per cent. If the reciprocity treaty had been adopted, the duty on autos and parts would have been reduced considerably, and many manufacturers would have established Canadian factories. It would also have stimulated many Canadian agents to handle American-made cars.

According to Myers, Canadian capitalists were considering the establishment of a factory where the Stutz car would be duplicated from the drawings and blue prints designed by the designer, Harry C. Stutz; but owing to the defeat of the reciprocity treaty, the deal has fallen through.

Good Sense.

HAWKINS HAS EYE OF EAGLE.

Ford Chief Tells of the One-Man Factory.

Motor Industry One of Greatest in Country.

Survival of Fittest to Mark the New Year.

Norman Hawkins of the Ford factory is here. He has chosen the branch manager for the local Ford agency. B. L. Graves is the man who will take charge at once. Ford cars are to be shipped here in numbers and this city is to be made a great distributing point for Southern California. Hawkins is a keen-eyed motor diplomat who nows the game from start to finish.

With his steel gray eye looking almost into the center of your mind, Hawkins sums up the motor situation and seems to have the case thoroughly studied out. He believes in a one-man factory and is satisfied with the plans of Henry Ford for the coming season.

The Ford price is to be lowered. The roadster is to be dropped many notches and the touring car is to be lower priced. Hawkins is satisfied. He says Ford could sell 100,000 as easily as he will dispose of the 75,000 he expects to build. The capacity of the Ford plant is being enlarged but there is a limit even to the number of cars the Ford people can turn out.

"This motor trade is a real industry," said Hawkins last night. "The man who only expects to stay in for a week or two will lose this year. The selling of automobiles is a business and the sooner we learn that fact the better it will be for the trade and the more substantial business will become.

BE A SPORT.

"When I hear some of the dealers talk of their plans for the future I smile. It is so foolish for a man to be continually planning to enter some other line when he has motor cars to sell. The man who makes such plans will fail. What I believe is that the business of handling machines is one of the top-notch industries of this country and we are beginning to learn that it takes a man of keen business sense to be a motor dealer.

"We want live men. The public wants the right kind of a car. The man who is ready to hustle every minute is the man who will sell cars every day. There is enough for all of us to do, but we must be ready to do it the minute the opportunity is offered.

BIG MARKET.

"We could sell all of our cars in the East. I don't say this in a boasting way, but this is a fact. We would not need to come beyond the Mississippi to dispose of this year's output. We find there is a market in the West, however, and we expect to develop the trade here.

"Remarkably well is no word for what we have done in California. We expect to do still better. Cars are to be shipped here right away. Of course, as far as Ford's policy is concerned, I cannot say much. He directs the factory.

"The success of the Ford plan lies in the one-man idea. We can build cars and we can buy material, but we cannot buy brains. Ford has held to the one model. He has refused to change, and as a result of this refusal, the Ford is the most popular car in its class.

"Of course, Henry Ford could change his models if he wished, but he has no desire to change. He has made a success of the car and the public likes the Ford. It will be built in the same models again this year and we will sell many more of them.

"This is to be a great year, but it will see the survival of the fittest. The men who stay in the trade are the live men and I know of many who will fail. They will fail because they have refsued to measure up to the standard of perfection. The Ford cars will be with you in ever increasing numbers and we will begin shipping them to Los Angeles in carload lots within a few days."

Through the activity of the newly-elected officers of the Toledo Automobile Dealers' Association, it is expected that in the near future Toledo, O., will be the home of an automobile club. The dealers are to have no connection with the club when its organization is completed, but until that time they will work in its interest.

Boss of the Road

THE PACKARD "SIX" has set a new mark for the Forbes road, 303 miles from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh. Driven by J. M. Murdock, treasurer of the Standard Auto Company of Pittsburgh, the new car on August 1, 1911, clipped an hour and ten minutes off the best previous record of twelve hours and fifty-one minutes.

For 160 miles the Forbes road is a succession of steep and rocky grades in the Allegheny mountains. Obstructing the entire route, are thousands of water breakers which retard the speed of a car and subject it to almost constant strain. This run is considered the supreme test for automobiles when traveling at sustained speed.

The feat of the Packard "Six" so far surpasses the former records as to mark a new epoch in mountain motoring.

Giants' Hopes.

THREE M'S BIG FACTOR IN WORLD SERIES.

THREE M's of "Muggsy" McGraw's squad will be the big figures in the world series of 1912. combination is winning the National League flag for New York. It like this:

Mathewson.
Marquard.
Meyers.

Mathewson, Marquard and Meyers. months ago they were calling "an $11,000 lemon;" Ma- "a grand old veteran who is his last year in major league and who has lost all his former" and Meyers was not called of anything outside of "Chief" "The Indian."

today you hear and read: the greatest of them all." Marquard, the sensation of base- the leading pitcher of either in 1912." the big 'chief' to whom of the credit is due."

M's are all in big type. And on three M's is McGraw depending pennant and world champion-

Mathewson and Marquard will be handled from now on. Marquard and Mathewson will be to the this year what Coombs and were to the Athletics last fall. the Giants and Athletics met other world series, the White were badly smothered by Yorkers, it was the peerless who sent Mack's men luck against the National leaguers and McGraw figures that his luck may change in the bout for the world's title.

MEYERS TO DO ALL CATCHING.

Meyers is slated to do all the catching. The Indian backstop was picked as a star last season. As soon as the Giants began to rise and their chances looked good this year, Meyers was again frequently referred to.

This red man made New Yorkers forget Roger Bresnahan. After Roger left a wail arose from Coogan's Bluff that promised to echo and re-echo for years to come. Meyers drowned it.

The Giants give Meyers much credit for the showing of Marquard. McGraw was patient with the big southpaw, but Meyers took time to work Marquard the way he should have been worked when he first got into fast society.

Ever since Marquard got into the big leagues, baseball's real wise men who saw him work in the minors, and knew his ability, contended that it was not Marquard but the Giants' lack of catching material that held the "Rube" back. The catchers who were working Marquard were curving him constantly. They were "curving him out of the league," as one member of the New York team expressed it today. His fast ball was so fast and carried such a jump that they did not care to handle it, and four times out of five they would signal "Rube" for a curve. They were "killing" his pitching arm for the services of which New York paid Indianapolis $11,000.

Meyers took Marquard's fast balls and also developed other deliveries in the pitcher, and Mathewson contributed some aid. It was Matty who taught Marquard the art of throwing the fade-away. Meyers encouraged Marquard, got him over his wildness and brought him to the front.

MEYERS ALSO GOOD HITTER.

Not alone is Meyers a good catcher, but also one of the best hitters in the National League. He has averaged one hit a game this season and has the ability of banging the ball in pinches. Meyers is the slowest man on the Giant team and when he hits them "he's got to hit 'em where they ain't."

LARGEST CARBURETOR.

Big Gas Mixer Now On Exhibition at Local Auto Supply House In This City—Many Orders.

The largest carburetor ever seen in California is now on exhibition at Chanslor and Lyons. This is a monster Stromberg which weighs 157 pounds. It is not only a display piece but is a perfect working model and could be used on a monster engine.

In connection with the exhibition of this big carburetor the Chanslor and Lyon Company is also showing Strombergs of all sizes. This display is very interesting and has attracted considerable attention.

Lee Gherick has had charge of the exhibit and has explained the workings of this well-known make and as a result of the campaign many orders have been booked. There is a great demand among motorists for the carburetor which will give the most power and speed to a car and the Stromberg claims all of these qualities.

PIERCE-ARROWS MOVING.

Cars Built Four Years Ago Are Still Chugging Merrily Along Doing Daily Service.

Three hundred and seventy-three Pierce-Arrow cars that were manufactured more than four years ago are in active sevice in the State of New York at this time. The books of the Secretary of State show that that many Pierce-Arrows made prior to the fall of 1907 have been licensed since registrations were begun in February of this year.

It is probable that there are a number of cars of this make five and more years old in the State that do not appear on the registration books. Some are in the hands of dealers and are operated under the dealer's general number, while others are in use as delivery wagons and utility cars and, as such, may be listed as commercial cars.

The number of cars of each year is as follows: 1902, nine; 1903, thirty; 1904, forty-two; 1905, fifty-six; 1906, eighty-eight; 1907, 148. The fact that these cars appear on the books of the Secretary of State may be taken as presumptive evidence that they are in active service, since it is not probable that an owner would care to go to the expense of paying for a license unless the cars were of some use to him.

But even these figures do not settle the much-discussed question of the life of the motor car. From the building of the first Pierce-Arrow car only the best grades of steel obtainable have been used and it is a fact that the second gasoline car built by the company is still in running order. Several 1902 models are in use in Buffalo, the home of the Pierce-Arrow, and, being there, their condition may be noted from time to time. These cars are in daily service and chug along as cheerfully, apparently, as when they were first turned out.

MANY MOTOR CARS.

A fleet of forty-two automobiles has been shipped to India to take part in the festivities in connection with the Delhi Durbar. All of them are handsomely fitted and of British make, four of the number being intended for the King's personal use. Valued at $125,000, with luxurious landaulette bodies and capable of seating six persons each, his majesty's special cars, all of twenty horse power, are painted royal blue, with red lines, and upholstered in gray and blue. The other automobiles will be used by the Viceroy and his suite, the government officials of India, and the Governor of Bombay and his suite, and will be of different colors.

MOTOR CHIEFS TALK OF RACE.

Young Says Santa Monica Will Hold Another.

Wagner Ready to Come Again and Start Cars.

Interest Shown by Thousands Makes Good Impression.

BY A. M. YOUNG,
Manager Santa Monica Road Race.

This was the greatest automobile road race we have ever held. The cars in the Santa Monica motor classic were all top-notchers. When we first planned this race I had no idea it would be such a large affair. It has been hard work but I am perfectly satisfied with the showing and I know that when we hold the Santa Monica road race again this coming year we will have an even bigger crowd.

There is no reason why we should not have a Vanderbilt Cup race out here. We have the cars and the Eastern factories have recognized the worth of the Santa Monica road race. Unless I am mistaken this coming year the entry list will be even larger than it was for the race yesterday.

One of the things which surrised me was the interest taken by the factories in the East. The men in charge there wanted the race to be held later. It was feared the Fairmount Park event would conflict with the Santa Monica race. Well, it did to a certain extent, but the Easterners were ready to send the cars out here the second the race was over.

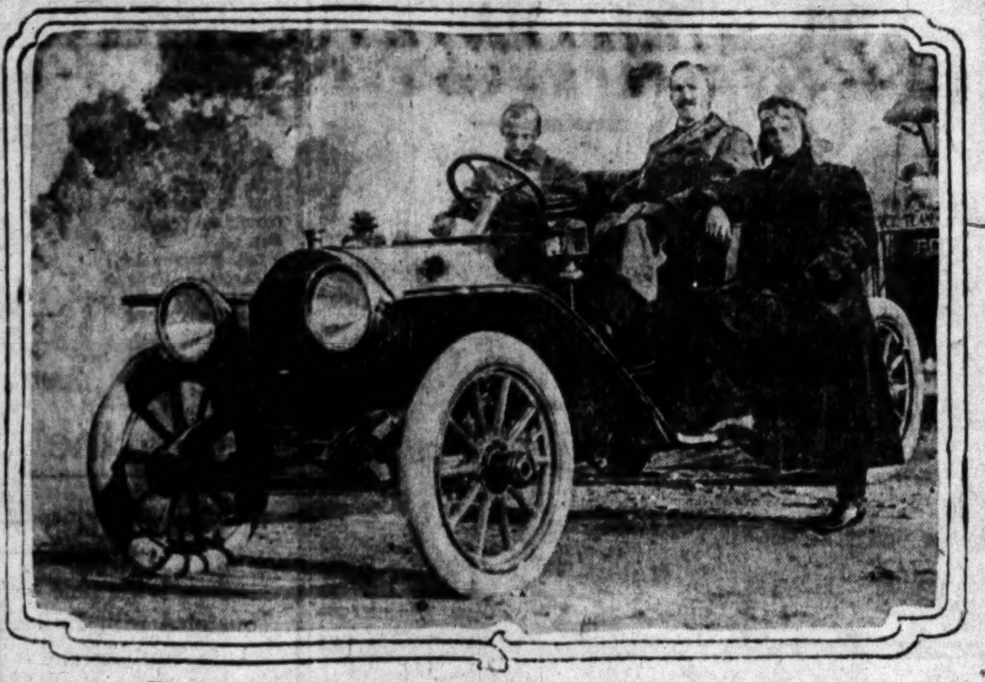
Three cars failed to arrive. They were all giant ninety-horsepower racers. They have figured in the big events in the East and are tuned for a winning. That we did not have them did not in any way lessen the interest in the big road race at Santa Monica yesterday. We had the crowd.

The entry list showed what the local men think of this great race. It meant that thousands of dollars were spent on the cars that were sent into the fight for the gold purse well equipped for a race in which the honors of the course were upheld.

I am satisfied with the race but I want to say that the automobile men of this city certainly swung into line and helped us in the plans for the contest. It is too early in the game to say just how the finances will figure, but I believe we have paid all expenses.

One of the best things about this race is the fact that next year the contest will be greater than ever. We have made a great road race necessary in California. When the Shriners come to this city we will have a chance to entertain with a motor contest that will overshadow the greatest Savannah ever witnessed.

Now that we can have the big cars here the planning of a great race is not difficult. We have the men and we have the cars, all that remains is to bring the people out. Guess we did that yesterday and our contest was in reality a hum-dinger from start to finish. There are many things which we always regret but the Santa Monica road race is one I will always remember.



Ray Harroun Directing the Race in Which tthe Marmons Were first and second. With him is Clark Gilhousen, and standing beside the Marmon is Bert Gilhousen.

BY FRED WAGNER,
Official Starter A.A.A.

The Santa Monica road race has passed into history. It was the greatest contest ever held in the West. We in the East were obliged to sit up and take notice. The vim and energy of the men of Los Angeles has been marked for many years. This season you have jumped into your own.

The Santa Monica road race course is the finest on earth. It is ideal for a great motor battle. The turns are not bad and with the exception of the Nevada avenue and Ocean boulevard curve, the course is ideal. It was wise not to bank this turn. The cars could swing around there without the drivers trying to make 100 miles an hour on the turn.

Some day I expect to live in Los Angeles. This climate is just to my liking. Of course, I must remain in the East where business holds me, but there is nothing I like better than to attend a race meet in this city. Whenever I can find the time I am only too glad to make the trip.

The men in the big factories are satisfied that the Santa Monica road race is to be a permanent affair. I like that expression, the Vanderbilt of the West, and I am satisfied to make this race the biggest in motordom. There is no jealousy on the part of the easterners, who are always boosting for Los Angeles.

There is a different spirit toward the A.A.A. than I have ever seen before. I am glad to note that the men who were outlawed are back again in the ranks. Your local representative, Attorney Edward G. Kuster, is a live autoist, who is always ready to do what he can to help matters.

One after another the men have been taken back. Now we have the old guard in place again, and I think the understanding between the men of the West and the Automobile Association of America is better than it ever was before. You are far from the seat of power out here, but you get the benefits of the strongest organization on earth.

As for the racing game the interest is stronger than it ever was before. The public likes a big road race and the public always gets what it demands. The Santa Monica road race will be held again next year, and I expect to be out here to start the cars again.

STOCK MOTOR CAR RACING.

NATIONAL CHIEF TELLS HIS STORY OF BIG EVENT.

Races in Which Stock Chassis Are Started Declared to Be Best for General Interests of Automobile Business—Dickson Speaks Freely Concerning Elgin Race.

"No motor-car manufacturer that enters the racing game to any extent whatsoever can afford to neglect stock-car contests," said George M. Dickson, secretary and treasurer of the National Motor Vehicle Company. "Not only his own best interests, but those of his prospective purchasers demand more than an assertion of the car's capability. If financial reasons resulting in an attempt at economy demand a retirement from the limelight, and any contests must be passed by without entries, then it is the non-stock affairs that should be neglected, and not the stock events which are the very reason for automobile racing in any form.

"Recently there has been a slump in strictly stock-car competition. At Santa Monica and Savannah there were stock events listed on the original entry blank; these later were changed to non-stock, solely for the reason that a sufficient number of entries could not be secured. Special car races are supposed to have a spectacular sport side. Some makers offer this as an excuse for not participating in stock competition.

"Non-stock affairs do not have any lesson of value to the car buyer. It is only in strictly stock-chassis competition that he gets the correct idea of any car's capability. For this reason the victories of the National Forty in the Illinois trophy and Elgin trophy in the Elgin national road races are especially significant.

"Many an owner has learned to his sorrow that the weak sister of some victorious special car does not have the same winning ways in every-day service. On the other hand, the car that wins in stock competition may be relied upon to give satisfaction in the owner's hands. This latter means that the maker is building all of his cars so well that any one at random is good enough to race. There can be no better recommendation than this.

"As I see it, the question of stock and non-stock racing resolves itself as follows: Makers refuse to enter stock contests for one of three reasons; first, because they fear the showing their actual stock product will make; second, they fear the stock cars now being entered by the present supporters of stock-chassis racing, and, third, they object to the present rigid examination of the Technical Committee. If for the latter reason it can only be taken as an admission that in the past, when the technical examination was not so rigid, these makers were not entering bona-fide stock cars.

"The makers who entered cars in the recent Elgin national stock-chassis road races were not afraid to show the public their actual stock product under the severe test of automobile racing. For their confidence in their bona-fide stock cars, the makers of the following automobiles—National, Alco, Simplex, Pope-Hartford, Lozier, Mercer, Cole, Colby, Corbin, Cino, Staver-Chicago, Velie, Abbott-Detroit and Ford—deserve a place on the motor-car builders' roll of honor."

Many taxicab drivers appear to have little concern whether or not they make trouble or collide with other cars. In New York they are even said to have succeeded in discouraging any general increase in the number of women drivers.

why the game is so strongly enthroned in the hearts of the amateur sportsmen of this country and I see nothing in the game but what the spirit of the old Rugby game clearly would approve of. There are quite a few differences, but it appears to me the differences are all on the side of the improvement of the game as a spectacle. How much it is an improvement on the game to players I have not yet seen enough to form any opinion, although on one point I am sure, it is certainly more dangerous than Rugby.

I think the forward pass that I admire so much adds to that. It gives rise to sharp, quick falls when running at the fastest pace, but then what matter, every fine sport has its dangers; has not polo, fox hunting, steeplechasing, and those who are timid will keep out.

MAIS TRUCK WINS.

Sixty Miles a Day Record for This Classy Commercial Car Which Makes Good.

During the recent Chicago Motor Club's three-day commercial car contest the Mais truck was one of the trucks to finish with a perfect score. The business men of Chicago were given a chance by this contest, to see the service of a truck as compared to the horse. The route of about sixty miles a day was over the same roads that the business men now use in hauling their goods.

A team was in competition and required two days to make the route the Mais made in one day. This is the same Mais that in the Chicago-Detroit contest recently made the lowest cost per ten-mile record of the twenty-six competitors.

An announcement which was made by Will H. Brown, president of the Mais Motor Truck company, and which broke all motor truck records, has caused no small amount of surprise in the trade. All motor truck records were broken by the announcement of the Mais company, that it guarantees its internal gears for one million miles.

"This sounds big and it is big," said Brown, "but we would not make a guarantee that we could not back up. We mean every word of it. In fact, we have gone to such pains and expense in designing and building this truck, that we know our method of drive will give this service. We have had our designers in Europe and have profited by the best of international experience."

BIG ALCO TRUCKS.

High Powered Commercial Wagons Prove Their Worth in a Severe Test—Large Order Closed.

Morris & Company, the packers, are now operating in their service eight Alco trucks. Three months ago the company purchased two of the motor trucks. The order was placed with the American Locomotive Company for Alcos of three and one-half ton capacity, which were put into the service of Joseph Stern & Sons, in New York City.

After three months of careful experimenting, an order was again placed with the American Locomotive Company for three more Alco trucks. These cars proved so successful that a third order was placed for three trucks of the same make just four days after the second order.

STANFORD TEAM COMING ALONG WITH A RUSH.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 13.—The Rugby practice this week has been the most encouraging so far this season and the students assert that if the team continues to forge ahead at the rate it has been traveling within the last few days, a victory over California is nothing short of a certainty. The first marked improvement was noted in the game with the Olympics last Saturday and the improvement has been continued this week.

Yesterday, the first team walloped the second fifteen, 35 to 3. The first-team backs showed plenty of team work, which Presley has been trying to develop ever since the season opened, and several passing rallies involving every man in the backfield were pulled off. Brown converted twice from the sidelines, one of the goals being the most difficult ever executed on Stanford Field. With the injured list practically abolished the students are confident that the team will continue to develop. Individually, the players are stars, but team work has been lacking. In four weeks that remain before the big game it is believed that the men will learn to play together.

CAMERON VERSUS RANGERS.

Clan Cameron and Rangers will clash at Fiesta Park in the second league game this season.

The Rangers defeated the Hiberneans last Sunday by a large score. The Clans expect to give them a good hot time.

As more interest is taken in soccer this season, a large crowd is looked for. The game will commence at 2:45 o'clock and the admission will be 25 cents, ladies free.

BOXING CIRCUIT LIKE A BASEBALL LEAGUE.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Sept. 23—The effort to arrange a boxing circuit, including Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Kansas City and New Orleans by the clubs in these cities, is progressing favorably. The idea is to form a circuit something on the order of a baseball league for the purpose of uplifting the sport and obtaining better and cleaner boxing.

The clubs in the cities named above have been endeavoring to come to an agreement for some time and now there seems to be nothing in the way to stop the fulfillment of their plans. With clubs in each of the cities named, it would be easier for them to arrange for a better class of boxers to appear all through the circuit, the same as is done in vaudeville, as there would be a saving in railroad fares in bringing to the circuit better men from the east and paying their expenses, whereas, single-handed, they could not stand the expense.

GREAT PITCHING RECORDS.

Rube Vickers, of the Orioles, broke all pitching records for the season last week. He pitched six games in as many days, and emerged victorious in five of them. The sixth was lost when he relieved Jimmy Dygert in the last game in Newark Sunday, and Ruby is not charged with the defeat. He pitched two games against Providence last Tuesday, one against Detroit Thursday, one against Newark Saturday and finished up both contests in Newark Sunday.

BY GREY OLIVER.

Portland, 3; Los Angeles, 2.

Of course there was only one ball game in the world yesterday, and it was played at New York, but the one that was played at Washington Park yesterday kept several thousand fans busy all afternoon after they had head what happened in New York.

Koestner and Halla were the heavers and both pitched good ball and while Koestner was hit harder than Halla in the way of long swats, he seemed to keep his hits from counting very much. All of the three runs made off Halla were helped along by two doubles and a triple, while the Angels could get nothing but singles to bat in their runs with. Strange to state, there were no spectacular plays during the game and the only big feature about it was that it was played in record time, which was 1hr. 18 min.

In the first inning after Chadbourne had fouled to the catcher, Rodgers singled to left center and scored a moment later when Rapps doubled to right. Krueger opened the second inning with a double to left and scored when La Longe hit to left.

Nothing more happened until the sixth inning, when with two out, La Longe tripled to right and scored when Dulin made a bad relay throw of the ball that came in from right field toward third base. This was the final run for the Beavers.

The locals could not do anything with Koestner until the fourth, which Daley started with a hit to right. Dillon's out put him on second, Heitmuller's out got him to third and he reached the plate on Howard's infield single. In the sixth Metzger singled to center, got to second on Daley's sacrifice, and scored on Heitmuller's slam to center. Nothing else transpired during the game in the run line.

While the game was a sort of a formal one and devoid of particular interest, there were some pretty stunts shown and the crowd was always interested on account of the closeness of the score. Howard and Peckinpaugh were the leaders in the fielding line and nothing escaped them. Koestner fanned six men and seemed to have the goods in every way.

WOLGAST MATCHED FOR BOUT WITH WELLS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion of the world, and Matt Wells, lightweight champion of England, will fight ten rounds at the Madison Athletic Club here on Friday, November 3, for a purse of $10,000. The men will weigh in at 133 pounds.

HOW GREAT RACE LOOKED.

the National were showing signs of distress, but to the surprise of the crowd the duel kept up. They lost their lead in the front by frequent tire changes made necessary by the terrific speed. They dropped back until they were sixth and seventh in the race and still the duel continued.

Then the two machines began to falter and it was seen that neither would be able to continue in the van of the race. The scheme had worked. The big National had practically disabled itself and put itself out of any chance to win the race, but it had accomplished its purpose; it had "torn the heart" out of the Fiat and by so doing had damaged its own mechanism fully as bad.

Then the other two Nationals, which had been quietly adding lap after lap to their score, suddenly sprung into life and began to creep up on the leaders. From fifth place they dropped into fourth and then into third place, and then into second place.

Herrick, in his machine, was making a beautiful drive and had his motor well in hand. He drove steadily and with the Fiat out of the running, through the efforts of the big ninety, he forced the hood of his machine into first place and took the lead both in place and in point of time in the last lap.

SAGACIOUS MARMONS.

One factor came near to upsetting the plans of the National camp and that was the sagacious plan adopted by the Marmon camp under the tutelage of Ray Harroun.

When the big National ninety had forced the Fiat to run itself off its wheels, the Nationals remaining suddenly were encountered by two long graceful yellow waspish-looking motors that absolutely refused to be enticed into spectacular but useless brushes of speed, but which nevertheless refused to vacate their place in front of the race.

The Marmons driven by Patschke and Dawson were flashing around the great course like clockwork. Patschke was leading up to the last three laps and Herrick, in his National, was bending every nerve to overtake the elusive yellow motors with no avail.

In the twenty-fourth lap Patschke found that one of the cylinders in his motor was missing. With but two laps to go he could not aoffrd to stop and hoped against hope that he would be able to squeeze in ahead of the pursuing National.

The hope was fruitless and in the last lap of the race the National thrust its blue hood beyond the Marmon and slipped into first place never to be ousted. The Marmons, however, took second and third and were satisfied.

The policing of the course was excellent and the absence of any serious or even painful accident sent the great throng home in the best of spirits.

The announcement made just at the close of the race that the Automobile Association would hold the next year's race sometime in May so that it would occur during the Shrine convention.

AUTO SERVICE BUILDING.

Studebaker Company Plans Large Structure for Distributing E.M.F. and Flanders Cars.

In line with the progressive movement of the largest automobile manufacturers in establishing service depots in the large eastern cities, L. J. Ollier, manager of the Los Angeles branch of the Studebaker Corporation, has completed negotiations with the William Mead Company for a large service building in this city.

In speaking of the move, Ollier said: "The wonderful sale of Studebaker E.M.F. and Flanders automobiles during the past three, years and enormous increase in the demand for the 1912 models has made this absolutely necessary. We will have more than 30,000 square feet of service space, located at No. 1616 East Seventh street, which I consider an ideal location, as it is on the main traveled automobile road to interior points, and within one block of the Pacific Electric Santa Ana, Whittier and Long Beach lines, two blocks from the Arcade station and reached direct by street-car line from the Salt Lake and Santa Fe depots. Everything has been done to facilitate the handling of automobiles, parts and accessories, the Los Angeles City Council having granted a permit to the Southern Pacific to construct a spur track to our service building.

"Many new and interesting features will be installed to insure that special service so much desired by all owners of automobiles which is made possible only by the largest manufacturers in this country.

"The Lord Motor Car Company, No. 1030 South Olive street, will continue as retail distributors of the Studebaker, E.M.F. '30' and Flanders '20' automobiles, both in this city and Pasadena. The new service building will be completed and ready for occupancy in about sixty days."

AUTO CLUBHOUSE.

Plans for the clubhouse and garage to be built by the Automobile Club of Philadelphia have been completed. The building will be two stories in height, 127 feet in front, with a depth of 220 feet. The first floor will be used as a garage for the accommodation of the automobiles of members, and the second floor as a clubhouse. The site for the club cost $80,000, and the building will cost about twice that sum.

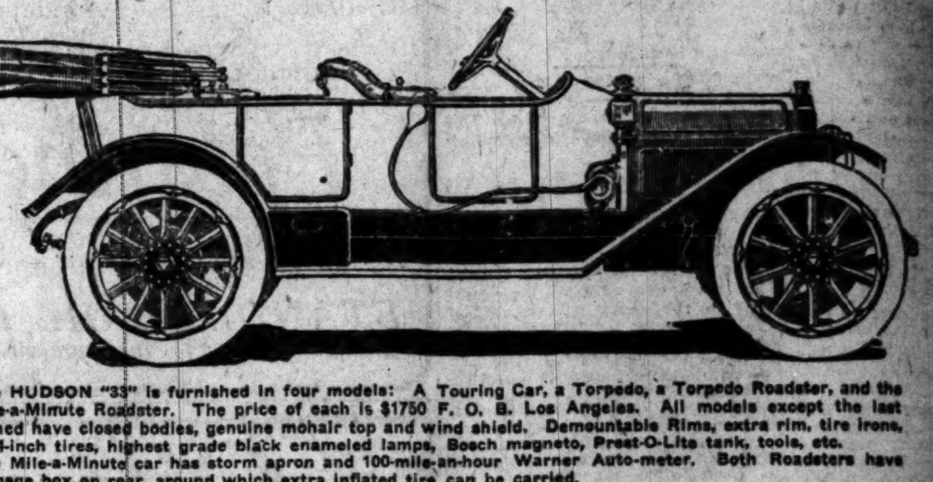
Automobile Talk Always Turns to the HUDSON "33"

COME IN and SEE THIS CA

START a conversation about good automobiles. Refer to any one or any number of cars and what they have done, and how quickly the HUDSON "33" is brought into the discussion. This fact shows what regard the public has for the HUDSON "33." People recognize it as the one advanced car of the past three years. They acknowledge that its creator—Howard E. Coffin— built a simpler, quieter, more beautiful and more substantial car than could have been had four years ago at three times its price. you will ask any owner of a HUDSON "33" you will be more deeply impressed than ever with the fact that the HUDSON "33" is the car which experts refer to in establishing a valuation for all other moderate-priced automobiles.

TO this famous car has been added for 1912, many improvements not possible and not even thought of when the original "33" was produced. All the experts in the HUDSON engineering department—the largest, ablest staff employed by any manufacturer were assigned to produce this result. One went to Europe and came home with ideas he picked up in the factories and at Paris and other automobile shows. What he learned there has been advantageously used on the 1912 HUDSON "33." Another gave his attention to greater carburetion efficiency. One specialized on springs, and so on, covering the entire car.

ALL came into a conference and told what they thought would make the HUDSON "33" a better automobile. Mr. Coffin presided at those meetings. Every suggestion was thoroughly weighed by the experience of all these experts. What they evolved from this work you now get on the 1912 HUDSON "33."



The HUDSON "33" is furnished in four models: A Touring Car, a Torpedo, a Torpedo Roadster, and the Mile-a-Minute Roadster. The price of each is $1750 F. O. B. Los Angeles. All models except the last named have closed bodies, genuine mohair top and wind shield. Demountable Rims, extra rim, tire irons, 34x4-inch tires, highest grade black enameled lamps, Bosch magneto, Prest-O-Lite tank, tools, etc. The Mile-a-Minute car has storm apron and 100-mile-an-hour Warner Auto-meter. Both Roadsters have luggage box on rear, around which extra inflated tire can be carried.

All models are equipped with the Desco Self-Starter device, so simple that a child can start the motor as easily as it can push a button to ring an electric bell.

ATHLETIC NOTES.

The Annapolis coaches are keeping Capt. Dalton and Brown out of the preliminary games for fear they will develop too fast.

Notre Dame's baseball prospects have been shattered on account of Sherry's being declared ineligible because of professionalism, and the loss of Capt. Quigley, who has been signed by the Pittsburgh Nationals.

Three big college football captains of 1911 reside at Dorchester, Mass. They are R. T. Fisher of Harvard, Pickering of Minnesota and P. D. Fogg of Syracuse.

Princeton and Rutgers have resumed athletic relations after a lapse of fifteen years. The Tigers easily defeated the Rutgerites, the score being 39 to 0. Pendleton, Princeton's quarterback, ran the length of the field for a touchdown on the initial kick-off.

All Stars.

CALIFORNIA VARSITY LOOKS GOOD TO FANS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

BERKELEY, Oct. 13.—With the freshman schedule of games out of the way, Coach Schaefer will begin Monday to concentrate on the formation of the team that will meet Stanford, November 11. The team this year looks good to the student and with two consecutive victories to their credit, the blue-and-gold contingent can see nothing but victory ahead. In fact, there is danger of overconfidence in the ranks of the Californians. But Coach Schafer cannot be said to be a victim of the malady and he will leave nothing undone that will go toward putting the most efficient fifteen in the field.

Lew Watts, the wonderful wing, who has been coaching the freshman team, will turn out with the 'varsity next week as a candidate for his old berth at right wing. His injured knee has healed. Peart has been putting up such a brilliant game at the other wing that, barring accidents, these two men are assured of places at the extremities of the line.

From present indications the backfield will be the same as that which played in the big game last year, except that the vacancy at full-back caused by the graduation of ex-Capt. Dwiggins will have to be filled. Price is putting up a strong game in Dwiggins's old berth. He kicks about as well as Dwiggins and is a stronger player on defense.

Morris at half-back, Johnny Stroud and Capt. Elliott at five-eighths, and "Chet" Allen, Watts and Peart on the three-quarter line, are playing in splendid form and it is improbable that any of them will be replaced. Canfield's wonderful game at half-back in the Reno contest boosted his stock considerably but it is not likely that he will oust Morris. Mini, Hale and Evans are also excellent backfield men and are putting up a strenuous fight to break into the 'varsity line up. Abrams, the freshman star of last year, is a brilliant understudy for Capt. Elliott at first five-eighths.

There are at least fifteen strong contenders for the scrum positions. At present few men are sure of their places. Coach Schaefer admits that he will have a difficult task in forming a scrum equal in efficiency to the Cardinal pack but he expects his backfield to outclass the Stanford backs.

MOTORISTS HAPPY.

Milwaukee motorists are congratulating themselves at this time on the fact that within a few months they will not be obliged to run on streets that are worse than the most miserable country roads. Contracts for more than twelve miles of asphalt paving on some of the main traveled thoroughfares on the north and south sides of the city have been awarded by the Department of Public Works and work has already been started. The aggregate amount of the contracts was $254,703.64, and cover approximately 195,000 square yards.

FORTHCOMING TOURNAMENTS.

AT last the eagerly awaited tournament ultimatum has been issued by the Green Committee of the Los Angeles Country Club and all good golfers are invited to be on hand and show what they can do on Saturday, October 21.

It will be a handicap competition for the Los Angeles Country Club Cup, commencing with a handicap qualifying round. In addition there will be a frisky little Tombstone Tournament to lend an atmosphere of gaiety.

The Tombstone Tournament calls for greater skill than the more important affair really, because every contestant is expected to be brilliantly witty when he writes his own epitaph, to be planted dismally on the spot where he took his last stroke.

For the benefit of those who have not played in a Tombstone Tournament, it should be explained that the handicap allowance of strokes is added to bogey, and the player is then allowed to take that total number of strokes only, and must plant his epitaph wherever his last stroke lands him. Players are generally so worried trying to think out a really bright epitaph, that they don't pay proper attention to the game, with properly dismal results.

The only other Tombstone Tournament played here in the South was by the ladies at the San Gabriel Country Club in the early summer. It caused no end of fun, and on that occasion Alice Tobey and Mrs. C. O. Alkire, second and last, respectively, came out with the wittiest epigrammatical epitaphs.

The men played in one up at the Del Monte championship meeting recently, but history does not divulge whether any of our own illustrious citizens covered themselves in gloomy glory. In fact, a little investigation on the subject leads one to believe that the present tournament has been arranged principally that they may work off all the bright, clever things they thought of when it was too late!

In addition to the two tournaments above mentioned, there will be the usual weekly ball sweepstake—so that everybody's taste is being catered for and many golfers will enter all the competitions.

The season is opening well, and golfing prospects are exceedingly bright. The women golfers at San Gabriel proved the most enterprising, and announced their tournament first—a straight handicap tournament to take place on Saturday morning. Entries have been coming in each day for this and there is likely to be a very good attendance.

Another three weeks will see the new links ready for play, and the men are planning some interesting tournaments for the opening day. F. Q. Story, Senator Buella, F. O. Wood, James Parker, Conde Jones, R. C. Devereux and F. B. Silverwood have all been taking a sort of paternal interest in those new links, and will be among the first to sample them.

E. S. Armstrong, the new Coast champion, is a member of both Annandale and Los Angeles clubs. As there were so few representatives from Annandale he elected to represent that club at Del Monte—and anyway nobody cared much, for he was quite unsuspected as a possible champion. Now Los Angeles is feeling rather disgusted with its lack of perspicacity—it lends a club such eclat to be able to claim the champions!

Mr. Armstrong is at present in Salt Lake where he has large interests, but he is expected back in time for the tournaments.

The Los Angeles Country Club has at last issued its new membership books and there is a regular scramble for them. The club has been without one for over two years and the need has been felt—quite urgently at times. The new book is a most patrician little affair, in nice big print and bearing nearly seven hundred names. The membership includes all sorts of illustrious people—and millionaires are so plentiful that it is the man of moderate means who is distingue.

AMONG EASTERN RAH-RAHS.

The Yale faculty has cut down the number of away-from-home trips for minor athletic teams. Basketball, hockey and "gym" teams will be allowed five trips and the swimmers will be given three.

The discovery of a spy at the Cornell field last week caused a small riot. A man was found making notes of the practice. He was searched and driven from the campus.

More than 100 Cornell athletes attended the wedding of their veteran trainer, Sheehan, last week.

Coach Yost is getting great speed into the Wolverines. In a practice game a few days ago the varsity made ten touchdowns against the scrubs.

Illinois' favorite slogan, "Hang it on Chicago," may be discarded this year at the request of Seiler, the hero of last year's game with Chicago, when Illinois won for the first time in ten years. Seiler says the use of the slogan is unsportsmanlike.

The University of Wisconsin has abolished compulsory "gym" for freshmen and substituted compulsory football.

The underclassmen at Oregon are to have a sandbag contest this year. A number of sandbags are to be put in the center of the football field and the opposing forces will line up at the goal lines. At a given signal the classes will start for the center of the field and the side that puts the largest number of bags behind its goal within a given time will be declared the winner.

FEW CHANGES BY MC CREDIE.

Portland Manager to Keep Old Players.

Announces Names of New Members.

Good Drafts Made Through Cleveland.

BY GREY OLIVER.

Taking time by the headpiece, Walter McCredie, manager of the Portland team, has given out an announcement of his team for the coming season, and a glance at the list of names shows that he will keep many of the men now with the club.

He is to lose three stars to the Cleveland team in Ryan, Peckinpaugh and Steen, and it is barely possible that Pitcher Seaton will go East. Mac already has men in sight to take their places, but how these will compare with those he is to lose is only a guess.

McCredie has been wonderfully successful in developing players, for it is a well-known fact that he has sent more good men to the big leagues than all the other teams on the Coast combined. His big star in recent years was Pitcher Gregg, who won twenty-two and lost but seven games in the American League this year.

While he has been "lucky" in sending good men to the big bush, he must be handed all kinds of praise for bringing out the qualities of his men, and consequently his success is certainly as much due to good management as to "luck."

Naturally the selections of such a manager must be given more than passing consideration, but from present indications he will give us three-fourths of the men he has in the line-up today. Harkness, Henderson and Koestner will be in the pitching staff and Kuhn and La Longe behind the bat, as an illustration of how Mac intends to keep some of the older heads to steady the new ones.

Barring illness, sales or lack of condition, the prospective line-up for the Portland team next year will be about as follows:

Pitchers—Harkness, Koestner, Henderson, Hirsch, Greenwell and Byrd.
Catchers—La Longe, Kuhn and Howley.
First base—Rapps or Doane.
Second base—Rodgers.
Third base—Peters.
Shortshop—Lindsay, Mathes, Kibble or Bancroft.
Left field—Chadbourne or Strait.
Center field—Daley, possibly.
Right field—Krueger or Doane.
Utility—Barry.

Pitcher Hirsch is a southpaw McCredie drafted from the Nebraska League, and Byrd was drafted from the Union Association, which includes Salt Lake, Butte and other intermountain cities. Catcher Howley is from the Indianapolis team, and is to come to the Coast through the Cleveland team.

First Baseman or Outfielder Doane comes through Cleveland from the New Orleans team, and was seventh from the top in the list of the leading batsmen of the Southern League. Third Baseman Peters is a San Jose boy, drafted from the Trenton team in New Jersey. Infielder Mathes is from Butte, Kibble from Helena and Bancroft from the Superior team of the Wisconsin League. Strait was drafted from the York team of the Tri-State League.

McCredie does not know how any of the new men will shape up, and how many will report to him next year for duty, but a glance through the above list shows that McCredie is figuring on retaining no less than ten of the men he has on his team now.

Sheehan is the only one not provided for and it may be possible that he is the one which is being considered in the trade for Daley. It has been whispered that the man mentioned in the Daley trade is now a member of the team and Tommy may be the one.

CAMPUS NEWS.

There has been a persistent rumor afloat that Fielding Yost would not be with Michigan next year in the capacity of football coach. However, Director Bartelme has made an emphatic denial and states that Yost will undoubtedly direct the football policies of Michigan in 1912. Yost himself when asked concerning the matter said that he did not have time to discuss it. Should he decide to make a change or retire from athletics it would be a severe blow to Michigan, as he ranks at the top as a coach.

The Marquis of Queensberry made a talk at a mass meeting held at the University of Illinois before Saturday's game with Milliken and was given a typical rah! rah! reception. He saw his first game of American football.

Yale seems to be relying a great deal this year on wing shift formations and the kicking of Howe. In her two games played the forward pass was used but little, but will probably be developed later. These shift plays are most difficult to perfect and unless the forwards are drilled to almost perfection are liable to prove disastrous to a team, but the Yale forwards seem to have mastered them, even this early in the year.

Athletics at Columbia are starting with a vim and while other colleges are devoting their entire attention to football, the coaches here are busy with the crew and track teams. Jim Rice will look after the crew this year and has already issued a call for the freshmen to report at Edgewater for barge work. There will be a lively scramble amongst the new material as H. T. Cole is the only member of last year's crew who will be unable to row.

Harvard does not seem to have a strong offensive team as but twenty-three points have been scored in the Crimson's two practice games with Bates and Holy Cross, the latter team holding them to the small score of 8 to 0. Of course, much green material was used and the forward pass and shift plays were not perfected, but in spite of this fact the play does not promise a strong scoring machine.

Coach Andy Smith of Pennsylvania is using an ingenious device for the development of accuracy in the use of the forward pass and the outside kick. He has rigged up two poles with a loop on the end of them, then placing the forwards at different distances and angles calls on the backfield to kick the ball through the loop, or to pass it through as the case may be. He hopes that this innovation will enable the line men to know exactly where the short kicks are going to touch the ground.

DALY MAY BE BEAVER.

Pete Daley of the Los Angeles team for the Portland Club next season.

This was the rumor that leaked out the past week on the probabilities of the Portland ball team for next season and it can be stated that this is the only probability that can be forecasted at this time, five months before the 1912 season will start.

The story is that Walt McCredie has made a proposition to Hen Berry of the Los Angeles Club to trade one of the Portland players for Daley, and the chances are that the offer will be accepted. McCredie will not divulge the name of the Portland player.

It has been common talk for months that Daley was dissatisfied with his berth on the Angels and the fans have accused him time and again of quitting. He probably would play good ball for Portland.

War Declared.

QUAIL SEASON BEGINS TODAY.

RECORDS FOR HUNTING INTEREST GO BY THE BOARD.

General Realization by Sportsmen that They Have but One Month in Which to Hunt Serves to Kindle a Wonderful Desire to Go Seek the Birds Before All Are Killed.

Realizing that only one month of the upland sport is open to them this year, the quail hunters have made wonderful preparations for their favorite shooting this fall, and before it was light enough to make shooting certain guns were cracking on hillside and flat this morning. It is safe to say that more hunters were afield after quail than ever shouldered guns on any preceding opening day.

Quail are early risers, but the hunter is earlier yet. Many rode all night on motorcycles, or in automobiles, and not a few on trains or electric cars, found the way to favored spots, where sport seemed in prospect. Some took interurban car lines to their termini, leaving on the last cars Saturday night and carrying a blanket roll, with which to while away the few hours before daynight, and some who chose the San Fernando Valley, erstwhile, stamping ground of countless herds of quail, gave up all idea of sleep, and built rousing camp fires around which they sat until the approach of dawn suggested coffee boiling, and scattering out through the brush.

Reports received from pretty nearly all over Southern California, covering places both near and far, indicate that in the main, the present is to be a good quail year. The birds bred in greater numbers than usual. The army of dove hunters voluntarily constituted itself a sort of advance guard of quail scouts, and reported nearly all the places where shooting ever was good, were well stocked, and plenty of feed in evidence. Some of this no doubt was spoiled by the early rain.

There is considerable dissatisfaction expressed by Southern California sportsmen over the short season which was limited to the Sixth District alone. Most hunters agree that if any real good results, the deprivation of sport can be borne, but the better informed of those who carry guns afield fear that little benefit will ensue. They do not believe the law will be observed. Even if it were, the four-footed and winged vermin which prey on the quail are left to wage warfare unceasing against the birds, and these collectively do damage to the supply that is little understood even by the men who hunt quail the most. One of the best illustrations of the quail's ability to gather and multiply is shown by the number of the birds to be found right in the outskirts of town in places where small boys and others harry them nearly every week, but at the same time, keep coyotes, hawks, cats and owls decidedly in the minority by shooting all such at sight.

The San Diego Supervisors have made the State law their guide in the matter of regulating quail shooting. It is not true that the districting ordinance whereby the State was cut into six fish and game districts, did away with all county laws as such. There is a decision covering this point, handed down by the District Court of Appeals, for the Third District (in re Cole, 10 Cal. App. Dec., 28) holding that county ordinances are not repealed by the constitutional amendment of 1902 providing for the creation of game districts, and the enactment of special fish and game laws by the Legislature. This view is diametrically opposite to that taken in 1904, by the Court, of Appeals for the second district. There is therefore, still some question which only the highest courts could decide, but most of the counties have settled it by repealing all their special laws. San Diego county being the mecca of most local quail hunters, who possess machines, it will be good news for all such, to know that they can take the State law final when planning visits to the covers about Fallbrook, Encinitas, Oceanside, Temecula, Murrietta, Wildomar, and the hundred odd other places where good sport has been enjoyed in the past with the little artful dodgers of the chaparral.

The quail bred well in nearly all parts of San Diego county this summer, and any places which were good last year should be good this, excepting those damaged by fires. The outlook for sport below Elsinore is better than last year, when many were disappointed.

North of Los Angeles, in the northern part of the county, considerable sport is to be expected. Some of the good old grounds in the Soledad and along the sides of Mint Canyon will no doubt yield limits for a shoot or two, although the automobile hunters very soon put an end to the shooting in such well-known parts as this.

In fact, the automobile is the bete noire of the valley quail. It has done more to make him scarce than any other agency possibly could, owing to making all parts of the country accessible in a few hours' driving.

Scenting conditions will be worse this year than they were last, owing to the fact that a sprinkle just before the quail season opened last year laid the dust and made it possible for dogs to work to some purpose.

Not 100 MILES AN HOUR
But 100 MILES FOR 39 CENTS

You no doubt were down to the races yesterday and saw the speed wagons going around eating up space at the awful rate of 100 miles an hour and devouring their owners' pocketbooks at the sickening rate of 100 cents per minute. You also no doubt know, and if you don't you can easily find out, for it is now a matter of history, that the Brush can carry two passengers 100 miles at touring car speed for 39 cents. Now, down in your heart, which for you? Which of these records appeals to you?

[She might be good enough as a friend, but would you marry her?]

I wouldn't have thought of asking you this question yesterday, while the race was going on, but now that the excitement is over and the smoke and noise have blown away and you are back to earth in your sober senses, tell me, Which for you?

ASK USERS

How much satisfaction they are getting out of their Brush? How many miles they can travel on a gallon of gasoline? How their tires have lasted? How much they have spent for repairs? How they have passed other cars, both large and small, which were delayed on account of mechanical troubles? What they would buy if they were in the market for a two-passenger car?

The opinion of users will no doubt be worth more to you than anything we might say. Ask them—any of them—all of them.

Transcontinental.

LONG MOTOR TOUR IS MADE.

Prominent Easterner Reaches the Pacific Coast.

Auto Route from Sea to Sea Is Mapped.

Wilby Finds Ideal Course Into Los Angeles.

One of the most successful transcontinental motor trips ever made from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast, has just been completed by Thomas W. Wilby, under the auspices of the Touring Club of America. Wilby has toured thousands of miles in Europe as well as in America, and he was selected by the Touring Club to make the present trip for the express purpose of mapping out an ideal automobile route through the central and more northerly sections of the country, entering San Francisco by way of Omaha and Cheyenne.

Wilby left New York on August 31, and completed the first stage of his journey last week when he reached San Francisco in about thirty-five days. Besides mapping out the most feasible route for every mile of the journey and gathering the latest information regarding road conditions in every State through which he passed, another object of the tour is to show how comfortably a long distance journey across the country may be accomplished by automobile.

He has averaged from 100 to 125 miles a day throughout the trip. He has endeavored to regulate his daily run to 110 miles and with the exception of a few rainy days while passing the prairie country of Illinois and Iowa, he has seldom been on the road after 6 o'clock in the evening.

EASY TRIP.

That a trip of this sort need no longer be regarded as fraught with exceptional difficulties, may also be seen from the fact that Wilby was accompanied in his long-distance run by his wife. He did not adopt the plan of carrying a mass of baggage and camp equipment with him. The spectacular features which have occasionally been used to heighten the interest of former transcontinental tours, of bivouacing in the open air, have not been utilized in this trip.

In this respect, the present tour illustrates the comparative ease with which a pleasure party may travel from coast to coast and be assured of finding thoroughly satisfactory accommodations at the end of every day's run.

Wilby is now on his way from San Francisco to Los Angeles and will complete his tour by making a return transcontinental run, by way of the southern route leading through Arizona and New Mexico. On this route, Wilby will follow "The Trail to Sunset," which was carefully surveyed by one of the official cars of the Touring Club of America a year ago and has since been the popular motor route to California.

GOOD NEWS.

The data supplied to motorists in this way and the appointment of many Touring Club representatives who have erected sign boards along the route and have secured various appropriations for keeping the roads in repair, has enhanced its popularity among motorists making long-distance journeys in America.

In addition to procuring the latest information on road conditions for this southern and also the more northerly route, which will be immediately available for motorists at the office of the Touring Club of America, Wilby was also appointed a special agent of the United States office of Public Roads and he will give an exhaustive report on the road conditions throughout the Far West.

In going through Iowa, Wilby followed the River to River road, which was the original trail across the State. The Iowa League of Commercial Clubs has done much to improve this road between Davenport, Des Moines and Council Bluffs, and extensive repairs have been made this year so that it is now in very good condition.

The roads across the prairies are always in very good traveling condition in the dry season, but the wet weather renders them so muddy, that it is often difficult for the machine to get through. The road dries rapidly, however, under a few hours' sun, and Wilby advises transcontinental tourists in that part of the country to wait for fair weather if they happen to be in the prairie district during a rainy season.

Just before reaching North Platte, Wilby encountered some of his worst experiences and with his driver was compelled to resort to a shovel for the first time since leaving New York, to dig out the wheels of the car in the heavy mud. For several hours he was able to go even under the best conditions only five to eight miles an hour, and yet before the end of the day the sunshine had dried up the mud so rapidly that he was able to make from twenty to twenty-five miles an hour.

Many Cars.

GARFORD LINE LOOKING FINE.

WILLYS COMPANY MAKES BIG PLANS FOR SEASON.

New Models Please Many and Prospects for Coming Season Were Never Better—Factory Rushing Orders to Front but Many Must Wait Until New Year Opens.

General Manager George W. Bennett of the Willys-Garford Sales Company, believes that the new 1912 Garford car is one to please the most fastidious. For those purchasers who look upon quality and finish of a car with the price as a second consideration, the new models cannot but please. Garford cars, which are now being marketed, are not built to meet a fixed price. They are constructed with but on view-in mind, to reach a certain standard of perfection which will satisfy the demands of the wealthy buyers and the elite of society.

"Included in the 1912 Garford line are three distinct chassis, with two four-cylinder motors, of thirty and forty horse power ratings, and one six-cylinder, fifty-horse-power motor. The big and powerful six-cylinder chassis is equipped with a touring car body listed at $4500, a limousine at $5600, and a landaulet for $5750. Similar bodies are installed on the forty-horse-power chassis, and are listed at $3750, $4,800 and $4,900 respectively. The thirty-horse-power chassis, is mounted with a touring car body which sells for $3200, a town car limousine for $4000, and a town car landaulet for $4100.

"Purchasers of touring cars are given options of four, six or seven-passenger bodies on the fifty-horse-power chassis; three, four, five, six or seven-passenger bodies on the forty, and four or five-passenger bodies on the thirty-horse-power car. Each body, whether the touring car, limousine or landaulet, is given the utmost care in its finish, and nothing that makes for comfort and nicety has been eliminated."

With the addition of the huge four-story 300x400-foot concrete building, which is so near completed at the Willys-Overland plant in Toledo, it was expected that all the new Overland cars could be constructed at the new plant, but owing to the great demand for cars of this make, President John N. Willys has been forced to continue operations at the Indianapolis plant. Several thousand of the $900, thirty-horse-power, —-passenger touring cars will be built in the Indiana factory.

Following the announcement of the 1912 cars, the sales department was so swamped with orders that it was soon found that every foot of floor space and each piece of machinery at both the plants would have to be utilized in an effort to fill the 30,000 orders for Overland cars.

LONG CADILLAC TOUR.

Winship of Pasadena Makes Tour to Goldfield and Tonopah in His New Car.

One of the most extensive tours of the season was completed last week by C. A. Winship of Pasadena, in a Cadillac "thirty." He toured 5000 miles, going to all points of interest.

Starting from Pasadena, the colonel went inland to Goldfield and Tonopah. The roads to the Nevada towns were fair all the way with only a few bad places. The car had no trouble whatever and went through in fine style. After a few days in Nevada the tour continued northward and then over the line to Lake Tahoe. Every side trip which promised scenery worth while was taken and this accounts for the large mileage piled up. The Cadillac was sent over the steepest of mountain grades, but it kept plugging and the colonel's party had no delays.

After a stay at the lake the car was again sent rambling and made the run to San Francisco in good time. From San Francisco the route led down the coast to Los Angeles and Pasadena. Col. Winship reports one of the most enjoyable outings of his life and is planning an even longer trip for next year.

Winter Tires
With Double-Thick Treads—
Deep-Cut Blocks—
Countless Edges and Angles

The most efficient non-skid device ever employed.
A separate tread, immensely wear-resisting, vulcanized to the regular tread.
The latest addition to Goodyear No-Rim-Cut tires.

The Ideal Tire

The No-Rim-Cut tire, our patented type, has become the most popular tire in existence.

The control of this tire, in the past two years, has increased our tire sales by 500 per cent.

Over 700,000 have been sold to date. And the flood-like demand now compels a capacity of 3,800 per day.

All because this is the one practical tire which can't rim-cut. And because it is made 10 per cent oversize, adding 25 per cent to the average mileage.

This patented tire, which costs nothing extra, is saving motor car owners many millions per year.

The Added Tread

Since 1908 our experts have worked to add to this tire a perfect Non-Skid tread. The final result is now pictured here.

Forty formulas were tested for resistance to wear in selecting the one for this tread.

The extra tread was then made just as thick as the regular. It was made up of deep-cut blocks, which present to the road surface countless edges and angles.

The blocks widen at the base, so the strain is spread.

After three years of tests we are ready to say that here is utter perfection in a non-skid tire. Nothing else is so efficient, so durable, so economical.

Three Savings

The No-Rim-Cut tire with the Non-Skid tread offers these three advantages:

A double-thick tread—
A tire that can't rim-cut—
A tire 10 per cent oversize.

This new tread, in addition, reduces danger of puncture by 30 per cent.

Thousands have proved that to insist on these tires means to cut tire bills in in two.

Firestone-Columbus 1912 Columbus Electric

There are many good reasons why every prospective buyer should investigate the Firestone-Columbus and Columbus Electric before buying.

First—The old Columbus Buggy Co. of Columbus, Ohio, for over forty years have successfully manufactured strictly High Grade Vehicles.

Second—They have a commercial rating that very few companies in the automobile business can equal.

Third—For eight years they have manufactured and sold the Columbus Electric, a car that leads the electric trade today.

Fourth—For four years they have manufactured the Firestone-Columbus Gasoline Cars and are fast gaining an enviable reputation on this line.

Fifth—Go on the streets in any of the larger cities and you will see more Columbus Electric Cars than any other make.

Sixth—Go any place in the United States and you will see the product of the Columbus Buggy Co. in evidence. Try and find a dissatisfied owner.

Let us tell you more about our 1912 cars.

Fishing for Seals.

Fishermen of the Channel Islands have developed a new industry. It takes pluck and strentgh.

SEAL HUNT NEW THRILL.

Fishermen Get 'Em in Nets in the Channel.

Said to Be Exciting but Very Dangerous.

By Law, Must Be Taken in Live State.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 7.—Seal hunting on the shores of the Channel Islands has become one of the most profitable as well as most interesting industries waged on the Southern coast of the Pacific. Strange it is, too, that only two men in California is engaged in the business but there is a good reason for it.

Several years ago the State Game and Fish Department finding that the seals frequenting California waters were being rapidly exterminated, decided that it would enforce to the letter a law passed prohibiting the killing of them and would issue permits to those only who wished to catch seals for exhibition purposes.

To catch a seal by shooting it is no extraordinary feat, but to capture it without in any manner injuring it requires an expert. As a result there are few fishermen who have acquired the necessary skill to catch a seal without violating the law and the industry is exclusively carried on by two men, Capt. George M. McGuire and Capt. Rosaline Vasquez, who have spent most of their lives on the Santa Barbara channel and who have become comfortably well fixed financially from the seal business.

Capt. Vasquez is the chief trader in the industry and his expertness has attracted wide attention. Every year he is sought by college professors of the West to guide them in researches on the islands. His method of sealing is perhaps not new but his execution of it is considered remarkable. Annually he catches in the neighborhood of 300 seals and it is a rare instance that he ever maims one in the capture.

As a result of Capt. Vasquez's prowess he is able to furnish seals to purchasers in all parts of the world without a blemish, strong and healthy. While it is possible that seals are caught in other parts of the globe to be used for exhibition purposes the fact must not be generally known, for there is not a country of any consequence in which the Channel Island seal is not represented. This gives unlimited advertising to Santa Barbara and equally as much to California.

Seals delivered are sold for from $50 to $75 each, the purchaser paying the freight. In cool weather they can be shipped thousands of miles without suffering or death. When such good prices are paid for the seals it would seem natural that many people would engage in the business.

Why they do not is best explained by Capt. Vasquez. He declares he would not place an obstacle in the way of any person who wanted to give the business a trial, for he is not afraid of losing his position in the industry. Many of them have tried it only to make dismal failures and during the past few years none has essayed to enter the business.

"It is not only hard work," said Capt. Vasquez, "but it is extremely dangerous. Never do I make a seal hunting trip but that I do not endanger my life. Seals are strange and seem to possess the sense of a human sometimes. Just the minute they see that they have the upper-hand on me they take advantage of it and then it is my skill against their ingenuity. The nearest I ever came to meeting death at their hands was about two years ago. I had ensnared half a dozen big ones in a huge net and had pulled a portion of the net onto my boat. While standing on the net I kept hauling away at the other end of it and finally dragged the seals near enough to the boat to lasso one of them. He was a monster, weighing probably 250 pounds. It seemed as though he noticed that I had one end of the rope around my legs—a fact of which I was ignorant—for when I was the least expecting it he gave a lunge for bottom and took me with him. For no less than 100 yards he pulled me through the water at a terrific pace and I thought for the first time that my seal fishing experiences had come to an end. I was in a position where to breathe meant drowning and I was at the point of taking a chance when I thought of my dirk knife which I always carried in my belt. Like a flash I snatched it and severed the rope. In a moment I reached the surface and while nearly exhausted soon regained my powers and swam back to the boat. I tell you it was a thrilling time and I do not want to ever go through with one like it again."

Capt. Vasquez usually is accompanied by a helper, but sometimes fishes alone. His favorite method of procedure is to wait until a school of seals swim into a cave when he places a huge net across the mouth of it and then discharges a shot gun. The detonation frightens the seals and they make a mad rush for deep water only to be caught in the net. Then the captain is forced to work with great celerity, for to keep the seals under water any great length of time means their destruction. They can not breathe under the surface. As a result he quickly pulls the net to the boat and allows all but the one or two he lassos to escape. After one is caught in a lariat he is dragged into the boat and placed in a box which is usually his prison until he reaches his destination, perhaps in New York State or maybe Australia.

Years ago there were hundreds of men in the seal business. That was when the laws permitted the killing of seals for their hides. Since that was stopped the business has fallen into the hands of the two lone men.

TWO NEW APPERSONS.

Shettler Ready With Handsome Models of Late Design and Handsome Finish.

Leon Shettler announced a new Apperson Jackrabbit model last week, which makes two new and distinct models to be added to the old line of popular cars.

The new member of the Apperson family is a forty-five horse power roadster, which is of the latest fore-door type. The car is one of the most striking ever put out by the Apperson factory.

The lover of the racy type of roadster will find this new Apperson a joy. It will be fast to a record-breaking degree and many a speed merchant will take the dust of this new Jackrabbit during the next year.

The Apperson company has never put out a car of this type, but its motors have long been distinguished for their speed, and extreme power. The motor of the new Jack measures 4½x5. The motor is T head with the cylinders cast separately. It has a five bearing crank shaft and double internal brakes. The wheels are 34x4 and the wheel base 114 inches. This is the ideal size for a roadster and gives plenty of room for the low foredoor type of body and the extra tanks and tire racks on the rear.

The cars will come fully equipped with top, glass front, speedometer and clock, gas tank, demountable rims and all the other minor attachments which go to make a car complete and ready for the road.

Shettler was more enthusiastic than ever when he received word of this new model. It is of the type for which there has been considerable demand.

William Curtiss, who went to see the new cars, will return today. He sent word from the East that the cars surpassed all expectations.

FORE-DOOR AUTO BODIES.

The great increase in the number of fore-door bodies is certain to have a marked influence on cold-weather driving, as cars of this type will permit drivers to make trips in comfort in weather conditions that would make driving in open-front bodies somewhat disagreeable. The high sides of the fore-door bodies will not only protect the driver and the occupant of the other front seat from wintry blasts, but will also prevent them from being splashed by water.

If one would start his motor "on the spark," he should speed his motor up just before stopping it, by opening the throttle wide. Then if the spark is cut off a full charge is left in a cylinder to be ignited when another start is to be made.

Cutting CARS

Cost Less Per Horse Power and Per Wheel Base Inch
Than Any Other Automobile Selling for $1200 or Ov

IN this day of strenuous competition and large production, there is only one way in wh a motor car manufacturer can hope to develop and maintain a successful business and th is by producing a better product at a lower price than that which already exists. Th Clarke-Carter Automobile Company has done this in its 1912 product.

Cutting Cars cost less per horsepower and per wheel base inch than any other automobile selling for $1200 or over.
Furthermore, they are also equal in quality and finish to many cars in the three and four thousand dollar class.
For the purpose of comparing twenty-five of the best known cars, so that the buyer may see, at a glance, the relative va each, we have compiled a table in which are listed the important features of these several makes.
This comparative table of automobile values will be sent to any one interested upon request.
After even a cursory examination of this chart, the most prejudiced buyer will admit that the Cutting Torpedo Roadster at $ and the Cutting Model T-35 Torpedo Touring Car at $1250, are values, the equal of which are not found elsewhere.

For instance, take four of the best known makes of touring cars, two of which sell for $1500, one for $1600, and one for $1800; two of these have 115 inch wheel base, one 116 inch and 118 inch—the Cutting has 116 inch.

All four of these cars have very much smaller engines—two of them being only 4 in. bore x 4½ in. stroke, while the Cutting is 4 in. bore x 5 in. stroke.

The tire sizes of two of them are the same as the Cutting, 34 in. x 4 in., one of the others is 34 in. x 3½ in., the other 36 in. x 4 in.

In every case, in addition to the other superior features that are shown, however, the price per horsepower and the price per wheel base inch of the Cutting is much less than that of any of the others.

There are several cars of this size ranging in price from $2000 to $3500 which might also be considered—in their case, the price per horsepower and per wheel base inch becomes abnormal as compared with the Cutting.

For instance, one of these cars, with a smaller base, same size of tires and approximately the same horsepower, costs $107.36 per horsepower, as compared with $30.34 for the Cutting, and the price per wheel base inch is $29.16 as compared with only $10.77 for the Cutting.

The idea has undoubtedly suggested itself to you ere this, that surely something must have been sacrificed—quality decreased or some of the up-to-date improvements omitted, but this is not so.

You will be astonished, upon examining Cutting cars, to note the graceful body lines, the wide, well-upholstered bodies, the beautiful upholstery and finish, the staunch power plant and the real structural superiority—ev will be seen evidences of good material—workmanship, carefulness of as bly, thorough testing and painstaking inspection.

The men behind the Cutting car are all seasoned motor car man who realize that in order to meet and overcome competition with a car w has heretofore not been widely advertised, they must put an excess of into their cars if they expect to make any great inroads into the sales of more widely advertised competitors.

Thus you see that logically the Cutting Car must possess great va of course, the purchaser gets the benefit.

Every dollar he puts into a Cutting buys more than a dollar's worth o automobile value.

You may not believe this now, but a careful examination of our Com tive Table of Automobile Values—an inspection of the actual machine and a demonstration over any roads and hills that you may select, wil vince you.

Catalog, giving complete specifications and Comparative Table of mobile Values, sent upon request.

Jake Stahl, the retired first baseman of the Boston Red Sox, who is engaged in the banking business in Chicago, says he has not been approached on the question of managing the Hub outfit for Jimmy McAleer next season. He admits that a managerial berth might tempt him back into the national pastime.

Jake had one brilliant experience as a big league pilot which won for him the sobriquet of "Born Manager." A few seasons ago he took the Washington club away to a flying start, and held the place for a couple of months. The fans of the Capital City were on the point of voting Garland a perpetual annuity when the club hit a snag and tumbled to the bottom of the heap.

The brilliant success which the two Cubans, Marsans and Almeida, have met as members of the Cincinnati Reds has opened a new field for big league scouting. These players have shown such aptitude for absorbing major league tactics that they are already considered among the best assets of Hermann's club. No players in the league show better judgment in waiting out a pitcher.

Cleveland's weakness behind the bat, which has been apparent for several seasons past, is now remedied, according to Manager George Stovall. Jack Adams, who was farmed out to Memphis this season, has developed into a crackajack thrower. O'Neill of Worcester showed brilliantly in the recent series at the Hilltop.

Manager Charles Babb of the Norfolk (Virginia League) club, recently purchased by St. Joseph of the Western League, is playing out the season with that team. He will manage the club next year.

Tim Murnane, the well-known Boston scribe, has been re-elected president of the New England League for a period of five years. The league also voted to continue its present circuit during Murnane's prolonged tenure of office.

Peter O'Brien, a younger brother of Thomas J. ("Buck") O'Brien, the sensational young spitball pitcher of the Red Sox, will pitch for Brockton, of the New England League, next season. He has pitched semi-professional ball around Brockton for the past three years.

"Slow Joe" Doyle, the former Highland twirler, who started the season with Providence, of the Eastern League, and on whom Charles Ebbets has a string, will be with Toronto next year. Joe Kelley secured Doyle from Binghamton by consent of Brooklyn. "Slow Joe" pitched wonderful ball for Binghamton, allowing less than a run to a game in every contest he worked.

Fred Clarke has decided to retire from active service at the end of the present season. He will continue to lead the Pirates next year, but will do so from the bench. Clarke stands second to Cy Young among major league clubs in point of service.

Roger Bresnahan's five-year contract as manager of the Cardinals, recently signed, is an ironclad document that will stand the test of the civil courts if necessary. Besides receiving a large salary Bresnahan will share a percentage of the club's earnings.

It is now said that Johnny Evers is likely to lead the Reds next season. Joe Tinker was supposed to have the berth cinched, but Charles Murphy asked Mike Mitchell, Dick Hoblitzel and $10,000 as the price for him. Murphy says that he will not stand in Evers's way of advancement, as he promised the Trojan his release in case a managerial billet were forthcoming.

Billy Shettsline, business manager of the Phillies, is not loyal to the National League. He picks the Athletics to knock the wadding out of the Giants in the post-season series for the world's championship. No one over in Quakertown ever did give Gotham a tumble in anything.

Pitcher Jack Harper, former Cincinnati and St. Louis p in his time one of the of the game, is a merchant in Oil City.

Will This Be Rivers's Finish?

George Kirkwood,
(Below and at left,) who is matched to fight Joe Rivers. These pictures were taken at his training camp.

Look Out, Joe.

JOE RIVERS IS FACING ONE OF HIS HARDEST FIGHTS.

George Kirkwood, the Human Teddy Bear of San Francisco, Is Now in Training at St. Ignatius—If Rivers Loses Against Him, It Is Back to the Sand Lot for Joey.

THERE is a stern little brown boy out at Doyle's training camp at Vernon who is preparing for what he knows perfectly is the fight which may be the turning point in his pugilistic career.

Little Joe Rivers has no hallucinations about his contest, October [illegible], with George Kirkwood. He realizes that if he should lose he will have to go back to hard work, and if he wins the way is directly opened for him to meet Johnny Kilbane again and have an opportunity to retrieve his lost laurels.

Rivers is deadly in earnest in his training. Yesterday he entered the training pavilion and was told by Trainer Rooney to punch the bag for five minutes. What happened to the bag was surprising. Rivers attacked the leather contrivance like the Mexican wildcat for which he has been named. In the final few seconds of his bag punching, he tore loose even fiercer, and with one terrific right-hand swing broke the heavy rope holding the bag and sent it sailing out fully fifty feet from the pavilion. The rope did not come loose, but the force of Rivers's blow broke it in two like a piece of twine. After this came two rounds of boxing with Brother Andy Rivers, who is comfortable and fat and seemed perfectly willing to have Joe pound him to his heart's content.

Andy was not as slow as his weight would indicate, but Joe made a chopping-block out of him and Trainer Rooney had to caution the little fellow to go slow, as it was his first day of training.

The principal thing that was sticking out all over Rivers was his seriousness and earnestness. He did not laugh or joke with the spectators or his trainer, as he was wont to do, but went to the business in hand and only smiled when some enthusiastic spectator yelled at him to "whale away."

Joe Levy, the astute manager of Rivers, has arranged to have Len Lauder come out to Doyle's and act as training partner with Rivers. Rivers has a great deal of respect for Lauder and, in fact, Lauder is one of the cleverest little fighters in the business. He will go out to Doyle's this afternoon and will box several rounds with Rivers. He has been up in the mountains for several weeks and is in the best of condition. He will remain with Rivers up to the time of the contest.

Rivers seemed in his try-out yesterday to have learned a great deal from his fights with Kilbane. For the first time in his life he was using a straight left to his opponent's face in somewhat the same tantalising manner that Kilbane boasts of. He is also trying to keep away from his opponent, not from fear of him, but from a desire to perfect his defense.

AT KIRKWOOD'S CAMP.

An unusual amount of interest has centered around the St. Ignatius Club, where little George Kirkwood is training for his fight with Rivers. Kirkwood has not been generally known here, and it has been only in the last few days or since he was matched with Rivers that the local fans have been turning their attention to him.

It is a fact that Kirkwood has fought twenty-two contests and has lost only one decision and that was in a scratch fight in San Francisco, when he entered the ring as a substitute and without a day's training. In all of his other fights, he has won with the exception of his fight with Rivers, where he secured a draw.

Kirkwood is a powerfully-built little man. He can make 122 pounds ringside without the least trouble, which shows him to be a natural featherweight. He has a kick like a mule in both of his hands, and has been able to knock out his man when he was able to reach him.

To his training partners he is known as the "Human Teddy Bear," owing to the fact that he boasts of as much hair over his chest and body as ever did the famous Jimme de Jeff. His shoulders are as broad as Rivers and his waist is as narrow as a debutante.

Louis Reese, who trained with Johnny Kilbane in his last two fights, has taken over the job of boxing with Kirkwood. Reese is a heavy boy and very powerful, and Kirkwood tears into him like a young hurricane.

Yesterday Kirkwood boxed three rounds with Reese and displayed a wonderful hitting ability and seemed to have improved in his cleverness.

Dick Wayne, who has been matched for one of the preliminaries at the Rivers-Kirkwood fight, will join forces with Kirkwood today, and will be his chief boxing partner. They will box this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the St. Ignatius Club.

READY FOR THE RAINS.

Tire Man Prepares for Wet Season and Buys Stock of Non-Skids. Nobby Is Extra Heavy.

With the coming of the rains, the demand has commenced for tires of the anti-skid type. To meet this demand, the United States Tire Company is rushing to the Coast the largest shipment of Nobby treads ever sent to this territory.

This record order which was placed by J. C. Weston, of San Francisco, the Western District Manager, was the result of the big demand for Nobby treads which came from the Los Angeles, San Francisco and Northwestern branches.

The prominence gained by this tire with the nobs during the past two years has been phenomenal, but only in keeping with other giant strides in the motor industry. The Nobby has proved not only an extra heavy tire, but at the same time one which would not skid.

Manager John Wiese of the United States Tire Company states that he will be ready to supply the Nobby and Morgan & Wright in all sizes.

MORE CARS NEEDED.

Don Lee Anxious to Secure Cadillacs in Increasing Numbers—Many Orders Booked.

The little glooms which have been prancing around the Don Lee establishment on account of the delay in the shipment of 1912 Cadillacs have disappeared and the little joys are now doing their merry dance.

Cadillac cars are now on the way in large numbers. Six carloads are en route and sixteen other carloads will follow this month.

Thus far twenty cars have been receiedv by the Los Angeles branch and a like number in San Francisco. This is a lot of cars compared with the shipments received by other agents, but Lee, having so many orders in advance, is anxious to get the back orders cleared up as soon as possible.

The Cadillac factory has notified the Cadillac agent that from now on cars of all models will be shipped in abundance.

Newton Gresser, formerly of Detroit, has been made sales manager of the Don Lee company in Los Angeles and has taken charge of the sales end of that concern. Gresser is a man of years' experience in the motor industry and has always been a Cadillac enthusiast.

Robert L. Alvies is another new member of the Lee company. Alvies's position will be that of general auditor. He will spend some weeks in Los Angeles and will then make the rounds of numerous Cadillac branches in the State.

Lester Patee, the Pasadena branch manager, is having a big year, and has booked thirty-eight advance orders.

Roscoe Anthony in the Regal made a hard fight but was forced out of the race by the fierce pace set by the Buick and Ford. Anthony is the son of C. S. Anthony and drove his first race. He showed his nerve and has a cool, level head.

Magneto trouble put the Regal out of the running after young Anthony had driven five fast laps. He looked like a winner in the early part of the race and showed some real thrills as his handsome little speedster raced up Nevada avenue. He drove a heady race and was cheered by thousands when he finished.

FLYING SPARKS OF MOTORDOM.

Latest estimates of the number of motor cars which will be built in the United States during the next twelve months put the figure at 228,000, including pleasure cars and commercial vehicles.

It is noticeable that an increasing number of persons are now reading newspapers as they ride in automobiles. At first no motorist ever did this. They were all engrossed in the novelty of the machine.

It has been definitely decided that in 1913 and thereafter there will be only one automobile show in New York, combining the interests of the N. A. A. M., and of the Automobile Board of Trade, to be held at the Grand Central Palace.

It is now probable that the truck wheel standards recently promulgated by the Society of Automobile Engineers will be adopted by substantially all of the makers of solid tires, and that within a few months tire equipments to S. A. E. standards will be in use.

In addition to the prize of $4000 in gold offered by the Savannah Automobile Club, the winner of the Grand Prize race at Savannah in November will receive some $1500 offered by accessory makers, or a total of $6500 cash. The entrant of the winning car will get the $5000 gold cup.

With three months still to run, the automobile fees for 1911 collected in Massachussetts seem certain to reach above half a million dollars. This enormous sum is lost sight of by the public in estimating the cost of automobiles, while the small amount of fines, only about $27,000 last year, is usually exaggerated.

The Delaware River boulevard, the road proposed to follow the shore of the river of that name through New Jersey, will be one of the most beautiful automobile routes known anywhere. The road will cover twenty-eight miles in Sussex county, every bit of which is close to the river. Nowhere will it depart more than 100 feet from the river bank.

The solid rubber tire for trucks is giving good results, but when a tire comes off, it means changing a wheel. On a five-ton truck a spare wheel is awkward to carry, and some form of demountable tire is needed. The tire makers realize this, and are wrestling with a satisfactory fastener for such a rim. If such can be perfected, then the solid tire business will be on quite a different footing.

A large exhibition of automobiles was held in connection with the farm display in the American Royal in Kansas City, Mo., this week.

The people of Alliance, O., are still talking about their new motor chemical, hose and hook and ladder truck, which made a trip of 350 miles overland from a factory in Detroit. The truck received ovations all along the route.

The road races proposed to be held in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, Cal., on Washington's Birthday, February 22, 1912, 1913, 1914 and 1915, have met with the approval of the Motor Car Dealers' Association of San Francisco, which has adopted resolutions favoring the contests.

TIGERS CLAW OAK HEAVERS.

Knock Them All Around Lot for Seventeen Hits.

Stewart Bumped in Third, but Stays in Game.

Many Bad Errors Help the Teams to Make Runs.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Happy Hogan had more pepper tonight than in all the first four days of his stay in San Francisco.

And it wasn't hard to find the answer. The Vernonites regained their batting eyes, and with the Oaklanders making all sorts of inexcusable errors, Martinoni was sent to the clubhouse after the sixth inning was well under way and the Tigers continued to gather in runs off Leonard, the Commuter recruit from the Athletics. Not an inning passed but that Vernon made at least one hit and the sum total of scoring in the most loosely played game of the series was 13 to 8.

The Villagers, for that matter, didn't play much better ball, outside of the hitting department, than the Oaks, and the only thing there was to feel joyous about was the mere fact that the southerners had finally stopped their run of hard luck. Even that enthusiasm was tinged with the knowledge that Portland was a winner over the Angels so that Hogan, after all his gallant fight, was doing nothing more than standing still.

Earlier in the week, a victory of that kind might have done wonders for the Villagers. As it stands, however, with the series aready a wreck and the Beavers persistent in winning from the Angels, it doesn't apparently make a world of difference.

Martinoni wasn't taken out of the box until the game was as good as won although he gave indications from the very outset of wildness and a tendency to allow all sorts of hits. Leonard wasn't much better, for that matter, and the Vernonites, rejoicing in their newly-discovered ability to lambast the ball, continued to swing to all sections of the field.

McDonnell, who hasn't been doing anything all the week, was the star batsman of both teams. Five times he was at the bat and on four of those trips he placed the ball far beyond interference by the fielders.

The fielding at times was miserable. Two errors in a row by Burrell and a dropped fly by Coy in the second session, account in large part for the brief lead that was granted the Oaks and excuse Harry Stewart for a majority of the runs that were piled up against him. Neither were the Commuters altogether blameless from the fielding standpoint, miscues by Pearce and Wares in the sixth helping the Villagers when they finally commenced to pound the ball.

Vernon annexed three runs off Busher Martinoni in the first inning. Carlisle pasted the ball over the right field fence and cantered home in solitary grandeur. Ross hit one to Tiedemann for an out and Patterson walked. Another walk for Brashear complicated the situation and after Stinson had forced Brashear, a long single to left by McDonnell scored two men ahead of him, making three tallies in all.

SACRAMENTO DROPS INTO FIFTH PLACE.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 14.—Sacramento dropped back into fifth place today by losing to the Seals 8 to 4. Inability to hit the San Francisco pitchers when hits were needed cost the locals the game.

The visitors bunched hits off Thompson at critical times and when they got away to a four-run lead in the first inning they were never in danger. Score:

ENGINEERS ON TOUR.

Party to Sail on Steamer for Europe Where Foreign Motors Will be Examined.

The prospects are good for the size and success of the trip the members of the Society of Automobile Engineers will take abroad late this month to view the automobile show at Olympia, London, and leading automobile factories in England and France, and to participate in meetings with the Incorporated Institution of Automobile Engineers.

In addition to events previously announced, visits will be made to the South Kensington Museum in London, the testing laboratories of the Royal Automobile Club of England, and of the Automobile Club of France and the Conservatoire des Arts et Metiers.

The party will probably sail on a steamer leaving New York November 1, and the programme outlined will take up just about the whole month of November, including the return journey home.

NATIONAL WINS.

tenth to fifth place in three short laps.

It was a race for giant motors. The pace was too fierce for the Midland and the car dropped out on the third lap hopelessly outdistanced.

DEATH NEAR.

Harry Endicott, in the Interstate, was wrecked on the "S" turn. His racer left the course and dashed through the fence. He escaped with severe body bruises.

One of the thrills came in the fourth lap when the Fiat and National both stopped for tire changes and both made them in exactly the same time.

Wilcox and his National shot away just behind Teddy and his Fiat with its giant motor, which belongs to Sydney Smith.

Teddy beat Wilcox to the tape by 300 yards, but the National shot into dead man's turn at ninety miles an hour, slowing down just in time to take the curve behind the Fiat.

GETS SECOND.

Joe Dawson in the Marmon, hit a pace that shot him into second place. The yellow giant came roaring down the pike like a winner.

Bert Dingley, who started first, kept his place and at the end of the fifth lap was hitting a fierce clip at ninety-two miles an hour.

Dingley was first at the end of the fifth lap with Dawson in the Marmon less than forty seconds behind. Tetzlaff was third, but driving like Jehu.

Tetzlaff broke all world records on the sixth lap, making the 8.417 miles in 6m., 8.30s., at an average speed of eighty-one miles an hour, beating all world records and lowering the track record of the Fiat by 20s. This means that Tetzlaff made more than 100 miles an hour down the Palisades.

"Cockey" Wilcox in the National changed two tires in the eighth lap and dropped back to fifth place. He lost three precious minutes, and gave his place to Charles Merz on another National. Wilcox was satisfied to make Tetzlaff drive the tires off his car.

Tetzlaff was leading at the 100-mile mark and with half the race over the man who won last year, looked as if he would repeat the trick.

The Pope-Hartford was less than two minutes behind the big flyer.

On the eleventh lap Tetzlaff once more courted death on Dead Man's Curve, turned completely around and saved himself in the nick of time. He scattered the crowd but did not lose control of his car. He lost two rear tires and the first place.

Dawson in his Marmon, the favorite in this big race, roared into first place on the twelfth lap, driving a race just like Harroun when the Marmon "Wasp" won the 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway battle. Dingley in the Pope was second and Wilcox in the National third.

Patschke in his Marmon was first at the end of the fifteenth lap with Dawson in the other Marmon second and Dingley in the Pope-Hartford third.

On the eighteenth lap Patschke in the Marmon was first and Dingley in the Pope-Hartford was second, with Dawson on the other Marmon only seconds behind. The three cars were separated by less than thirty seconds with but five more laps to go.

Driving himself into a world record without a stop, Patschke, in the Marmon, held his place flying over the course like a great yellow bird, and in the twentieth lap of the free-for-all had a lead of two minutes over the Pope-Hartford.

Joe Dawson stopped to change a tire and dropped into fourth place, with Harvey Herrick in the National second. The local boy had taken the place from the two eastern drivers.

Thousands of dollars worth of tires were burned up but the race was remarkable for tire trouble and also a wonder for police protection, which was perfect. The course was always clear.

Harvey Herrick jumped a place at the end of the twenty-first lap and passed the Pope-Hartford.

Wilcox in the National and Dingley in the Pope left the repair pits together on the twenty-second lap and fought it out for eight miles.

On the next lap Herrick raced into first place with a burst of speed that proclaimed him a world beater. He passed Patschke in the Marmon and Joe Dawson in the other Marmon close together. The Pope-Hartford dropped out.

PROPER CARE OF TIRES.

Michelin Man Tells Just How to Prolong Life of Inner Casings and Outer Shoes.

According to the Michelin Tire Company of Milltown, N. J., there are dozens of equally interesting subjects pertaining to the proper care of tires, but the one thing that contributes most to the premature tire destruction is traveling on tires that are not sufficiently inflated.

"Many motorists," says the Michelin tire man, "give so little care to their tires that the first intimation when a muffled sound or a jolt, caused by one of the wheels coming in contact with some hard object on the road, discloses the fact that the rim is touching the ground.

"The envelope is then patched, a new tube fitted and a garter put on for the purpose of increased strength. The driver then proceeds to the nearest garage, where a new envelope is obtained, the damaged one being left for repair. Nearly always it is found that the tread is the only part of the envelope that has not been totally destroyed. The beads are found to be broken or torn away. The walls of the envelope are scored and scraped inside and out. The canvas is torn and frayed and has broken away from the rubber. The envelope has lost its shape entirely, its several parts are disintegrated.

"The tube, replaced on the road, which was perhaps new, or nearly new, when the journey started, has been torn beyond all hope of repair and scraped and scored all over, some of the incisions being almost as deep as the thickness of the rubber itself.

"All this delay, trouble and expense is the direct result of traveling on a deflated tire, whereas periodic inspection of the air pressure would have entirely prevented the damage."

MEDIUM CAR RACE:

Ford Model T Town Car, 6 Passengers, Fully E

FORD MODEL T for 1912 is the same high-priced quality car as it was in 1911; the same scientifically accura simple design; the same heat-treated Vanadium steel construction; the same reliable, universal car that carries the of Ford all over the world.

There have been no mistakes to correct—no experiments to try out—but conveniences have been added and a marked reduction in pri possible through larger production and greatly increased factory facilities.

There are no "ifs," "ands," "buts," "bluffs," nor "exceptions." 75,000 Ford Model T Cars will be built and sold during 1912, because demand for 75,000 Ford Model T cars. We are not estimating, or guessing, or taking chances. We know.

With a selling organization composed of three large reserve warehouses, 33 branches and more than 3500 Ford dealers, our business fingers pulse of automobile trade conditions. We know from the insistent demand that it will take at least 75,000 Ford Model T cars to supply the demand

This demand exists only because Ford Model T has "made good" with more than 100,000 owners. You cannot get any better evidence Ford Model T must be a high quality car—it must be all we claim, to give so very many individual owners such continuous satisfaction.

To build 75,000 Model T cars will not, in any sense, stretch or strain the producing capacity of the great Ford factory. It simply mean output of 250 cars. We have, during the past, frequently turned out 300 cars a day. In May, 1911, with 26 working days and with no over production was 6013 cars. Thus, with present facilities and our ordinary working force, 75,000 cars is but a normal production.

The Ford factory is conceded by the most famous mechanical engineers to be the most compact and efficient automobile factory in the world, being equipped with labor and time saving machinery designed by Mr. Henry Ford especially for the manufacture of Ford Model T cars.

The Ford Motor Company devotes all its efforts to the building of ONE MODEL, thus assuring a degree of efficiency (because of continued familiarity of the employees with their work) not possible where several models are being constructed and where the workmen are frequently changed from one piece of work to another.

The Ford factory is running continuously twelve months in the year. The workmen are never bothered with the troublesome thought of being "laid off" for a while. They know their employment is secure so long as they are efficient and industrious.

Still another fact lies in the simplicity of the design of Ford Model T. It is a quicker car to build, because there are few parts and nothing intricate. So simple that any ordinary individual readily understands it.

The Ford Motor Company has the financial strength to build 75,000 cars without borrowing a dollar. It will pay spot cash, take advantage of every discount, and hence have the market of supplies at its command. Think of the force for low prices which the buyer commands when he goes into the market for 300,000 wheels, 300,000 tires, 375,000 lamps, 75,000 speedometers—all of the same style, the same model—and tens of thousands of tons of steel. When the seller knows he is going to get spot cash he does business on a mighty fine profit. Ford Model T buyers reap all these benefits, and others, too.

This all-round manufacturing efficiency possessed by the Ford Motor Company assures the highest standard of quality with the lowest standard of price. There is no occasion to lower the quality, and every opportunity to lower the price.

Ford Model T is the highest quality car made in the world, bar none. A striking illustration of this fact was evidenced in a test made by the Government of France in December, 1910, when they tested the materials of the Ford car against those of the best, highest-priced cars made in France. The test was for "traction and shock." Ford Model T was 30 per cent. greater in elasticity, 50 per cent. stronger and 25 per cent. better under all shock tests.

The very fact that there are now over 100,000 Ford cars in operation is the best evidence of the quality of materials used in their construction. Go where you will, you will find more than ten Ford cars to one of any other make, and this could not be so if the quality was not in the materials used in Ford Model T.

We have the demand; we have the factory facilities and capacity; we have the money; we have the selling organization, and we are going to make and sell 75,000 Ford Model T cars for the year 1912, and give the buyers the benefit of reduced prices for the best-all-round utility car in the world, and keep all buyers satisfied through our Ford service for Ford owners.

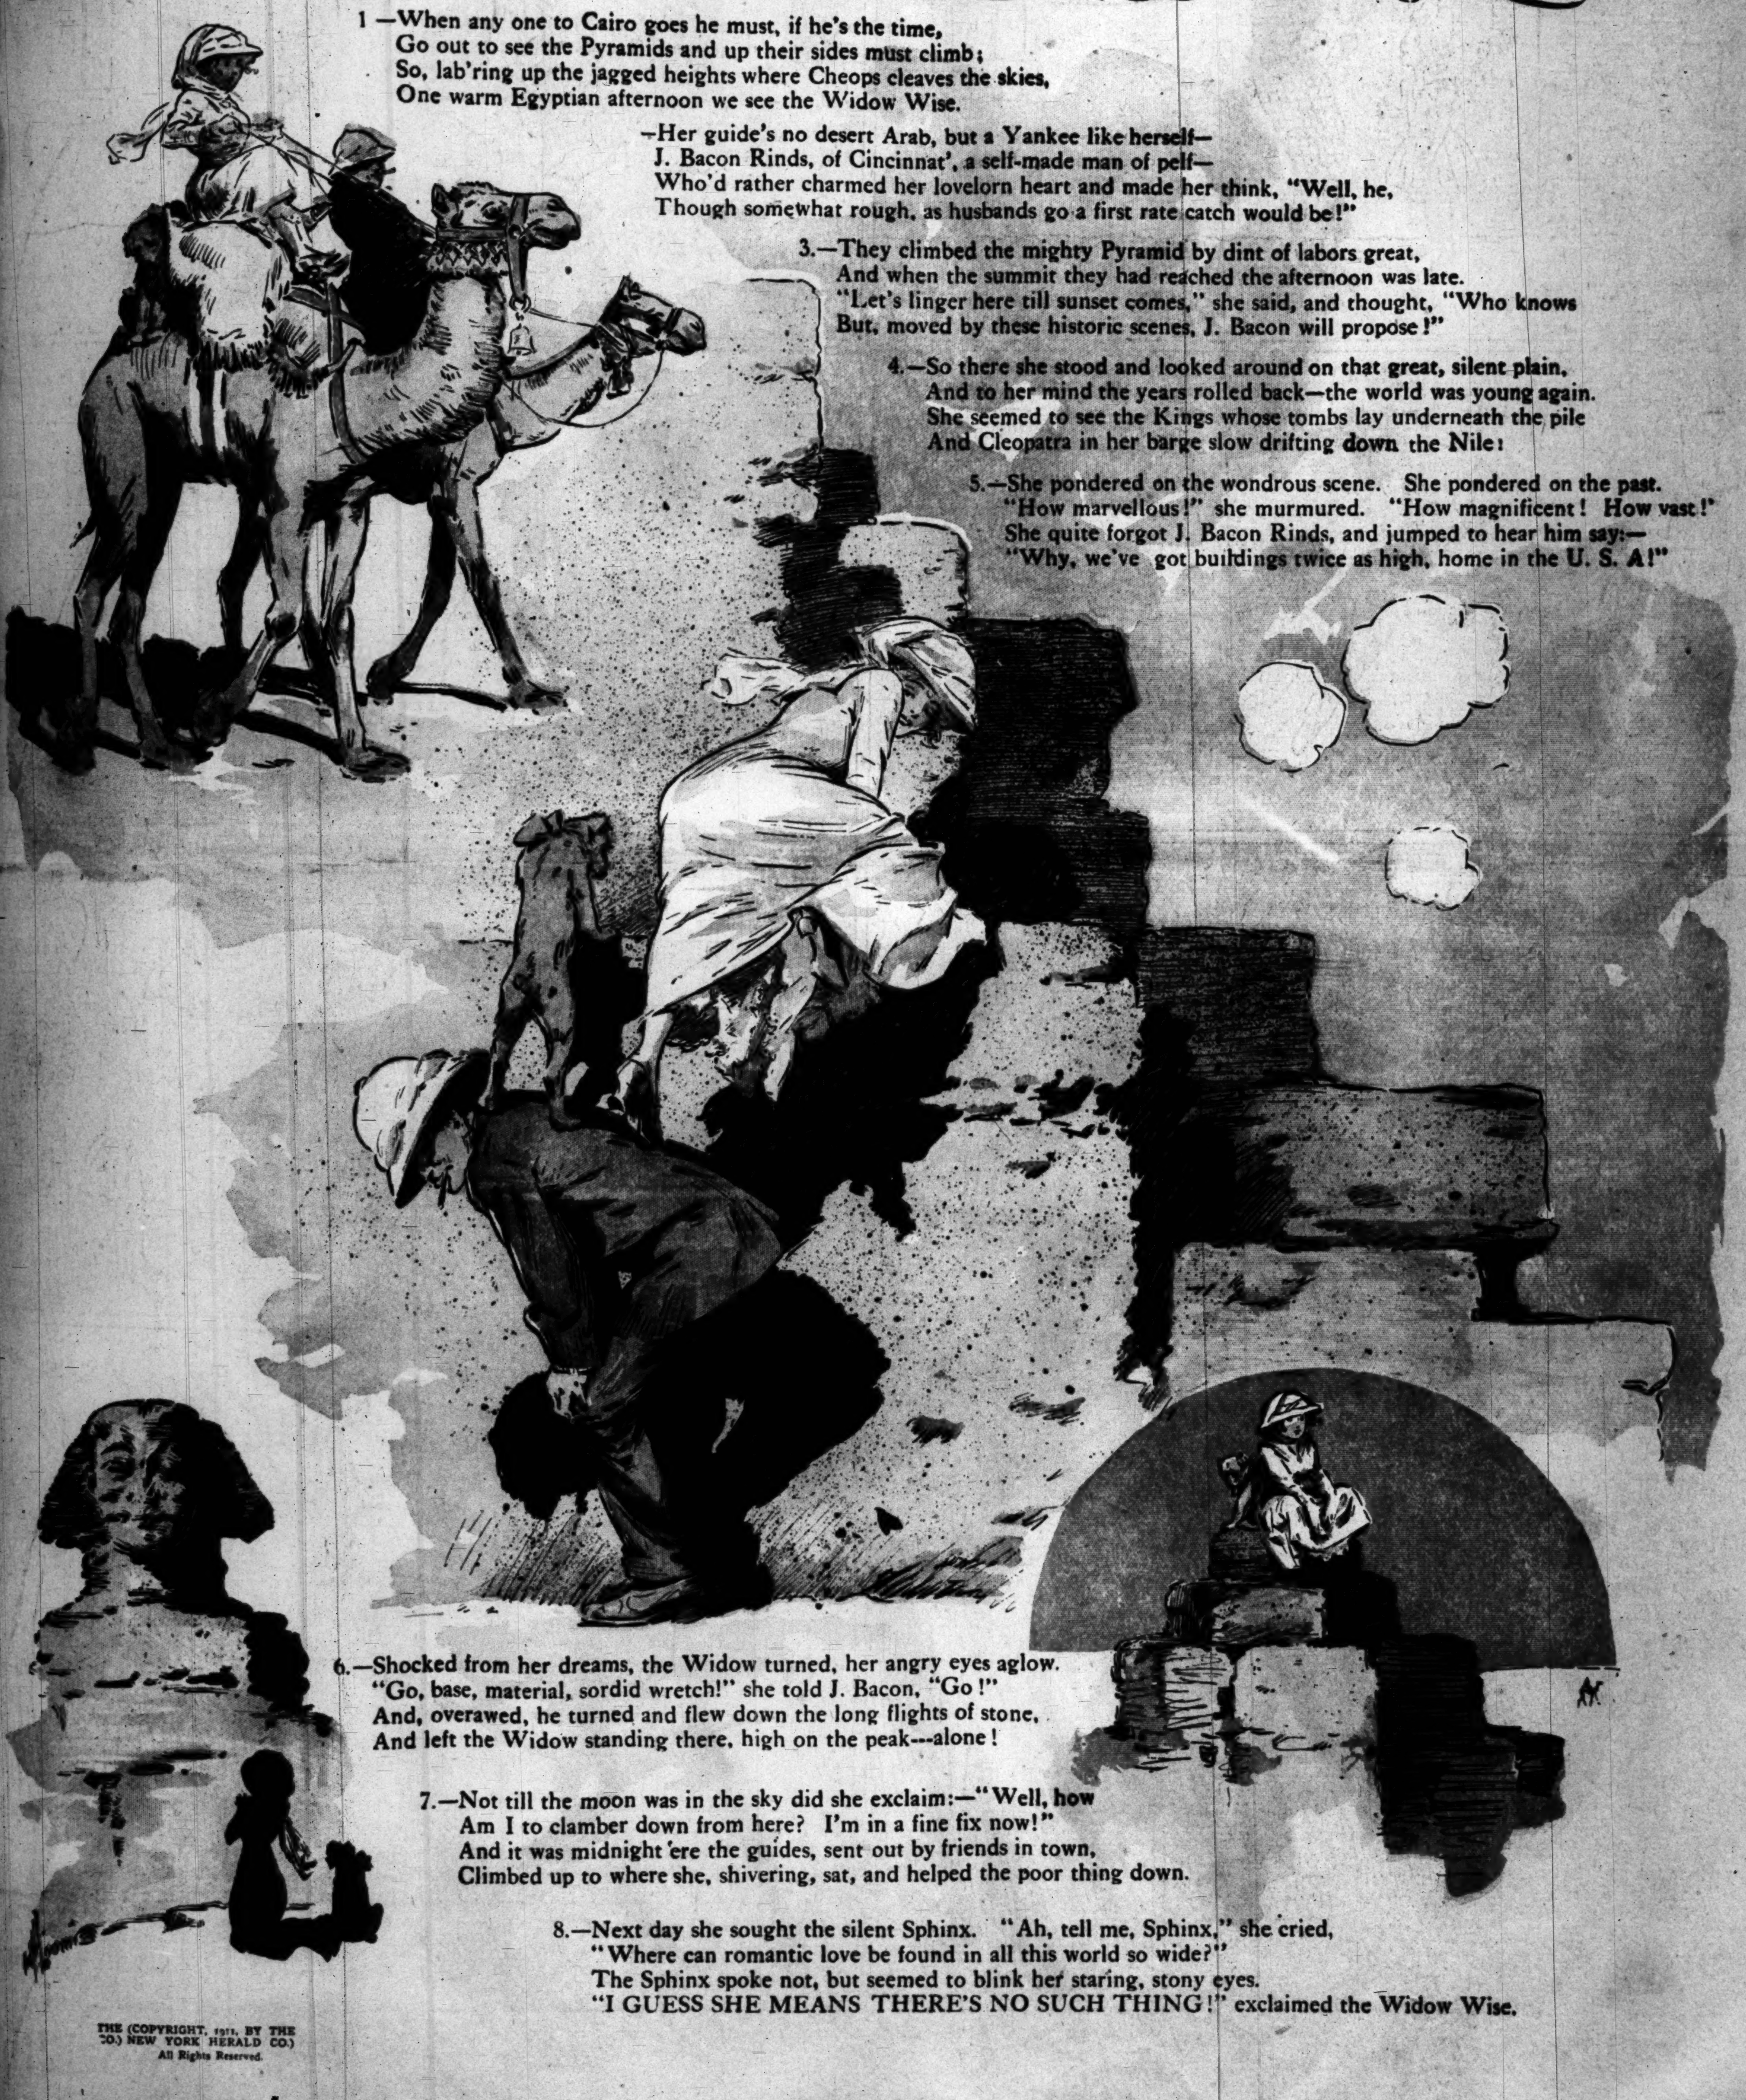
HE WIDOW WISE

Verses by Paul West ▾ Drawings by W. H. Loomis



1 —When any one to Cairo goes he must, if he's the time,
Go out to see the Pyramids and up their sides must climb;
So, lab'ring up the jagged heights where Cheops cleaves the skies,
One warm Egyptian afternoon we see the Widow Wise.

—Her guide's no desert Arab, but a Yankee like herself—
J. Bacon Rinds, of Cincinnat', a self-made man of pelf—
Who'd rather charmed her lovelorn heart and made her think, "Well, he, Though somewhat rough, as husbands go a first rate catch would be!"

3.—They climbed the mighty Pyramid by dint of labors great,
And when the summit they had reached the afternoon was late.
"Let's linger here till sunset comes," she said, and thought, "Who knows
But, moved by these historic scenes, J. Bacon will propose!"

4.—So there she stood and looked around on that great, silent plain,
And to her mind the years rolled back—the world was young again.
She seemed to see the Kings whose tombs lay underneath the pile
And Cleopatra in her barge slow drifting down the Nile:

5.—She pondered on the wondrous scene. She pondered on the past.
"How marvellous!" she murmured. "How magnificent! How vast!"
She quite forgot J. Bacon Rinds, and jumped to hear him say:—
"Why, we've got buildings twice as high, home in the U. S. A!"

6.—Shocked from her dreams, the Widow turned, her angry eyes aglow.
"Go, base, material, sordid wretch!" she told J. Bacon, "Go!"
And, overawed, he turned and flew down the long flights of stone,
And left the Widow standing there, high on the peak---alone!

7.—Not till the moon was in the sky did she exclaim:—"Well, how Am I to clamber down from here? I'm in a fine fix now!"
And it was midnight 'ere the guides, sent out by friends in town,
Climbed up to where she, shivering, sat, and helped the poor thing down.

8.—Next day she sought the silent Sphinx. "Ah, tell me, Sphinx," she cried,
"Where can romantic love be found in all this world so wide?"
The Sphinx spoke not, but seemed to blink her staring, stony eyes.
"I GUESS SHE MEANS THERE'S NO SUCH THING!" exclaimed the Widow Wise.

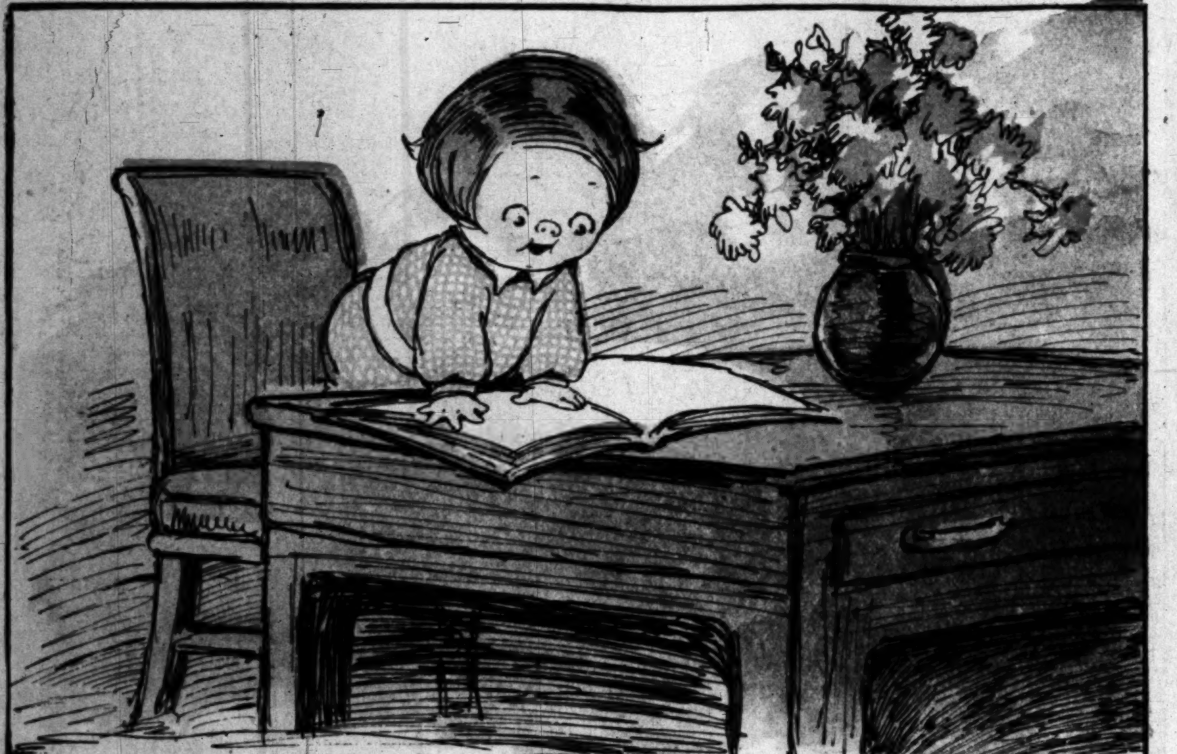
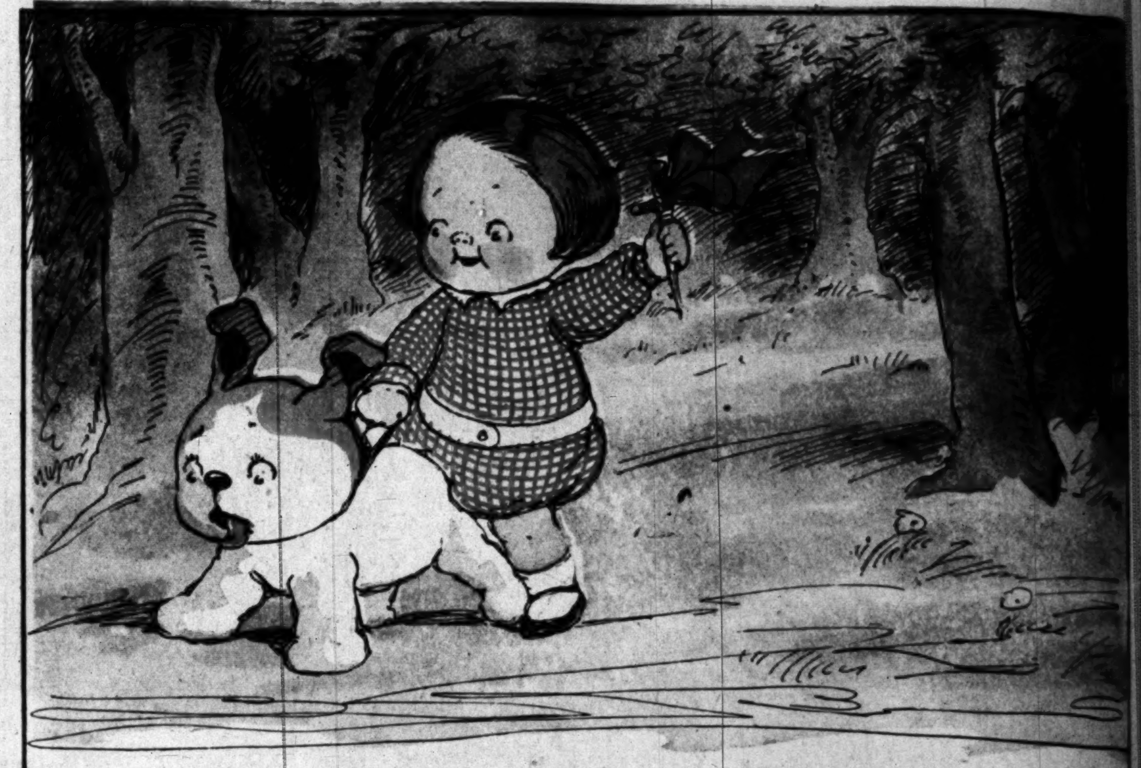
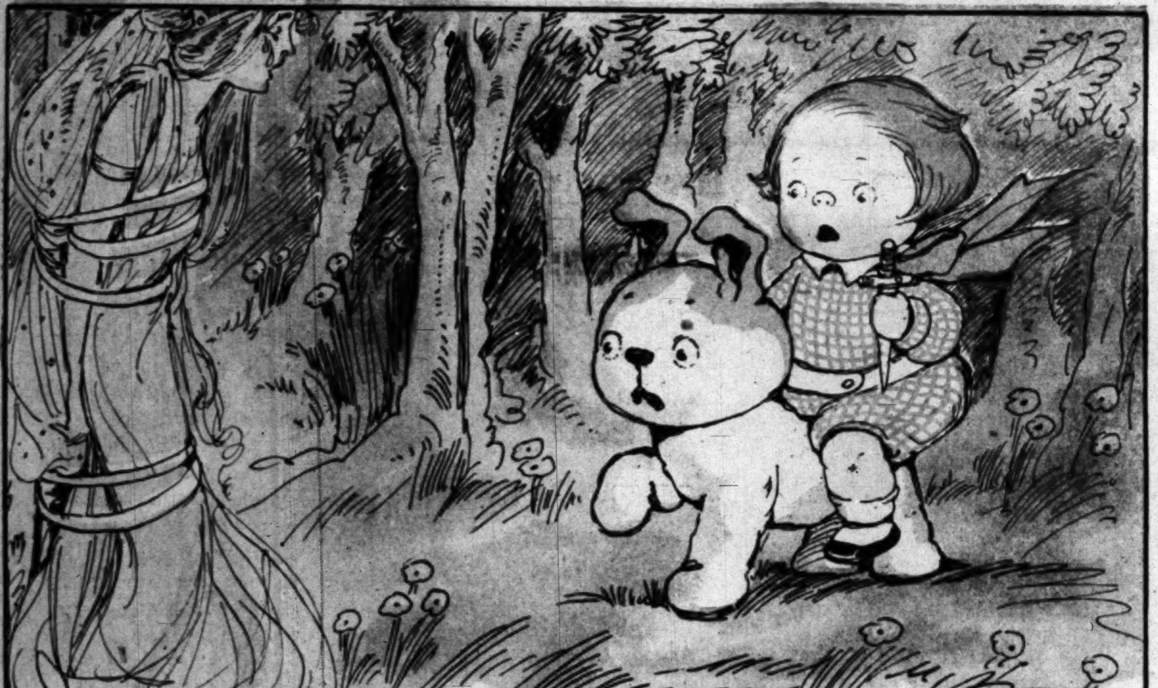
(Copyright, 1911, by The North American Company.)



Ther' was oncet a man what had Ten-sons an' one was named King Arthur an' he was a "night." A "night" is a person what rides a trusty steed an' has a sword called X-scallywag an' slews peoples, an'—an' I readed 'bout turn-o-mints an'—an' ever'fing like 'at, an' I sed, "I is goin' to be a 'night' too."

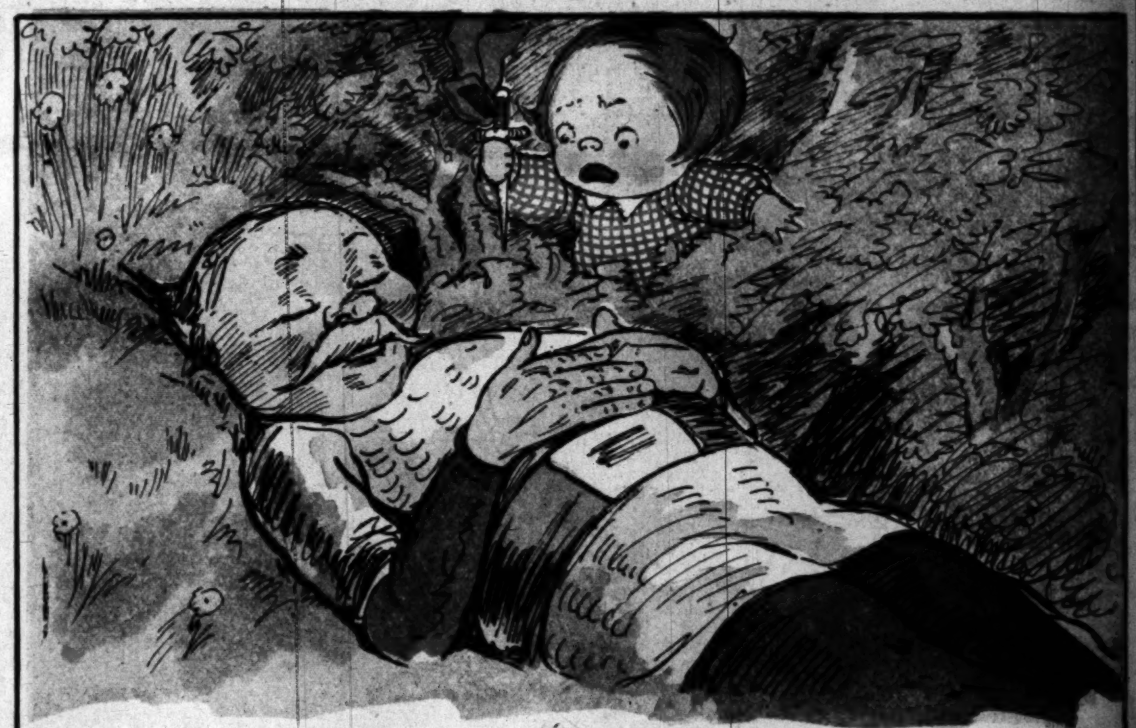


An' I taked Puppo for mine trusty steed, an' I called mine dagger X-scallawag, an' I tied Gwendylin 'Vangelin May's red hair ribbon to it—for a color—'cause it was a n'orful bright color—an' I rided forth to a deep wood—back of our back fence—an' Puppo he didn't not want to be a trusty steed a-t-all.

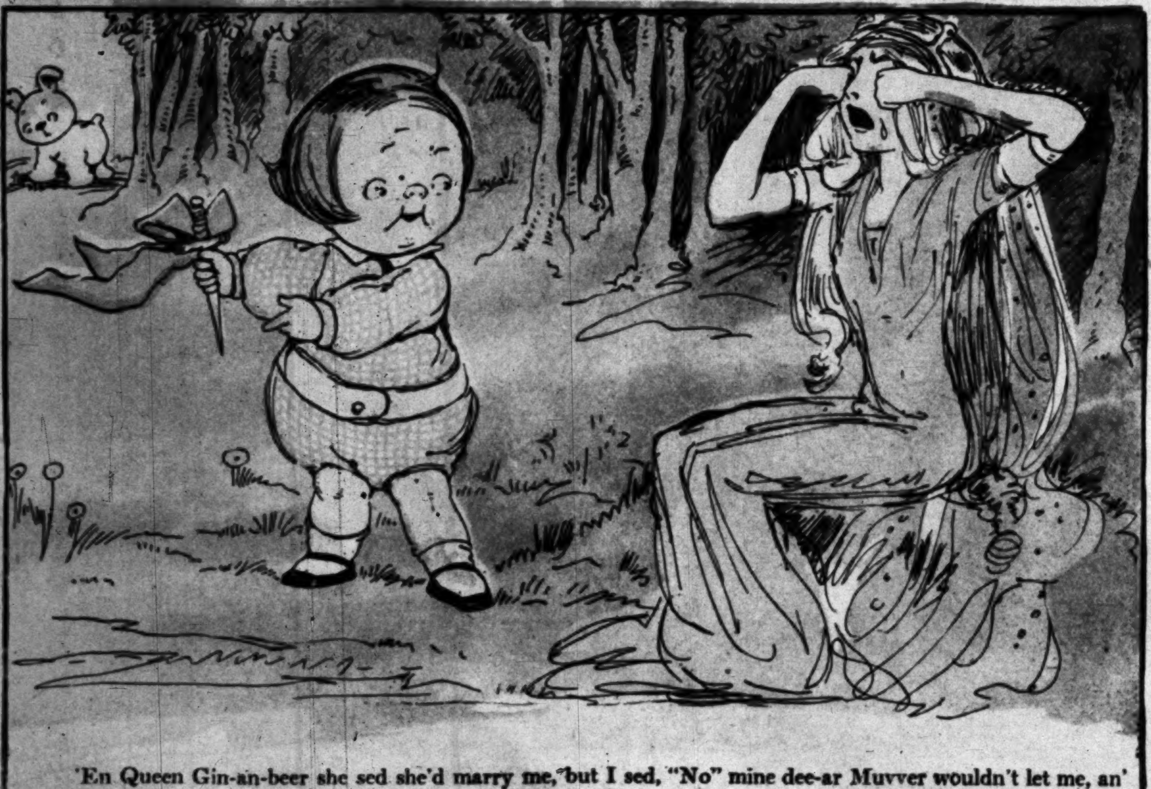


An' ther' was a bu'ful Queen named Gin-an-beer an' she was tied to a—a clothes post by a naughty bad enchanter—an' she see'd me comin' an' she sed, "Oh, safe me! Safe me! Lance-a-lot!" An' I sed, "I isn't not Lance-a-lot, I is Kaptin Kiddo—but all the more I'll safe you, Gin-an-beer!" An' I taked X-scallywag an' I cutted the ropes.

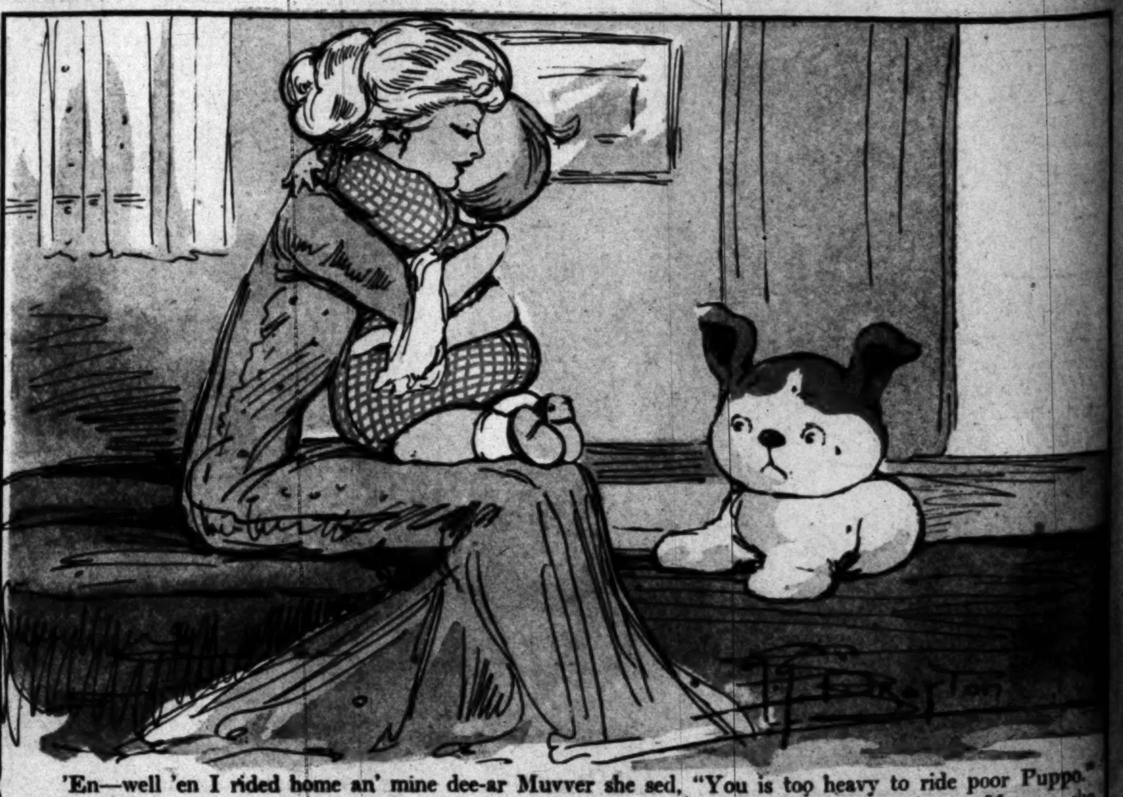
(Copyright, 1911, by The North American Company.)



'En I goed to—to seek the naughty bad enchanter—his name was Maryland—an' I finded him asleep an' I picked a lot o' mint an' covered him all up, an' he was a turn-o-mint, an' he shrivvelled all up till he wasn't not ther' a-t-all an' 'en I taked X-scallywag an'—an' I slewed him all up.

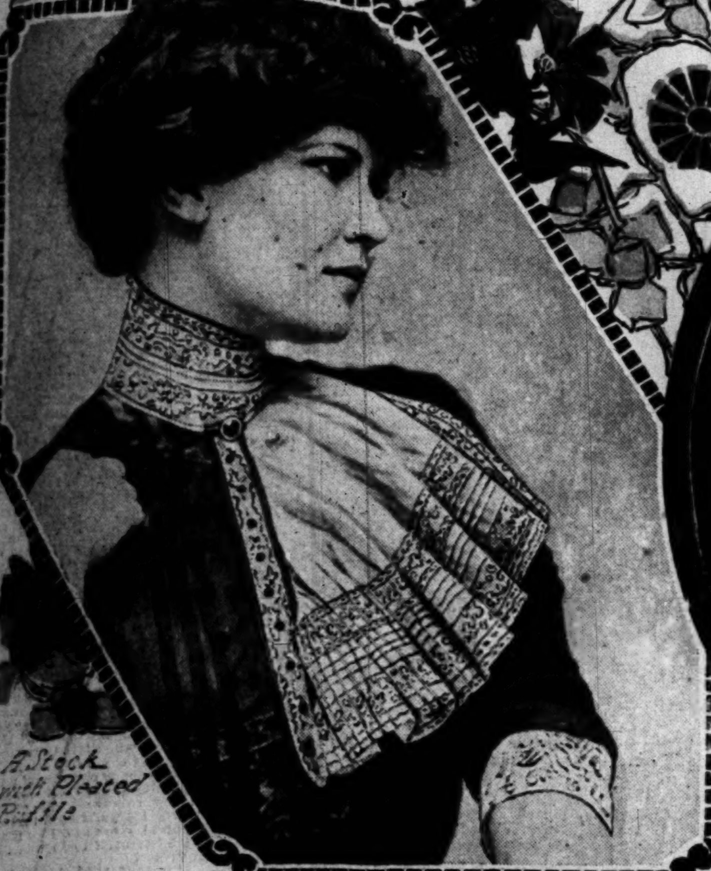


'En Queen Gin-an-beer she sed she'd marry me, but I sed, "No" mine dee-ar Muvver wouldn't let me, an' 'sides I was 'gaged to the fair maid who's hair ribbon was tied on X-scallywag. 'En Queen Gin-an-beer she cried an' cried an' cried till she was all cried to pieces—what-che-know-'bout-'at!

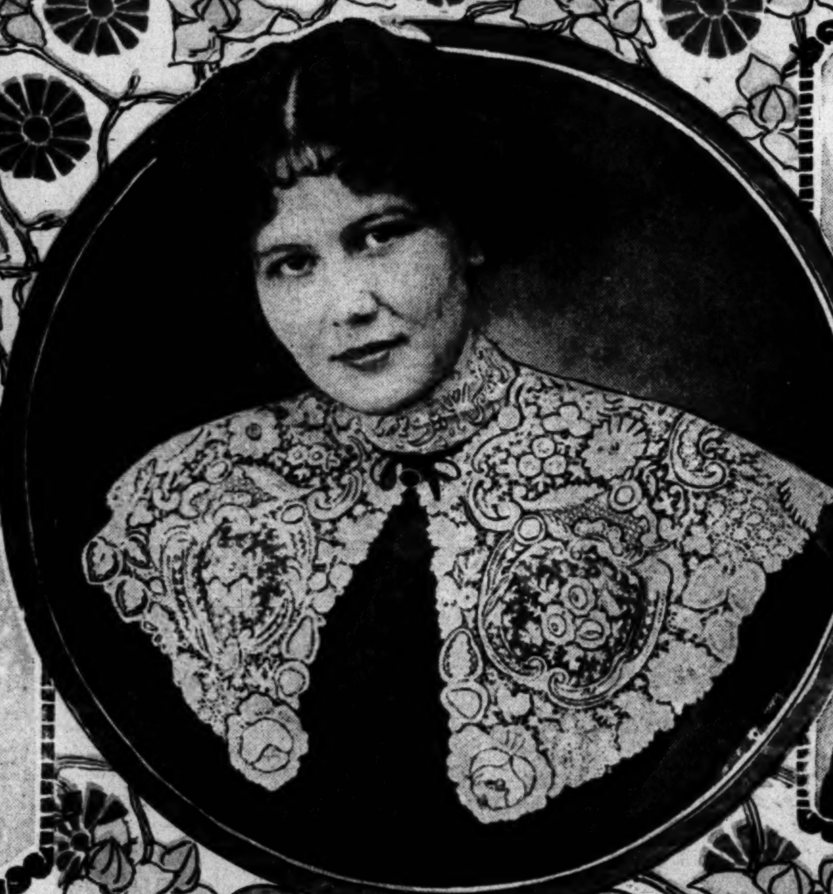


'En—well 'en I rided home an' mine dee-ar Muvver she sed, "You is too heavy to ride poor Puppo." An' I telled her 'bout me bein' a "night" an' slewin' fings wif X-scallywag, an' mine dee-ar Muvver she hugged me an' she squeezed me, an' she sed, "Oh you funny, cute 'ittle Kiddo!"

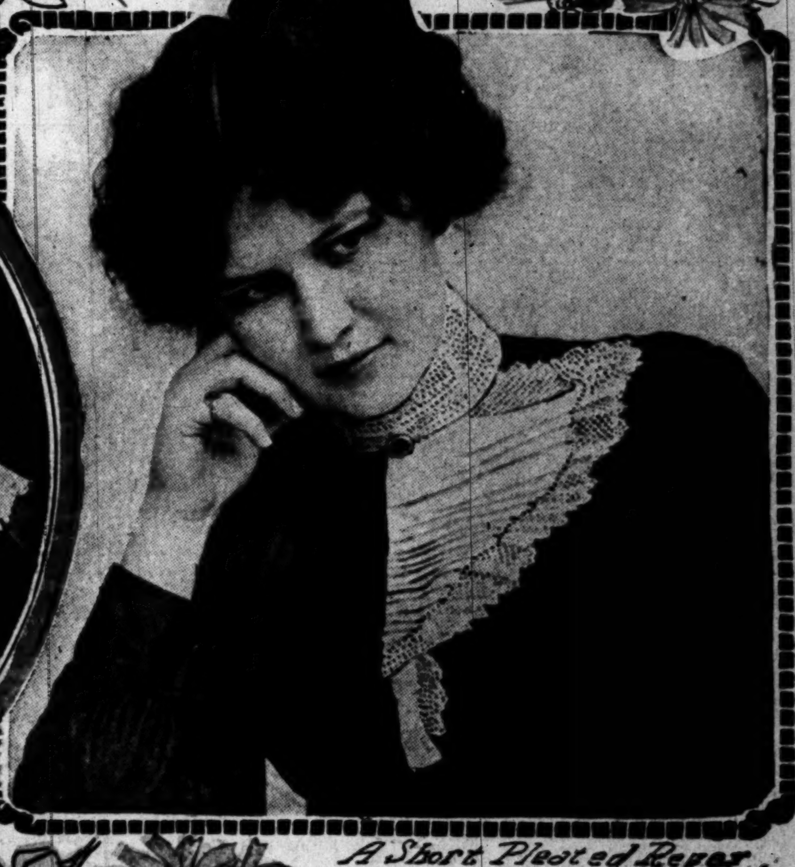
Neckwear in Modish Variety



A Stock with Pleated Ruffle



The Round Collar of Duchesse Lace



A Short Pleated Rever.

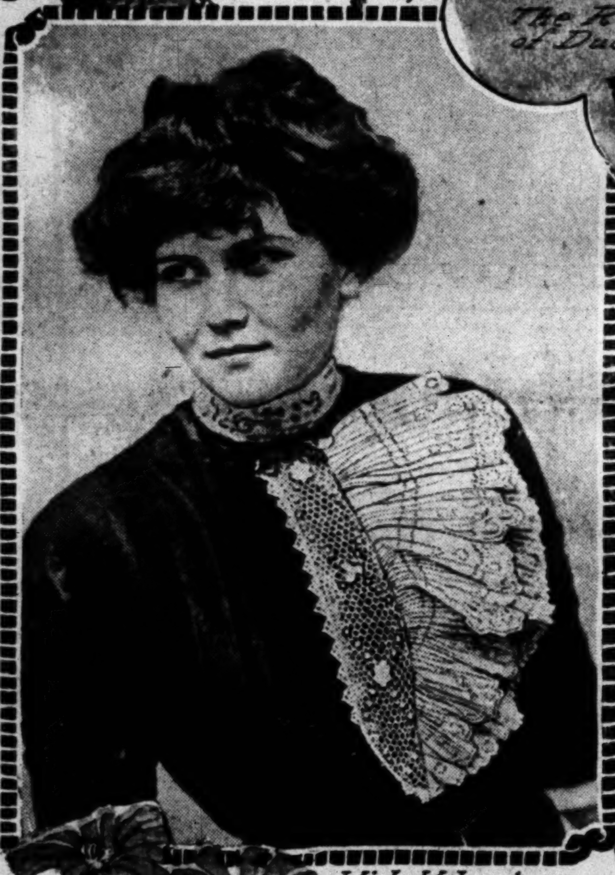
THE designers of accessories in dress have emphasized neckwear for the fall and winter. The dictum should be greeted by womankind with much joy, for the modish variety of the season's offering is capable of being worn by all types, and of entirely changing the appearance of a blouse. It is also easily made—a commendation that should appeal to all.

You will see that the one-sided effects predominate. There are revers, collars, plisses, jabots and stocks of all shapes and many materials. From the group you will be easily satisfied.

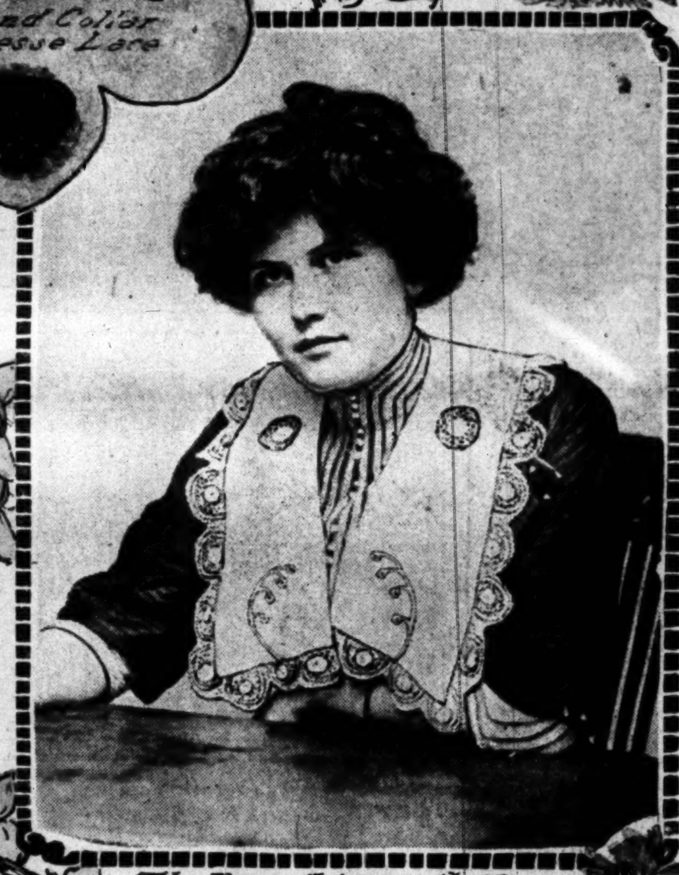
There's a short pleated jabot with nothing but a stock collar made of three rows of lace whipped together, and a triangular piece of linen edged with lace. The latter is pleated. Hand work, of course, enriches the otherwise plain shape.

The deep linen collar is pointed at the back and comes far down in front in sailor style. Motifs of Irish lace are set in, and deep scallops edge the whole. Solid and eyelet embroidery in a simple vine complete the decoration. This on a separate blouse or a simple serge frock is a beautiful addition worthy of your notice.

A flat effect is shown in the stock collar and rever of fine linen and Irish lace. On the perfectly plain material a design is worked in solid and eyelet stitches. Notice how beautifully the large chrysanthemum fills the corner. The stock collar carries out the same idea and the two form an exquisite set.



Wide Valenciennes and Irish Lace



The Deep Linen Collar

For a handsome afternoon or evening gown the round collar of duchesse lace and needle point is to be worn. It is sufficient beauty for the entire gown. Can you imagine anything more lovely than this rich piece over soft velvet? As it has wonderful wearing qualities, this is really not expensive.

The plisse with three points is a variation of the graduated-ruffle idea. The points are cut after the pleats are laid. Lace edges the whole, and embroidered coinspots extend in from the edge in straight lines.

Another modish jabot is attached to a straight piece of lace and to the stock collar. Black buttons and pipings are introduced, and the fine net is tucked and combined with ecru shadow lace. This shape is broad and short. It is excellent to wear with the tailored suit.

Irish lace is used entirely for the model that widens out at the center. The pleated form is attached to the collar, and, although of exquisite workmanship, washes well and will last for years.

Last is a double-pleated ruffle of deep valenciennes attached to a strip of Irish lace. This is handsome, easily made and appropriate on a lingerie blouse, a separate bodice of chiffon or silk, or on a simple afternoon dress.

The neckwear of this season fits so satisfactorily any kind of garment, from the plain shirtwaist to the handsome evening gown, that it is not surprising that designers are making the most—and the best—of their opportunity. Variety and a modish charm are characteristics not to be forgotten. After glancing at the models before you, they are yours.

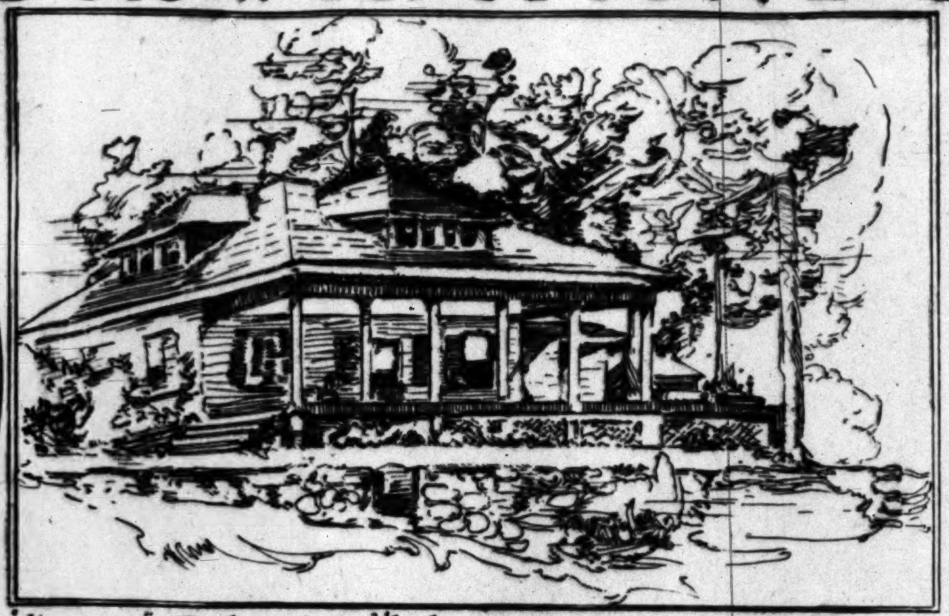
SCHOOL for HOUSEWIVES

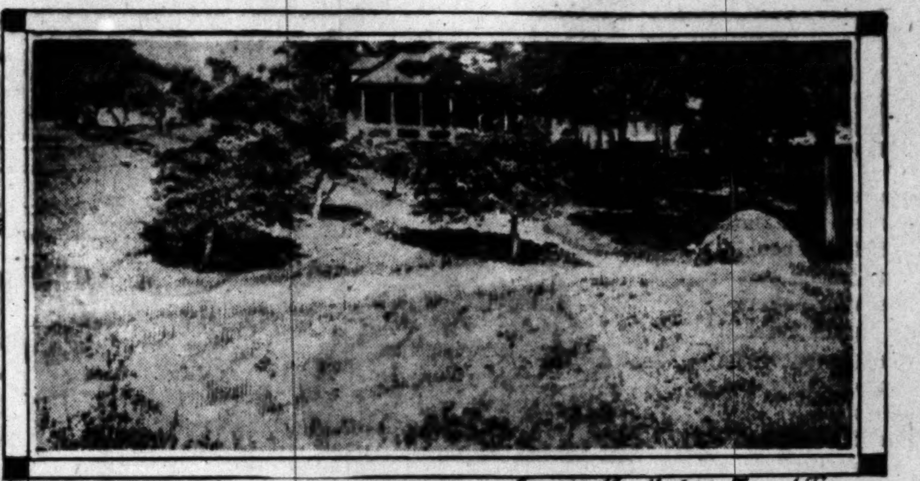
By MARION HARLAND

WHAT HAS YOUR VACATION DONE FOR YOU?

Marion Harland



"Kanesata." The Bungalow in Which Marion Harland, the Housemother's Friend, Spent her Summer.



Among the Native Forest Trees.

The View from the Veranda of Kanesata

DR. DUDLEY SARGENT, physical culture expert in Harvard, is credited with the following startling expression of opinion:

"In a large number of cases vacation means simply a period of loafing and overeating; of gossiping upon hotel verandas and making effort to kill time.

"To abolish vacations would be an unpopular measure, I know, but it would be better for many individuals. In many cases the vacation is more harmful than beneficial.

"People who devote a fortnight or more each summer to idle loafing and overeating come back to work more tired than when they went away."

Perhaps environment had much to do with the indignation that flamed up suddenly in my heart at the first reading of the three paragraphs of the learned expert's dictum which I have copied here. It was nearing sunset. The day had been oppressively hot, even among the hills, hundreds of feet above the sea-level. Imagination panted in conjecturing what might be the range of the mercury in the city, from which, in another hour, commuters would bring statistics of "prostrations from heat."

I read my paper at one end of the broad veranda. The adjacent wood of native forest trees made awnings unnecessary on this, the western front of our bungalow. I was in the shade, as was the party of young people grouped in picturesque ease more than twenty feet away. Four young fellows, ages ranging from 16 to 22, sat upon veranda cushions, their long legs tucked up as best suited their fancy, or sprawled to the porch verge. Three women lay back in wicker chairs, hands crossed indolently in their laps. One was a stenographer and typewriter, invited to pass a week's respite from machine and office in this retreat. Another was a governess from the city. She had one month's leave of absence, having undertaken "a vacation job" in the form of a pamphlet report of settlement work, to be put into the printer's hands by September 1. The third woman, the mistress of the house, when in the city has the care of a large family; social and charitable demands upon time and nervous forces sufficient in number and weight to exhaust any living creature of average "staying power."

One of the lads in flannels is taking his first flight into the world upon his own wings, having six months ago begun the practice of the chosen and well-behaved profession for which the last twelve years have been a preparation. The younger boys are still in training schools.

While seeming to hearken smilingly to the lively exchange of fun and spirited badinage that made up their talk, I bethought myself of the long-continued strain of three-quarters of the year that had prefaced the three months of nominal release from the confinement of office, schoolroom and lectures; of how those boys had studied last winter and spring; of nights turned into toilsome days as they bent over their desks in the chambers which should have been havens of repose; of the "preliminaries," the "intermediates" and the "finals" that were the crack and hiss of the driver's whip to their agonized souls. I recalled how their mothers appealed again and again to me to know if I "believed the boys could hold out until the end of the term."

I looked at the untimely care lines in the face of the governess and noted that even while the stenographer laughed and talked her fingers twitched involuntarily from the force of habit, as if manipulating the letterboard.

Looking and musing thus, the fire burned hotly in turning again to the headline of the article under my hand:

"ARE VACATIONS HARMFUL?"

The English are called "a serious people." The American is strenuous in his energetic drive along life's highway. The Briton is ridiculed for "taking his diversions solemnly." We, as a nation, had no diversions to speak of until within the past half century. The vacation, as a rule of existence, a right and a duty, came in with stationary tubs, sewing machines, sanitary plumbing, ventilation and other modern improvements, among which I reckoned the blessed sunshine in a Familiar Talk a few weeks ago. Many of us have learned the lesson but imperfectly even yet. Our forefathers were too busy the year round for holidays. The most conscientious and godly minded of them saw in stated periods of rest and merrymaking the lingering taint of papal and pagan superstition and frivolity. I recollect the first time I ever heard of a minister asking for a vacation as his right. He was a newcomer and popular. The parish granted him the "month off," but the sober-minded elders of his flock sustained a decided shock. It took ten years of faithful ministrations among them to quiet their pious sensibilities. I recollect, too, when schools had one month of vacation in May and another in October, and the wild thrill of exultation, mingled with wonder that was akin to awe, when all over the country June, July and August were freed from the shadow of school duties.

Parents of growing children and friends who keep a solicitous eye upon the young of their generation appreciate, as others cannot, that every hour of the twelve weeks is required to repair the wear and tear of the nine months of stress waxing into torture as the climax of "exams" draws near. It is a growing marvel to me, not that so large a percentage of school children break down under the cruel curriculum ordained by the educational powers that be, but that any live through it.

"There are twelve hours in the day in which a man may work." The inference is that he may take rest in sleep, or at least in inaction, for the other twelve. That is nature's vacation law.

And a physical culture expert asks gravely: "Are vacations harmful?"

Thus far had I reasoned and rebelled—and well-nigh raged—when a clause in the objectionable protest started up from the page at me:

"Loafing and overeating, gossiping upon hotel verandas and making efforts to kill time."

My observation goes to prove that the loafing crowds who frequent fashionable resorts during the summer are not, as a rule, of the class that needs a vacation. It is not the hands relaxed for one blessed week or fortnight from the strain of continuous toil upon which time hangs heavily. The yawning lounger upon the hotel veranda is usually so sated with a year's pleasures, or so narrowed and lowered by the treadmill round of moneymaking and losing, that he has forgotten how to "take his leisure in his inn," or elsewhere. If he overeats, it is not that he has fared frugally the rest of the year, but three, four and five meals per diem are so many ways of killing time. It is the habitual loafer—rich or poor—or the slave of business who does not know what to do with his holiday.

A proverb—homely to the verge of vulgarity—obtrudes itself upon me at this point. It was a longshoreman who repeated it in my hearing, and the queer connection in which it was quoted tended to fasten it in my memory. He said that the leader of the choir in a certain church "knew no more of music than a hog knows of a holiday." The fitness of the adage lies in the absolute ignorance of the porcine loafer of vacation and the need of it. I leave my fastidious reader to classify the lazy gluttons who excite in the professional mind doubts as to the beneficial effects of practical holidays.

My application of this thoughtful query is to those whose need of the vacation just passed was imperative and who have enjoyed every day of it, even the unprecedented "rainy season" in August.

I digress for a minute to protest against the prevailing prejudice embodied in the saying, "As dull as a rainy day in the country." In the bungalow on the hillside we had blazing wood fires upon the hearth of living room and library; the afternoon's swimming frolic was not postponed "on account of weather"; water-proof boots and caps and mackintoshes were donned for long walks and canoeing parties up and down the lake (the fish biting best in rainy weather), and the earlier fall of evening shadows made twilight talks about the glowing hearth an agreeable variety upon the sunset lounge on the veranda. After dinner we gathered about the "evening lamp"—now no figure of speech—and the mistress of the home read aloud to the party, the clear tones more musical for the accompaniment of the dash of rain upon the eastern windows and the sough of the wind through the dripping trees. Then to bed—and the sleep of the laboring man and woman off on their vacation doubly "sweet" for the lullaby of wind-lashed boughs and the sustained obligato of the rain upon the roof.

One evening we sat up until 11 o'clock to listen to what every one of us had read at least once before—that exquisite domestic idyl than which no more touching memorial of filial love was ever offered by son to mother—"Margaret Ogilvie," by Barrie.

In the strength of a vacation like this one may go for quintupled forty days.

Always provided—and here is the "application" of my lecture—that relaxation does not degenerate into a habit of mind and body. We set down as a sure token of restored vigor of both, when one "boy" volunteered the remark, one evening, after a "grand fishing day," that he was eager to get back to his studies.

"A fellow girds up his loins for serious work after a resting spell like this, you know," he added, as if it were a simple case of cause and effect.

As it should be! A life that would be a prolonged vacation would be a misnomer. The very word implies an intermission of specific duties, an empty space to be filled as we please. We do well to keep this truth in mind in the reaction which will come, in spite of common sense and philosophy, during the first week after we get back into the harness of winter work, household and school routine.

"It's all so flat!" moaned a little girl over the preparation of her lessons on the evening of her first day at school. "And town is so dull and cramped up!"

The mother and I exchanged glances of sympathetic amusement over her drooping head. Then we told her that a great English judge and philosopher had laid it down as a rule of health always to leave the table a little hungry after each meal. Was it not better, we asked, that she should come away from the country before she began to be weary of holidays? To end her vacation while she was still enjoying it? She would carry back a keener relish for the next than if the delights she now recalled lovingly had palled upon her taste ever so little.

She shook a doubtful head, and we let her alone. Transition is always trial. If the mother had spoken out her maturer mind, she would have confessed that the settling down consequent upon the "home again" had been her bugbear for the last days of vacation when she allowed her thoughts to anticipate it. THE HOUSEMOTHERS' EXCHANGE

IMPORTANT NOTICE

BECAUSE of the enormous number of letters sent to the Exchange, I must ask contributors to limit their communications to 100 words, except in cases of formulas or recipes which require greater space. I want all my correspondents to have a showing in the Corner, and if my request in this respect is complied with it will be possible to print many more letters.

Attention is called to the fact that Marion Harland cannot receive money for patterns, as she has no connection with any department that sells them.

An Old-Fashioned Mother

IT MAY be that a fair percentage of readers who are mothers may recall a letter published in the Exchange some time ago from "An Old-fashioned Mother." A thoughtful correspondent answered it by mail, under cover to me. It was duly forwarded to the writer, whose expression of opinion upon the subject of the "American Girl at Home" elicited the communication. She has returned it to me, with the following note:

The inclosed must interest you and other mothers. I am on the point of leaving this country for a somewhat extended visit to friends in the old country. Circumstances I need not explain make this practicable. My daughter goes with me. Please print the letter of my stranger friend, if you can make room, and explain to her why I have not been able to reply to her questions in detail.

OLD-FASHIONED MOTHER.

Here is the letter:

Your letter touched a responsive chord in my heart. You are not alone in being "old-fashioned." If more of the class would state the case as clearly as you have done, without so much mock sentiment about "slaves" and all such nonsense, perhaps more girls might see that they have home duties. In many instances it is cruel to a feeble mother to be left with all the domestic burdens to carry. The sooner girls who do not really need to work for a living leave shops, stores and offices, the sooner girls who really need to labor for an honest livelihood will command better wages. * * *

But where is the use of talking? The craze to follow the fashions and to appear in better clothes than they can afford is at the bottom of it all. The maid apes the mistress; the shopgirl, the wealthy customer, and so on along up or down the line, and nobody is one whit the better or happier for it. Some of these slaves to foolish ambition are lacking in common sense; some have no backbone. May the Lord have mercy upon them all!

My pen runs away with me! I only meant to ask you if you cared to correspond with a perfect stranger. * * *

I am 60 years old. I have a "bachelor daughter" who teaches in city public schools; also a son and one husband, the onliest I ever had. He is so steady he never will get "losted." We need domestics badly. Wages are only $3 per week, but when a good room, board, washing and time to do one's sewing in and for rest every day are counted in, it pays better than shop work, as ginghams, percales and other cheap fabrics are the usual working dress, leaving most of one's earnings for nicer clothes. The maid has not a large salary, but she may have a healthy, happy life until something really better offers.

I should like to ask some questions about flat life, as we may go into that before long.

ANOTHER OLD-FASHIONED MOTHER (Iowa).

Flat life is so much more simple than housekeeping in one's own residence, detached or semidetached, that you require no special instructions. Every apartment house has written regulations, which are specified in the lease signed by each tenant. For the rest you are as independent as you would be under your own rooftree in town or country.

Tar Drives Mice Away

Will you tell me how to get rid of mice when they overrun the place, cutting into everything they can get hold of and setting traps at defiance?

E. L. G. (Sunnyside, Ky.).

Pour tar down their holes and along their runways. Also scatter unslacked lime in their haunts. The tar sticks to their fur and drives them wild. The lime sifts through the fur to the sensitive skin and irritates it. I have seen barns effectually cleared of marauding armies of rats and mice by the use of tar and unslacked lime. Be liberal with both and look for the holes in which they live and through which they enter house and barn.

I am audacious in repeating advice that brought down upon my devoted head the anathemas of a local society for the prevention of cruelty to animals eight or ten years ago. I was "read out of meeting" publicly for the barbarous counsel, and given to understand that the poor "wee bit beastie" had as good a right to live and earn his living by his trade as I have. I was informed, moreover, that the only humane method of putting him out of life is by drowning him in warm water.

Since we must catch before we drown him, your problem would remain unanswered.

Neither the tar nor the lime kills the mouse. They only drive him from your premises and compel him to spend some time in cleaning his dainty fur. He is a cleanly pest and he cannot abide the feeling of the stuff that adheres to hairs and skin.

This is in answer to you and to two other sufferers from the like cause. The sprightly rodents are evidently upon the warpath.

A New Jersey woman complains that her books and clothing are gnawed to pieces by field mice, "who don't care for cheese. We set the traps right in their way, baited with toasted cheese, and they won't touch it!"

Try the tar and lime. They don't care for these, either, but they do the work!

So much for so little!

A Letter of Thanks

You are kind to send me Miss P.'s offer. We need the reading matter very much. The Exchange was the means of securing for us a generous supply of books and magazines, most of which are utilized daily by a horde of hungry young readers. We should be grateful for additions to the collection if we are not trespassing upon the generosity of our benefactors. I'll pay freight charges.

Mrs. H. T. W. (Riceville, Ia.).

It is not the habit of the Exchange to leave a good work half done. The address of the writer and the friend of the "hungry" readers is at the command of those who have books to give away where they will do most good.

A Filing System

I wish to tell housemothers how I file the recipes which I clip from the Exchange and from my journals.

I have a pasteboard filing case, such as is used in real estate offices for listing cards. On the division cards I have written "Cake," "Pie," "Salads," etc., so as to file each class of recipes by itself.

I have the white cards, 6x4 inches, which come on purpose for these files, and on these cards I paste my clippings, or sometimes write them. Then I file them away in the place where they belong, and they are easy to find when baking day comes round.

S. E. M. (San Diego, Cal.).

If your example were generally followed, there would be little need for petitions for the recipes "we meant to keep, yet which were lost through the carelessness of somebody, and which we must have by the next mail, or in your next issue"! That way madness lies.

For Uric Acid

In reply to "Rose O'C." (New York city), I submit the following:

Uric acid is a weak, delusive acid, and forms with difficulty soluble salts. A healthy persons secretes daily from 0.4 to 0.8 of a gram of uric acid. It is wanting in normal blood, but it may be present here under pathological conditions.

Gouty concretions and urinary calculi are composed in part of water.

Avoid alcoholic drinks. Alcohol precipitates the soluble salts formed from uric acid.

Treatment: Sodium phosphate, 30 grains, in half a glass of hot water; or lithium carbonate, 7½ grains, in half a glass of hot water. The latter is best.

N. B. P., Chemist (Reading, Pa.).

Perhaps I am a bit of a "crank" upon the subject of natural remedies. Without believing, as one eccentric scientist held, that nature has somewhere in her vast pharmacopeia a remedy for every ill to which human creatures are heirs, I do think that she is the wisest of physicians if we will but heed her teachings. So I incline to drinking natural mineral waters rather than to those prepared by the most skillful pharmacists.

Signal cures are effected by the free use of lithia water from natural springs. Sulphur and iron held in natural solution are far more efficacious than when compounded artificially.

This is not in criticism of our chemist's prescription, but the expression of individual opinion.

Enlarged Tonsils

In a late issue of the Exchange I saw something said of amber beads as a cure for enlarged tonsils. My little boy has lumps growing in his throat. I am afraid they are enlarged tonsils. I have not had a doctor examine him, as they do not hurt him.

Would your correspondent, "C. A. B. (M. D.)," advise the use of amber beads? What should I pay for them, and where may they be bought?

A CONSTANT READER (Ladysmith, Que.).

Have the child's throat examined by a competent physician, and without waiting until it "hurts." A very simple operation may save him years of suffering. The amber beads can do him no harm. They may assist in his cure. Personally, I have faith in their curative properties to some extent. I should not trust to them or to any other mild external application to eradicate a disease so well rooted as "adenoids" or any other form of fungus growth.

Real amber is sold by responsible jewelers. It is not cheap. Get the best quality.

How Can it Be Done?

May I offer a word of protest to "Mother" (Monaca, Pa.), who says she supports a family of four upon $30 a month and has plenty with which to do this?

I am sure that if her boy had had an abundance of good nourishing food, he would not be in danger of tuberculosis.

I had been married twenty-seven years when my husband died, leaving me with three children. My eldest girl of twenty-four has been an invalid all her life. I had to take the second, at fourteen, out of school to help earn her own living. I cannot leave my afflicted child alone, so I have had to stay at home and work there. I am a good manager, but I have a terribly hard struggle to support four of us upon $30 a month. I should like to know how it is done with ease by somebody else. Perhaps prices are not as high in Pennsylvania as in New York.

If any of the members have magazines to dispose of, I should be glad to get some of them.

Mrs. A. G. (New York City).

You are right in one surmise: Prices are higher in New York markets than in country towns. Granting this, it is not easy to see how a family of four can be fed and lodged—to say nothing of clothing—upon $1 a day. I, like yourself, should be glad to learn how it is done.

Members who have a surplus of magazines on hand will please send to me for the address of "Mrs. A. G.," New York city.

Shrewsbury Cakes

This may be the recipe for Shrewsbury cakes Emily G. (Virginia Beach, Va.) is looking for.

Shrewsbury Cakes

Three pounds of flour, 1 pound of sugar, 3 eggs, half gill of rosewater, 1 nutmeg, 1 teaspoonful of cinnamon, 1 tablespoonful of saleratus (I will give the late Mrs. Widdifuld's recipe for saleratus below).

Beat butter and sugar to a very light cream; whip the eggs very light and stir them into the butter and sugar; add the spices. Put all the flour in at once; then the rosewater; lastly the saleratus.

Make into a soft dough; roll out thin and cut into any shape you may fancy. Bake in a quick oven.

Saleratus

Put ½ pound of saleratus into a pint bottle; fill the bottle with water; shake well. When it has stood long enough to be thoroughly dissolved it is fit for use. If corked tightly this will keep a long time. When more than half of it has been used you may refill the bottle with water.

Have any of the Cornerites a piece of music called "The Modjeska Waltz"? I do not know the composer's name. It was published several years ago. I had it in a book with other music, but the book was lost. I have sought for it in vain in various music stores. I will gladly pay the postage.

Mrs. B. P. B. (Wilmington, Del.).

Thank you for explaining that "tablespoonful of saleratus"! It staggered one at the first reading. You mean the liquid solution of saleratus. Even then, I do not quite comprehend what ingredient is to supply the complemental acid for the alkali.

The justly celebrated Mrs. Widdifield's name carries sufficient weight to commend the recipe for Shrewsbury cakes, albeit it differs materially from others we have published under the same name.

We will be on the lookout for your music.

A GRAPEVINE CENTERPIECE

NOW and then I like to offer you a large centerpiece which is suitable for a library table or for a large dinner table, and if possible I try to have a valuable combination of effect and little work. Do you think I have succeeded? Well, I shall let you work out that for yourselves.

The only solid work will be the grapes. The rest will be heavy outline work, or couching if you like.

There is shown one-quarter of the entire design. I have had shown another line also for the convenience of tracing. The design is repeated six times. You will use the larger of the two portions—that which has two leaves and a whole bunch of grapes between them. I show a little more than one-sixth to let you see the effect of all phases of the design.

If you are going to use this for a large centerpiece on the dinner table, use white linen of a medium weight and heavy mercerized thread. Heavy silk gives an extremely rich effect.

Pad the grapes one way and work the other. I would outline the circles if there be the least disposition to wabble at the edge. The stems of the bunch can be outlined in a double row, which will give a solid effect with a small amount of work.

Outline the leaves with heavy thread and finish the veins in the same way. Work the branches and the outer rim in outline stitches, and finish the tendrils in the same stitch. That is really all there is to this large centerpiece.

Of course there are other ways of working up the grapevine. You can use couching stitches for the leaves. Hold the heavy couching cord in your left hand and sew it flat on the outline by stitches across it in other thread. The veins will be outlined as in the first suggestion.

A lovely solid effect can be obtained by filling in the large leaves with large seed stitches — back-stitches. Darning stitches, the long stitch on the right side and all running in parallel lines, will also give a pretty effect.

If you work these on tan linen, use two or three shades of purple for grapes and, if you can, shade some of them. A soft shade of green for the leaves and veins and either green or brown for the tendrils and the circular borders are very effective. Finish the whole with heavy lace if you wish to make assurance doubly sure.

You will find that you will get surprisingly quick results. And as for the beauty—why, I think the page speaks for itself, doesn't it?

Novel Ribbon Decorations

THERE is almost no limit to the ways ribbon can be used for decorations and fancy work. Hundreds of beautiful articles can be made that were not thought of a few years ago and which now have developed into an art that is well worth considering if one is looking for ways to earn pin-money or a means of helping with the weekly expenses. What could be more charming for table decorations than loops and bows of shimmering ribbon, caught in the center over the table to the chandelier with a bunch of flowers or long loops and ends extending to each corner, where they are fastened by another bow?

A bridal table decorated with white ribbon, white flowers and maidenhair fern is lovely. The centerpiece is a golden basket, filled with flowers and fern, set upon a plateau of fern and tied with a huge wired bow of soft white ribbon. Ends of the ribbon extend to each place, where it is fastened down by a fancy box containing a square of wedding cake. This box is made of white satin and tied with a pretty rosette bow of ribbon.

Clusters of ribbon are used for dinner favors at each lady's place and worn as a corsage decoration. These are made to correspond with the color scheme and decorations of the table. Ribbon flowers for corsage decorations, hat trimmings and trimmings for evening gowns are very popular. They are not hard to make and find a ready sale.

Bags of all descriptions, veil cases, handkerchief cases, sachets, glove boxes and coiffure decorations are all salable or make beautiful gifts for the bride, Christmas or birthday.

From one yard of twelve-inch ribbon a charming slipper bag can be made. Double the ribbon and sew it together at each edge, turning over the upper open ends three inches. Run a double casing by stitching three times around and a quarter of an inch apart at the point where the edge of the ribbon turns over, and run this through with narrow ribbon for a drawstring. Select a dark-colored ribbon for this, or a changeable one; or, if it is designed for a bride, make it of white or some pretty Dresden effect.

Workbags made by sewing several lengths of ribbon together and, at the points where they join, sewing a small brass ring, through which narrow ribbon is run for a drawstring, are designed for the woman who is fond of fancy needlework.

Innumerable styles can be made or selections made from them. A visit to the art needlework department of any large store will give you many splendid ideas. Ribbon work is quickly made; therefore is especially adapted to the needs of the woman who wishes to make money.

MAKING NEEDLEWORK FLOWERS

THERE is a new way for the needlewoman to earn her Christmas money or, if that is not her desire, to make some dainty gifts for her friends.

Milliners all over the country are constantly seeking new flowers; art needlework stores are always on the lookout for clever ideas and new ways of doing handwork.

Now we have flowers and foliage made of silk, linen or cotton thread in the simple buttonhole stitch, which is, of course, familiar to every woman who uses her needle to any extent.

The work offers a wide scope for ingenuity and skill; realistic effects can be obtained by the employment of close buttonhole stitches in varied colored threads.

The leaves and petals of flowers are worked out in exactly the same method as thread lace is executed. The flowers are made of silk, cotton, linen or crewel wools on a pattern of paper or thin glazed chintz or paper muslin.

As linen or mercerized cotton threads are easier to work with than silk, it will be best for the beginner to use one or the other.

The ivy leaf is a good model to choose at first, for it can be worked using only two shades of green—dark for the leaf and a lighter shade for the veins.

Draw with pencil the shape of the leaf on stiff paper or chintz and tack a piece of the finest milliner's wire, covered with green thread, all around the edge, following the line of the design, leaving two strands of the wire the desired length of a stem.

Cover the wire with a row of buttonholing in dark-green thread and, beginning at the apex of the leaf, buttonhole across the point and back until you have filled in the entire surface of the wire frame. Mark the veins with a lighter shade of silk by the simple outline stitch and wrap the wire stems closely with the darker silk. Rip off the pattern and the leaf is finished.

All sizes and shapes of leaves are treated in the same manner. The daisy is a pretty and easy flower to begin on. After drawing the outline of the flower on paper, run white wire around the edge, buttonhole and fill in with white thread or silk, as you did the leaf. In the center work a ring of yellow thread and fill it in with French knots on the buttonholing. A stem is fastened on underneath, and long leaves are applied to this.

In working roses make each petal separately, graduating them in size, so you will have small ones for the center and broad petals for the outer edge.

When you have enough (twelve or fourteen are plenty), fasten them together with fine wire and join to a heavy wire stem that is wrapped with green. Five shaded petals are correct for pansies, with a yellow center. The chrysanthemum is made by joining forty or fifty petals to a long, thick stem. The wire edge on all the flowers and leaves makes it possible to bend them into any desired shape or to put little kinks in the edges that closely resemble the natural flowers. Chrysanthemum petals are curled over like those in nature.

Mistletoe is made by buttonholing with dark-green silk or metal thread and at the junction of two leaves on a stem applying a pearl bead to represent the berry. Holly can be reproduced in the same manner, using a cluster of red beads fastened to fine wires. These flowers make beautiful and unusual corsage and hair ornaments.

A spray of mistletoe or a wreath of ivy leaves with little clusters of red berries makes a wonderfully pretty coiffure adornment.

Effective Twine Embroidery

FOR MANY, many years string has been utilized for fancy work of various kinds; but now one can buy colored twine that somewhat resembles narrow braid, which is used for effective and decorative work.

The possibilities of colored twine work in its varying degrees of thickness is almost endless in the hands of the clever needlewoman.

They can be advantageously employed in the making of table centers, cushion covers, hassocks, dress accessories and innumerable other ways. The work is done on a foundation of linen or coarsely woven cotton material. For larger pieces it is best to use a frame to keep the material perfectly smooth, but smaller objects can be done in the hand.

While there is a wide range of colors to choose from, it is not well to employ more than three shades on any one article. A small carpet needle, or one that is used for chenille embroidery, is best to use to draw the twine through the material. Cotton the exact shade of the twine is used to catch it down in place. This must be done firmly, the stitches placed at regular intervals.

Any pattern suitable for braiding will be adjustable for this work; rosettes and spirals are frequently introduced, and diamond shapes, with centers filled in with crossbars, are popular designs. To do the work, pull the twine through to the back of the material and secure it by several stitches, and repeat the process at the finish.

The twine then follows the pattern, being caught and held in place by stitches.

Double twine is more effective t single strands, a dark shade and light shade being used to emphasize pattern. Two shades of linen, the li shade used as applique on the dark outlined with a deeper shade of tw makes beautiful work. Often the ed of the applique are concealed under or three strands of twine.

Shoe bags, traveling cases, laun bags, are wonderfully effective w worked with twine.

It is new and enjoyable for sew baskets.

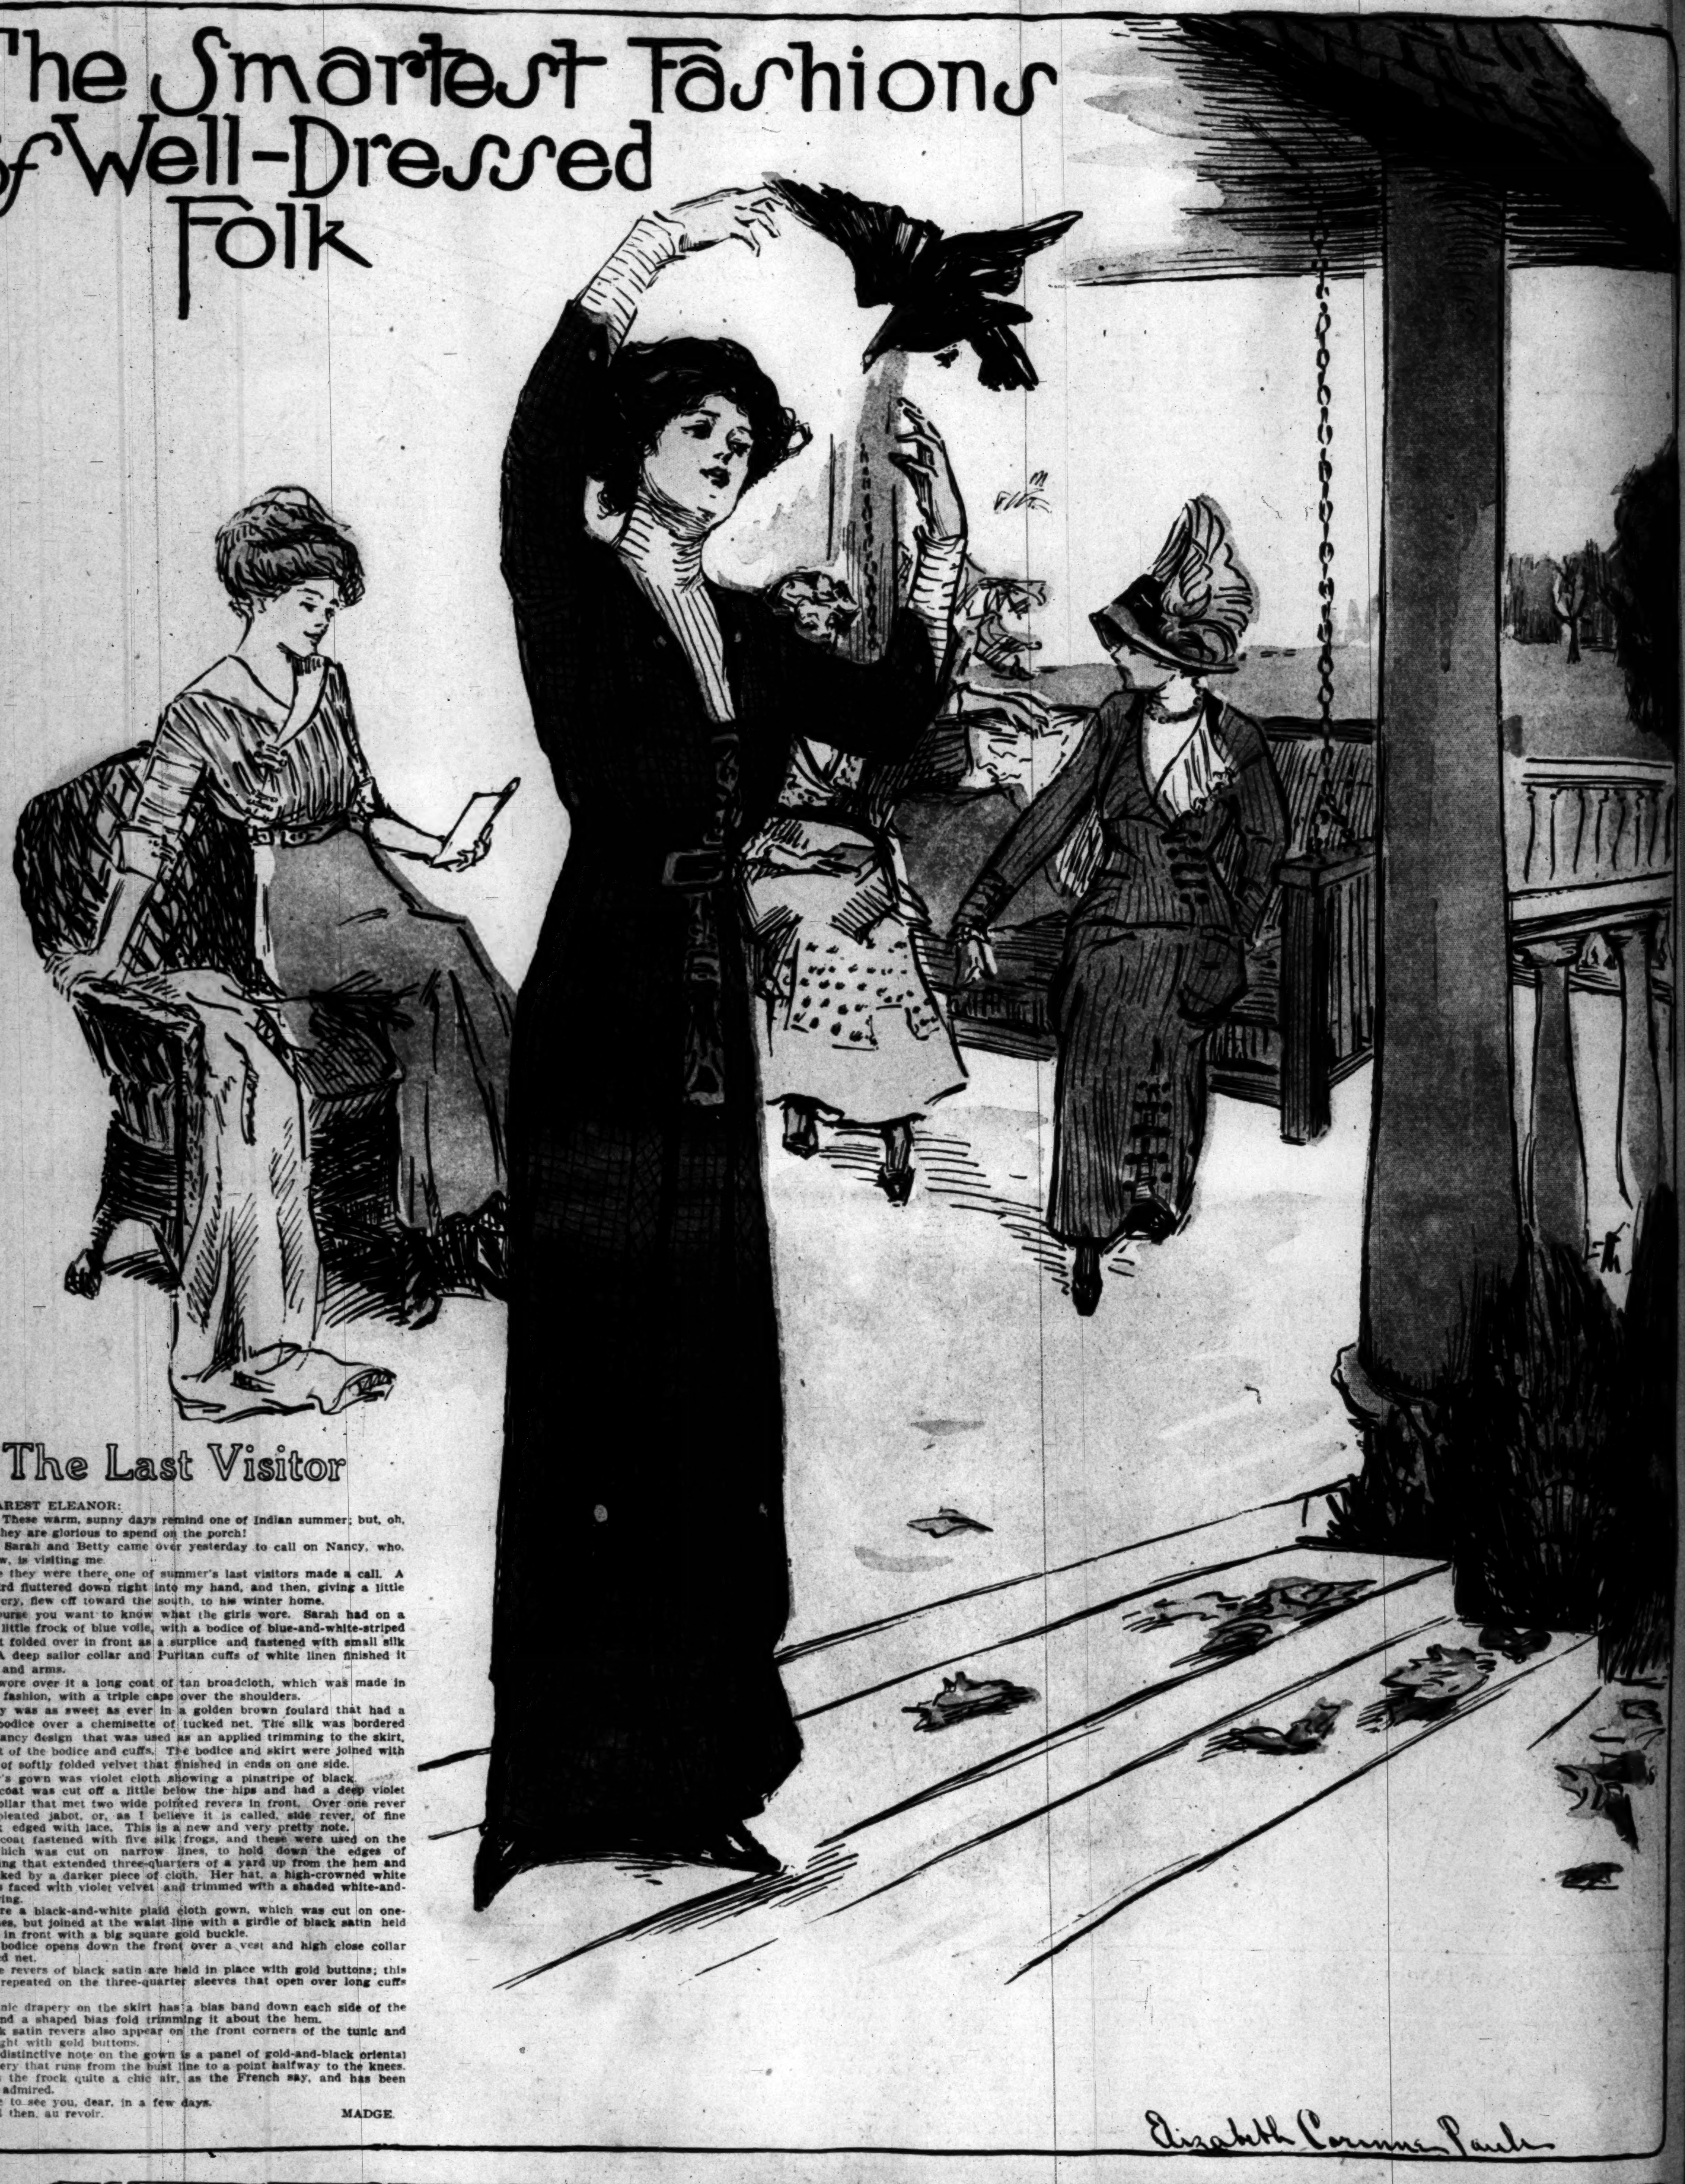
To Strengthen Defec

A GOOD way to strengthen and hide any worn parts or def in broderie anglaise dress, p asol or scarf is to veil it with transp ent material, which will conceal irregularity in the design, carelessnes the needlework or want of freshness.

Another way is to cover the somew frayed overcasting in the embroid with another line of stitching eithe white or colors, or by outlining the sign with a row of beads. Thus edges are effectually strengthened fo long time. It takes time to do this, repays you for the trouble by the tra formation of the article decorated, m ing it appear like a new piece of w

Net, chiffon or mousseline de soie all used for veiling. Sometimes net laid under the design and serves a foundation on which to sew.

The Smartest Fashions of Well-Dressed Folk



The Last Visitor

DEAREST ELEANOR:

These warm, sunny days remind one of Indian summer; but, oh, they are glorious to spend on the porch!

Sarah and Betty came over yesterday to call on Nancy, who, you know, is visiting me.

While they were there one of summer's last visitors made a call. A lovely bird fluttered down right into my hand, and then, giving a little startled cry, flew off toward the south, to his winter home.

Of course you want to know what the girls wore. Sarah had on a cunning little frock of blue voile, with a bodice of blue-and-white-striped silk that folded over in front as a surplice and fastened with small silk frogs. A deep sailor collar and Puritan cuffs of white linen finished it at neck and arms.

She wore over it a long coat of tan broadcloth, which was made in military fashion, with a triple cape over the shoulders.

Nancy was as sweet as ever in a golden brown foulard that had a draped bodice over a chemisette of tucked net. The silk was bordered with a fancy design that was used as an applied trimming to the skirt, the front of the bodice and cuffs. The bodice and skirt were joined with a girdle of softly folded velvet that finished in ends on one side.

Betty's gown was violet cloth showing a pinstripe of black.

The coat was cut off a little below the hips and had a deep violet velvet collar that met two wide pointed revers in front. Over one rever was a pleated jabot, or, as I believe it is called, side rever, of fine nainsook edged with lace. This is a new and very pretty note.

The coat fastened with five silk frogs, and these were used on the skirt, which was cut on narrow lines, to hold down the edges of an opening that extended three-quarters of a yard up from the hem and was backed by a darker piece of cloth. Her hat, a high-crowned white felt, was faced with violet velvet and trimmed with a shaded white-and-violet wing.

I wore a black-and-white plaid cloth gown, which was cut on one-piece lines, but joined at the waist line with a girdle of black satin held in place in front with a big square gold buckle.

The bodice opens down the front over a vest and high close collar of tucked net.

Little revers of black satin are held in place with gold buttons; this note is repeated on the three-quarter sleeves that open over long cuffs of net.

A tunic drapery on the skirt has a bias band down each side of the front and a shaped bias fold trimming it about the hem.

Black satin revers also appear on the front corners of the tunic and are caught with gold buttons.

The distinctive note on the gown is a panel of gold-and-black oriental embroidery that runs from the bust line to a point halfway to the knees. It gives the frock quite a chic air, as the French say, and has been greatly admired.

Hope to see you, dear, in a few days.

Until then, au revoir.

MADGE.
